Under the Connecticut law, any person may require a person operating or in charge of a motor vehicle, to give his name and address or the name and address of the owner of the car, in the event of accident, and the penalty mentioned applies also to operators who refuse to hand their operator's license or car registration certificate to thte person making the demand, for examination. In such circumstances, any person may, moreover, require an operator to sign his or her name in the presence of the demanding person. The law is specific on these points.

In the effort to cope with the accident situation in the state, the motor vehicle department has requested its volunteer inspectors to increase their vigilance for violations of the motor vehicle laws and, in cases where regular officers are not present following accidents, to secure all necessary information.

JOHN LEDWITH OF NEW LONDON FOUND DROWNED AT NIANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 7.—The body of John Ledwith, 19, or 624 Bank street, this city, was found floating in the Sound at Niantic this afternoon and was secured and brought to this city, about 3 o'clock. Ledwith had undoubtedly been struck by a New Haven railroad train and hurled into the river a short time before. His shoulder was found broken when the medical examiner of Waterford, Dr. George M. Minor, viewed the body, and there was a cut on the side of the head near the forehead. But the latter wound was not such as would have caused death nor, for that matter, was the broken shoulder. It is believed that the young man was hurled into the water when struck by the train, stunned by the blow, and that he drowned. He was the son of Mrs. Annie Ledwith, a widow and was employed by the Plaut-Cadden company on its delivery trucks. Ledwith's sister is the wife of George Linicus, son of the inspector of buildings here. Mrs. Ledwith resides in the basement of the Linicus house and John and a younger brother lived with their mother. John was at home Saturday night, and it is said tried to borrow some money from his brother. He then spoke of taking some clothing away from the house. He had the clothing with him when his body was found at Niantic bridge in the water. The body was not identified till brought to the police station in this city where Policeman John Courtney, as soon as he saw the face, recognized Ledwith. He notified Mr. Linicus and the identification was complete. The body is now at the rooms of a local undertaker.

It is understood that Ledwith's father was killed by cars as were two uncles. So the death is the fourth in the family from a similar cause.

The first of the big industries to curtail work is the Babcock Printing Press company which, beginning Monday, will go on a four days' schedule. Workers in that plant were idle Saturday and they will not return to their benches and lathes till next Wednesday. It is reported that others of the big shops in the city will also shorten the time during which their employes are to have work. The establishment employs a large number of men and they are skilled and receive good wages.

There has been a break in the number of stores in New London that inaugurated the early Saturday closing program three weeks ago for last Saturday evening some of the big stores that deal in women's clothing broke away from the agreement and Saturday evening were open and doing business. The closing Saturday evening at 6 o'clock came about through the state welfare league, it is understood. Women from New Haven came to New London and succeeded, with the local women they interested, in getting the dry goods dealers to agree to close at 6 o'clock every Saturday instead of at 9. The stores are closed other evenings at 6 o'clock. It is stated that the welfare workers, on the plea that the clerks were overworked, went to Norwich and undertook to secure adoption of the same movement they had succeeded in putting over in New London. They encountered W. L. Stearns, president of the Norwich Merchants' association, but they could not convince him that they should be allowed to interfere with the business of the Norwich merchants, and Mr. Stearns politely informed them that the Norwich merchants would not listen to any such proposition as was suggested.

Three sailors from the United States coast survey and geodetic steamer that is working from this port, came ashore Friday and one of them, James Fletcher, became intoxicated from wine they were able to secure in this dry town and in a condition he termed "lit up." He was with James Wynne and Carl Frohminsky, his sailor mates. On Main street they said they encountered a local character, who was also intoxicated and who was as abusive as he was drunk. The sailors wandered into a restaurant and there they fell all over Grace Wilbur, of Norwich, colored, who was a patron of the place with her mother and her cousin, Frank Laraki, of New London. The sailors became so boisterous that they frightened the colored folks who ran from the place and into an automobile they had at the curb. The sailors followed and Laraki said Fletcher threatened him with a knife, using vile names as he chased him. Miss Wilbur stated that another of the sailors poked his head through the window of the auto and as she thought he was coming inside she jumped out through the opposite door. By that time Officer Cavanaugh appeared and with assistance marched the three sailors to the lockup. The Norwich party appeared against the sailors in the police court and told the story here recited. Judge Prince had no sympathy with the sailors but he did not want them to be twice punished for the one offense. He turned them over to the officers of the ship with instructions that he should be notified of the penalty imposed on the gang. Then he continued the case for a week that he may decide whether to punish the sailors further.

Estelle Gifford, a New York woman, was arrested here some time ago when she and George C. Leach were found together under circumstances not approved of by the statutes of Connecticut or the rules that govern society. They were charged with lascivious carriage, but their cases were continued till Saturday that it might be disclosed whether the woman had availed herself of good advice and had left the city. Leach was employed on a government boat. Saturday Prosecutor Cronin told the court that the woman was of the sort that New London people did not want here. She had left town, he said, and was not to return. He asked that the case be nolled and that action was taken by the court.

Mrs. Daniel De Long complained that her husband did not support her some time ago and the case came up in the court on continuance Saturday. The reports that reached the prosecutor were to the effect that the couple had become reconciled so that case also was nolled. The prosecutor declared that husbands were not to be allowed to neglect their wives while he had the prosecution of such cases.

Counsel for Joe Poretta and Sebastian Tûrisi are waiting for a finding by Coroner Desmond who investigated the death of Frank Santora, a resident of Home street, who went out one afternoon some weeks ago with the men referred to and later was found down and out on Bank street. He was taken to his home and there died from drinking what was called whiskey. The coroner's report on the death is expected any day. The men are held in heavy bonds.

Julia Sawyer was instrumental in bringing a charge of theft against Ida McMoran, who keeps a rooming house in Brewer street and the case got into the police court Saturday. Mrs. McMoran was found not guilty. Julia claimed that Mrs. McMoran stole a saw from her, but Mrs. McMoran declared that the saw was given to her for favors she bestowed upon Julia.

The state police department, some time ago, leased the store on the north side of the Turello building on Bank street and will now equip it for the uses of the department. Monday the work of putting shelves in the store and the erection of vaults in the cellar for the keeping of number plates, etc., will begin. Heretofore the department has transacted its business in a furniture store.

Eleanor Terry, 17 Alger street, parked his automobile on Washington street Saturday afternoon and while absent a thief visited the car and stole a package containing a suit of clothes belonging to Terry.

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin issued a warrant Saturday afternoon for the arrest of Jacob Sadowski, charged with non-support upon complaint of his wife, Mary. Sadowski went to the police station and declared himself. He was locked up and will be given a hearing Monday morning.

R. C. Murphy, Bank street, was arrested Saturday night by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and Patrolman William Graham, charged with breach of the peace. He was released upon furnishing a surety on a bond of $50 for his appearance in the police court this (Monday) morning. Murphy, it is alleged, went to the Hotel Winthrop and became involved in a row with Arthur and Frank May, proprietors of the hotel, who obtained Murphy's arrest.

An automobile owned by Arm Jacobson, 47 Belden street, became disabled Saturday afternoon and while being towed to a garage on Shaw street, was struck by an automobile owned by Rose Jaffe of Colchester, corner of Bank and Shaw streets. Both machines were damaged.

The automobile, owned and driven by Bert Bartholomew Welch, 42 Reed street, in turning from Starr to Washington street late Saturday afternoon, collided with the machine owned by the New London District Nurse association. The latter machine was damaged.

William Alston, colored, who claims to reside at 15 West 131st street, New York, is a patient at Lawrence hospital, having been removed to the institution Saturday afternoon when he collapsed in the street. At the institution it was stated that Alston's condition was not serious. He is suffering from a weakened condition of the heart.

Patrolman Edward Daniels has been assigned to plain clothes duty for a month, taking the place of Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond, who was suspended for thirty days.

The market and grocery store of John W. Cochrane, 331 Williams street was burglarized Friday night, and probably by crooks who were familiar with the place and also with the movements of the patrolman on that beat. The burglary was discovered when the place was opened for business Saturday morning. Entrance was gained by smashing a rear window. The plunder obtained included a leg of veal, bacon, frankfurters, half barrel of apples, canned goods, cigars, cigarettes, men's stockings and underwear.

Frank Kaknisky, 26, of 169 Main street, despondent because of ill health, attempted to end his existence by drowning in the Thames river when he leaped from the wharf of the Fishers Island Navigation company. Kaknisky went to the wharf about 6 o'clock and when he believed no one was watching him leaped into the river. His act was observed, however, by Railroad Special Agent Bryan from the office of the New Haven railroad's special agents' office on the wharf. Bryan secured assistance immediately and caused Kaknisky to be hauled to the wharf. A short time afterwards he was taken in charge by relatives. Kaknisky is declared by his relatives to having been despondent some time because of a chronic ailment.

For the fifth time within a week a trolley car of the Connecticut company became ablaze Saturday evening and traffic was interrupted at a part of the night when traffic was heavy. The car, No. 162, has been afire three of the five times, and was put into first class condition recently.

REICHSRAT HAS ADOPTED THE AUTHORIZATION BILL

Measure Gives Chancellor Stresemann Sweeping Authority in Dictating Economic Affairs—Bavaria and Some of the Prussian Provinces Voted Against the Bill—German Socialist Leader Has Agreed to the Extraordinary Powers—Hugo Stinnes Not in Accord With Stresemann.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—(By the A. P.)—The reichsrat today adopted the draft bill of the authorization law asked by Chancellor Stresemann, by virtue of which he would receive sweeping authority in dictating the economic measures. Bavaria and some of the Prussian provinces voted against the bill.

(The reichsrat is the imperial council, formed of representatives of the component state in the German republic.)

The vote on the bill was 46 to 17.

The bill authorizes the government of the Reich to take measures it considers necessary and urgent in financial, economic and social matters, regardless of the provisions of the constitution. Its power, however, would not extend so far as to affect the law regulating working hours. The new law would become invalid by March 31 next or upon a change in the government.

The Reichstag will deal with the bill tomorrow. Action had been planned for today, but was postponed because the text of the bill could not be printed in time. Owing to this postponement the Reichstag discussed the general political situation.

Count Westarp, German nationalist, declared that his party was opposed to the government, but had full confidence in Dr. Von Kahr, military dictator of Bavaria. Westarp predicted a famine owing to lack of means to buy food. His remarks evoked a burst of indignation from the coalition members, and Chancellor Stresemann sharply criticised him.

Count Westarp's speech created much uproar, especially when, after he had declared that acts of sabotage in the Ruhr were justifiable acts of defense and a national duty, he exclaimed: "We demand a breach of relations with France, with all its consequences."

This evoked cries of "War!" and applause from Westarp's followers and cries of dissent and hisses from the left. Several passages in his speech were provocative to the socialists, and the session was a stormy one. The uproar was so great when the chancellor rose that he was unable to make himself heard for some time.

Dealing with the government policy, the chancellor insisted that a one-sided solution was impossible in the Ruhr. Germany had always maintained that abandonment of passive resistance must be accompanied by concessions regarding the men imprisoned and expelled and must also imply restoration of German sovereignty. Perhaps M. Poincare was waiting for proofs that passive resistance had ended, for there had been no negotiations yet, and perhaps negotiations would prove to be impossible, or such conditions would be imposed as would make it impossible for Germany to sign.

ULTIMATUM PRESENTED ESSEN RAILWAY WORKERS

Berlin, Oct. 8.—It is reported from Essen that the Franco-Belgian occupation authorities have presented the railway workers with an ultimatum, expiring today, demanding that they either agree to resume work or be expelled from the occupied region, more than 50,000 men are said to be affected by the demand.

HUGO STINNES PROVOKED BY CHANCELLOR STRESEMANN

Berlin, Oct. 8. (By the A. P.)—Virtually accusing Chancellor Stresemann of having "cribbed" the cardinal features of his "more production" programme, and contemptuously dissipating the legend that he was seeking the dictatorship of Germany, Hugo Stinnes has buckled on his journalistic armor to the extent of utilizing two columns of his personal organ, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, for the purpose of revealing the incidents which precipitated the government crisis last week, and the part he played therein.

Incidentally, Herr Stinnes disposes of the current impression that a divided German peoples' party caused the chancellor's temporary downfall. Herr Stinnes cites the party caucus held October 2, at which Dr. Stresemann also was present and which unanimously adopted a resolution, whose text, Herr Stinnes asserts, was drawn up by himself and the chancellor, in which the entire reichstag delegation of the industrialists' party demanded the abolition of all restrictions that would tend to hamper a return to peace time production.

Chancellor Stresemann's failure to obtain the consent of the other coalition parties to this resolution precipitated the crisis, according to Herr Stinnes, who declared: "I hereby affirm that all that the so-called 'Stinnes dictatorship' aspired to, met with the complete concurrence of Dr. Stresemann and the entire peoples party as represented in the reichstag before the forepart of last week, although it refused to become entangled in the subsequent fluctuation of opinions and political confusion."

Herr Stinnes expresses doubt whether the resurrected Stresemann coalition government possesses sufficient mandatory authority to affect rapid and decisive reforms, and believes that a non-partisan cabinet of economic leaders chosen on a basis of their actual accomplishments in industry, finance and commerce, and unfettered by parliamentary intervention, would have held out the promise of tangible achievements.

By way of refuting the charge that the coal syndicate was exploiting Germany, Herr Stinnes cites a resolution adopted by the coal producers at a meeting held at Unna-Koenigsborn on September 30, at which the whole range of problems affecting the production of coal was discussed and an agreement reached that the price at the mines must be driven down to a point estimated at 23 gold marks per ton, which is the present world market cost, in order to permit German manufacturing and export industries to compete with the world markets. This, producers say, could only be accomplished through increased actual working hours, the reduction of wages and elimination of the coal tax and other assessments, which is now precluding competition aboard for the entire range of German manufactured industries, in addition to barring coal itself as an export commodity.

Stinnes believes that a man equipped with far-reaching dictatorial authority would have to devote three years of concentrated effort to the task not only of getting Germany back on her feet, but in registering progress over peacetime levels besides.

Under date of September 29 the magnate submitted details of his "more production" programme to a fellow member of the reichstag, who was to discuss the peoples party's position in the course of a plenary debate. The latter, which was written five days before the crisis arose, shows that Stinnes opposed all tariff agreements, syndicates or price cartels, which tended to increase the cost of production and consequently paralyzed the export industry—a point which he charges Stresemann subsequently incorporated in his programme speech.

Stinnes sharply criticizes Dr. Hermes, former minister of finance, for having conducted irresponsible financial policies. After shouldering the odium of defeat in the Ruhr battle, Chancellor Stresemann, in the opinion of Stinnes, should have immediately undertaken a constructive internal programme, even at the risk of opposing the socialist doctrines.

TO INTERVENE IN LABOR CONTROVERSY IN THE RUHR

Berlin, Oct. 8.—The minister of labor has intervened in the dispute between the Ruhr mine owners, who demand an extension of the working hours to eight and a half, and the miners' unions, which have instructed the men to adhere to the eight-hour day. The question will be discussed at a general wages conference to be held Wednesday.

With regard to the reported Franco-Belgian ultimatum it is stated that the railroad men's organization will continue to oppose resumption of work until it is clearly shown whether the men are working for the Franco-Belgian railroad administration or for the German authorities.

REICHSTAG GIVES VOTE OF CONFIDENCE IN STRESEMANN

Berlin, Oct. 8.—(By the A. P.)—The Reichstag tonight passed a vote of confidence in the Stresemann government against the German nationalists, the Bavarian peoples party and the communists.

A resolution in favor of abolishing the state of emergency in the Reich and Bavaria was rejected. A socialist motion endorsing the government's constitutional standpoint regarding exceptional measures in Bavaria was carried.

SOCIALISTS AGREE TO EXTRAORDINARY POWERS

London, Oct. 8.—The German socialist leader, Dr. Udolph Breitscheid, announced in the reichstag today, according to a Central News despatch from Berlin that the socialists were prepared to agree to the extraordinary powers the government was seeking.

He also urged the government to appeal to England to initiate negotiations between Germany and the allies.

SUSPECT ARRESTED FOR SLAYING OF TROOPER

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 8.—George Haupt, 22, of Albany, tonight is held under guard in a local hospital on an open charge, Matthew Salvinski of Albany is locked up as a suspect, and the authorities are seeking a third man in connection with the killing early today in a gun fight on the highway between Saratoga Springs and Glens Falls of Trooper Roy A. Donivan of Troop G, Troy.

District Attorney Charles B. Andrus of Saratoga county is expected to enter formal charges against Haupt and Salvinski.

Haupt was arrested, several hours after the shooting, in a doctor's office at Watervliet, where he had been left, badly wounded, by two men in a bullet-scarred automobile. The men abandoned the car and disappeared. An operation performed on Haupt this afternoon revealed wto bullets which the authorities said definitely linked him with the shooting. His condition tonight was said to be serious.

ANTHRACITE MINERS GRANTED 10 PER CENT WAGE INCREASE

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 8.—Men in the employ of the anthracite coal companies of this field have been granted a wage increase of 10 per cent., effective as of October 1st. No announcement has been made of the disposition of the salary lists of clerical employes. The colliery clerks, however, were included in the advance as given to men engaged in handling coal.

The wage advance was granted on the basis of the new contract with the mine workers' union. Superintendents, foremen, assistant foremen and colliery clerks are included in the list of men to benefit.

CHIEF OF POLICE WAS FLOGGED BY PRISONERS

Marion, Ill., Oct. 8.—Monroe Owens, chief of police of Pittsburgh, near here, was flogged by prisoners in the county jail here yesterday, it was learned. Owens alleged this afternoon he had been handcuffed to a cell and given 25 lashes with a cat-o'-nine tails, but employes of Sheriff Galligan denied Owens had been handcuffed, although they admitted some lashes had been administered.

There were nine prisoners in the jail, two of whom had been arrested by Owens on liquor charges. A kangaroo court was called and Owens was charged with "breaking into jail." A $10 fine was imposed and when he refused to pay it, he declared he was flogged. The prisoners then took $3 from him he alleged.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Italian Postoffice Closed.

Rome, Oct. 8.—The Italian post office in Constantinople has been closed and according to an announcement made by the ministry of posts today no registered letters for Constantinople containing valuables worth more than 20 lire will be accepted.

British Mandate in Palestine.

Jerusalem, Oct. 8.—Sir Herbert Samuel, high commissioner for Palestine, is in receipt of a communication from the secretary of the League of Nations informing him that Great Britain's mandate for Palestine went into full force on September 29, in accordance with the decision of the league.

For Substantial Breakfast.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—The German "two breakfast" idea—a cup of coffee the first thing in the morning and more coffee with a sandwich at ten or eleven o'clock—is scored by the physicians, who have started a campaign in favor of a more substantial meal upon rising.

RE-TRIAL OF THE STOKES DIVORCE CASE UNDER WAY

New York, Oct. 8.—Speed marked the first day of the re-trial of the divorce case which W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy 70-odd, year old hotel owner, has brought against his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, a woman more than 35 years his junior.

Before a packed court room, consisting mostly of attorneys, law students and a few women, a jury was speedily drawn, two witnesses examined and cross-examined and a third heard on direct questioning before supreme court Justice Mahoney adjourned late this afternoon. The general public was excluded.

The main witness was Mrs. Nell Rose Miller, a Chicago negress who testified that she saw Mrs. Stokes in the New York apartment of Edgar T. Wallace, the principal correspondent in the first Stokes trial, at least half a dozen times between June, 1917, and January, 1918, when she brought food from the tearoom where she worked two floors below. Several times, she testified, Mrs. Stokes was in the bedroom.

She accepted Mr. Untermyer's taunt that she had a remarkable memory, asserting that she knew all the 900 people of Duncetop whom she lived there and made it a point to see every day for two years all the people who went riding about in the village tally-ho.

She and the next witness, Miss Catherine Kramer, of Bunceton, both testified that Mrs. Stokes was a guest at the Wallace home in Bunceton; that Wallace then appeared to be between 40 and 45 years of age and that McCormick, a new figure in the case, also was about 40.

Miss Kramer admitted she came to testify principally because she wanted to see New York. She had difficulty telling where she lived in Bunceton, saying the streets had neither nemes nor numbers.

A sensation of the day was when Mr. Untermyer, in his opening address, asserted that Wallace and some officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit company kept a "private rendesvous where they staged parties" and that Mrs. Stokes, after her marriage to Stokes, visited Wallace there until there was a quarrel over "a certain female" and Wallace obtained a private apartment. It was at the latter place, in East Thirty-fifth street, that Mrs. Miller, the negress, testified to seeing Mrs. Stokes.

STATE BOARD APPROVES SIX PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

Hartford, Oct. 8.—For the first time in the history of Connecticut, six parochial schools, all of the secondary education class, have been approved by the state board of education. Two private schools of the same class and six junior public high schools have also received state approval.

Approval of the parochial and private schools followed voluntary application from the authorities in charge of the institutions and detailed inspections by Dr. Jesse B. Davis, supervisor of secondary education of the state board, made to determine whether they measured up to the standards required by the state. It was found that some of them maintained standards higher than the average of public high schools and, with their religious training, made more pupil hours a week.

The following are the parochial schools approved: Mount St. Joseph's academy, Hartford; St. Mary's academy, New Haven; Notre Dame, Waterbury; Academy of the Holy Family, Baltic; Academy of Our Lady of Mercy, Milford, and Sacred Heart academy, Stamford. The private schools approved are Rosemary Hall, Greenwich, and St. Margaret's, Waterbury. All are institutions for girls and all but the Sacred Heart academy, which is a one-year school, give four-year courses.

WOULD QUASH INDICTMENTS AGAINST N. H. R. R. DIRECTORS

New York, Oct. 8.—Consent to the quashing of two indictments under the Sherman law against eight directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, will be asked of Federal Judge Knox tomorrow by United states District Attorney Hayward, who said his action was directed by Washington authorities.

The indictments, pending since November 2, 1914, and February 26, 1915, charged William Rockefeller, Charles F. Brooker, Lewis Cass Ledyard, E. D. Robbins, Charles M. Pratt, William Skinner, James S. Elton and John L. Villard with being concerned in an illegal combination and conspiracy to monopolize interstate trade and commerce in the transportation of commerce and passengers.

Recommendation that the indictments be nolled was made because some of the directors have died since the trial of the denfendants. The jury disagreed as to the rest of the directors. Messrs. Skinner, Elton and Villard were not named as defendants in the second, or superceding indictment.

The government's Sherman law civil suit against the railroad resulted in 1914 in the signing by Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer of a dissolution decree whereby the company was divested of its control of the Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island trolley lines and other subsidiaries.

TUGS PICK UP DISABLED ITALIAN STEAMSHIP

Cagliari, Italy, Oct. 8.—The Italian steamship Cicerone, from which distress signals were received Saturday, has been picked up by tugs and towed to Marseilles. The Cicerone had lost her rudder.

Report on [illegible] Wood Cemetery

Recent Removal of 1,580 Bodies Has Given the Cemetery a Disagreeable Aspect.

Paris, Oct. 8.—(By the A. P.)—Brigadier General Cornelius Vanderbilt and Martin W. Littleton, who have been conducting an investigation into the conditions at the Belleau Wood cemetery, where many American soldiers are buried, today made public their findings.

"We found," said their statement, "that, due to the removal within the past few months of 1,580 bodies, it became necessary to remove and concentrate the location of those remaining. This necessitated laying out the cemetery in entirely different lines, which was done with great haste, but the required work of reconstruction road building and drainage, while remaining unfinished, makes the cemetery only partially accesible and in its torn-up condition it presents a disagreeable aspect."

The investigators say the work of reconstruction was let to sub-contractors without time limit, and consequently there is no means of saying when the work will be completed.

Concerning the collection of money at the cemetery gate for the "Belleau Wood Memorial association," the report says 200,000 francs have been collected and deposited with the Bankers Trust Company. Visitors to the cemetery are not importuned to contribute, there being merely a sign above the register to the effect that "contributions ar accepted."

Nothing reprehensible or wrong has occurred in connection with this method of collection it is stated. The purpose for which the money is collected and the motives of all those engaged in the enterprise are characterized as lofty and deserving of praise, but the report concludes:

"Receipt of money by an official of the government to be administered by a voluntary association is open to misconstruction and criticism, and should be discontinued."

LLOYD GEORGE APPROVES SEC'Y HUGHES' PROPOSAL

Montreal, Oct. 8. (By the A. P.)—Secretary Hughes' proposal, made nearly a year ago, for the appointment of a commission of experts to determine Germany's capacity to pay reparations, was declared by David Lloyd George tonight to be "absolutely the best hope of the settlement of reparations."

The former British premier made this assertion when shown press dispatches from Washington which stated that high American administration officials believed it was not too late for acceptance of the plan. His statement came after he had delivered his first public address in Canada, in which he expressed his gratitude for the resolute and unhesitating part which the Dominion played in the World war.

Commenting on Secretary Hughes' plan Mr. Lloyd George said:

"In my opinion this plan is not too late for consideration and it is absolutely the best hope of the settlement of reparations. Of course since the plan was first broached the ability of Germany to pay is much less. The greater the delay the closer the situation approaches chaos. I hope that serious consideration of Mr. Hughes' plan may be taken up even at this late date and I repeat that it is the best hope of a successful settlement."

STRIKE IN COLLIERIES OF THE HUDSON COAL CO.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 8.—Production of hard coal ceased today in fifteen collieries of the Hudson Coal company as the result of a strike of its nine workers over alleged grievances that have been hanging fire for several months. The general strike call issued Saturday was ignored by five union locals at the company's collieries, but the number of idle men in this region was increased to more than 20,000,000 by petty strikes at three operations of the Glen Alden Coal company. About 19,500 Hudson employes walked out. Approximately 30,000 tons of anthracite was lost to the trade on the first day of the strike.

At meetings of the striking Glen Alden miners late today two of the locals voted to return to work tomorrow morning. No settlement of the Hudson company's strike was in view. Local officials of the United Mine Workers reported tonight that they were unable to get a conference with company officials. The officials were said to have declined to meet representatives of the strikers until work is resumed.

PICTURE OF POLITICAL CAREER OF W. G. HARDING

New York, Oct. 8.—The Ohio society of New York tonight presented in its headquarters at the Waldorf Astoria a motion picture showing the political career of the late President Warren G. Harding, who was a former member of the organization.

The picture, a three-reel production, showed Mr. Harding's progress from his home in Marion, O., to the White House and through the various experiences of his high office.

The film ends with the scenes of the late president's funeral in Marion and pictures of Mrs. Harding and Dr. Harding. It will be available for exhibition at memorial meetings throughout the country, but is not to be used in any commercial program.

CONSTANTINOPLE NOW UNDER PROHIBITION LAW

Constantinople, Oct. 8.—Enforcement of the liquor prohibition law began today in Constantinople, the bars and liquor stores being sealed on orders from Angora. It is believed its present action was taken to prevent a recurrence of the disorders here Saturday night.

J., Oct. 8.—Holding a tray of diamonds in one hand and a knife in the other, John Adoano ran through crowded streets for several blocks this afternoon before he was captured by the police, charged with robbing a jewelry store in the heart of the city. He spilled a number of diamonds from the tray during his dash. The stolen gems were valued at several thousand [illegible]

British Newspapers Favor 12-Mile Limit

Express Hope That the British Imperial Conference Will Comply With Sec'y Hughes' Suggestion.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Expressions in British newspapers recently favorable to the acceptance by Great Britain of the 12 mile limit treaty plan proposed by Secretary Hughes to curb liquor smuggling into the United States has caught the attention of officials here. While hope is entertained that deliberations of the British imperial conference will result in the decision to comply with Secretary Hughes' suggestion, it was emphasized today that no authortative indication has been received that such action would be taken.

Additional data in support of the American treaty plan for dealing simultaneously with rum smuggling and the inconveniences occasioned British ships by enforcement of the Volstead act has been laid before the British foreign office by Ambassador Harvey. In effect this is in answer to points made in the reply of the foreign office to the American proposal and was submitted prior to the meeting of the imperial conference in order that British officials might have a complete statement of the American viewpoint when the conference took up the question.

Great Britain's reply frankly stated that the foreign office was not favorably inclined toward the 12 mile limit of search and seizure proposal. The specific objections made are not considered as insuperable from the Washington viewpoint. In the communications to the foreign office made by Mr. Harvey, therefore, it is understood that the American proposition was explained at greater length.

The chief British objection, so far as known, has been based on the fear plan migcfmnstjhirda,Dox d-UE,oeuy that the plan might invade in some degree the rule of international law that recognizes the three mile limit line as the limit of territorial jurisdiction. The Washington government takes an exactly contrary view of the probable effect of a specific agreement to extend that limit up to twelve miles for the stated purpose of preventing smuggling of contraband articles to either country. In the American view such a special agreement would only serve to make the general three mile rule stronger since it would be noted in the special treaty that it was an exception from a recognized principle of international law.

COUNSEL FOR WEBB SAYS CLIENT IS ABOVE SUSPICION

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Any suspicion which may have attached to Charles Webb, husband of Mrs. Gertrude German Webb, has been "thoroughly blown up," Colonel Howard Thayer Kingsbury, chief counsel for Mr. Webb, declared today after he had appeared before the October grand jury which continued its investigation of the circumstances surrounding Mrs. Webb's death at the Westchester-Biltmore country club at Rye two weeks ago.

"My impression," he said, "is that any suspicion that may have been directed against Mr. Webb in this case has been thoroughly blown up since the grand jury began its investigation."

Colonel Kingsbury declared newspaper explanations of the contest of Mrs. Webb's will which left her entire estate to her husband, had failed to point out that Mr. Webb would benefit rather than lose if the contestants won their case.

POISON IN BISCUITS IN PLACE OF BAKING POWDER

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 8.—Six persons are in serious condition here today, the result of eating biscuits in which a poison was used by mistake instead of baking powders. Those made ill are: John Kaminski, aged 62; Martha Kaminski, 14, who made the biscuits; Alex Kaminski, 18, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Grantham and daughter aged 8 years.

A stomach pump was used on the victims shortly after they became ill last night and their condition was said to be improved today. The poison used in the biscuits, is generally regarded as fatal although of slow action.

BASEBALL SCANDAL FIGURES IN BUCKETSHOP HEARING

New York, Oct. 8.—The cards which surrounded the Chicago White Sox and the world series of 1919 was brought into the Fuller-Mages bucket shop investigation today when Arnold Rothstein, who was prominently mentioned as a gambler at the time of the series, was a witness before Harold P. Coffin, referee in bankruptcy.

POLISH CABINET MAKES CHANGES IN MINISTRY

Warsaw, Oct. 8.—The cabinet today drew up a motion for presentation to the diet, cancelling the ministries of health and posts and telegraphs. The work of the first ministry will be transferred to the ministry of the interior and that of the second to the ministry of trade and industry. The cancelling of the ministries is due to a desire to economize.

NEW CENTRAL FLYING STATION FOR GERMANY

Berlin, Oct. 8. # A. F. OF L. EXPELS DELEGATE FOR COMMUNIST ACTIVITIES

William F. Dunne of Butte, Mont., Central Labor Union, Characterized by Speakers as a "Traitor to Organized Labor"—Credentials Revoked in Convention in Portland, Me., by a vote of 27,838 to 130—The Convention Voted Against All One Big Union Proposals.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 8.—(By the A. P.)—The American Federation of Labor was called upon today to unseat William F. Dunne, delegate of the Butte, Mont., labor council. The demand was made by Matthew Woll, a vice president of the federation, after reading to the convention a report of attacks made last night by Dunne at a mass meeting.

Woll's declaration against Dunne followed presentation of a report which severely arraigned the federated press for alleged dissemination of communist propaganda. William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, of America, followed Woll in denouncing Dunne, whom he said had proven conclusively that "he is among us and against us," "who is a communist, who circulated the devitalizing doctrine that emanates from a foreign country."

"Throw him out," cried one of the delegates on the floor.

Green denounced those who mingled with trade unionists and who were communists at heart and he head a report charging activities of Dunne in the coal strike in the spring of 1922 in Pennsylvania which he charged were inimical to the miners union.

Green read headlines, articles and editorials of the Butte Bulletin of which Dunne is editor.

Complaints by United Mine Workers' officials against Dunne's utterances through the Bute Bulletin, of which he si editor, figured in charges during the debate and occupied most of the convention's sessions today.

Following the unseating of Dunne, the convention rejected three resolutions proposing that unions be consolidated along lines of industries instead of crafts—the one big union idea. The report charged that those who favor amalgamation aim at the destruction of organized labor.

Dunne was the author of one of the amalgamation resolutions.

The executive council's report denouncing "usurpation of government" by the Ku Klux Klan was unanimously approved in a resolution adopted. It called upon trades unionists to be aware of the organization "as a menace to American government."

The convention adopted a resolution denouncing the fascisti movement.

The vote on the resolution unseating Dunne brought to issue the conservative and radical elements of the convention. It was taken after several hours of discussion in which Dunne was denounced by Matthew Woll, a vice president of the American Federation, and William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America. Dunne himself replied to the attacks and hurled defiance at the convention.

The convention rejected a resolution to change Labor day from Sept. 1 to May 1.

A resolution declaring for limitation of the powers of the supreme court of the United States and election of federal judges for definite terms was adopted today.

Elimination of the, railway labor board, which was characterized tyrannical, was demanded in another resolution.

NEGRO VOODOO DOCTOR CRUSHED NURSE'S SKULL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 8.—A coincidence by which Alonzo Savage, negro voodoo doctor, alleged confessed slayer of Miss Elsie Barthel, a young nurse, walked from the old Hussey mansion, the scene of the slaying, after the girl had been killed early Sunday morning and entered a taxicab driven by Walter Haule, a close friend of the dead nurse, prompted detectives to continue to hold Haule in custody tonight. Savage, who was said by the police to have confessed that he killed Miss Barthel when she refused to give him $395 for "curing her love ills," was being held upon a charge of murder to await the action of the coroner's jury.

Haule was taken into custody early Sunday evening and was being questioned when Savage was first brought to police headquarters. Detectives stated that he was being held while they investigated the stories he told before and after Savage's arrest and whether the two handkerchiefs, identified as belonging to Miss Barthel, which were found in his possession, had any connection with the case.

Savage, formerly a butler in the home of the physician by whom Miss Barthel was employed, declared in his confession, according to the police, that he struck the nurse with a brick when she refused to give him an envelope containing the money in exchange for a "charm." After she had fallen beside the portico of the abandoned mansion where they met, Savage is said to have declared in his confession that he pushed a loose marble block from the wall, crushing the victim's skull.

TO PRESS CHARGE AGAINST MAGISTRATE CORRIGAN

New York, Oct. 8.—Police Commissioner Enright will appear before Judge Crain tomorrow to press personally his charges of criminal libel against Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, who declared there was an organized bootlegging ring in the police department which included several high officials. The announcement that the commissioner would appear was made at the close of today's hearing by his counsel.

Records showing that 140 New York policemen had been disciplined during the past two years for intoxication was admitted as evidence today by Judge Crain over the objection of Assistant District Attorney Pecorik who held that the records were irrelevant.

Detectives David Morrison and William Lambert, who previously admitted giving false testimony in the case, will be brought to trial October 30, the prosecutor announced after testimony that they had accepted $2,500 to release a liquor-loaded automobile which they had seized. They later returned $3,100 when they learned that the liquor belonged to three police inspectors, it was said.

165 GALONS RYE WHISKEY SEIZED IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, Oct. 8.—Michael E. Krugells of this city, treasurer of the Ssookiyn Bottling company, was served a warrant to appear in court tomorrow morning, after a barn in the rear of his home was searched late this afternoon by agents of the vice squad on the authorization of State's Attorney Terrence F. Carmody. The largest seizure of liquor in this city since the advent of prohibition, 165 gallons of rye whiskey, was made by the police. The liquor was hidden beneath debris such as lumber and old rags. Krugells claimed that he was ignorant of the contents of the barrels, saying that a stranger asked permission to store some cider in the barn.

AVIATOR KILLED WHEN PLANE WINGS FELL OFF

NEW LONDON THIRD IN AUTOS PER CAPITA

Hartford, Oct. 8.—Judging by the ownership of automobiles, Bridgeport is the richest of the seven largest cities in Connecticut, with Hartford second and New London third. In working out the average number of people per automobile in the state figures from the 1923 records of the motor vehicle department were taken and populations according to 1920 census. The figures are therefore not exactly accurate, but are as nearly as possible so.

Bridgeport has 28,861 passenger automobiles divided among 143,561 people, or an average of approximately five people for each car. This means that Bridgeport can practically take the road with every resident provided for.

Hartford, in second place as wealth is figured in motor cars, owns 13,920 passenger cars and has 138,036 people, an average of approximately ten people per car. If Hartford is ever invaded it appears that some of the people will have to patronize the Connecticut company or the "New Haven" in order to escape.

New London is third, and averages exactly ten and one half people for each automobile. There are 26,481 people and 2,481 cars.

New Haven and Meriden are neck and neck in this display of wealth, with Meriden very slightly ahead. In this city there are 23,937 automobiles and 24,764 people, an average of one car to every 11.2 people. In New Haven there are 13,534 automobiles and 162,537 people, an average of a little over twelve persons for each car.

New Britain has only half enough automobiles to make a quick getaway. Among 59,316 people there are 4,251 cars, an average of almost fourteen for each machine.

STUDENTS TO STUDY THE PROBLEMS OF FAMILY LIFE

Boston, Oct. 8.—The problems of family life are to form the basis of a new department at Boston University school of education next semester, according to the announcement today of Dean Arthur H. Wilde.

Groves, head of the department of sociology will be in charge.

LORD RENFREW KEEN FOR SOLDIERS' WELFARE

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The Prince of Wales—plain Lord Renfrew as long as he stays in Canada—is keen for his golf, but keener for the welfare of returned soldiers.

An incident came to light today to prove this. While riding yesterday in a taxi to a local links, the royal visitor saw a crippled veteran accidentally pushed from the sidewalk by a crowd eager to catch a glimpse of the prince. Lord Renfrew ordered his chauffeur to stop, picked up the veteran, chased his hat for him, shook hands and departed.

Today the prince indulged in golf and squash and later kept some social engagements.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office

At the October meeting of the board of alderman Monday evening in the council chambers in the town hall, Mayor Charles A. Gates presiding, the minutes were read wby Clerk John H. Edgarton as was the report of the chief of police, Allan MacArthur, showing 35 arrests during the past month. The report of Street Superintendent Irving M. Ford showed the expenses of the street department for the past month $1,892.86.

The application of George H. Miller, Jr., for call members of Engine Co. No. 1, was accepted upon a motion made by Alderman Jackson. The street committee was authorized to name the removal of a tree abutting the property of Michael and Julia A. Hurithey, on Spring street. The board voted to accept the invitation from St. Jean Baptiste society, of St. Mary's R. C. parish, to attend the opening night of the carnival at Al-Pierre. The committee was authorized to install additional light on Chestnut street extension. Five sidewalk applications were read. It was pointed out that the sidewalk appropriation was nearly used up, considerable of the sum having been spent to install concrete gutters, and that construction of sidewalks would soon end due to the cold weather. Carl R. Alford appeared before the board to secure an adjustment for property damage on South Park street; the street committee was empowered to act on the matter.

Adjournment was taken after a thirty-minute session.

Joseph S. Simpson, of Jordan road, came to the police station late Monday and told Captain Thomas Grady that liberties were being taken on his land which outclassed any story related here recently. Four local young men came on his land Monday to hunt without asking permission of the owner. Some time later Mr. Simpson's favorite dog crawled back to the house with his head literally riddled with buck shot from a shotgun.

Mr. Simpson was justly incensed and in the future will keep all hunters off his fine hunting grounds. The animal was in pitiful condition and is expected to die. Whether the dog was shot by accident or intentionally is not known as the young men got away without reporting the shooting.

The Willimantic Ministers' Union was addressed by Professor W. S. Pratt of Hartford Seminary, at a meeting in the Willington Hill Federated church, Monday forenoon. Professor Pratt contends that music is a part of the church service and that it should not be overlooked in the churches. The devotional part of the church service is inspiring in that the minister, the congregation and the choir sing, sing the praises of God, according to Professor Pratt.

Without music from the organ and the singing of the glorifying hymns, the services would be sombre. The present church music is good enough and worldly rhythm is not necessary. What is needed is that all become inspired at services and sing praises from the heart.

Rev. Arthur W. Clifford of Windham was in charge of the meeting which was called to order at 10.35 o'clock. The speaker was introduced after a brief business session. A discussion followed the speech. After the meeting, fifteen clergymen and their wives or women friends to the number of twenty-five, were guests of Rev. and Mrs. William V. Allen at Willington Hill parsonage.

Michael Welch was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail, at the session of police court Monday morning, on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace. The sentence included two suspended jail sentences imposed in August and September, aggregating 45 days and another 15-day jail sentence was imposed Monday for drunkenness, making the total 60 days. Welch was also fined $5 and costs for breach of the peace. Michael Maliga testified to throwing Welch out of a dance hall when the latter came to look for liquor. Officer Hormisdas Caisse testified to making the arrest after finding Welch lying on the sidewalk. Welch insisted that he was not intoxicated.

Harry Belluci, of Manchester and Miss Beatrice Theroux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Theroux of 230 Main street, were married Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's church by Rev. J. J. Papillon, the pastor, who also sang the nuptial high mass. The bride wore a dark blue wool velour suit and carried white carnations. The maid of honor, Miss Delfina Theroux, was attired in a blue Poiret twill suit with a gray hat. She carried pink carnations. Peter Gintack was best man. A breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents and was attended by Manchester and Willimantic friends. A reception was held in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Belluci will make their home in Manchester where the groom is employed. The bride received many beautiful gifts.

Joseph M. Benoit, son of Peter Benoit of Taftville, and Miss Cecelia H. Bocash, daughter of J. P. Bocash of 122 Chestnut street, Willimantic, were married by Rev. Charles M. Kelly at St. Joseph's church Monday morning at 8 o'clock. Rev. Father Kelly also celebrated the nuptial high mass. John J. Godsell of Brooklyn, N. Y., was best man and Miss Rose Bocash, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bride wore a blue tailored suit with a gray hat and carried a bouquet of Columbia white roses. Miss Rose Bocash wore a black caston crepe gown with a hat to match and carried pink Columbia roses.

Following the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Those present came from Taftville, New York, Occum and this city. Mr. and Mrs. Benoit will leave Wednesday afternoon on their honeymoon trip. The groom is a druggist and was employed in Taftville until recently. The bride is well known locally and is a graduate of St. Joseph's parochial school, class of 1921. The groom was graduated from the Sacred Heart school, Taftville, in 1916.

About 2 o'clock Monday afternoon the efficient work of the members of Engine Company No. 1 checked a bad fire when the roof at the home of L. F. Benton at 355 Windham road became ignited by sparks from the fireplace, and was badly damaged. Water and chemicals were played on the blaze and within twenty minutes the fire was under control.

The winter gymnasium season opened up Monday at the local Y. M. C. A., according to the plans of Physical Instructor A. F. Brown. The high school boys met in the afternoon previous to the business men's class at 5.45 o'clock. The seniors met in the evening at 8 o'clock.

On her fifth birthday Gertrude A. Day entertained a number of little friends at the home of her grandmother recently. The affair was in the form of a Hallowe'en party. Those present were: Evelyn Eldridge, Betty Eldridge, Margery Gilbert, June and Mildred Vandecar, Ellen Day, Howard Manley, Buddy Eldridge, Harry and Francis Gilbert.

At a session of the juvenile court, Monday morning, four boys were charged with the theft of small sums of money from the locker room at Recreation Park, a week ago last Sunday. The thefts were alleged to have been committed while the West Ends-Sodom All-Stars doubleheader was in progress. Judge Frank H. Foss discharged one of the boys, aged 9. It was rumored that the remaining three had promised him a bicycle ride if he would climb through the window and open up the locker room to give them entrance. The trio were given severe reprimands and placed on probation for six months.

A wooden fence which has stood on the boundary line between St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church property and the Natchaug Grammar school for the past thirty years, was taken down Monday and a new iron wire fence will soon take its place. The fence is 823 feet long and stands between Jackson and Milk streets.

Miss Mildred Dunham, daughter of Louis Dunham, of 331 Ash street, states that she is not the person who has instituted a bastardy charge against Alden Haskell of Mansfield, which was scheduled for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean Saturday morning. The person in question is a resident of Windham Center.

The newly elected board of selectmen held its first meeting Monday afternoon in the town hall. Aside from reorganization and the conducting of routine business nothing of note was done.

Miss Rose Starr of North Windham, formerly employed in the costing department of the American Thread company, has been transferred to their New York office.

William N. Bigley of Willimantic and Miss F. Haylock, recently of England, were married at East Boston, Mass., Monday, Oct. 1.

Assistant Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley distributed fire prevention literature to the various schools of the town Monday in connection with Fire Prevention Week which is being observed in this city.

Wilbert E. Eastman, a former resident of Willimantic, married in Chicago, Illinois, October 3rd, to Mabel Elizabeth Rowe of that city.

Mrs. Annie C. Hanser has sold her residence, No. 112 Jackson street, to Mrs. Nellie Armoniewicz, who will move into her new purchase today (Tuesday).

Mrs. Albert L. French will leave today (Tuesday) to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Aelin Ward of Newton Highlands.

JAMES BATES' DEATH RESULTS IN ARREST OF ASHFORD COUPLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 9.—Accounts of the sudden death of James Bates, of Ashford, in a garage in Wales, Mass., have appeared in the newspapers in the past few days the fact that the name of a local man was brought into the story excited much interest here. The matters was finally cleared up Monday evening, through statements made at the Stafford Springs barracks to a Bulletin reporter.

Last May, State Policeman Edward Stevens of the Danielson barracks and Fred T. Carpo, then of Stafford Springs barracks, were instrumental in a liquor raid at the home of Albert Kruppuwitz, alias Krupp of Ashford. The services of James Bates were secured and he procured a quart of liquor from Kruppuwitz, which was used as evidence before Justice of the Peace Edward O. Zeller at Warrenville, in the town of Ashford. Otto S. Hattin, the grand juror, and Attorney W. A. King of Willimantic, represented the defendant. The accused was found guilty and a fine to $200 and costs was imposed. An appeal was taken to the superior court and the case is scheduled for trial at Putnam this week.

Since last May, Bates has been a steady caller at the Kruppuwitz home and although they refused to sell him any more liquor he was given all he wanted free of charge. Thursday of last week Bates and William T. Ryder, a millhand of Wales, Mass. and two young women spent the night at the Kruppuwitz home, and it is said that Bates drank excessively.

Friday morning the two men motored to Wales and Bates drank from a pint bottle while en route. Arriving there, the car was placed in a garage and Bates remained in it to sleep. Shortly afterwards, it was found that he was dead. Ryder was held as a material witness in the case. An analysis was made of Bates' stomach by a chemist and the cause of death was given as alcoholism.

In the newspaper accounts it was said that Bates was a Willimantic witness and that the liquor was secured from a man named Krug. The fact that there is such a man in this city and that his name was recently connected with a liquor case made the matter one of special local interest. The statement Monday, however, proves this a mistake.

Albert Kruppuwitz alias Krupp and his wife Anna Kruppuwitz were arrested Monday afternoon by County Investigator William E. Jackson and State Policeman Russell I. Harmon, of Stafford Springs barracks, for violation of the liquor law. The couple were taken before Justice of the Peace Zeller, they waived examination in the justice court and took an appeal to the superior court. Cash bonds of $1,500 in each case were furnished for the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Kruppuwitz at the January criminal term of the Windham county superior court.

Mrs. William Senior's son, Robert Thompson has returned to school in Providence, after fifteen weeks' vacation, passed in Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Pendleton returned to Westerly Monday, after an automobile vacation trip through the White Mountains.

Charles H. Gavitt purchased Monday the old Wilbur homestead, so called, Avondale, from Elvin A. Scott.

Thomas Shea of Westerly returned Monday morning to his work in Uxbridge after a week end visit in Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hyde and Mrs. D. W. Clark motored from New Haven to Westerly Sunday and are guests of the family of Dr. Robert Farnham for a few days.

Byron Lewis returned Monday to New Haven after a week end visit with relatives and friends on the West Side.

George A. Golden resumed his duties Monday as ticket agent at the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad.

Wilfred E. Brown of Mystic was an early visitor in Westerly Monday en route to Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Cooke of the West Side returned to Westerly Saturday night from a vacation trip which included a visit to Atlantic City.

A special convocation of Palmer Chapter, No. 28, Royal Arch Masons was held in the Masonic rooms Monday evening, when the Past Master degree was worked on a class.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Clyde Burdick returned Sunday evening to Westerly from an automobile vacation trip to Springfield, Mass.

Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M. is to work the Master Mason degree this (Tuesday) evening at their lodge rooms on a large class of candidates. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Annie A. Noble of the Vars Bros. store left Westerly Monday morning for Jackson, N. H., on a vacation trip to the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. James Higginbotham of Whitman, Mass., were week end guests of Westerly relatives.

Andrew Green returned to Westerly Sunday from South Manchester, having attended the 100th anniversary celebration of the founding of Manchester.

Mrs. C. W. Jolley, a summer visitor at Quonochontaug, R. I., plans to leave Westerly this week for Daytona, Fla.

Max Novogroski of Westerly was a visitor in Providence early Monday morning.

Creosoted railroad ties covered with gravel on the top layer to prevent their catching fire from passing locomotives, have been piled up along the westbound tracks near the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad, preparatory to being laid later, when the old ties are removed.

Joseph Christina, 75 Liberty street, Pawcatuck, was driver of a Ruggles auto truck owned by his brother, Angelo Christina, same address, which struck Richard Golden, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Golden of Green street, East Greenwich, Monday afternoon. According to the driver the truck was proceeding about 10 miles an hour near the corner of Main and Vine streets, East Greenwich, when the Golden boy, who was riding in the rear of a wagon with a companion, jumped to the ground and started to cross the highway. The boy became confused and was struck by the right rear wheel of the truck, which went over the boy's head, causing his death a short time later. Chief of Police John H. Murray directed the driver to be held to await the results of his investigation.

The Westerly republican town committee was called to order in the council chamber, Westerly town hall, Monday evening, by Chairman John M. O'Connell. A question was raised by Joseph Grills relative to Miss Cora Chapman participating in the committee session, inasmuch as she signed nomination papers for Dr. Thomas Robinson when he filed his name against the regular republican caucus nominee, Michael J. Turano, a year ago. Miss Chapman continued to act with the committee, although it was contended that under the Westerly caucus act of 1921 Miss Chapman has forfeited her vote for thirteen months in the republican caucus.

Opposition appeared in three of the present members of the Westerly town council when their names were placed in nomination. Councilman Campbell and Utter Monday sought out the present council members and urged them to continue as candidates for the council in the coming election. The committee contest resulted as follows: George F. Utter 9, George A. Dolan 8, Charles S. Fowler 10, Edwin L. Sawyer 2, John D. Nichols 11, Beppo Bomento 1.

William Ledward was nominated as tax assessor, Samuel M. Sharpe, the present incumbent, refusing to permit the use of his name, after twenty years of service.

Louis Leon was nominated for road commissioner, Orlando E. Smith, the present incumbent, refusing the nomination.

Thomas Perry was nominated to succeed himself as a member of the school committee. The meeting adjourned about 9 o'clock.

Before Judge William A. Wilcox, in Stonington town court, Monday morning, in the borough hall, Stonington, James F. Shea, of Pawcatuck, who was taken in the raid at 94 Robinson street, Sunday, was presented on the charges of sale, keeping for sale, and reputation. Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey and Patrolmen Connors and McMahon testified. Shea was convicted on the reputation charge, the other two charges being nolled. He was fined $75 and costs, amounting to $95.23 which he paid. Shea had recently sold his household goods and plans to move to Greeneville, Tn., where he is to be employed as a paper maker, having already sent his family to that place.

The case of James Lennihan, who was charged with transporting liquor without a government permit, was nolled.

George H. Collett, of Providence, involved a week ago Sunday in an automobile accident at Wilcox curve, Quinnbaug, was presented on three counts, reckless driving, operating under false registration and driving an automobile while intoxicated. Attorney Frank H. Hinckley represented the defendant while Town Solicitor McKenna prosecuted for the state. The defendant was found guilty on the reckless driving count, the other two counts being nolled and was fined $100 and costs, amounting to $120.11 which he paid.

JEWETT CITY

Funeral services for Edward Gallagher were held at the home of his brother-in-law, John Dwyer, Monday morning. Rev. John J. McCabe read the service at the house and committal services at the grave. The bearers were four nephews, James, William and John Brennan and William Dwyer. Friends sent beautiful flowers. There were relatives present from Hartford, Taftville and Pawtucket. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon. Hourigan Brothers were the funeral directors in charge.

The following scores were shot on the Voluntown Rifle range. John Bradford was high man for the Edmond medal, 88 out of a possible 100. John Kaufmann tried for a 50 shot possible; he landed 49 shots in a two inch circle, lost the sixth shot by 1-16 of an inch, which gave him 478 out of a possible 500. This is the highest score ever made with the 22 short cartridge, he also made a 99 out of a possible 100 on the N. A. R. target.

Fift shots at 50 yards: John Kaufmann, 499; John Bradford, 460; Euclide Russi, 454; Everett Babcock 440; Rudolph Ericson, 430; Nelson Nygren, 400. John Bush and Pansy are taking in the sights in New York and have visited the Statue of Liberty.

The Congregational Sunday school held a two-days' rally Saturday and Sunday. A conference of the teachers, assistants and officers was held at the parsonage Monday evening. William McNicol, the superintendent presided and Evelyn Woodmansee was appointed secretary. The superintendent pastor and Irene Stewart were appointed to arrange games, the teachers to furnish cake and Andrew and Alex McNicol to arrange for ice cream for Saturday. The state Sunday school program was discussed and many of the points were assigned persons to carry out. Each teacher was asked to have the classes furnish a number for the Sunday program. Mrs. Stephenson, assisted by Ruth Ballou served a delicious lunch at the close of the conference. Saturday's social was attended by nearly every member of the Sunday school and the contests between the Yale-Harvard teams were very amusing. Races and stunts comprised the games and ice cream cones and cake the refreshments. Eighty-seven attended the Sunday rally day in the Sunday school hour. Ethelle Parkhurst's class was represented by Olga Zegeer, who recited a poem. Munn and Janet Wilcox gave a recitation for Mrs. F. E. Robinson's class. A piano solo by William Stebbins was from Sadie Thompson's class. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox's class was represented by Mrs. H. S. Stephenson who sang a solo. Irene Stewart and Flora Littlefield sang a duet for Mrs. L. G. Buckingham's class. The pastor's class of young men sang in chorus, Mr. Stephenson playing the accompaniment. Dr. G. E. Jennings, class of 24 women and men sang a hymn. A report of the Sunday school workers' conference at the parsonage closed the program.

Deputy Game Warden William R. Palmer stated Monday night that he is in possession of a considerable number of names of those who were shooting Sunday in the woods, all around the borough. He promises arrests next Sunday if those are continued violations of the law.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
by DAVID CORY

Mistakes in Busy Beaver's Book

Mr. Beaver made a bridge
Across the Babbling Brook.
And so everyone who passed that way
He read his little book.

And, Oh, dear me, I wish you could have heard some of the things he read. Yes sir, Mr. Busy Beaver's book was full of the prettiest bedtime stories you ever heard. There was one about the Twinkle, Twinkle Star and another about Lady Silver Moon and, let me see—others about Sleep Eyes and Slipper Feet, the two dream fairies.

Along came a little pony

"Oh, read me a story," begged Little Jack Rabbit as Busy Beaver opened his book and looked up over his spectacles.

"Sit down beside me," answered the kind old beaver, as he turned over the leaves until he came to page thirty-three. "Here is a story about "Little Bo-Peep,

Who went asleep
With her beautiful dolly beside her.
But a big frog said "Croak!"
And Bo-Peep awoke
And saw a big black hairy spider."

"You're all mixed up," said Little Jack Rabbit. "Little Bo-Peep lost her sheep and Little Miss Muffet was frighted by a spider."

"Not in my book," answered Busy Beaver, taking off his spectacles and wiping them with a blue silk pocket handkerchief. "I've read it just as it is."

"Well, I've been all through Mother Goose," answered Little Jack Rabbit, "and I can't be mistaken."

"Well, maybe I've forgotten a few things," replied Mr. Busy Beaver. "You see I wrote this little book from memory and maybe I've made slight mistakes here and there, for it's a long time since I was a boy and read 'Mother Goose.'" and he slipped off his bridge and dived into the water.

Little Jack Rabbit continued on his journey and after a while he came to a sign post on which was written:

"This way to Butterscotch Town
This way to Candy City:
It's a mile or three and maybe four
And if you're tired, it seems like a score."

"Dear me!" said the bunny boy, "I'm so tired, I guess it's a score!"

Just then along came a little pony who said:

"Get on my back and we'll go to Candy City."

So Little Jack Rabbit jumped into the saddle for there was a little saddle on the pony's back and in the next story you shall hear what he did in Candy City.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) the officers of Quinebaug Pomona grange, No. 2, which includes all of the subordinate granges in Windham county and some adjoining territory, will go to Columbia to confer the fifth degree for East Central Pomona. While only the officers of Quinebaug Pomona will be engaged with the degree there is a possibility of some of the Quinebaug Penoma membership attending.

Monday, the death of Walter K. Nichols occurred at the home of Judge Oscar F. Atwoood in Brooklyn. Mr. Nichols had been an invalid for about 15 years and was confined to sitting in his chair, though he was industrious and applied himself to activities that largely engaged his time and attention.

Mr. Nicholns was born in Plainfield, a son of Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Nichols and would have been 50 years old on Friday of this week. Prior to his health failing he was employed as a bookkeeper for Brown and Sharpe in Providence and had also been engaged in the mercantile business and as a traveling salesman.

His wife was Edith Martin Nichols, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin. Her death occurred in July of last year.

District Deputy Edward W. Mullan and some members of Cargill council, K. of C., came here from Putnam Monday evening, Mr. Mullan acting as installing officers of the recently elected members of Rose of Lima council. In connection with the installation there was a social hour and smoker. Refreshments were served.

Some specimens of about every variety of game that may legally be shot during the present open season, which began Monday, were brought in during the day by hunters who covered about all the good hunting ground for miles in all directions from Danielson. The khaki-clad hosts were abroad early and they could be met during the day on about every highway in the vicinity of hunting territory. Game birds were reported as plentiful, but the shooting difficult because of the density of the foliage. There was an advantage in the coolness of the day, a fact that was appreciated by the huntsmen. Some of the enthusiasts have a week off and will spend every day between now and Sunday at their favorite pastime. The banging of guns during Monday set the deer to scurrying about and not a few were the dogs that left other game to trail them.

When the members of Lee J. L'Homme post, American legion, meet Wednesday evening they will discuss plans for the observance of Armistice day, which will be observed this year on Monday, November 12, as the anniversary falls on Sunday. It is likely that the plans for the observance will be along much the same lines as other similar observances in recent years. At Wednesday evening's meeting the members will also hear reports from the recent state convention of the legion.

And now come the assessors of the town of Killingly with the usual notices relative to the approach of the time when owners of taxable property are required to file a list thereof.

A section of Mechanic street between Hutchins and Westfield avenue remains closed on account of sewer building operations. This work is necessarily proceeding slowly because of its nature and because only a small number of men can be employed to advantage at one time. However, progress is being made and when the job is complete one of the hardest tasks of sewer construction in building the borough's system will have been accomplished.

If there is approval on the part of borough officials and arrangements can be made to meet the extra expense, Danielson will be brilliantly lighted under a plan recently approved by the chamber of commerce. It is understood that the difference in costs between the present lighting system in the area considered and the proposed system would be approximately $900 a year.

Hunters going into woodland territory Monday, saw, in many cases for the first time, the state forestry organization's warning signs against carelessness as to dropping lighted matches or in any way starting a forest fire. This happens to be Fire Prevention week, and while it is being observed the country over hunters here can aid by exercising due care while in woods and fields. The season has been an unusually dry one, and damaging fires can easily be started now by a moment's carelessness and inflict a heavy loss on some one good enough to allow hunting on his land.

Monday brought the opening of the coon hunting season of 1923. While hunters as as group do not devote much time to this sport, it so happens that a considerable number who do live in this vicinity are they will be out regularly. Coons have been protected only in recent years, and were it not for that fact some hunts would have been organized here before this date.

This (Tuesday) evening at her home in Wauregan the marriage of Miss Emma Gardner and Henry A. McEwen, of Danielson, will take place.

Pictures taken in the Japanese earthquake area were shown at the Orpheum theatre Monday evening.

PUTNAM

A loss estimated at $10,000, fully covered by insurance, was sustained when a large, old-style farmhouse, a barn, several outbuildings and an icehouse were destroyed by fire during the early hours of Monday morning on the Spere Hayeck place in Pomfret, a farm formerly owned by the Grosvenor family and, more recently, by Samuel Smith, former proprietor of the City hotel in Putnam. Mr. Smith disposed of his interests in the place some time since to Mr. Hayeck, who is resident in Lowell, Mass.

The fire was raging in the barn when discovered about 1 a. m. and spread rapidly to the house and outbuildings in the vicinity. Its origin is not known, but it is said to have been far advanced when discovered by the caretaker at the place.

As no fire-fightinng apparatus was available, the flames swept on without hindrance until they had licked up everything that would burn in the vicinity of the barn. Two horses, a bull, much hay, some grain, farm machinery and tools weer lost in the fire. Cows on the place were out at pasture.

The insurance on the destroyed buildings is carried through agencies with headquarters in this city and representatives of the fire insurance companies from Putnam were at Pomfret Monday forenoon to look over the ruins.

One young man sustained a minor injury to his knee while trying to salvage some things from one of the burning buildings.

Those who would like a last look at the dancing pavilion at Wildwood park, where so many thousands resident in this section of eastern Connecticut have enjoyed themselves of an evening during the hot weather seasons of this and other years, would do well to go to the resort at once, for this week will mark the inauguration of the work of taking down the structure, that its site may be made available for a modern, larger and more pretentious structure for which Manager P. J. Sheridan has plans and which will be ready for use early in the spring of 1924. The 1923 season at Wildwood park closed with the dance of last Saturday evening.

For nearly two years past Manager Sheridan has had in mind replacing the pavilion with a structure more suited to the needs and popularity of Wildwood park, and with that end in view has made a study of dance halls at summer resorts in various sections of New England. He obtained many ideas on his trips that will be incorporated in the new pavilion at Wildwood, and when it is completed it would appear certain to make this lakeside resort more attractive than it has been even with the fine attendance records of the past.

Following the removal of the present pavilion, cement piers and other parts of the under-structure will be put in place this fall. The frame for the new structure already has been cut out and is ready for use. Construction of the pavilion proper will be undertaken in the very early spring and will be ready in ample time for the dance season.

The new pavilion will have a splendid dance floor. The structure will be enclosed, French windows to the number of 68 and opening outward are included in the plans for the new building, which will accommodate a much larger number of dancers than the present structure, which has been in service for more than a decade.

Comes John D. Hill of East Providence, R. I., to the city court Monday morning to establish beyond doubt that he was not intentionally at fault when found to be without a registration for his car Sunday evening after he had done his best to straighten out another affair in which he was equally irresponsible. Hill in his visits to Putnam, appears to rate as a prominent contender for champion hard luck honors.

Hill arranged Sunday afternoon to drive Augustus Rosenquist from Providence to Putnam, where the latter is employed. On the way here from Providence Rosenquist produced a bottle of moonshine and proceeded to regale himself with the lightning it contained. He became hilarious. He tried to shift gears on the car while Hill was driving along. And he did other things. Arrived here, he could not tell Hill just where he wanted to go, so Hill delivered him at the police station and told his story. As an incident that proved tough luck for Hill, an officer asked to see the registration slip for the car and Hill, after searching the car, could not produce it, so he, too, was ordered to appear in court Monday morning. Later, however, he found the registration where it had fallen and lodged near the battery on the car, so his case was nolled Monday morning, while Rosenquist was asked by the court to pay a fine of $20 and costs.

Another case disposed of at Monday morning's session of court was that of Paul Plante, who lives in the Manhasset village. He was charged with having been intoxicated and with breach of the peace. Plante was fined $20 and costs on the intoxication charge but the breach of peace charge was continued and Plante told by the court that he would be sent to jail if he again appeared.

Arnold C. Adams of Plainfield did not appear at Monday's session of the court to answer to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while he was not in possession of registration papers. On receipt of information by telephone that he was ill and unable to appear, the case was continued for one week.

It developed during Monday that the correct names of the two young men who were arrested here Sunday afternoon for having in their possession a touring car stolen Saturday night from Burlington, Vt., are Donald W. Hale and John Beteau. After holding out for some time, Hale, the younger of the pair, unleashed his tongue and told that they broke into a garage at Burlington Saturday night and stole the car, which they drove all night long, reaching here during Sunday. They were being held at the police station Monday awaiting the arrival of Vermont officers who will return them to that state.

Aliens are now totally barred from hunting in Connecticut, a fact that is proving a disappointment to some residents in Putnam who have enjoyed themselves afield during the hunting seasons in years gone by. The fact that aliens are now barred from hunting appears not to be generally known, and may result in some arrests before the season ends. Knowledge of the restriction should be general among aliens who try to obey the law, however, for they will be refused a hunting license if they apply for one and do not misrepresent themselves as citizens of the country.

Announcements sent out by Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows outline in a general way some of the activities planned for the fall season. At this (Tuesday) evening's meeting the members will be asked to vote on whether the lodge will levy an assessment of $1 per member to pay the infirmary tax. The fall degree work soon will be in full swing. An initiatory degree will be conferred Oct. 16 and the first degree on Oct. 23. During the winter months the lodge will work the first, second and third degrees jointly with Quinebaug lodge of Danielson and Protection lodge of Central Village. A rehearsal for the initiatory degree is scheduled for this evening.

Cars owned by James Vogel of Webster and Leonard A. Remy of Fayban were in collision Sunday evening at the junction of Pomfret and South Meadow streets. No one was injured and the cars were only slightly damaged.

Killing frosts over the week end left vegetation blackened and wilted in much of the territory hereabouts. The first ice formed this season was reported Saturday morning.

When the superior court opens this morning Judge W. P. Waldo Marvin will preside. One of the cases assigned for trial is that of Joseph H. Elliott vs. John P. Grosvenor et al. In this case the dispute is over the ownership of a certain amount of timber standing on property formerly owned by Mr. Elliott, the timber said to be worth in the neighborhood of $8,000.

Friday of this week, Columbus day it will be observed here only as has been customary for the past few years. The banks will be closed, but business generally will continue as usual.

The body of Harry Palmer, 28, a brakeman killed in the local yards, was removed to Dorchester, Mass., where funeral services are to be held.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Good Old Stafford Fair Coming October 10, 11, 12.

For over fifty years the Stafford Springs fair has been a prosperous and popular amusement event. As a result the society has built a substantial plant, has a fine race track and is prepared in every way to give the public great value for the money.

The fair comes late and owing to this fact one of the best race meets in New England is a feature. For the past few seasons there have been 125 or more horses shipped to Stafford each year for the various racing events.

This year there will be three trotting or pacing events each day for substantial purses. The fair comes Wednesday, Thursdya and Friday, Oct. 10, 11 and 12. The last day, Friday, is Columbus Day, and the fair is the ideal place to spend the holliday.

Under the auspices of the fair association, a good dinner is served on the grounds at a nominal figure. A well fed patron sheds optimismand improves the general morale.

In addition to the racing there is a good platform show, a manufacturers' exhibit, all kinds of chickens, including the human variety and last, but not least, a midway where joy is free, pure and unconfined.

The motto of the Stafford Springs Fair Association is "We Want You With Us."

Breed Theatre.

The first feature length comedy, Three Ages, to be made with Buster Keaton as the star, is the best work of this ingenious young comedian. Three Ages, which will be shown for the last times today at the Breed theatre is replete with laughs and thrills and establishes Keaton permanently in big full length feature comedies.

In Three Ages Buster springs with agility from side splitting exposition of life as it was in the cave man era to an hilarious explanation of life as it was in the brilliant reign of triumphant Rome. From Rome he carries us forward to our own age where he enjoys himself in a keen satire of the modern world, never losing sight, however, of the humerous, the pathetic, the uproarious touches with which modern life is full.

Three Ages has a cast of more than two thousand people in several of the massive scenes staged in a duplication of the age-old Colosseum in Rome. This Colosseum set is said to have cost a huge sum and is the largest set ever constructed for a motion picture comedy. With Buster Keaton in the case is also Margaret Leahy, an English beauty, and Wallace Beery, as the inevitable villain. There are also Joe Roberts, Lillian Lawrence and Morace "Cupid" Morgan.

Other pictures on the bill include Mary Astor in The Beggar Maid and the Pathe News.

Broadway Theatre.

Harold Lloyd has again proven that he is the most consistent funmaker on the screen by his latest Pathe five-reel comedy, Dr. Jack, which is seen today at the Broadway theatre. There are comedians who make exceedingly funny pictures, but Lloyd is the most consistent and dependable of the Sons of Laughter. Grandma's Boy seemed to us to be the perfect comedy—until we saw Dr. Jack.

In Dr. Jack, Lloyd has again given us a comedy with a serious vein running through it, but the laughter is continuous and everlasting. Never was there anything funnier screened than Lloyd's acrobatic antics in his weird disguise as the madman. The poker game was a gem of cleverness, as was the comedian's scene with the little freckled kid. Then there was his ride on the back of the bronco-like calf, and—but why continue? It was a laugh from start to finish.

Harold Lloyd is seen in the title role, that of a young doctor who cures ills by the "sunshine method." The fast and furious Lloydian comedy is interwoven with a charming love story, and here the comedian fairly outshines all the great lovers of the screen. It's a great comedy and you really can't afford to miss it.

The authentic Japanese Earthquake Picture which is a special feature and not a news reel is also shown. A news weekly concludes the bill.

Strand Theatre.

A very fine program of B. F. Keith vaudeville was presented yesterday at the Strand to an appreciative audience.

Betty Washington opened the program. She is termed the "Sweetheart of her violin and her bow." Too much cannot be said about her playing.

Ed and May Ernie, the merry mon-osede and the dancing girl, presented Three Feet of Comedy. This is a very fine comedy dancing act and some admirable work is done by the monopede.

Flynn & Arnold, two charming young ladies, presented a comedy singing act called Black and White—Assorted.

Selbini and Grovini in Follies of Vaudeville, closed the bill with a juggling, acrobatic and cycling act.

With divorces increasing three and one-half times as much as the population of the country, no topic can be of greater interest to a greater number of people than that which is imbedded in the most important photoplay to reach the screen in years, Divorcs.

This play, which mirrors the most startling condition of affairs ever to confront modern society, is flung upon the screen of the Strand theatre today and Wednesday, and it is promised that it packs a real punch as well as pointing a real moral.

To women who must be careful-

HOW disheartening it is to find that the scales are correct; that one really weighs a few pounds more—those few pounds that make such a difference in one's whole appearance!

But you can reduce—without hunger or discomfort.

Be careful to avoid wheat breads and other fattening breadstuffs. Instead, make these delicious "Slim-Jane Biscuits" and "Slim-Jane Muffins", making them yourself, so that you know they have the minimum of fuel value. Why not try them today?

NOTE: And try beating a pint of evaporated milk into a pound of butter, substituting it for rich whole butter. It tastes good and will not increase your weight.

"Slim-Jane Biscuits"

2 c. graham flour
4 ts. Davis Baking Powder
½ ts. salt
2 tb. shortening
¾ to 1 c. skimmed milk

Thoroughly mix the Davis Baking Powder and salt with the flour, rub in the shortening with finger tips, or cut in with knife, gradually add the milk, mixing lightly. On floured board, roll to ½" thickness, shape with cutter and bake in hot oven 12 to 15 mins.

"Slim-Jane Muffins"

2 c. clean bran
1 c. whole wheat flour
3 ts. Davis Baking Powder
1 ts. salt
¾ c. sweetening (molasses preferred)
1½ c. skimmed milk
1 egg—beaten
¼ tb. melted shortening

Mix in order given, sifting flour, Davis Baking Powder and salt together. Bake in hot oven (400° F) 20 to 25 minutes, in greased muffin tins.

THE TWELVE-MILE LIMIT.

With the imperial conference in session in London interest here centers on the outcome of the effort of the United States to have the three-mile limit for search of rum runners extended to twelve miles. London passed this on to the conference and there the influence of the dominions is being felt with certain ones being strongly in favor of meeting the request of this government.

If the conference approves of the plan and it is put into operation it will mean that Secretary Hughes has convinced them of the wisdom of the move, that they recognise the value of doing that much toward the checking of law violation by their subjects and by vessels flying their flag and that it will remain to be seen what new plans will be perfected for beating the prohibition law.

If Great Britain extends the right to search British ships for that additional ocean belt of nine miles beyond the present territorial limit it will of course permit the right of search for nothing but liquor. That is all that the United States has been seeking, however. It is solely concerned with the breaking up of the rum-running practice, and favorable British action may serve as the basis for a similar appeal to other countries that rum-running under any flag may be dealt with in the same manner.

The extension of the limit to twelve miles does not prevent the sale of liquors beyond that point. It does make more difficult getting in touch with shore points and much more of a task for those actually doing the smuggling.

If the conference decides that the change should be made it will show the value of the persistency displayed by this government. Rum running is by no means the only form of violation of prohibition and if it can be successfully combatted it will serve to spur on greater efforts in other directions, where glaring violations are daily being disclosed.

FIGHTING THE FAKE.

Not so long ago the statement was made by one considering himself an authority that much of the art work that has been sold and much that appears in the Metropolitan Art Museum in New York is faked. By this it is meant that while a certain small part of the art objects may be original the greater part is the work of modern artists who have built around the fragments of old time pieces and put them forth as original and at prices based upon originals. What was true of art objects in this country was also claimed of those in France. Within a few days another has pointed out that many of the paintings are not those of the great artists they are supposed to be. Those making such claims do so as experts and bring home the fact that while so much admiration is being expressed in behalf of the work of those of the long ago, such is in reality not the case. Those who marvel over what the old timers could do are obliged to admit that modern art is quite wonderful.

Regardless of what the object is, whether it be statuary or a painting, there can be no toleration of a fake. If it is the work of a great master it should be judged and admired as such. If it is a copy, or the work of a lesser light that fact should be known. There is no justification in fooling the public either as to actual artist or the price.

Inasmuch as this art faking has had its center abroad there will be interest in the announcement that the French chamber of deputies will soon have before it a bill for the prevention of art faking. Fakirs and frauds cannot expect to go on with their business unmolested. Apparently they have been at it too long already and whatever can be done to force them into labeling their work for what it is and removing the misrepresentation is just what is needed. The fact that it is being contemplated now only emphasizes the negligence that has prevailed in the past.

CONTRAST IN GERMAN METHODS

Germany has always played an important part as a maritime nation. It was heartbreaking when it suffered the loss of its ships, and the trade that goes with a merchant marine. But it didn't discourage the country. Finding itself without ships, and with vessels to build for other countries it not only set about its task with a will, finished the penalty ships and then went at the task of replacing the ships that had been taken away or otherwise lost.

To say that it has gotten back where it was before the war would be to say what isn't so. It hasn't as large a fleet or a fleet of as large vessels as it had before the war. But it has developed its shipping to such an extent that it puzzles its neighbors how it does it, and particularly to understand after getting the ships how it manages to keep them all busy. That is something which other countries cannot boast of. The United States, Great Britain and other European countries have large fleets of merchant ships, larger than ever before, but they are not busy. The problem of the idle ships has been a huge one and as yet has not been solved. Possibly a study of the German efforts might serve to give some help, even though Germany hasn't begun to approach the commercial activity on the high seas that it once did.

With Germany building so many ships and keeping those that it builds busy it is unfortunate that it has not seen the wisdom of tackling the debt situation that it faced with the same determination. Had it done so it would have been in a far different position than it has today. It wouldn't have got it paid off, but it would have put its marks to a much better use than they have been put, it would have created a better impression among the nations of the world and a much more congenial neighborhood. It would have been highly creditable for Germany had it worked so assiduously in the meeting of its obligations that the others surveyed at its accomplishments, even as they do relative to the progress made in shipbuilding and its shipping activity.

FIGHTING FIRES.

With hundreds of millions of dollars lost through the destruction of property by fire each year, with thousands of lives lost, yearly because of fires and with hundreds of millions of dollars being expended for the fire departments, made necessary to a large extent because of the carelessness of individuals there exist the best of reasons for heeding the appeals that are being put forward today and this week in behalf of fire prevention.

Fire means waste. It makes no difference whether it visits the lowliest of dwellings, the mansion, the small mill, the great factory, the one story business house or the modern office building fire destroys and creates expense. Even the fire that sweeps through the brush to the woodlands means heavy losses that cannot be replaced for many years. And the worst of it is in a great number of instances such losses are needless because the fires might easily have been prevented by the exercise of a little care.

As the most careless nation we are certainly paying high and dearly for the distinction. Our losses in humanity and property because of fire are deplorable. We recognize what is going on, we understand the carelessness that prevails, and yet we fail to take home to ourselves the all important lesson concerning care and prevention.

Prevention is doing much every day to keep down the waste through the great national ash pile, but there is so much more that ought to be done that the efforts in behalf of greater individual effort can experience no relaxation. Fire prevention is something that all persons should have in mind every day in the year. Fighting fires before they happen is far preferable to handling them after they are carelessly kindled.

DIPLOMATIC CHANGES.

The resignations of Ambassadors Harvey and Child, to Great Britian and Italy respectively, brings to attention once more the fact that it is an expensive honor that is attached to the task of being a diplomatic representative.

Members of our diplomatic corps are constantly changing. Regardless of the efficient manner in which they serve and however much their continuation at their posts is desired there are financial obstacles which make it impossible for other than men of money to accept and hold such places.

Great sacrifices have been made in many cases to serve the country in this manner by those who were not adequately recompensed and in the changes that are soon to take place because of the resignations it would not surprise if the real facts were known that it was because of the heavy burden of expenditures attached to such offices that prompted them.

That there are others who can be obtained for such service is not to be doubted. Resignations of diplomats are frequent for one reason or another but in these instances signal service has been rendered by both and it is with the regret of the administration that they find it necessary to end their labors in that direction. Whether the time will come when the expense burden for diplomats is eliminated is by no means indicated at the present time.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It makes a difference what sign you put your faith in as to the kind of a winter we are going to have.

The man on the corner says: Experience in watching the clock isn't the kind that brings promotion.

From now on the smoke of burning leaves will be added to the many other disagreeable features of the day.

The decision of two that it is expensive to act as ambassador seems to have been the experience of several others.

Those who tried to make trouble for Lloyd George in New York seemed to want to make him feel perfectly at home.

Turkey, which has declared for a republic, needs to do many things that are not controlled by the form of government.

Is there any wonder the cry of "too much" is heard when autos are killing people at the rate of 33 a day in this country?

Have you laid in your usual supply of familiar herbs on which so much dependence is placed for getting through the winter?

Those who advocate cancellation of our foreign debts might start the ball rolling by tearing up the Liberty bonds they hold, if they have any.

Inasmuch as there has been a cut of over $74,000,000 in the public debt there will be those who will want to know why it wasn't put into the pork barrel.

We are told that the Grand Trunk has a million coming to it from Uncle Sam. Possibly that is what is going to be used on that railroad from Palmer to Providence.

The federal debt has been reduced to just over $22,000,000,000, having been cut about $1,100,000,000 a year for four years. At that rate it will take more than a score of years to wipe it out.

HUNTING THE THRILL

"I've been reading what some of the thick, sad-looking magazines and other publications of the kind have to say about what people want to get when they read—in other words, what they read for," said the little brown-eyed girl of the periodical section of the big department store. "I read it because the head of the section here got an idea that it would help me to wait intelligently on customers, as she said; but I wasn't helped much—then.

"If I'd not had my own mind made up as to what most people like to read and what they want to get out of their reading I might have believed some of the stuff I struggled through in those dreary mags. But I had. And I didn't run across a single idea that hit me hard enough to make me change my mind. If I'd got the other stuff first it might have made a difference.

"But when I say I'd made up my mind I'm really telling a bit of a fib, for my mind was made up for me. I didn't have a thing to do with it, but just let it. My customers did all the making.

"After I'd been here awhile and people who patronize the mags began to get acquainted with me, they began one by one to tell me what they liked to read. Most of them were fiction readers; that is, they read the fiction in the magazines. Up to that time I never particularly noticed one mag from another, for I'd never been much of a reader. I never had the time. I'd supposed that all the mags had stories pretty much alike, if they were love stories, and that was about all I'd thought about it.

"My customers soon brightened me up to the knowledge that there are love stories and love stories, some of them mighty punk ones, and some of them, well you know, just the right sort. Girls and women began to get acquainted with me first, and then to give me the right dope on what's what in fiction, meaning love stories mostly, of course. And then one by one man customers began to take me into their confidence and I soon learned that whether it's love or adventure, or both, they all wanted about the same thing.

"The various customers called this thing various names. The girls and women called it thrilling and lovely and darling and honey and snuggly, and the men talked about it being a humdinger or having a punch, or a good clinch, and the like. I soon found out that for some of the girls and women to be disappointed in their love stories was almost as hard for them to bear as to be disappointed in love.

"They have their pet writers, of course, and when they bought a mag with a love story by their pet, and the story turned out badly, in other words, not to suit them, it was almost a tragedy. They'd want to come and talk to me about it, which was often embarrassing to me, too, because the head didn't want to see me spend too much time in idle conversation.

"Finally, at odd times, I began taking peeps at stories I'd heard described as sweet and lovely and humdinger, and I had no trouble at all agreeing with what they'd said, and coming right to a conclusion as to what people want to get when they read.

"They like to be tickled, yes, but mostly they want that quick, warm, full swell of the heart—the thrill. The warmer and fuller the swell, the better, to be sure, but they'll be satisfied if they get just a little swell of a thrill, and if they don't get it, the story is a dead one, so far as they're concerned.

"You know how your heart feels after you take a full, deep breath of fine spring air, or after you've been made terribly happy about something? Well, that's the way they want their hearts to feel when they've finished reading a story.

"Those customers who seem to enjoy reading only in their minds never tried to educate me up to taking an interest in what they like, so just out of curiosity I tried reading the kind of mags they bought—once. They made my head ache."—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, who celebrates his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary today, has been bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Bethlehem, formerly the diocese of Central Pennsylvania, for more than a quarter of a century. The Bishop is one of the most widely known prelates of the church in America. He is a native of Missouri, and graduated at Dartmouth College. Later he studied at the General Theological Seminary, and was ordained in 1873. After his ordination he filled pulpits at several places in Missouri until 1887, when he was made missionary bishop of Idaho and Wyoming. In 1898 he was transferred from the West to his present see. Bishop Talbot is an eloquent speaker and has been a prolific writer of books, pamphlets and sermons.

Stories That Recall Others

Tender and True.

The restaurant owner wrote this on his bill of fare board outside: "For supper today: Chicken potpie, veal stew, steak and onions, pork chops."

Then below it he wrote, "Waitress and cook wanted."

Along came one wag who erased the word "wanted."

The second wag was wittier than the first. He added after the words "waitress and cook"—"tender and true."

The restaurant owner asserted that that narrowed his list of applicants considerably, and also increased trade.

A Modern Instance

The lesson of Ruth and Naomi was being discussed in the Sunday school class. The teacher was drawing parallels to the present day situations and said that things were very much in Bible days as they are now.

"When Ruth returned to her home town" said the teacher "all the neighbors gathered around her and said, 'My goodness, Ruth, how glad we are to see you.'"

Then the teacher asked one member of the class in particular what was said to her when she returned to her home town. The answer was very up to date.

"They said to me," replied the woman, 'My goodness, Maude, how you are beginning to show your age.'"

A baby isn't necessarily afflicted with jaundice because it's a little yeller.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Craze

Mr. Editor: As the column for letters to the editor has been for some time blank, perhaps one may be excused in offering a few moral thoughts on the above topic.

Saturday's paper contains a remark that as a text will be proper to quote. The language runs thus: There seems to be a craze to get together and discuss matters of common interest. If there is never a worse craze, then the outlook is very bright.

Admitting the fact stated in the first clause of this sentence, we are compelled to condemn the sentiment of the latter clause. Anything that goes with a craze is essentially bad. It may be a craze for burning tobacco, which seems most prevalent now—or a craze to ride in an automobile, or a religious craze. Any thought or work which cannot be entered into with common sense is bad for the brain, the intellect and whole functional organism of the participant; and it is good that this law obtains as well in the spiritual as in the natural world. The craze system of of accomplishing any work even a good one, is when prevalent followed by a deterioration of the moral standard of the community in which it prevails. Today no special examples need be quoted. They may alas; furnish them beyond enumeration. An item in Various Matters in the same day's paper gives this: "The census Friday showed 1,775 patients, 918 male and 857 female, at Norwich state hospital." A number that would disgrace a nation of cannibals and yet we read it without conviction or much concern unless it has touched our own, and not enough then.

This gift possessed by some of thinking with the mouth instead of the brain is a poor one, and as an employer and letter of labor was long ago brought home to me. Once particularly by a customer who had a job he thought needed an expert. "Send me," he said, "A— B., because what he knows is not all in his mouth."

The request was granted and the job proved satisfactory. I knew it would.

"Matters of common interest" as indicated in the text, are surely worthy of discussion in a sane manner, but to enter any endeavor with a craze is fatal to something about the result if not to the entire undertaking—although the idea seems to prevail today that everything to be done at all must go with a craze. To quote and add a meaning to one of the meaning less songs of today, "If you don't see mother every night, you won't see mother at all!"

This is a part of the stuff that takes the place of quiet business and of music, and of refined melody, and the combination of sweet sounds of which Shakespeare wrote, as "harmony." An eminent musician recently spoke to me depleringly of the craze that had fastened itself on music, and wondering where it would come out. It would be well if the pulpit can be kept pure from this craze, and if it could set agoing a craze-killing influence it would be a worthy endeavor—and perhaps, properly in this direction should we look for an easement from the general craze, for it seems it can only be attained through divine interposition and human energy combined.

Springfield Woman Gained 35 Pounds

"For a number of years I was the worst run-down person imaginable," recently stated Mrs. John Lamondia, 30 Elijah St., Springfield, Mass.

"When I started taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and five pounds and, being unable to do any work, we had given up housekeeping. Everything I would eat made me sick, I could not sleep, had awful spells of palpitation and dizziness, and was almost a nervous wreck.

"But I now weigh one hundred and forty pounds and am a perfectly well woman. Of all our six children the last one, a boy, is the biggest and healthiest and he was born six months after I began taking Tanlac. We call him 'John Bull' on account of his fine physical condition. Ours is a happy family and I count Tanlac the greatest find of my life."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Your Own Pearls

Are the finest—pearly teeth

Millions find them by combating film

No pearls which hang about the neck compare with pretty teeth. Don't leave them coated by a dingy film.

Look about you. Note how countless teeth now glisten. Mark what they add to beauty and to charm. Then make this test and learn how people get them.

The cloud is film

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. Under old-way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus film is the greatest enemy of tooth beauty and tooth health.

Dental science, after long research, found ways to combat that film. One disintegrates the film, the other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

To the careful, dainty people of some 50 nations this method has brought a new dental era.

Some sad mistakes

Research also proved that soapy tooth pastes had brought undesired results. They reduced the alkalinity of the saliva, reduced its starch digestant. Pepsodent brings just opposite effects. It multiplies the alkalinity, multiplies the starch digestant. And they are Nature's agents for fighting acid and starch deposits.

Watch for 10 days

Watch for ten days the Pepsodent effects. They will amaze and delight you. They will convince you that all in your family should get them every day.

It will be a revelation to you. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

President Harding Not A Hunter

A valued correspondent, Mrs. T. W. Brown of Los Angeles, Cal., sends us this anecdote of the late president, showing how different was his attitude towards hunting from that of one of his predecessors. I heard Prof. Burris of Cincinnati, in reminiscences of President Harding say that he called upon him on official business in Washington in the hunting season. Prof. Burris said, President Harding, I thought you might be out shooting rabbits today. No said the president, I cannot shoot anything that has eyes to look at me. Surely the bravest are the tenderest—Our Dumb Animals.

98 OUT OF EVERY 100 WOMEN BENEFITED

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

Its reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

FOUR BADLY INJURED IN BALTIC MAN'S CAR

Four women were badly injured, one of them probably fatally, when an auto driven by Elmer Johnson of East Hampton crashed into a car owned and driven by Robert L. Hines of Baltic on the Marlborough state road at 9 o'clock Sunday night, says the Hartford Times under an East Hampton dateline.

Miss Mildred Kinley of Middletown is in a serious condition at St. Francis' hospital, Hartford, with injuries to her back. Miss Ruby E. Carpenter of East Hampton was taken to her home with a badly injured shoulder and head. Miss Margaret Joyce of Boston, a nurse, received two broken ribs, and Miss Arline B. Wall, daughter of William M. Wall of East Hampton, sustained a badly injured arm.

Mr. Johnson fled after the crash, but later gave himself up, at the advice of his friends. He is being held for reckless driving and will face Justice Buell in the town court, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

There were eight people in the Hines car, all of whom went to East Hampton for the funeral of Mrs. William M. Wall this morning. Last night they went for an auto ride "to cheer them up," it was said, and they were riding toward Marlborough when the Johnson car crashed into them, opposite the home of Edward Spicer. Four who escaped injury are Edward Lynch of East Hampton, Robert Hines, John Hines and Miss Marie Joyce, a sister of the nurse who attended Mrs. Wall up to the time of her death. Mr. Johnson and a friend, Maurice Bransfield, who was with him, also escaped injury.

WEDDINGS.

Caron—Thoma.

At two-thirty o'clock Monday afternoon Miss Clara K. Thoma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thoma, of Lisbon, became the bride of Victor L. Caron, son of Mrs. Mathilda Caron of Taftville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. U. O. Bellerose at the church rectory.

The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Belval, sister and brother-in-law of the groom. The bride was prettily gowned in brown georgette with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. The maid of honor was gowned in gray flat crepe with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts including silver, cut glass, money and home furnishings.

Upon their return from a wedding trip which will include Moston and Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Caron will reside in a newly furnished home at 274 Prospect street, Norwich.

Church-Moodie

Miss Lilla Maud Chapman, 30-year-old daughter of Mrs. Nellie A. Chapman and the late Frank L. Chapman, died at her home, 451 Main street, Monday morning at 11 o'clock, after an illness of two years. Miss Chapman was born at Salem, this state. For some time she was employed at the Thermos bottle plant. She was of a bright and cheerful disposition and was beloved by all who knew her.

Surviving are her mother, five brothers and six sisters, James, Ralph, Clinton, Francis Chapman, all of Norwich, Mrs. William B. Whitney of Providence, Miss Mary E. Chapman of Worcester, Mrs. George Ellsworth, Mrs. Christian Liepold, Ruth and Lucille Chapman, all of this city.

FUNERAL.

Anna Perheac.

Funeral services for Anna Perheac, the 10-year-old daughter of Antep and Elizabeth Perheac, who died Friday night, after being knocked down by an automobile in Yantic were held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the home of her parents.

The service at the house was attended by many relatives and friends, among them schoolmates of the girl. The service was conducted by Rev. John B. Chepeleff, who also conducted the service which followed at St. Nicholas church. Burial was in St. Nicholas cemetery where Rev. Chepeleff read a committal service. The following six schoolmates of the girl were bearers: Mary Homiski, Mary and Ida Malumis, Hattie and Teresa Driscoll and Sophie Pyckhowski.

Arrangements were by Shea & Burke.

Sent Body to Naugatuck.

The body of Gertrude Driscoll, aged 21 years, who died in this city last week, following a lingering illness, was shipped to Naugatuck Saturday by Shea & Burke who took the body in charge. Miss Driscoll was the daughter of Timothy and Isabelle Welch Driscoll and had been in Norwich only a short time.

Awning Found on Fire.

At 1.37 o'clock this (Tuesday) morning Officer Michael Dwyer discovered a small awning fire at the Singer sewing machine shop, 48-50 Main street. The fire department responded to a telephone call and the fire was quickly extinguished. It was probably caused by a match or cigarette butt.

TOWN MEETING VOTES EVERYTHING; CUTS TAX COLLECTOR'S COMMISSION

The annual town meeting held Monday evening at the town hall sliced one-quarter of one per cent. from the compensation of Tax Collector Harold T. Robinson making his compensation for collecting the town taxes three-quarters of one per cent. This is equivalent to a 25 per cent. reduction for the collector as far as the town taxes are concerned. His compensation for collecting the town taxes is one per cent. of the amount collected. The movement to reduce the collector's compensation came as a surprise to the town officials and to the greater part of the approximately 150 people at the meeting. After a resolution had been introduced by Henry A. Tirrell fixing the salaries of the town officials and including a compensation of the usual one per cent. for the town tax collector, H. E. Gallup offered an amendment reducing the collector's compensation at three-quarters of one per cent. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 75 "yes" against 61 "no."

The meeting authorized appropriations totaling $539,407.18. Estimated receipts as prepared by the board of selectmen are $57,750, which leaves a total of $481,657.18 to be raised by tax. This will mean a tax of between 24 and 25 mills on the dollar. The town tax last year, as laid at the adjourned meeting held last March was 23 mills.

Reports Accepted

The town meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by First Selectman William S. Murray who asked Judge H. H. Perkins to preside. The warning for the meeting was read by Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook. The annual report of the selectmen and their recommendation and the reports of the town treasurer, the sinking fund committee, the town health officer, the town school committee and the trustees of the Otis library were accepted.

Salaries Fixed

Henry A. Tirrell presented a resolution fixing the salaries of the town officials as follows: First selectman, $3,000; second and third selectman, $200 each; town clerk, $200; town treasurer, $1,000; assessors, $1,000, with $300 extra for the clerk of the board; secretary town school committee, $400; compensation of the town tax collector, one per cent. of the taxes collected.

H. E. Gallup offered an amendment to Mr. Tirrell's resolution cutting the collector's compensation a quarter of one per cent. making it three quarters of one per cent. In explaining his amendment, Mr. Galipp said that the town has gone on from year to year fixing the collector's compensation at one per cent. The rate has now increased until it is approaching 25 mills. At a one per cent. rate Mr. Gallup said that when the town and city tax the collector's compensation would be in the neighborhood of $8,000 or $10,000. In New London where the grand list is $33,000,000 Mr. Gallup said that the compensation of the tax collector is fixed at $2,400 a year. He said he didn't think that amount would be enough for the collector here as owing to the city and town tax the work of collecting has to be done twice a year. I believe, said Mr. Gallup, that we ought to a least have that work done for not more than three-quarters of one per cent.

The amendment was seconded by Herbert M. Lerou. Just before a vote on the amendment was called for Judge Nelson J. Ayling took the floor in opposition. Judge Ayling said this was a matter that should need a little thought and discussion. He expressed his opinion that if there is occasion to reduce the collector's salary the salaries of the other town officials should be cut likewise.

The chair called for an aye and nay vote on the amendment. As there seemed to be an even division of opinion he announced that he was in doubt as to result and called for a second vote with the same result. The chair then asked the voters to register their votes by passing from left to right in front of the desk and requested Tyler D. Guy to assist the clerk in the count. The voting resulted as follows:

|---|---|
| Total votes cast | 136 |
| Necessary for choice | 69 |
| For the amendment | 75 |
| Against the amendment | 61 |

The amendment was carried and then the original resolution as amended was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Laying Town Tax Goes Over

Schol Appropriation

The appropriation of $342,557.99 requested by the town school committee for the support of the public schools during the coming year was voted by the meeting. This sum is equal to about 12 mills on the dollar.

Extras Voted

Other resolutions were voted as follows:

Resolution introduced by Oliver L. Johnson by which the town appropriated $5,000 for the town highways in order to obtain advantage of the state aid for roads for the two local years ending June 30, 1925.

Resolution introduced by Gen William A. Aiken appropriating $4,500 to assist in maintaining the Otis Library.

Resolution introduced by John B. Stanton appropriating a sum not to exceed $60,000 to relieve the parents and guardians of pupils residing in the town and attending the Norwich Free Academy from the payment of the term fees of the Academy for the school year of 1923 and 1924.

Resolutions introduced by Arad Manning appropriating $6,000 to continue the work of preparing a tax map of the town.

Resolution introduced by Rev. A. H. Abbott appropriating $8,500 for the purpose of providing medical inspection for children of school age residing in the town during the coming year.

Resolution introduced by Charles L. Stewart appropriating $100 for the installation of a hydrant on the Canterbury turnpike about 400 feet from Peck's corner.

Resolution introduced by Edwin W. Higgins authorizing the installation and mantenance of a suitable number of electric lights on Newton street from the city line to the New London turnpike, along the turnpike to the New London county fair grounds and from the city line on West Main street to Backus Corner.

Resolutions introduced by Albert J. Bailey authorizing the installation and mantenance of a suitable number of electric lights on Occoanda avenue from the New London turnpike to Wauwecus street.

The meeting adjourned at 8.45 o'clock until the first Monday in March at which the town tax will be laid.

RECEPTION OPENS SEASON AT Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

The opening fall reception was given Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. building with a large attendance and a programme that made several entertaining hours. President J. C. Macpherson expressed a cordial welcome to those present and invited them to use the privileges that the building afforded to the utmost. He went on to speak of the appreciation that the directors and officers felt for services that General Secretary Edwin Hill and Mrs. Hill has rendered in the past ten years, which had been formally noted by resolutions passed by the directors at the September meeting. But he said that it had been felt that something more than that was due Mr. and Mrs. Hill so that he took great pleasure in presenting them a substantial purse from the officers, directors and employed staff of the association.

For a moment or two Secretary Hill was overcome by the complete surprise, but he quickly regained his composure and expressed his deep appreciation of the patience that the directors had had with him and said that he could say with truth that in his twenty-five years of association work he had never been in a place where he had been more kindly treated than in Norwich.

Music for the evening was rendered by the Melody Land Trio with a number of pleasing selections and Mrs. Charles Tyler Beard, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, sang two solos in fine voices.

After this part of the programme had been completed in the gymnasium, Chairman Charles L. Stewart of the social committee, invited all to adjourn to the swimming pool room, where an expert group of senior members gave an interesting demonstration of racing and diving, under the direction of Physical Director A. E. Fritz.

Ice cream and wafers were served at the conclusion of the evening while Swahn's orchestra rendered a delightful programme in the parlors. Those constituting the orchestra were John T. Egan, piano; John Kukla, clarinet; Theodore Sterry, violin, and John M. Swahn, cornet.

MRS. CLARENCE R. HENDERSON DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME

Helen Buchanan Henderson, wife of Clarence R. Henderson, died suddenly about 8:30 o'clock Monday evening while sitting in a chair at her home, 188 Central avenue. Mrs. Henderson had been in her usual good health throughout the day and there was no indication that death was near. While talking with a friend she suddenly rolled off her chair and expired. Death was due to acute Bright's disease.

Mrs. Henderson was born August 14, 36 years ago and was the daughter of Elizabeth Borthwick Buchanan and the late George Buchanan. She was united in marriage with Clarence R. Henderson nine years ago in December. Surviving are her husband, mother and stepfather, Joseph Marsh. There are no children. She was a member of the Third Baptist church and was well and favorably known to many friends and acquaintances who deeply regret her sudden and untimely death.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION ON FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

A proclamation setting aside this week as fire prevention week was issued Monday by Mayor Milo R. Waters. The proclamation is as follows:

"I do hereby set aside this week as Fire Prevention Week .. ... and urgently request that every citizen of Norwich do his utmost to clean the city of all fire hazards. Every property owner should see to it that every fire hazard possible should be removed during the present week. Every year these hazards cause great loss of property as well as great loss of life and the sooner the citizens of every community realize the importance of this national clean-up week ... Let all of us carry out in ... the request of Governor ... and the National Fire Prevention suggestions.

SPEAKERS PRESENT NEEDS OF HOSPITAL NURSES' HOME

Superintendent F. Leon Hutchins of the Backus hospital and Miss Kathleen Dowd, matron at the institution, were speakers Monday night at the first meeting of the season held by the Norwich Town Men's League in the chapel of the First Congregational church. President Henry T. Fraser presided and the singing was led by Frederick H. Wyant with H. L. Yerrington at the piano.

Miss Dowd spoke in an interesting way of the need of a nurses' home at the Backus hospital, the object for which the campaign for $250,000 is to be opened in Norwich on Oct. 19. The hospital, she said, is a busy place at all times, patients are liable to come in at any time of the day or night, but it is useless to bring patients there unless there are nurses to receive them. Nurses must be trained and must receive their training in the hospital but it will be impossible to hold student nurses at the Backus hospital in the crowded living accommodations at the present time in the nurses' home. In one room there are three and in most rooms there are two, imposing conditions in which the student nurse cannot find the relaxation that she must have in order to be in condition for her work. She needs her own room and the nurses' home needs a good sitting room and a suitable class room, things that it does not have now.

It is for you and yours that the nurse is trained, Miss Dowd concluded. You never can tell who will need her or how quickly. The training school was established 18 years ago and has maintained an admirable record. We must keep it up to the highest efficiency by giving them a comfortable nurses' home.

Superintendent Hutchins followed Miss Dowd and spoke of the confidence that is felt that the hospital campaign is going way over the top. The manufacturers are promising to come in heavy, he said, and he reminded his hearers that this is the first time in 20 years that the community has been asked to give anything for the hospital, while it has been having hospital service for all that time without cost or money. Should the drive reach the expectation of going well over the top, it would probably be possible to add to the number of private rooms by some readjustment and to add to the maternity rooms. Of the $250,000 which is the goal in the drive for the nurses' home, it will take $100,000 for the building alone. Then there will be 50 rooms to be furnished and $3,000 or $4,000 more annually will be needed for maintenance.

Mr. Hutchins called attention to the way the purchasing power of the dollar had been cut in half since the war and said that there was no hospital but that needs double the endowment that carried it a few years ago. The Backus hospital has doubled in number of patients cared for and has had to double its student nurses and its employes.

The hospital must render service, he said, and at times cannot stop to think about the value of a dollar. As an instance, he spoke of a recent tetanus case where there wasn't enough tetanus anti-toxin in the city to treat the case. In the emergency the hospital spent $182 in securing the needed amount, and nobody has asked who is to pay for it, and the life was saved.

Mr. Hutchins emphasized the need of suitable rooms for the nurses, with reception rooms and reading room, and spoke of those who have been giving their time and service freely for 30 years, the executive board and the corporators, the doctors, the nurses, the clergymen, and the trustees. In view of this, he asked, doesn't it seem that a drive once in 30 years for the Backus hospital ought to go over big? In view of what Westerly has done, Norwich will not let the Rhode Island town beat it in the response to the appeal of the hospital.

Both speakers were given rising votes of thanks at the conclusion of the meeting.

PLAINFIELD MOTORISTS HOME AFTER 4,000 MILE TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Hermon B. Chapman have returned to Plainfield from a western trip to Windom, Minn., being absent from home four weeks and traveling by automobile nearly 4,000 miles. Mr. and Mrs. Mark N. Shepard of New London, N. H., were also in the party, Mrs. Shepard being Mrs. Chapman's sister. They went out by way of the Lincoln highway, visited Niagara Falls, took the boat at Buffalo, crossing Lake Erie to Cleveland, striking the highway at Sigonier, O., beyond Toledo. Mrs. Chapman visited her sister in Windom, Mrs. French, and Mr. and Mrs. Chapman attended the county fair which was being held at Windom. The party returned by way of the William Penn highway as far as Englewood, N. J., passing through the coal region at the time of the coal crisis.

HAMPSON CLAIMS ROSSOLL CAR CUT IN ON HIM

Frank Hampson of Baltic whose automobile was in an accident Sunday afternoon on the Occum road in which the machine of Charles Rossoll of 81 Baltic street was involved stated Monday afternoon that it was a case of cutting in on the part of Rossoll that was to blame.

Mr. Hampson declared that the two cars were both going toward Occum and had been passed by another car going in the same direction. Then the Rossoll car started to pass him, he said, and two boys on bicycles were coming from the opposite direction. In order to avoid hitting one of these bicycles he, claimed that Rossoll cut in short in front of him, and in doing so struck Hampson's left forward hub, which caused the Hampson car to swerve off the road to the right and go through the fence.

In making his report on the accident Mr. Rossoll has denied that he cut in on the Hampson car because of the bicycle.

BASEBALL DOPESTERS HAVE VARIOUS IDEAS ABOUT STRENGTH OF CONTENDERS

New York, Oct. 8—(By the A. P.)—The respective chances of the Giants and Yankees in their third world series are being discussed tonight by the usual vanguard of players, writers and fans, come from the thousand and one baseball corners of the continent.

Everyone has a different opinion regarding the whys and wherefores of the weaknesses and strong points of the teams but the general idea seems to be that as in the previous two series, all the dope will be turned upside down.

The Yankees, as in 1921 and 1922 have by far the strongest pitching staff on paper. The five regular hurlers on the Huggins' staff, Jones, Pennock, Bush, Hoyt and Shawkey have worked in twice as many complete games as Scott, Nehf, Watson, Bentley, McQuillan and Ryan of the Giants. Yet in 1922 when the same sort of condition obtained, McGraw's pitchers were the best in the series.

It is believed by many that Ruth, the axis about which the Yankee machine revolves, will lead his team mates to their first world title. In 1921 and 1922 Ruth was a stunning disappointment in the series. Without his battering ram the Yankees could not go on. This year, however, Ruth is fresh from the greatest season of his career. A season in which he was the most valuable player of all those in the American league.

The followers of the American league champions have been anxious about Walter Pipp, the first sacker, who injured his ankle in a game at Boston several weeks ago. Pipp, however, joined his team-mates in practice today and while he betrayed a slight limp, was able to get about speedily and with his accustomed ability. Huggins watched him work but would not say whether he would start him in the first game Wednesday. "He looks all right," said Huggins, "but I want to see him work again tomorrow and then have the doctor examine his ankle."

Should Pipp be unable to play Huggins probably will send Ruth to first base and Hendricks to Ruth's place in left. Hendricks is one of the newest of the Yankees but a hard hitter, while Elmer Smith, the veteran upon whom the choice ordinarily would fall has been weak against left handed pitching and Huggins desires all the attacking force he can muster against the Giants. Bob Meusel, Ruth's brother gardner, has recovered fully from his ailments and will play.

McGraw's only injured player is Casey Stengel, who got into last year's series. Should McGraw have to replace Stengel Jimmy O'Connell, the expensive outfielder from the West and Cunningham, another youngster, would be used alternately, according to whether the pitching is lefthanded or right.

There still is some speculation about the opening game pitchers. McGraw, most probably, will call Artie Nehf to start, yet there is talk that John Scott, the hero of the 1922 walkaway, may get this honor. Huggins has Jones and Pennock ready.

The Yankee management announced today that all reserved seats for the first, third and fifth games, to be played in their stadium had been sold. Ed Barrow the Yankee business manager predicted that with fair weather the record receipts for a world's series game would be broken in the opening game. Barrow said he expected the seat sale for the opener to reach $300,000. The greatest receipts recorded for one game were at the last contest in 1922, $135,147.

Rowland Picks Yankees

"I pick the Yankees to beat the Giants in six games."

Thus predicted Clarence Rowland, manager of the world's champion White Sox of 1919 and now a member of the American league umpiring staff, upon his arrival today to attend the world's series.

Billy Evans, one of the two American league arbiters chosen to officiate in the series, declined to put himself on record on the outcome but expressed his opinion that the Yankees' all-star twirling staff might be the deciding factor.

"The Giants were good enough to beat the Reds and I believe they can also take the Yankees into camp," declared August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati club.

MANY YALE ATHLETES UNDER BAN REINSTATED

New Haven, Oct. 8—A score of Yale athletes, who had been under the faculty ban for participation in the student riot of last June, were made eligible today to compete in university athletics, following announcement that the faculty had lifted the disqualification penalties of the men.

Two of last year's freshmen moved over to the varsity eleven today. They are Ben Butterworth, who was end of the freshman team last year, and former star at Exeter. He will be tried at tackle on the varsity. He is the son of Frank S. Butterworth, Yale '96, who was one of Yale's greatest backs. The others are McCoy and Cottle.

Coach Kipnuth, of the swimming team will have the services of Hopkins, Kwal, Choate, Phillips, Madlener, Hoyt and Beck, who were disqualified.

Varsity hockey also will benefit through removal of the ban, Captain O'Hearn can play Eddie Cottle, Ken Ives, Jack Gillespie and Ben Cutler, stars of last year's freshman team.

In a scrimmage with the scrubs eleven today, Scott, substitute on the varsity, was injured.

FIRPO PLEADS FOR RETURN OF APPLICATION

New York, Oct. 8—There were no tears in the eyes of Luis Angel Firpo when he was knocked out by Jack Dempsey, but the keen black eyes of the South American heavyweight were moist today when he pleaded for return of papers in which he had proclaimed his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States.

Merton E. Sturges, chief naturalization examiner, and County Clerk Donegan ruled that the paper must stand on record, but agreed to give the pugilist a letter certifying their belief that he signed his application under misapprehension.

Accompanied by Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, and a lawyer, Firpo appeared before the officials and told them that he never had dreamed of deserting his beloved native land; that he still was a loyal Argentine, and that he believed he had applied for a certificate such as he said was issued in Venesuela and other countries to foreigners touring a strange land.

MURPHY DRIVES THREE WINNERS IN GRAND CIRCUIT EVENTS AT LEXINGTON

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 8—(By the A. P.)—Close finishes, split heat contests and the success of the Murphy stable were the features of today's grand circuit card. Mrs. Yerkes won the Ashland and Merriman won the Phoenix Events, both driven by Murphy but not until after each had lost a heat. Merriman made a break in the first heat which went to Johnny Quirk, but paced the next two in 2:01 1-2 each. Mrs. Yerkes won the Ashland event after battling second to Bogalusa driven by Owner Candler in the opening heat. W. N. Reynolds, president of the Reynolds Tobacco Company, owner of Mrs. Yerkes, arrived in time to see his mare win. The 2:05 pace was unfinished, Murphy having a heat with Peter Etawah and Henry Thomas one with Miss Marie. The opening race, the 2:13 trot, was comparatively easy for The Consequence.

SECOND PLACE MONEY FOR TWENTY-SEVEN TIGERS

Detroit, Oct. 8—Twenty-seven Tigers will divide second place money in the American league, it was announced today at headquarters of the local American league club, George Cutshaw, although out of the game most of the season through illness, will receive a full share, as will Earl Whitehall, Birmingham, pitcher, who joined the club late in the season but pitched a two-hit victory over the Cleveland Indians in the last series with the tribe.

In addition to the players, the club trainer and club secretary each have been voted a full share.

TWO R. I. STATERS BARRED FROM FOOTBALL

Providence, R. I. Oct. 8. Fullback McIntosh and Halfback Patterson of the Rhode Island State college football team today were barred by Coach Frank Keaney from further participation in athletics at the college after they admitted that they had played for financial remuneration in a game between Narragansett Pier and East Greenwich semi-professional teams yesterday. They offered no other defence than ignorances of the amateur code. President Howard Edwards confirmed the coach's action.

LUQUE LOSES FIRST GAME WITH HAVANA

Havana, Oct. 8—Adolfo Luque pitching his first game of the season for the Havana team today, lost to the Almendares nine, with Oscar Tuero of the Atlanta Southern Association club doing the twirling. The score was Almendares 4, Havana 2.

Almendares made eight hits off Luque, while Havana was able to get only five off Tuero. Luque is manager of the Havana team.

Brunswick, Me., Oct. 8.—A schedule of 18 games was announced tonight for the Bowdoin college baseball team. The dates include March 29, Navy at Annapolis; 31, Georgetown at Washington, D. C., April 1 Columbia at New York; 2, Princeton at Princeton; 3, New York Athletic club at New York (pending); 5, Army at West Point; May 6, Wesleyan at Middletown Conn.; 7, Harvard at Cambridge; 8, Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst; 9, Brown at Providence.

St. Patrick's School Wins Opener

On Friday afternoon St. Patrick's school opened their season with a victory, their victim being Broadway School. The game was well played by both teams as told by the score. The feature of the game was the 50 yard dash of Berghinzo who made the lone score of the game. Gene Sullivan the hard tackling end also featured with his playing as did D. Courboin. Mingo and Burns, J. Hendricks was referee.

Score by quarters:
B. G. S.—0 0 0 0.

Untidy Out of It.

New York, Oct. 8.—Untidy, second alternate for the $100,000 international race against Papyrus, has broken down and will not be available as a substitute for Zev or Mad Play, Scott Harlan, Untidy's trainer, said tonight. He attributed Untidy's loss of the Kentucky Special, at Latonia last Saturday, to that condition.

Jones-Walker Bout Stopped.

New York, Oct. 8.—The bout between Jimmy Jones, recognized in New York state as a welterweight champion of the world, and Mickey Walker, generally conceded that honor in states other than New York, was ordered stopped tonight, at the end of the ninth round by Chief Boxing Inspector Adams.

The spectators, officially numbered at 22,000 evidenced dissatisfaction with the way in which the fight was progressing before many rounds had passed. Jeers and cries of "stalling" were soon heard and by the time the seventh and eighth rounds were reached many were leaving.

After the fight had been stopped Walker said that his hands were both in bad shape and that every time he struck a blow it hurt him.

Boxing Inspector Adams asserted that Walker should not have gone into the ring with his hands in that condition and that all the proceeds from the fight would go to charity.

Jones had nothing to say.

No decision was given. The official reason for stopping the bout as given by Inspector Adams was that neither of the fighters was trying to make a real effort.

Walker was one pound overweight when the two welterweights weighed in at the Broad Athletic club this afternoon. They had a $5,000 forfeit posted to weigh in at 147 pounds at three o'clock today. Walker weighed in first but Jones refused to claim the $5,000. When Jones weighed in it was found he was only 146¾ pounds.

The fight, it was said drew the largest crowd that ever forced its way into a Newark fight arena. The advance sale alone netted close to $25,000, according to the managers of the club. The proceeds of the fight will be devoted to the erection of a home for crippled children by the Elks of Elizabeth, N. J., Walker's home town.

The bout originally was slated for last Monday night, but was postponed until tonight, due to an injurey to Walker's hand. It was believed this would be sufficiently recovered by tonight, but when the fighter entered the ring he found that the week's time had done but little good. Both hands were heavily bandaged.

The crowd booted both fighters as they left the ring, but most of the noise seemed to be directed at Walker.

Maturo Beats McCoy

Richmond, Va., Oct. 8.—James Maturo, of Brooklyn, N. Y., defeated James E. McCoy of Richmond, in the opening matches here today and tonight of the National pocket billiard league, by a score of 200 to 105. Maturo took the afternon block 100 to 67 and won the night match 100 to 38.

Stribbling to Fight Burns.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 8.—"Pa" Stribling, father-manager of W. L. Stribling, announced tonight that "Young" Stribling, will fight Tommy Burns, in Detroit, October 15, 12 rounds to no decision.

Barbarian Beats Meyers.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Sid Barbarian of Detroit, decisively outpointed Teddy Meyers, of Buffalo, here tonight in a 12-round bout. The men are lightweights.

Curtain-Zivic Bout Off

Newark, N. J., Oct. 8—Owing to a minor ailment suffered by Johnny Curtain, his bout with Pete Zivic of Pittsburgh which was to take place tomorrow night, has been postponed to October 16, it was announced by officials of the Pioneer A. C.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The Three-Eye league ended its season with six clubs above the .500 mark.

Seven stakes with an aggregate value of over $100,000 will be run at the coming fall meeting at Latonia.

The Pacific Coast league fans are again being entertained with a thrilling last lap in the race for the pennant.

After sixteen years in the Three-Eye league the Decatur team captured its first championship pennant this season.

Cricket is one of the most popular games in the British Isles, but it is "followed" chiefly by newspaper. A crowd of 20,000 is uncommon at a cricket match, though occasionally a championship contest will draw 25,000.

Coursing is rapidly growing in favor in many sections of America, but it does not yet approach the degree of popularity it enjoys in England, where something like $2,500,000 is spent on the sport in a single season.

Champion Jack Dempsey's victory over Firpo seems to have put the skids under the jinx which of late has pursued the pugilistic titleholders. Within the past twelve months one world's championship after another has changed hands, including the flyweight, bantamweight, featherweight, welterweight, and light heavyweight. Heavyweight Champion Dempsey and lightweight Champion Benny Leonard alone have been able to retain their seats on the throne.

PLAINFIELD

The membership drive conducted by the Community association the past week for new members closed Saturday with a supper for the teams and a dance for the membership. The drive was a success, the hard working teams going over the top, securing three hundred and forty-three new members, the goal being set at a quota of three hundred. The team to win the first prize of three ten dollar gold pieces was Lester Salisbury, Lee Raney, Howard Nolan, securing 114 1-3 members. The team to take the second prize of $15 in gold was composed of Edward King, Miss Joan Kirby, Louis Colburn, 86 2-3 members. The third prize was won by the team, George Wilson, Joseph Clombe, Albert Hassler, 38 2-3 members. As three junior members only counted as one in the contest, the membership of the Community association is now over 1000, there being over six hundred members before the drive. The drive represents wonderful success and splendid team work, especially in securing out of town members. The work was brought to a conclusion in a field day Saturday at the Community house and grounds. The afternoon opened with a track meet at 2 o'clock, swimming contest from 3 to 4, and bowling tournament at 4, prize in bowling won by Lillian Kelley and Harry Baldwin. There were nine running and seven swimming events. All the prizes were won after strenuous contests and the rewards were generously given by the merchants of Plainfield. The leaders of the association are enthusiastic over the outcome of the week's drive.

Edwin Murphy of Lowell, Mass., and Donald Brigham of Boston were in town Saturday attending the field day and the dance.

Chester A. Neilsen, of the high school teachers, spent the week-end with his people in Gloucester, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Dean have returned from their wedding trip.

Word was received Sunday by Mrs. Edward King and Mrs. Francis Baxter of the death of Mrs. Florence Scott, mother of Mrs. Robert R. Weste who died Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Oerlees at Wrentham, Mass., after an illness of ten days. Mrs. Scott often visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. West when they lived in Plainfield and many friends here are saddened at the passing of this delightful woman who was visiting here only two weeks ago last Sunday.

Raymond A. Douglas of Boston is setting up the new pipe organ at the Congregational church.

There was a large attendance at the Congregational church Sunday morning. The Sunday school members marched in, the smaller children carrying little flags and the Boy Scouts bearing their flag, and they occupied reserved seats. There were children in line of only two years of age who sat through the short service and listened to the special sermon prepared by the pastor. At the noon hour, Cecil L. Butler and Clarence W. Jeffers, superintendents, conducted the service of the Sunday school when there was a general promotion in classes. In the evening, Amanson Pierce of Danielson gave an interesting address at a special service in charge of the pastor and superintendent of the church school.

The pastor's cabinet is to meet tonight (Tuesday) in the Benedict library.

WEST KINGSTON

The wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. Kenyon, also the doctor's birthday, was Sept. 28th. The children gave their parents a surprise party. They invited relatives and a few close friends to spend the evening with the doctor and Mrs. Kenyon. During the evening their son Amos, in behalf of the company, presented his parents a mahogany case of flat silverware, Bird of Paradise pattern, and a morocco traveling bag. Mrs. F. K. Crandall (Susie Kenyon), daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenyon, presented the large birthday cake with lighted candles.

P. R. Money is working at the fair grounds, giving them a general fall cleaning.

Dr. Webster and son Samuel visited relatives here Sunday afternoon.

A few from here attended the Valley fair.

The W. C. T. U. met Wednesday at the church.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS SPECULATIVE.

New York, Oct. 8.—Prices lost ground in today's relatively active stock market. Heavy bear selling of speculative industrial shares, which registered net losses of one to nearly four points, brought to a halt a promising upward movement in railroad shares, many of which advanced one to two points before yielding to the general selling pressure.

The buying of railroad shares was based not only on high current earnings but on speculative expectations of some favorable merger and dividend developments in some of the leading shares. Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago and Alton preferred established new high records for the year in the first few minutes of trading. Substantial net gains also were registered by Reading Lehigh Valley, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna and Wabash preferred "A," but these were cancelled or materially reduced before the close.

Late heaviness of the rails was generally regarded as sympathetic with the weakness of industrials, but the outline of proposed rail legislation by the congressional farm bloc at the December session also had a bearish effect on sentiment.

Weakness of American Woolen, which dropped more than three points below $70 to a new low record for the year, was construed as a lack of speculative confidence in the company's ability to maintain the $7 dividend. Baldwin and Studebaker also sustained sinking spells, the former closing 2 7-8 points lower at 115 3-4 and the latter showing a net loss of 1 3-4 at 95 3-8. Davison Chemical dropped nearly four points to 45 1-8 and Dupont was off 3 3-8 at 125.

Pan-American oil issues were depressed on publication of a report that the Standard Oil of New Jersey had abandoned selling in Aguada, but the net losses were held to fractions. Cosden closed more than a point lower.

Uneasiness over the reduction in steel production was held responsible for the weakness of the steel shares. United States Steel common dropping a point to 87 1-8 and Gulf States Steel dropping nearly three points to 76 1-8. Jones Bros. Tea, which had been under pressure recently on reports of unsatisfactory earnings, touched another new low at 25 1-2.

Strength of Marine preferred, which closed a point higher at 24, was associated with a report that the company was bringing suit for alleged violation of an agreement by the United States government to purchase ships during the war. American Smelting crossed 59 on publication of the semi-annual report showing net earnings for the period of $5.48 a share, but it reacted later, closing at a small fractional loss.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent., advanced to 5 and thence 5 1-2. The time money market was quiet. Some 30 day loans were made at 5 1-4 but the bulk of the business was for 90 days at 5 1-2.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet but firm. Demand sterling advanced 5-8 of a cent to $4.55 1-2 and French francs gained nearly 10 points at 5.99 1-4 cents. German marks were back at 12 cents a hundred million.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Wheat today outdid the season's previous high price record for May and July delivery. Buying power appeared to come largely from the east and to be associated with continued talk about government measures for agricultural relief. The market closed unsettled, 1-8 to 3-4c net higher, December 110 to 110 1-8 and May 112 3-4 to 113 7-8. Corn finished 1-8@1-4 to 1-2c lower, oats at 3-8c off to 1-4c up, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 17 cents advance.

With a conference in session here today at which representatives of President Coolidge were present and farm aid plans were discussed, wheat showed an upward tendency as soon as trading began. Commission houses had liberal orders to buy, and although setbacks in price were numerous the market was at a decidedly higher level most of the day. The fact that the top quotations failed to hold in the late trading was ascribed chiefly to profit taking. However, gossip that exporters were cancelling purchases tended also to ease the market.

It was estimated that 480,000 to 560,000 bushels of wheat that had recently been bought for shipment to Europe was sold back today at below replacement cost. Another incentive to profit taking on today's upturn was gossip that definite results would be attained from the wheat conference here until after conferences elsewhere took place.

No. 2 yellow and No. 2 white corn available for spot delivery rose to 105 a bushel a new high for the season. On the other hand, favorable weather eased down the future deliveries of corn and oats.

Nearly all the provision list was lower in line with hogs.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 8.—Activity and strength of railroad mortgages, particularly the low priced issues, continued today to be the outstanding feature of the trading in bonds. Prices in other parts of the list improved somewhat under the stimulus of the railroad rally.

Rumors of a merger of the Chicago and Alton and Wabash railroads brought some speculative buying of those issues, while fractional advances were recorded by a sizable number of other railroad issues.

A fairly brisk demand for oil company liens resulted in slight advances in several such issues, while unofficial statements published today to the effect that tire companies were in a good cash position, despite lower tire prices, carried some of the tire company issues up fractionally. Utility company liens were slightly reactionary.

Aside from further depression of the first Liberty 4 1-4s, active United States government bonds held relatively steady. There was some buying of European bonds during the forenoon but mostly foreign issues sagged in dull trading.

Public offering will be made tomorrow by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. and the First National bank of $3,625,000 one to 15 year 5 per cent. equipment trust certificates of the Great Northern Railroad company at prices to yield 5.20 to 5.50 per cent., according to maturity. The issue represents about 75 per cent. of the value of equipment purchased, the road putting up 25 per cent. cash.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 8.—Net changes in today's curb market were rather small. Opening prices displayed a divided trend, oil shares being depressed while buying support was forthcoming for numerous industrials. Later trading evened up prices, with the result that closing prices, for the most part, were close to Saturday's final figures.

Standard Oil of New York closed fractionally lower on the day and more than a point below the high for the day. This was true also of Standard of Indiana. Prairie Oil & Gas declined 5 points while Magnolia Petroleum closed 1 point higher but 5 points below its high point of the day.

After rallying briefly at the start, industrials generally sold off. Glen Alden coal moved a point lower, while Reading coal rights, up fractionally, held part of its early gain. Gillette Safety Razor was sold freely, losing 2 points. Motors eased slightly.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH AND VICINITY

As the cold weather approaches local contractors are speeding up the work on local buildings now in hand and during the past week no little progress has been made along building lines in Norwich. The most notable progress has been made at the Palace theatre where work has been going on at top speed during the past two weeks. The painters, decorators and men engaged in the finishing of the interior have been working overtime to complete the theatre in time for the opening the latter part of the month.

Other projects have been brought along as fast as possible and many have been completed within the past few weeks. At the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., the exterior work on the new addition to the plant has been completed and the work of erecting the large chimney is being done and will be completed within a short time.

At the office of Fire Marshall Howard L. Stanton during the past week there has been a falling off in the number of permits issued for new buildings. Several permits for smaller buildings were issued.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

There were 20 sales of real estate in Norwich last week as compared to 16 sales for the corresponding week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $37,510 and $37,500.

In New London, there were 9 sales of real estate during the past week as compared to 6 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $13,270 and $30,100.

The State Situation

The statistics of building permits issued in the larger Connecticut centers as reported by the Commercial Record show the same increase in the number of permits granted, but for a smaller volume of construction. The 336 permits recorded for the week in these towns compare with 283 permits a year ago and 200 in the year 1921, the cost of buildings being $713,-936 for last week, against $540,128 last year, and $604,939 in the year 1921.

NEW LONDON

The annual report of Building Inspector B. R. Linicus for the fiscal year ended September 30 shows a total of 365 permits issued providing for buildings estimated to cost $779,625. It is further shown that permits were issued for 49 commercial and industrial operations to cost approximately $360,000. Other subdivisions are given showing permits for 88 dwellings to cost $468,150; 123 garages costing $36,000 and 91 additions and alterations at a total cost of $60,975.

The contract has been awarded for the erection of an addition to the foundry of the Atwood Machine Co., Stonington. The addition will be 30x 31 feet, two stories high, of concrete and brick construction. There will be reinforced concrete floors and steel beams and trusses. Work has been started.

Applications for Building Permits

Joseph Perrone, garage, 42 Summer St., $700.

Jane A. Fuller, garage, South Ledyard St., $500.

David Seamon, garage, Pucquennock Bridge, $800.

David Wyatt, garage, 26 Avery St., $600.

Walter Talbott, garage, Willetta Ave., $500.

Parquet Bakery Co., bakery building, Bank St., $1,500.

Mrs. T. J. Moray, alterations, Washington St., $1,000.

C. H. Kilbick Est., alterations, 171 Bank St., $300.

Number of permits issued for the week 9. Estimated cost of buildings $5,900.

POETRY

FOREWARNING.

October, fold your golden arms about us
And let me lie on some moss-covered hill
Where color and the Autumn hue exalts me;
You swept my heart and fingers fast along
The joy of life blew sweet on every breeze!

Now—gleaming tores of high, distilled yellow
Silently echo the slim beechwood's bow
That flows against a sky of burning blue
Melting to tenderness where hills blur mellow.

Dull, drowsy sriskets drone their hillsides;
While underneath deep visions of content
Prick thoughts of that harsh season imminent;
October, bittersweet! Death's warm flesh—pulse!
—Katharine Sawin Oakes, in Boston Transcript.

THE POACHER.

Crisp is the sweet October air!
Craftily hid in a ferny lair
A gypsy lurks for quail and hare.
As faithless wardens sleep.
Sad red spots on a furry pelt,
Hanging limp at a rascal's belt,
Slender paw with a cruel weft,
Where a gin has bitten deep.

Rustle of leaves at a lurcher's tread,
Slinking soft where a Romany had,
Baiting the moss where the spoons lay bled.
Scolded by rook and daw.
Sinister master, sinister hound,
Stealthily making the sinister round
Of hidden snares on forbidden ground
By thicket and heron-shaw.

With eye, and head, and heart of a Chief,
Man and mongrel, o'er pebble and leaf
Shamble swift for night is brief.
And stern in woodland law.
In the smiling land each honest hand
Is an enemy's clenched at the swarthy band
That ravage the wood and the sand, and the sand
Like the laggard that hangs in the haw.
—Leon D'Emo, in Judge.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

An area of high pressure of great magnitude has remained almost stationary over the eastern half of the country for several days. The temperature has risen in the central plains states and it has fallen in the southern plateau region. Elsewhere it has not changed materially.

The weather will remain fair, without material change in temperature in the Atlantic states.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Gentle to moderate northwest and north, and weather fair Tuesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate northerly, and weather fair Tuesday.

Forecast.

For Southern New England: Fair Tuesday and Wednesday; continued cool.

Observations in Norwich.

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and the barometric changes Monday:

Six hours after high water it is low water, which is followed by flood tide.

Engagement Announced.

On Monday evening Miss Theresa Saunders entertained a number of friends at her home at 97 School street and the engagement of Miss Katherine Malady and Leo Casavant was announced. A silver service set was presented to Miss Malady. Games made the evening pass pleasantly and refreshments were served.

How to Shed Aged or Unsightly Complexion

We cannot restore degenerated facial tissue any more than we can restore a lost limb. It is useless to attempt to convert a worn-out complexion into a new one. The rational procedure is to remove the complexion instead—remove the devitalized cuticle. Not by surgical means, however, as the underlying cutis is too thin, too tender, to withstand immediate exposure. Applying ordinary mercolized wax will gradually absorb the offending cuticle. By degrees, a new, youthful skin appears; a skin soft and delicately tinted as a rose petal.

No lady need hesitate to try this. Prepare an ounce of mercolised wax of your druggist. Spread on a thin layer before retiring, removing in the morning with soap and water. Soon the old complexion will have vanished.

ELEVEN GET BONDS BUT TWO IN JAIL AFTER JEWETT CITY RAIDS

Thirteen Jewett City people were before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the criminal superior court in this city Monday morning after their arrest in Jewett City on bench warrants Sunday, charged with violation of the liquor law. Twelve of them had spent the night locked up at Norwich police headquarters and the thirteenth, Dominick Lezese, was brought into court Monday morning.

State policemen with County Detective Lewis, who conducted the raids in Jewett City under orders from the state attorney's office, presented the accused persons in court and after Albert Preniads and Joseph Soiski had pleaded not guilty to the reputation clause and to a count alleging sale of liquor, Judge Brown directed that pleas of not guilty be entered for all. The cases went over to the January term of the criminal court and bonds were set at $1,500 in each case.

All but Albert Preniads, Dominick Lezese and Athios Dimitris were able to furnish bonds that were accepted by Clerk George E. Parsons. These three went to jail here, but Lezese later furnished bonds and was released.

After Judge Brown had set the bonds, the court session adjourned until further order of court.

Those who were presented, with the results of the raids, were the following:

Carolina Babarowski of North Main street; small amount of evidence.

Albert Preniads, North Main street; no evidence found; arrested on previous evidence.

Edward Gomes, Anthony street; home brew beer.

Athios Dimitris, Soule street; small amount of evidence.

Joseph Ciellis, Railroad square; small amount of liquor.

Joseph Ledecker, Mechanic street; 70 gallons raisin wine.

Steve Nofal, 79 North Main street; small amount of evidence.

Barbara Maleka, State street; small amount of liquor.

Joseph Polinski, Oak street; small amount of evidence.

Dominick and Mary Lezese, Green street; large amount of evidence.

Josephine Cholewa, North Main street.

Joseph Soiski, Phillips street; small amount of evidence.

BOYS DAMAGE FOUNTAIN ON THE LITTLE PLAIN

For fourteen years the bubble fountain on the Little Plain has been a useful memorial and the pride of its donors, Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R. Now mischievous boys have broken the bubbler and the pipe, so that the street department is to cover the fountain for the winter, depriving many persons of its use.

Home From Motor Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mabrey and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Will Starr have returned to New London, after ten days motor trip in Mr. Mabrey's car, in Vermont and New Hampshire.

BROTHERHOOD HOLDS ITS OPENING SEASON MEETING

With a good sized attendance, the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church held its opening meeting of the fall season at the Community house Monday evening. Supper was served at 6.30 o'clock by the women of the church, after which the business meeting was called to order by President W. F. Lester. Two applications for membership were favorably acted upon and reports of officers and committees were accepted.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, whose topic was Flaming Spirits. In his talk Rev. Mr. Ricketts stressed three special points. The first was Faith. We ought to have faith to believe that we can do something that is worthy of ourselves, said the speaker. Every man ought to be ashamed of himself if he hasn't faith in himself.

The second point brought out was Enthusiasm. Enthusiasm, the speaker said, is that quality of a thing that has the "go" in it. There are some communities that frown on enthusiasm as undignified. Where there is enthusiasm there is always something that counts. Nothing will kill a flaming spirit more than selfishness.

In conclusion, Rev. Mr. Ricketts said: We want more of the spirit of daring. We need more men and women who dare to do new things as the disciples of Jesus Christ dared to take up the gospel of Christ.

Rev. Mr. Ricketts was given a rising vote of appreciation for his splendid talk, and the meeting adjourned a few minutes before 8 o'clock.

CITY COURT SESSION EXTENDED INTO AFTERNOON

A long docket in the city court Monday sent the session over to about 3 o'clock in the afternoon before the last case was disposed of.

Harris Poulos was found guilty of running a gambling place at 19 Main street, where he conducts a pool room. He was fined $50 and costs, $62.50, which he paid. Nolles were entered in the case of two men arrested at the place and four men were each fined $10 and costs which they paid.

Peter Coombs of Forest street was found guilty of violation of the liquor law and was fined $200 and costs and given a jail sentence of 30 days. He appealed to the superior court and furnished a bond.

Mary and Casmer Safeski of North Main street, husband and wife, were found guilty of violation of the liquor law. They each took an appeal from sentences of 15 days in jail and $200 fine and costs. Nolles were entered on three men found at their house and accused of frequenting a disorderly house.

A Yantic man paid a fine of $5 and costs for keeping an unlicensed dog.

Ten men paid fines and costs on intoxication and breach of the peace charges.

REV. BROWNELL GAGE NAMED PROVOST OF YALE-IN-CHINA

As announced by telegraph at the week end, Dr. Edward H. Hume, '97, has been chosen president of Yale-in-China and Rev. Brownell Gage, '98, Provost, by the trustees, an announcement by the Yale University secretary's office states.

Dr. Hume becomes the first president of the institution as heretofore the highest administrative office has been trustees of the governing board. Dr. Hume, after graduation in medicine from Johns Hopkins in 1901 went to India and practiced there. When Yale-in-China was established in 1904, Dr. Hume became head of medical work. It was through his efforts after years of notable success that he secured a modern hospital building, the gift of Yale classmates.

Rev. Mr. Gage, after study at Union Theological Seminary, was a pioneer in work at Changsha, and has been chairman of the governing board since 1905, when development of the institution began. Mr. Gage married Helen Howe, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Howe, of Norwich and many friends in this city are interested in the announcement of his newest honors.

NORWICH AUTO DEALERS HAVE ELECTED OFFICERS

At a meeting and luncheon of the Norwich Automobile Dealers' association held at the Wauregan hotel, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. S. Williams; vice president, W. F. Bailey; treasurer, Julian L. Williams; secretary, Frank Rinella.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one and many plans were discussed to enhance the safety and pleasure of motor car drivers, a committee on signs having been named comprising W. S. Williams, W. R. Frisbie, J. L. Williams and Frank Rinella to look into the needs of safe guidance.

A delegation will leave today (Monday) to attend the annual meeting of the state association at Hartford.

Appointed by Governor.

Thomas Morrison, an employe at the Norwich state hospital for the insane, has received an appointment as police officer from Governor Charles A. Templeton.

The flower committee was Mrs. Fred Fox, Mrs. Lyman Whiting, Miss Helen Hayes, Miss Florence Tilly, who distributed the flowers to the sick and shut-ins.

NO DISAPPOINTMENTS IN APPOINTMENTS

If you are a Salesman or a Buyer, why gamble valuable time and the cost of railroad fares that the party you wish to see will be in when you call on him?

The high cost of personal interviews is materially reduced and many more calls can be made per day if you make definite appointments by TOLL LINE. You won't have to wait or make other trips to see your party.

Avoiding disappointments by making appointments by TOLL LINE is one of the most profitable uses a traveler can make of the telephone.

NEW LONDON COURT DEALS WITH JEWETT CITY MAN OF TWO WIVES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 8.—Miss Josephine Terris of Mill street, who was struck by a section of a cylinder head, when the metal object blew out of an engine of the New Haven railroad at the Hallam street crossing, several weeks ago, sustaining a fractured collarbone and concussion of the brain, was able to leave Lawrence hospital today and return home.

In the court of common pleas in New London this morning, Judge Charles B. Waller revoked the suspended sixty days' jail sentence, imposed recently in the superior court for violation of the liquor law on Francis McManus, a former New London saloonkeeper. McManus, who will have completed a jail sentence of thirty days for violation of the liquor law, and will then start serving the extra sixty days, until a few weeks ago was proprietor of the saloon at the corner of Harrison and Winthrop streets. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to sixty days in jail, but the execution of the sentence was suspended. In September McManus was arrested by Sergeant Hick and Patrolman Philopena for selling liquor at the Winthrop and Harrison streets saloon. He was taken to Norwich on a bench warrant and when presented before Judge Allyn L. Brown pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and sentenced to thirty days in jail.

William Shafer, Jr., of Stonington was before the court, charged with violation of the liquor law, for selling and reputation in Stonington, June 23d. Shafer was fined $100 on each count and was sentenced to 15 days in jail on the first count. The sentence is the same as that imposed in Stonington town court.

The tailoring establishment of Samuel Bronstein, 97 Green street, was burglarized Sunday night and three suits of clothes, two overcoats and a pair of trousers were stolen, all of the plunder being garments that had been left at the place to be repaired. Entrance to the store was gained by the crook removing a wire screen from a side window, which was open and made ingress to the store an easy matter.

Mrs. Frank Casey of Montauk avenue, Mrs. John Pixton and infant son, Williams street; Mrs. Orville W. Colby and infant daughter, Montauk avenue, Mrs. Clarence Beebe, East Lyme; Mrs. Ernest Saunders and infant son, Niantic; Stewart Joyce, Boston; Mrs. Ida Johns, Groton; Mrs. Henry Clay Fenger; Granite street, and Mrs. Sarah Banks of Clarke Lane, were patients discharged at Lawrence hospital today.

Harry Titus has acquired from Thomas H. Sisk a house at the corner of Montauk and Willetta avenues.

Herbert E. Eldredge of this city and Miss Gertrude H. Stuart, 61 Willetta avenue, were married Saturday afternoon by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, at the home of the bride.

J. D. Robinson of New London and Miss Lillian Kuester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reinholdt Kuester of Groton, were married this morning at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The ceremony was witnessed by relatives.

Mrs. Frances Wedecki, 38, wife of John Wedecki, died Sunday night at her home, 51 Eastern avenue. Mrs. Wadecki was a native of Poland, and besides her husband, is survived by a child.

The funeral of Merlin James Emery, little son of Mr. and Mrs. James Emery, whose death occurred last week from infantile paralysis, was held Sunday afternoon at the home of the child's parents, Thames street, Groton. Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church, conducted the services. The bearers were Morgan Wheaton, Harold Stitt, Merle Henderson, Stanley Wheaton, George DeCosta and Howard Doyle. Burial was in Groton cemetery.

Aksel Mingo, 23, stationed at the United States Coast Guard Academy, Fort Trumbull, was discharged Saturday at Lawrence hospital, where he had been under treatment several days for a knife wound sustained on the night of Sept. 18, in a mysterious manner. Mingo refused to reveal how he received the wound. There was a probe at the academy immediately following Mingo's return there. The inquiry was made by a board appointed for that purpose by the war department. The findings have been forwarded to Washington, but their nature has not been revealed. Mingo appeared at the quarters of one of the officers on the night of Sept. 18th for treatment for the wound, but refused to reveal in what manner he received it. Mingo was on liberty, the night of the assault, but was not supposed to be outside the reservation. However, it is understood that Mingo did leave the post, and that he was attacked and cut within a short distance of the entrance to the military station.

Jake Sadusky, for a long time living with his second wife at Jewett City, is to be compelled to support his first wife, Mary, by whom he has several children, to the extent of $8 a week. That is the order of the police court and Jake has complied with it, in so far as he has paid the first week's installment of what he is to pay during the next six months. Jake had four children by Mary and one of them is happily married. Her husband realizes the situation at wife's home, but he cannot relieve it to the extent of paying the money her father owes and does not intend to try to pay it. Jake was arrested when he leaped out of the matrimonial harness and pretended to a woman at Jewett City that he was not obligated to any woman. She believed him and married him and by her Jake is the father of one child. He was arrested for that little bit of infidelity and duplicity and was jailed, but Mary had an affection for him and such confidence in him that she went to the jail and paid the costs that held him there after he had served his sentence to do "time." Jake promised to pay Mary what she advanced to him, but, like other promises he made, he has failed to redeem it. He offered as an excuse for not paying that when he gave Mary his money she got drunk and he would not consent to pay longer. Mary didn't take kindly to that arrangement and she had Jake arrested and today the court passed judgment in his case, ordering him to pay as stated at the outset of this article. Now Mary is saying even harder things about her husband than she has heretofore said and makes accusations that, if true, would bring severe punishment upon him. Probation Officer Mansfield is to try to unsnarl this tangled skein of marital infidelity.

New London's police court started the week with three drunks to discipline. Two of them was given a fine and the other was sent to jail to serve thirty days there. He was shown leniency a week ago, so Judge Prince reminded him of the fact today and banished him from society for a month, beside adding the costs of his trial.

Joe Pozella, proprietor of a meat market and grocery store in Shaw street, was fined $200 by Judge Prince in the police court and sentenced to stay in jail six months. That is the severest penalty that court has yet imposed for violation of the liquor law. He appealed to the common pleas court and furnished a bond of $1200 to appear there when wanted. Morgan Rogers became the surety on his bond. Joe was detected by Sergeant Hick and Patrolman Philopena. They took along Prohibition Agents Avery and Fitzpatrick, when they went after Joseph, the 28th of September. The officers had a search warrant for Walter Church, an employer of laborers, had told the officers that men he had been accustomer to hire were not obtainable because they resorted at the Pozella place and drank so much that they would not work.

The officers found only what would make a couple of drinks of white mule in the place, but the court held that that was sufficient to disclose the character of the place. Empty cans and bottles had the odor of alcohol, but Joe declared that the vessels found were those that had been secured by him to hold vinegar. Then he said he had them a long time but had not used them for vinegar. The white mule, the couple of drinks or so, he declared he had for his own use only and he said very solemnly that he never sold any liquor to anybody. The court apparently took the testimony of Hick, Philopena and Fitzpatrick as the true version rather than that of Pozella. The complaint was that Pozella held and owned liquor with intent to sell it and on that allegation Joe was convicted.

GERMANY MAKES OFFICIAL OVERTURES TO FRANCE AND BELGIUM FOR NEGOTIATIONS

Representatives in Paris and Brussels Have Been Instructed to Ask the Allied Governments Whether They Are Ready to Confer With the German Government for the Resumption of Work in the Occupied Territories—When Replies Are Received the Government Will Define Its Attitude Toward the Demands of German Industrialists.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—(By the A. P.)—The German government has instructed its representatives at Paris and Brussels officially to ask the French and Belgian governments whether they are ready to enter into negotiations with the German government for the resumption of work in the occupied territories. It is stated that only when replies are received will the government define its attitude toward the German industrialists' demands.

FATE OF STRESEMANN TO BE DECIDED TODAY

Berlin, Oct. 9 (By the A. P.)—The leaders of the coalition parties today sent out telegraphic summonses to absentees from the reichstag sessions to report for Wednesday's sitting, when the fate of Chancellor Stresemann's measure giving the government authorization to deal with the economic and financial situation will be decided on third reading.

As the immediate future of Dr. Stresemann's second coalition government depends on acceptance of the measure and as 211 supporting votes are required for final sanction, the government leaders today decided it was imperative that the coalition parties be represented at tomorrow's session in full strength, as even then the measure would command a majority of only twenty.

RUHR MINERS DECIDE TO FIGHT FOR EIGHT HOUR DAY

Duesseldorf, Oct. 9. —(By the A. P.)—The decision of the Ruhr mining employers association to increase the miners working hours was suspended before it became effective. The suspension is understood to have been due to the intervention of the minister of labor, who hurriedly summoned the Ruhr labor leaders to Berlin for a conference on the general labor situation. The Ruhr leaders left for the capital tonight, expressing their determination to fight tooth and nail for the eight-hour law.

The employers' association had decided that they who have heretofore worked six hours underground and eight hours on the surface, should work eight or nine underground and ten to twelve on the surface.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM TO ADHERE TO THEIR POLICY

Paris, Oct. 9.—(By the A. P.)—The French government thus far is unaware, unofficially of the communication which the German representatives in Brussels and Paris are reported to have been instructed to make, giving notice to the allies that the German government is ready for negotiations with the object of bringing about an early rivival of the economic life of the Ruhr.

The charge d' affaires in Brussels is understood to have delivered his message to the Belgian government, and the absence of Premier Poincare from Paris is thought to account for the failure of a similar move as yet here. It was stated by a foreign official tonight, however, that France and Belgium will adhere to the policy they long ago decided upon, that is that they will not send delegates to the Ruhr to meet representatives of the German government, but will continue their negotiations direct with the Ruhr interests and will wait for the action of the inter-allied reparation commission on any proposition Berlin has to offer.

The foreign office has been expecting to hear from the German government, but anticipated that the communication would refer to the reparations question as a whole instead of being confined to the economic activities in the Ruhr. This question is regarded as the quai d'orsay as being between the French and Belgian governments on one hand, and the industrial and laboring interests in the occupied region on the other, and intervention by the Berlin government is looked upon as unnecessary with respect to the purely interior phases of the problem.

The French and Belgian governments, it was said at the foreign office tonight, are entirely in accord on this point, and any propositions from Berlin will be handed over to the reparation commission for consideration.

The German government long pretended that the passive resistance in the Ruhr was spontaneous, it was said, hence it was only natural that questions concerning cessation of the resistance and the resumption of activities as they existed when the allies' orders were first issued to the coal syndicate and other interests should be treated by the allies with the directly involved parties.

In line with this policy was the agreement signed by the occupation authorities with the Phoenix company and the Rhenische Stahlwerke, two of the most important concerns in the Ruhr valley, whereby the German companies agree to pay the coal tax due since the occupation began and immediately resume deliveries of coal on the reparation account.

JURY ADJOURNED AS WEBB WAITED TO TESTIFY

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Charles Webb will be glad to testify tomorrow or Monday, at the invitation of District Attorney Rowland, before the grand jury which is investigating the death of his wife at the fashionable Westchester-Biltmore country club two weeks ago, his attorney, Colonel Howard Thayer Kingsbury, informed Mr. Rowland this afternoon. Colonel Kingsbury added his client would have no hesitancy in waiving immunity from prosecution.

Unaware that the grand jury had recessed for the day, Mr. Webb came to White Plains this afternoon and waited in an office across the street from the court house while Colonel Kingsbury told Mr. Rowland his client was ready to face the jurymen and answer the innuendoes of friends of Mrs. Webb who already had testified. The grand jury had decided to continue hearing evidence after listening to the report yesterday of Dr. Alexander O. Goettler, toxicologist, who examined vital organs from Mrs. Webb's body. The report was understood to have stated less than one-twentieth of enough poison to have caused death was found in the dead woman's organs.

OBJECTS TO BANKS IN THE FIRE INSURANCE BUSINESS

New York, Oct. 9.—The "pernicious practice" of certain banks engaging in the fire insurance business amounts to a national scandal, Fire Chief John Kenlon of New York today told the international fire prevention congress.

Contending that the action of banks making loans on merchandise by accepting fire insurance policies as collateral, frequently drove the borrower to burn his stock in order to pay off the loan, the veteran firefighter asserted:

"All the millions spent on corrective fire prevention orders, the enormous amount expended for salaries of fire prevention engineers and inspectors, have been reduced practically nil, because of the growth of arson, fostered by over-insurance and wildcat pernicious banking. It is time to call a halt."

CLERGYMAN IS CHARGED WITH GRAND LARCENY

New York, Oct. 9.—The Rev. Paul S. Reinicke, for 11 years pastor of the New Apostolic church, today was held in $5,000 bail for examination tomorrow charged with grand larceny by Mrs. Anna Block who said he failed to return to her $3,000 she had given him in December 1920 for investment through the Church Extension fund.

Mrs. Block's lawyer was accompanied to court by eleven other church members who alleged they had confided $30,000 to the pastor and received in return only worthless stocks.

DISCOVERY OF FASCISTI PLOT IN RUMANIA

Bucharest, Oct. 9 (By the A. P.)—The Rumanian government announces the discovery of a fascisti plot for the assassination of the premier and five of the government ministers today.

There have been many arrests.

ANOTHER "STAR" WITNESS IN STOKES DIVORCE TRIAL

New York, Oct. 9.—Another "star" witness was produced today by Attorneys for W. E. D. Stokes in the re-trial before supreme court Justice Mahoney of the divorce action against his wife that has been progressing through various courts for five years.

Today' chief witness was Miss Emma C. Goodwin, the unwilling witness of the wealthy hotel owner in his first trial, who protested today as she did two years ago that she does "not follow divorce cases in the newspapers" and desired to be excused as quickly as possible. It was she who testified two years ago that she saw Mrs. Stokes in the building where Edgar T. Wallace, the chief co-respondent, had his 'apartment for parties."

Miss Goodwin repeated her testimony of the previous trial that he has seen Mrs. Stokes in the apartment building where she had a corset and lingerie shop and where Wallace had his apartment. Mr. Stokes' counsel has told the jury that if it is proved that Mrs. Stokes was in Wallace's apartment she must be deemed guilty of misconduct and a divorce be granted.

EIGHT MORE POLICE FOR GROTON BARRACKS

Hartford, Oct. 9.—Appointment of additional officers to the state police department was announced today by Superintendent Robert T. Hurley. The men have been assigned to the Groton barracks for a period of instruction.

The new appointees received their commissions at the last meeting of the state police commission. They are: Clarence F. Martin, New London; Joseph Kameski, New Britain; George L. Gardner, Central Village; James M. Ennis, jr., Derby; Frank F. Schwiekert, Bridgeport; William E. Nielson, Muriden; Eugene R. Burns, Collinsville; Leon A. Schoffer, Meriden.

BRITAIN YIELDING TO REQUESTS OF DOMINIONS

London, Oct. 9.—(By the A. P.)—Imperial preference took a great step forward today, when, yielding to the request of Australia and other dominions, the British government announced to the imperial conference its new offer to admit empire dried, preserved and canned fruits duty free, while maintaining considerable duties against similar foreign products. The government offers also either to increase the empire preference on the unmanufactured tobacco or stabilize the existing preference for a decade and to guarantee that there shall be no diminution in the preference granted to empire sugar for a decade.

BRICKLAYERS MAKE $36 FOR EVERY SUNDAY'S WORK

Larchmont, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Four bricklayers today were fined $5 apiece by Justice of the Peace Schaffer for working last Sunday, in violation of the Sabbath law.

"That's all right," they said as they peeled off the bills, "counting the double overtime, we make $36 for every Sunday's work."

Five Breaks in Levee At Moorhaven, Fla.

Water from One to Six Feet Deep in the Country—Farmers Endeavoring to Save Their Stock.

Moorehaven, Fla., Oct. 9—A frantic effort was being made tonight to rebuild the dykes surrounding this city and save the town from further disaster. The gale which swept across a lake on which the city faces, was dying down at dusk but the water still was rising in the city.

Waves from Lake Okeechobee still were washing high and farmers were attempting to reach the city with their stock. A small canal bank was crowded with refugees, the bank affording the only dry spot for miles around.

A careful check late today showed there was no loss of life.

Only a shift in the wind can check the rapidly rising water. The dyke around the city of Moorehaven has been damaged and the dyke extending down to Lawistown, 20 miles from here, has crumbled away in places so that the flood is threatening the entire west shore of the lake.

DALE LEADING IN REP. PRIMARY IN VERMONT

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 9.—Porter H. Dale, of Island Pond, who resigned recently as representative from the Second district, appeared to have a safe lead for the republican nomination for United States senator to succeed the late William P. Dillingham in returns from today's primary from more than three-quarters of the state. Park H. Pollard, of Cavendish, a cousin of President Coolidge, was unopposed for the democratic nomination.

The vote for senator, republican, from 229 cities and towns out of 247 in the state gave:

Dale, 24,408.
John W. Redmond, 12,426.
Stanley C. Wilson, 8408.

There was a close race for the republican nomination for congressman to succeed Mr. Dale with Ernest W. Gibson, of Brattleboro in the lead on returns from 115 towns out of 133 in the district, which gave:

Gibson, 7463.
John W. Gordon, 4193.
Orlando L. Martin, 5768.
James E. Stacey, 1123.
Mason S. Stone, 4142.
Charles A. Webb, 3191.

The unopposed democratic nominee is Burton E. Bailey, of Montpelier.

THREE VESSELS ASHORE IN FOG NEAR SEATTLE, WASH.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 9.—A list of vessels ashore reported here today grew to three when it was learned that the steamship Bearport, loaded with lumber for Japan, went aground yesterday while trying to back out of Port Ludlow on Puget Sound. The motorship Kennecott struck on the rocks late last night south of Dixon entrance, and the British steamship Sunland got fast in the sand near Seattle today. Thee mishaps were attributed to fog.

The British freighter Sunland, which went ashore today near here, was floated. She proceeded to a drydock.

CABINET MEMBERS TO ASSIST PRESIDENT IN CONFERENCE

Washington, Oct. 9.—Three cabinet members, Secretary Mellon, Attorney General Daugherty, and Secretary Davis are to assist President Coolidge in his conference here Octoer 20 with the state governors on the question of enforcing the prohibition, narcotic and immigration laws.

The prohibition unit is under the direct supervision of Secretary Mellon, while the attorney-general has charge of law enforcement and Secretary Davis is interested especially in the enforcement of immigration restriction laws.

Details of the program for the conference have not yet been completed.

JAPAN NOT TO RESUME NEGOTIATIONS WITH RUSSIA

Tokio, Oct. 9.—(By the A. P.)—The foreign office denied today that the government had decided to resume on October 20 negotiations with soviet Russia, which were broken off last August, as stated in despatches from Moscow recently. The foreign office expressed the belief that the Russian correspondent misinterpreted the Japanese decision to discuss the question of renewing Russo-Jananese conversations upon the completion of the budget discussion which probably will be about October 20.

FOREST FIRE MENACES VILLAGE IN MICHIGAN

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 9.—Menaced by a forest fire, Ontonagon, Mich., on the south shore of Lake Superior, 150 miles from here, is threatened with destruction, according to a telephone message to the Associated Press from C. ## 19,000 Miners Vote To Return to Work

Decide to Permit the Anthracite Board of Conciliation to Settle Their Grievances.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 9.—The general grievance committee, representing the union mine workers of the Hudson Coal Company, today voted to call off the strike which had been in effect at nineteen of the company's twenty two collieries since Monday, and authorized the resumption of work tomorrow. More than 19,000 men were affected. The committee decided to present their grievances in regular form. First to the district union officials and finally to the anthracite board of conciliation for adjustment.

Production was curtailed approximately 60,000 tons by the two-day strike.

Employes at two collieries of the Glen Alden Coal Company who walked out last Saturday, returned to their places today.

ANTHRACITE ADVANCED 50 CENTS A TON IN BOSTON

Boston, Oct. 9.—The retail price for anthracite advanced fifty cents a ton in Boston today, to $16.00.

Dealers attributed the increase in part to an advance of $1 a ton placed on anthracite at the mines by operators.

MONTHLY FORECASTS OF CROP PRODUCTION

Washington, Oct. 9—Slight reduction in crop production forecasts of a month ago, except for potatoes, hay and flaxseed, were shown today in the department of agriculture's monthly report.

Corn registered a decline of 54,332,000 bushels, the forecast being placed at 3,021,434,000 bushels. This would make it rank as the country's fourth largest corn crop and make the fourth time it has passed the three billion ngure. Wheat was estimated at 7,490,000 bushels less than a month ago, production being estimated at 731,737,000 bushels. Oats production decline 9,232,000 bushels and tobacco showed a severe reduction of 89,000,000 pounds.

Potatoes improved to the extent of 11,750,000 bushels more during September, tame hay estimates increased 4,667,000 tons and peanuts 40,737,000 pounds more than a month ago.

Frost damaged corn in practically all of the north central and Northeastern states, but while the damage was severe in a number of sections it will not affect the yield so much as the quality. Indications were that the quality would be below that of last year, the report said. In Iowa it was estimated 75 per cent. of the corn crop was safe before October 1 and in Illinois ninety per cent. Taking the country as a whole the report said, there is still considerable immature corn.

LOST $250 MATCHING COINS WHILE WAITING TO SAIL

New York, Oct. 9.—William Jones, of London, England, while waiting at the river front today for the sailing hour of the Mauretania in which he was to return to England, today engaged in a game of coin matching, with James Masterson, of Providence, R. I., and Arthur Allen, lost $250, caused the arrest of the pair, missed his boat and was himself held as a material witness.

Masterson and Allen were indicted for grand larceny by a grand jury which rushed their case, and were taken to the tombs prison. Detectives said they preyed on trans-Atlantic passengers who were unable because of the imminence of their departures to press charges.

EXPANSION OF THE AMERICAN BRASS CO.

Waterbury, Oct. 9.—The deal by which the American Brass Company asquires the National Conduit and Cable Company at Hastings-on-the-Hudson, New York, was consummated yesterday, according to announcement made this morning by John A. Coe, president of the Brass Company. Ralph E. Day, superintendent of one of the Waterbury plants of the brass company, will be transferred to the Hastings plant, where he will take over the management. The new plant has a capacity of 10,000,000 pounds of copper wire per month. It manufactures conduits, cables, insulated and bare wires.

THEATRICAL MANAGER FORBES AGAIN MISSING

New York, Oct. 9.—Rovert. E. Forbes, theatrical manager who three years gao suffered an attack of amnesia and disappeared, is missing again. His brother, James Forbes, playwright, reported the disappearance today to police headquarters.

The missing manager disappeared from the Hotel Tenyeck, Albany, October 5, after going to the capital to open a new theatre.

The project was a great strain on Forbes, his brother believes.

STEAMER NIAGARA HAS BROKEN A PROPELLER

Havre, Oct. 9.—The steamer Niagara, which sailed Sunday with 300 passengers bound for Havana and New Orleans, this evening sent a wireless despatch saying she had broken her starboard screw and was limping to port for repairs.

The steamer is making five or six knots an hour and expects to arrive in Havre tomorrow. The passengers and cargo will be transferred to the steamer Caroline, which sails Thursday.

WALTON OFFERS TO RESIGN AS GOVERNOR OF OKLAHOMA

If Pending Session of Legislature Will Enact an Anti-Klan Law Which He Will Submit to the Lawmakers—Declares His Action is Taken to Prove His Good Faith in His Fight Against the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma—Will Not Resign Unless His Proposition is Accepted.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 9.—(By the A. P.)—Governor J. C. Walton tonight offered to resign to prove his good faith in his fight against the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma, if the legislature, at its forthcoming special session, will enact an anti-Klan law which he will submit to the lawmakers.

Challenging opponents of his administration, whose battle cry has been "we want neither Klan nor king," the executive issued a statement addressed to the people of Oklahoma, declaring:

"When this bill becomes law, it will rid the state of the Klan and I will resign the office of governor immediately thereupon. In this way, the people will be protected from the Klan and peace and harmony can be restored to the state."

Briefly, the governor's bill prohibits the use of the mask by secret organizations in Oklahoma and provides that all such orders shall file complete membership lists with the regularly appointed authorities.

If his proposition is not accepted, Governor Walton declared, he will decide further how "we must proceed to protect ourselves from this organization of masked marauders who have practical control of the judicial and police powers in the principal cities of the state."

METHODS FOR IMPROVING FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Washington, Oct. 9.—Representatives of bankers associations and federal reserve districts in various parts of the country suggested to the joint congressional investigating committee here today methods for improving and enlarging the federal reserve system.

Waldo Newcomer of Baltimore, speaking for a committee of the American Bankers Association, gave six reasons for failure of state banks and trust companies to enter the organization. They were, he said, inadequate returns on stocks which member banks were required to take in the federal reserve system, loss of interest on reserve balances, lack of eligible paper, the requirements for statements and other formalities, the sufficiency of accommodations obtained by non-member banks from their correspondents and resentment against apparent attempts to force them into the system.

The New England delegation suggested the law be amended to that any surplus 'earning which might remain at the end of each calendar year after the payment of the tax on federal reserve notes an dthe regular dividend to stockholders be distributed by the federal reserve banks among the member banks prorata according to the average reserve balance carried by each with the federal reserve banks during the year.

Members of the New England committee were Henry W. Cuhman of Bangor, Maine; Arthur M. Heard of Manchester, N. H.; Clarence L. Stickney, of Brattleboro, Vermont; I. W. Cook of New Bedford, Mass.; E. A. Onthank, of Fitchburg, Mass.; Thomas H. West, Jr., of Providence, R. I.; H. T. Hold of Hartford, Conn., and Alfred L. Aiken, of Boston.

DEFICIT OF $24,065,000 IN POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT

Washington, Oct. 9.—Post office department expenditures during the last fiscal year were $556,893,000, with revenues of $532,828,000 showing an apparent deficit of $24,065,000, it was announced today by Postmaster-General New. There was an increase of 10 per cent over the previous year in the volume of business, which was handled at an increased cost of 3.3 per cent. The deficit for the year ending June 30, 1923, was about $60,000,000.

The figures were compiled by Comptroller General J. R. McCarl. Mr. New, in a statement accompanying them, however, said that while they conformed to the method of stating the deficit which has been followed in the past, they gave a misleading impression of the business of the postal service, including more than $15,000,000 in undischarged obligations carried over from previous fiscal years, and failed to take into account nearly $21,000,000 of such obligations incurred last year which will be paid later.

SEC'Y HUGHES SEES WASTE OF NATIONAL ENERGY

Providence, R. I., Oct. 9.—Public officers are forced to give half of their time to unnecessary contacts and a considerable portion of the national energy is wasted by the dominance in America today of the fleeting vision, a thirst for sensation and a relentless need for motion, Secretary of State Hughes declared tonight at a dinner to President Angell of Yale university held in connection with the convocation of Brown university.

"We find ourselves," he said, "in the age of the motor, the movie and the radio, which with freedom of locomotion, novel and easy intimacies, and the ever-present and constantly expanding enterprise of the press give us a delusive facility in acquiring information. It is the day of the fleeting vision. Concentration, thoroughness, the quiet reflection that ripens the judgment are more difficult than ever."

ADVENTISTS DENOUNCE BLUE LAWS AND REFORMERS

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 9.—Blue laws and reformers today were denounced as menaces to the nation by the Seventh Day Adventists leaders attending the world conference here which will adjourn October 18.

"I have no faith in political preachers who would substitute the policeman's club for the cross of Christ," asserted, Professor C. S. Longacre, secretary of the Religious Liberty Association of America. "Christ was a savior and not a policeman. He ordained ministers to preach the gospel of love and not sheriffs to execute vengeance upon the evildoers. A legal religion can only beget habits of hypocrisy and engender insincerity and strife."

PAINTINGS AND MURALS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Pola, Italy, Oct. 9.—Several old paintings hung about the high alter and also some of priceless murals of the Renaissance period were destroyed by the fire which badly damaged the famous cathedral here yesterday. The fire originated in the organ and swept through the nave before the fire brigade was able to bring it under control.

A SPECTACULAR $500,000 FIRE IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Oct. 9.—In one of the most spectacular and threatening fires ever known to Providence, property valued at nearly $500,000 was destroyed today. The absence of a strong wind and the fact that a portion of the affected area faces in the waterfront prevented the spread of the blaze to the city's main business district, not far from the scene.

The fire which is said to have originated on the sixth floor of the John D. Peck, Inc., grain elevator spread to the pockets of the Providence Coal company.

Before the firemen could bring the flames under control, about three hours after the discovery of the fire, six buildings of varying types of construction were destroyed and several others damaged. Structures completely destroyed were: the six-story brick Lewis building, occupied by John D. Peck, Inc., hay and grain dealers; plant of the Providence Coal company, including 5,000 tons of coal and a large wooden structure formerly used as a trolley express station.

There was no loss of life either among the occupants of the buildings or among the firemen.

ENRIGHT DEFENDED CONDUCT OF NEW YORK POLICEMEN

New York, Oct. 9.—Police Commissioner Enright today defended his conduct of the cases of patrolmen convicted of using the Mullan-Gage act as a means of oppression and personal profit and denied, throughout a review of so much cases, the charge of leniency.

The commissioner, who is complainant in a criminal libel action against Magistrate Corrigan, and Assemblyman Cuvillier, was a witness most of the day before the Crane police bootleg inquiry an outgrowth of the libel charges. He will continue his testimony tomorrow.

John D. Lindsay, counsel for Magistrate Corrigan, reviewed the bootleg cases and sought to show that there had been leniency and that the leniency had injured the morale of the police force.

Enright's defense was that in almost all the cases, it was impossible to prove dishonesty on the part of the police and that the only charge which could be sustained was that of negligence. He said 115 members of the force had been dismissed for intoxication and other offenses during the life of the Mullan-Gage act.

CHAMPION HOOKEY PLAYERS IN HARLEM ARE MISSING

New York, Oct. 9.—Afraid to go to school yesterday to get report cards which they knew would show many truancies, Augusta, 11, Loretta, 9, and Frank, 8, children of Mrs. Kathering Nouiette, a widow, and known by some teachers of public schools 57 as the "champion hookey players of Harlem," today were missing after an unsuccessful search of 24 hours for their whereabouts.

Wednesday, Mrs. Nouiette was informed by the board of education that if her children did not spend more time in school and less on the sward of Central Park, she would be fined and they sent away. Thursday they were good again Friday they again yielded to temptation. Yesterday, report card day at Public School 57, they were again missing.

A. F. OF L. KILLS PROPOSAL FOR POLITICAL PARTY

Portland, Oregon, Oct. 9.—(By the A. P.)—The American Federation of Labor today decided against formation of a political party. The convention on roll call upheld the resolution committee which had reported against four resolutions which proposed that labor form a separate party.

Unofficial tally showed that 24,333 votes had been cast iff support of the resolutions committee in rejecting proposed entry of labor into the political arena. The total number of votes to which all delegates are entitled are 28,588.

President Gompers announced the official figures would be given out late this afternoon.

DENIAL FROM LISBON OF REVOLT IN PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Oct. 9.—reports bupblished abroad to the effect that a revolution has broken out in Portugal are untrue.

(The reports referred to came through London and Madrid and were to the effect that a revolution was under way in northern Portugal, being centered about Oporto.)

OBITUARY.

John F. Callahan.

Hartford, Oct. 9.—John F. Callahan of 294 Fairfield avenue, former state deputy of the Knights of Columbus of Connecticut, died tonight at the St. Francis hospital after a brief illness. Mr. Callahan was taken ill while attending the supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus held at Montreal, Canada, last August. He was 45 years old. Mr. Callahan was a charter member of the Knights of Columbus in the city and joined the order in March 1896. He leaves his wife and one daughter.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office

At a meeting of the directors of the Willimantic Welfare Bureau, the new quarters at No. 25 Meadow street were inspected and approved. The quarters consist of five rooms, fairly well equipped for the work of the organization. Miss Elizabeth Anderson read her report which showed that her work during the past month included 115 office cases, 55 outside calls and 81 telephone cases. Eighteen persons were given relief and 10 letters were written. Work was secured for some people and assistance was given the Travelers' Aid society. The bureau is planning to carry on special work for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

At a well attended meeting of Willimantic Rotary club, Tuesday noon, the members listened to talks on Fire Prevention. Fire Chief James J. Tighe and George Atkinson were the main speakers. Guests of the club were "Jim" McKenzie of the London, England Rotary club, Chief James J. Tighe of the Willimantic fire department, George Atkinson of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, "Charlie" Pryor of the Hartford club, George Morin of the American Thread company of Holyoke, Mass., Rev. O. S. Beaumeister of St. Joseph's church, and Rev. W. C. Norris who has returned from spending the summer in Oregon and other points in the west. President "Jim" Mustard was in charge of the meeting and the invocation was by Rev. Father Beaumister. After the members had vainly tried to produce vocal selections, Charlie Pryor was called upon and rendered Love's Old Sweet Song in fine voice.

"Gus" Greene was then placed in charge of the meeting and introduced the subject of Fire Prevention by stating that it is fitting that it should be observed on the anniversary of the great Chicago fire. Chief Tighe then stated that the fire loss last year was the largest in the history of the country and the toll of lives was about 15,000. Chief Tighe recalled some of the work done locally by the department in the inspecting of public buildings, business houses, manufacturing plants and dwellings for the purpose of familiarizing each man with the construction of each building in the event of a fire. The speaker told of some of the most common fire hazards. Electrical faults caused a loss of about $3,000,000 last year smoking chimneys $24,000,000 and defective chimneys were responsible for about 20 per cent. of the total fire loss. Ninety per cent. of the total fire loss is due to sheer carelessness.

George Atkinson, the next speaker, said that the fire loss last year was about $4.75 per capita and he told of the organization of the National Fire Protection Association. The fire loss in the United States per capital can be compared to that in Great Britain which for the same length of time was only 73 cents. Of course it must be taken into consideration that only brick buildings were built in England until quite recently.

Chief Tighe and Mr. Atkinson were given a rising vote of thanks. Announcement was made that the meeting next week will be in charge of the Business Methods Committee consisting of "Val" Murphy, chairman; "Charlie" Alpaugh; "Lou" Kingsbury and Frank H. Foss.

Archibald W. Buchanan, of Mansfield, agent for the state board of education was presented a handsome gold Masonic charm at the meeting of the Mansfield school committee in behalf of the committee members and others in recognition of his long service as a member of the town school board and previous as a member of the Mansfield Center district committee. Clarence H. Savage, one of the members, made the presentation speech and Mr. Buchanan acknowledged the handsome gift.

Mr. Buchanan declined nomination as a candidate for the school committee at the caucuses last fall. He said that after 50 years of service he should make way for some one younger. E. W. Slater was nominated to succeed him. Mr. Buchanan has been connected with the schools since 1872 as a member of the Mansfield Center district committee. When the schools consolidated, in 1899 he became secretary of the town committee and from 1899 to 1900 he and Dr. Mayo of Storrs selected all teachers for the schools which brought them to a high standard. He has seen the registration of the Mansfield schols grow from 300 to 700 and at present about 70 pupils attend Windham High schols and some of the graded schools in Willimantic.

At a committee meeting held at the home of Mrs. Annie O. Vinton in Eagleville the following members attended: Clarence H. Savage, W. F. Kirkpatrick, Annie O. Vinton, Mrs. Alice Stearns, Ivan F. Wilcox and E. W. Slater. The following officers were elected: Chairman, Ivan F. Wilcox, secretary Professor W. F. Kirkpatrick; finance committee, James C. Greene and Edwin W. Slater; library committee, Mrs. Annie O. Vinton and Mrs. Alice E. Stearns. A social hour followed the meeting. Arthur E. Woolsey of Rio Janeiro, Brazil, a cousin of Sheriff Fred O. Vinton and a musician of note, entertained during the evening.

The three act play "The Misplaced Decimal" presented by the Windham Center Girl Scouts at the new school building at Windham a few days ago and which was presented again in Hampton Friday, will once more be given at South Windham. The cast includes, Mrs. John Webster, Miss Charlotte Lathrop, Mrs. John Potter, Miss Anna Trigger, Mrs. L. P. Oehrig, Miss Marguerite Cook, Mrs. Albert Sonnichsen, Eden Cook, Clarence Beckwith and Carl Johnson. The Lyric Orchestra is to furnish music.

Mrs. Stephen Polzen and Mrs. Lillian Morgan, of Mansfield, were thrown from a wagon in which they were riding in Main street, Tuesday noon, striking the concrete pavement. Mrs. Polzen's horse became frightened at the approach of a trolley car and bolted. The horse wheeled around and started in the opposite direction, but the front wheel of the wagon struck an automobile parked nearby. The horse broke away from the shafts but was halted by spectators. The two women were thrown over the dashboard and rolled on the pavement. Both were scratched to some extent.

The new iron bridge under construction over the Natchaug river in lower village will be ready for travel by November 1, according to the selectmen. The bridge is a strong and handsome structure and will be an ornament to the town. A concrete covering is being laid on the floor of the bridge.

Twenty local fans will attend the opening of the world series at New York city today (Wednesday). They took an early start on the State of Maine express at 3.34 o'clock this morning.

To date about 204 hunting licenses have been issued at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. This is considered a large number for this time.

At the home of Miss Alexandra Rice, a meeting of the True Blue Circle was held recently. Prayer offered by Miss Ellison, was followed by the Lord's prayer in unison. The secretary's report was read and accepted. The hostess served refreshments.

Council St. Cecile, No. 113, held its meeting in Al Pierre Taberin, with an attendance of about 200. A series of whist parties will be held during the winter. A musical program and dancing was enjoyed at the close of the business session.

The recently elected officers of San Jose Council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, were installed at St. Mary's hall, Tuesday evening. A smoker and luncheon followed the installation. Grand Knight William J. Grady was in charge.

Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Girard of 29 Jackson street announced the engagement of their daughter, Antoinette A., to Dr. T. J. Keegan of this city, at a dinner given Monday evening in honor of Miss Girard's birthday. The date of the wedding has not been set.

The Auction Club of which Mrs. B. G. Thompson is the leader, was entertained at the home of Mrs. Calvin Brown in the afternoon. Two tables were in play.

In connection with the observance of Fire Prevention Week, Electrician Amos Barber, assisted by Roy Keables of Engine Company No. 1, inspected all the fire alarm boxes in the city.

In the absence of the regular motorman, John Youngs, who is ill, Basil Romano of Norwich is operating the South Coventry-Willimantic trolley car.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Cook, of Portland, Oregon, who have been visiting in the east during the summer, have left on the return trip home. Guests from Wyoming and relatives from Hartford, Fitchville, Willimantic and Norwich recently attended a gathering in their honor in Groton.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Grenell of Providence, who are on their wedding trip, recently called on Mrs. Bertha Gridley. Mrs. Grenell was well flnown at the camp ground as Miss Dorothy Drafus.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin D. Boss and Samuel Chesbro have returned from a stay at Jaffery, N. H. They were were accompanied by Amos M. Hatheway, who has been with his daughter, Mrs. Woodbury Hunt, at Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey E. Macfarlane and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gallup have returned from a 960-mile tour in Vermont and Canada.

Mrs. Theresa Congdon was a recent visitor with Mrs. Rosella Congdon in Hampton.

Mrs. Lorenzo Moses and Miss Elizabeth Petreson have returned from a motor trip in the latter's car, to Long Island, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Edmunds, formerly of North Windham.

JEWETT CITY

A chamber of commerce is assured for Jewett City. Forty citizens of this town and Lisbon attended a meeting in the town hall Monday evening and unanimously declared themselves by a rising vote, not only as being in its favor, but as members. Arthur M. Brown addressed the meeting after it had been called to order, L. M. Carpenter and Edmond Jodoin acting repectively as provisional president and secretary.

John J. O'Rourke, secretary of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, was to have addressed the meeting, but was unable to do so. He will, however, address the meeting for formal organizing, to be held Thursday evening.

Mr. Brown said that primarily a chamber of commerce was organized for the purpose of engendering civic pride, and to give every citizen opportunity to boost his own community. He pointed out many outstanding facts concerning Jewett City, of which he said, "we are justly proud." He believed in canvassing the community, and securing the names of those for membership, who are interested in the schools, prosperity for home industry, bringing of capital and new industries to the town, and the fundamental principles encompassed by good government, general advancement, and business success. He said there must be nothing savoring of selfishness in the organization, but it must be a whole-hearted, pulling together for the good of the majority.

Louis M. Carpenter was then elected chairman of the membership committee. He appointed the following men to bring in 10 names each, eligible for membership, next Thursday evening: James Dolan, Ben Schlefer, Daniel F. Finn, Jr., Eudore Le Claire, A. Leger, Alex McNicol.

P. W. Chase, welfare supervisor for the Ashland club, proposes to have his new radio set in operation all through the baseball world's series. The public may feel at liberty to enjoy these benefits and come to the club at any time to listen to the returns. All telephone calls to the Ashland club have to be handled at the Ashland Cotton company's office board, hence, on account of the added attention it would need, it is considered inadvisable to answer telephone calls relative to the results of the games.

Several Griswold teachers attended the Eastern Connecticut Kindergarten and Primary Association meeting, held Tuesday afternoon at the United church, Norwich. Mrs. Grace Drysdale of Cambridge, Mass., was the speaker. Her subject was How Little Children Listen to Music.

Supt. Frank H. P. Clement reports that the Riverside building was emptied in one minute, Tuesday, at the call of the dismissal bell, sounded in mid-season.

Mrs. Nellie Bumstead Hooper, Miss Edna Bumstead and Mr. and Mrs. Payson Hooper and daughter of Pawtucket, were callers in the borough on Sunday.

Miss Isabel Marshall is a student at Willimantic Normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Chase are at home after a delightful automobile trip of two weeks during which they visited points of interest in New York state and Canada.

Mrs. G. H. Prior is in Hartford to preside at the State King's Daughters' convention, as its president. From Hartford she goes to Winchester, N. H., to speak at the state convention. Next week she will address a convention in Rockaway, N. J., and later will go to Boston, to speak at the state convention.

Mrs. Arthur M. Brown is to go to Portland, Conn., to spend the remainder of the week with Mrs. Arthur Varley.

Doris MacLean, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. MacLean, is ill with infantile paralysis at their home in Forestville, near Bristol. The family is quarantined and do not even write letters; but can answer telephone calls. The little girl seems to be improving, but both limbs are affected.

There will be a free demonstration of ditch blasting with Atlas powder on the fram occupied by George E. Geer, Jr., three miles east of Jewett Clyt, Saturday, Oct. 13, rain or shine. —adv.

The total amount received by Chester Dudkowski, treasurer of the American Red Cross local Japanese Relief fund is $711.94. The drive has been officially declared closed. At a meeting of the executive board of the Jewett City Chapter held Monday evening, the members passed a vote of appreciation to Alex McNicol, the chairman fo the relief committee, his assistants in the work, and to everyone who contributed. The amount raised is considered very creditable. The executive board voted that the chapter be responsible for the sum of five hundred dollars for the work of the district nurse next year. The value of the nurse was fully proven last year, and as the project originated in the chapter and later being taken over by the town, the board members are willing to help finance the work again.

The Baptist Woman's Mission Circle met in the vestry Tuesday afternoon, the president, Mrs. A. M. Brown, presiding. The chairman of the stewardship committee read the Scripture. It was voted to give ten dollars to the $400 fund being raised to send back missionaries who were recalled on account of the 25 per cent cut. Mrs. E. M. Gray was appointed keywoman and Mrs. A. M. Clarke minute woman for the circle. Mrs. D. L. Phillips prepared the program for the meeting, the subject being Burma. She gave a map talk, locating schools and hospitals and giving much information concerning them. Articles were read on the population, races, wealth and products, also extracts from letters from workers on the field.

The missionary society of the Congregational church is to meet at Mrs. G. W. Robinson's home on Thursday afternoon.

Mount Vernon lodge, No. 76, F. and A. M., Norman B. Farkhurst, master, has received notice of its coming distinction. Arthur M. Brown, a past master of Mt. Vernon, and most worshipful grand master of Masons in Connecticut, will go to Washington D. C., the latter part of this month, where he, acting in conjunction with other grand masters of the United States, will lay the George Washington Masonic memorial cornerstone, with George Washington's trowel, the same used by him, when he laid the cornerstone of the capitol of the United States on September 18th, 1795.

The memorial will be built on Shooters Hill, along the Arlington Ridge, commanding a view of the city of Washington, of Mount Vernon and of all the country most frequented by George Washington.

The structure will exceed in size all the other great monuments heretofore erected in the national capital and environs. It will be 230 feet in depth by 160 feet in width and its height will be 200 feet. It will be in classical style, entirely of granite, and its cost when complete will be $4,000,000.

Surrounding the memorial proper will be a park of 332 acres, and the edifice will be approached by a series of steps and terraces, beautifully arranged by the landscape artist. The Memorial Hall in this grand structure will be in the form of an atrium 70 by 100 feet and 44 feet in height, flanked by Ionic columns 40 feet high. The entrance will be a six-columned portico of Doric design.

The Jewett City Speedboys went to New London Sunday and lost to the Hilltops, 7 to 0. A fast, hard game was played. The Speedboys showed great defensive ability but their only offering in the way of an offensive was in punting, in which they made their few gains. The lineup: Tracy le, McCluggage lt, Issy lg, Western lg, Harris rg, Swett rt, Sharkey re, Capt. Parkhurst qb, Sewiki lhb, Eichelberg rhb, Rhody fb. Tracy, Western and Issy featured. The Speedboys plan to play Norwich Sunday afternoon next at Slater Park.

Jewett City was once the home of an old woman who lived to a great age. In matters of sore perplexity, her council was timely and good. It was her custom, when confronted with conditions which were out of the ordinary, to ejaculate, with much fervor, "Hark from the tomb!" Never did any quotation fit better than it does around the arid sections of this pro-Volstead burg, at this time. There are, moreover, wailings and gnashings of teeth. Old prophesies are relegated to the discard for the lightning struck two or three times in the same place. Sunday afternoon at five o'clock, when the state constabulary, fell upon this section, like leaves from a tree in autumn there took place a wielding of the arm of the law, that for effective activity never was equalled in Jewett City. No court record here shows proceedings carried on in previous searches, by virtue of bench warrants from the superior court. An old Griswold resident, from away in back of Stone Hill, telephoned in Monday to say "Wall, I see yer got it in the neck downt' the burrer",—the answer went back, "You said it!"

Miss Isabel Marshall entered Willimantic Normal school this fall, as a pupil.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Sunday morning worship at the First Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich preached from Acts 16:31. And they said, Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house.

Mrs. William Weaver was the leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service, which had for its topic, The Word of God, Psalm Ps. 119:9-16:105. This was followed by the evening sermon by Rev. Mr. Aldrich, who spoke from the first few verses of Psalm 105.

The Dorcas Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church is to hold its October meeting Thursday afternoon, at the parsonage, with the president, Mr. James B. Aldrich.

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey chose for his sermon topic for Rally Day, Gideons 300. The text used was Psalm 122.1.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor service was omitted to afford members an opportunity to join in the union service at 7:30, at the Central Baptist church to hear the address by Miss Margaret Slattery.

At the church night service of the Congregational church, Thursday evening the theme is to be, Shepherd of Israel, Psalms.

For several weeks past, improvements have been in progress at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Wyant of Town street. Much interior decorating has been done, and the large porch at the rear of the house is being made into a sun parlor. A fine new cement walk 5 feet in width, which extends along the entire front of the property, also a cement walk leading up to the front steps, was completed last week.

A large, old tree which stands on the sidewalk in front of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hann, is to be cut down. Mr. Hann is also having a new cement sidewalk, built along the entire frontage of his property the same proportion as that of Mr. Wyant, their properties adjoining. One half of Mr. Hann's walk has been completed, the remainder to be finished following the removal of the tree.

In compliance with new regulations that all poles on which wires are strung, should be set inside the curbing to sidewalks, several new poles have been set on Town street recently, by the Norwich Gas and Electric Co.

Callers Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, included Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence-Gremley and the latter's mother, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainerd, also Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gremley and little daughter Mildred, all of Mystic, who were on a motor trip to Manchester to attend the week-end festivities of the centennial celebration.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Though he is not in rehearsal as a medicine man Max Bretschneider, a Danielson student at Northeastern university, Boston, figured in a rattlesnake killing incident in the Blue Hills reservation Sunday last. With a fellow student he was out for a stroll when they came upon two men who appeared to be badly frightened and were arming themselves with stones with which to attack a ponderous rattler, whose four and a half feet of length were sprawled across the path the men wished to traverse.

Not averse to aiding in disposing of the snake, Bretschneider and his companion armed themselves with stones and lined up for action. The first stone hurled at the reptile did not hit him, but it stirred him into violent and maddened action. The 14 rattles he possessed were given the shaking of a life time. Another stone hurled more accurately hit the snake in the tail and broke off 11 of the rattles, as afterward determined and caused the snake to turn about and face his attackers—ready to lash out at them.

At this point a well directed stone thrown by the Danielson young man struck the snake just back of the head and stunned him and then another well placed shot by the other student finished the snake for good and all. The original battlers against the snake having gone their way, the students divided the rattles between them. Bretschneider keeping the five that were nearest the tail. Amused, indeed were the university men as they were dividing up the rattles when a very dandified young man came along and inquired if the rattles came from the snake's head—a query that suggested something relative to his own thinking apparatus which they refrained from suggesting.

With the arrival of another period for burning fallen leaves, there again comes the warning that this cleaning up process be carried out with due care against letting such fires getting out of control and that such fires should not be left burning unattended after nightfall, as they constitute a menace to property and may be the cause of serious damage. Such fires are now being started as the first of the leaves are coming down, and the warning is in accord with the attention of Fire Prevention week, being generally observed this week throughout the United States.

At the state police barracks, on North Main street, a string of garages is nearing completion. These will house the various motor vehicles in use by the members of the department stationed here and provide an arrangement much mor satisfactory than the one that has been in force since the establishment of the barracks. The garages are under one roof and at the rear of the barracks.

At her home at Wauregan, Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, Miss Emma Gardner became the bride of Henry A. McEwen of Danielson, the marriage ceremony performed by Rev. William Fryling, pastor of the Congregational church at Wauregan. The bride's gown was of silver gray flat crepe, with pearl ornaments. After a wedding trip in New Hampshire, Mr. and Mrs. McEwen will make their home in Danielson where Mr. McEwen is engaged in business and is one of the best known residents of the borough. Mrs. McEwen, who has been engaged as a teacher of music, is also very well known in Danielson.

A check-up of individual opinion appears to indicate that the public of Killingly generally approves of the settlement of the case of Gertrude A. Wardell vs the town of Killingly. While the town paid $1200 in settlement of the case without trying the issues it involved in court, it is recognized that continued litigation and the prospect that trial in the superior court would be followed by an appeal to the supreme court of errors and that the expense involved, win or lose would be greater than the amount paid in settlement.

Attention of motorists is being called to the fact that it is a violation of the law to leave large stones frequently used by drivers of stalled cars to block the wheels while some repair or adjustment is being made to the machine in the highways. Those stones left where they were used after they are no longer needed constitute a dangerous obstruction likely to cause an accident and the responsible drivers can be punished if apprehended. The practice of leaving large stones in the highway is so generally in hilly country hereabouts that a request that publicity be given the fact that the practice is against the law has been received.

This (Wednesday) afternoon all the baseball fans that have nothing of more urgency and importance to hold their attention will be on hand to get radio returns from the first of the World's Series games in New York. Incidentally, it may be mentioned that the outcome of this series does not inspire near the interest and enthusiasm that was the case with the baseball classics of a few years back and the answer to this seems to be "too much New York." Many fans have tired of the consistency of the New York teams in winning, and are now more interested, for instance, in the outcome of a Yale-Harvard football game than in the World's series.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carragher on Mechanic street Tuesday evening a miscellaneous shower was given by her friends for Miss Albina Deaume, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Carragher. Miss Deaume received many gifts. During the evening there were various diversions. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Placid LBlanc of Waterbury is here caring for her mother, Mrs. Nelson Gauthier, who is ill at her home on Broad street. Mrs. Gauthier was reported Tuesday as improved.

After visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. James Monohan, Miss Anna Doyle has returned to her home in Providence.

Effort to keep down expenses is held accountable for the failure of the town meeting to approve a plan for opening a new street southward from Reynolds street to connect with a proposed easterly extension of Hawkins street.

Miss Marguerite Caron, telephone operator at the Connecticut mills, has been confined to her home by illness.

Hundreds of motorists now obliged to detour from Attawaugan school house to White's crossing would appreciate the improvement of the detour, which is badly worn and rough and takes a great deal out of a car.

Frank Barber was in Hartford Tuesday on a business trip.

Max Bretschneider, student at Boston, will come to his home here tomorrow (Thursday) for a brief visit.

PUTNAM

With scarcely more than a curt thank you to the Putnam officers who held Donald W. Hale and John Beteau, Burlington, Vt., youths, after recovering from them a touring car they stole in Burlington the past week end, Sheriff Gaskell and Officer Collins of Burlington departed with the youths in the stolen car for the Vermont town, Tuesday morning.

The car was the property of Sheriff Gaskell and the youths after breaking the lock on the garage where it was kept took the car out and put a new lock on the building, so that the loss of the car might not be discovered for a longer period than otherwise would be the case.

The car had not been injured on its trip from Burlington to this city, and was ready to make the homeward journey when the officers were ready to start with it. Sheriff Gaskell seemed to be particularly peeved because a switch key on the machine was missing, more so than elated over the recovery of the machine.

It was stated Tuesday that plans have not been worked out by Anselm Mayotte post for the observance of Armistice day in this city, but in all probability the day's exercises will include the dedication of the new bridge across Little river, on the road to Pomfret, in honor of an ex-service man who gave his life in the World war.

Putnam's evening school has been opened for the fall and winter season and the registration on the opening night was 46 pupils. The school is to be in session Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings until 75 sessions have been held, this carrying the activities of the school through the winter and into the early spring period. L. F. Battey, as Americanization director, is again in charge of the school and associated with him as teachers are Miss Elsie A. Gallant, Miss Emma Dutton and Miss Ruth F. F. Elliott, this being the same teaching organization in the school as last year.

As is usual, there are some non-English speaking pupils in the school. Experience has shown that the majority of these will do well in gaining a knowledge of their adopted country if they only continue regularly at their studies through the fall and winter.

A case that was assigned as first for trial in the superior court Tuesday morning—Arthur King et al, appeal from probate—was declared off the list, after a conference prior to the opening of court between attorneys concerned in the case. The King property that figures in the case is in this city, where Mr. King, executor of the wills of his father and mother, is resident. These wills were practically identical in that they provided the property be left to the children. However, the deaths of father and mother occurred within a short time of each other, the father dying first and his will was filed for probate, whereas it has now been decided that under the circumstances the will of the mother should be probated. This decision takes the matter out of the superior court for the time being.

Seventeen of the 46 dwellings that Louis Wolf and associates recently purchased in the north end of the city, the dwellings formerly the property of the Nightingale-Morse company, have been resold to individuals, Mr. Wolf stated Tuesday. These resales mark the definite breaking up into individual holdings of a property that has been held intact for many years. In these transactions there appears to be an advantage to both the town and city, for whereas the property was taxed as one parcel while owned by the mill company it will hereafter be taxed on the basis of individual ownership and it is not unlikely that the dwellings as units will be taxed higher than was the case when they went into the lists as a part of the Nightingale-Morse property. If this proves true, the revenue of both town and city will be considably increased as the result of the transactions now underway.

In the superior court here Tuesday, trial of the case of Joseph H. Elliott vs John P. Grosvenor et al was begun before Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin. The principals are Pomfret men and the litigation is over some timber standing on property that formerly was a part of the Bradley estate and which passed between the principals in a transaction some time since. The case results over the manner in which deeds that figure in it were drawn.

Proponents of the plan to give Mechanicsville a new two-room school building are now arranging for the calling of a special town meeting to carry out the provisions of the annual town meeting relative to the new school. The meeting voted to authorize the construction of the school, providing a suitable site is donated by the Beachmont Worsted Co., and appropriated $15,000 for the building, but the meeting adjourned without appointing a committee to carry out its instructions.

The following of interest appears in the recently issued town reports: It has been the custom for many years in the town of Putnam to include in the annual report of the town school committee a list of all the individual bills paid during the year. This has taken up a lot of space in the town report and as nothing can be learned from the reading of a list of names and amounts, it has been omitted this year. All the information is contained in the summary and in the table of comparative cost. If any person is desirous of obtaining detailed information which is not contained in the report, it may be obtained from the clerk of the school committee, Attorney M. H. Geissler, at any time.

Among other events of special interest planned is a coon hunt, in which members of the Arcanum club will participate. Such club hunts have been held with success in recent years and so much pleasure has been obtained from that a hunt is scheduled for this fall.

In the city court Tuesday morning, Henry Goulet, about 60, and giving Fall River as his home, was presented to answer to a charge that he had been intoxicated. He was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail.

The selectmen of Putnam estimate that the expenses of the town for the ensuing year will amount to $183,100. Of this amount $62,000 is set aside for schools. It is estimated that the insane poor will cost the town $3500 during the period, that $5,000 will be required for highways, $8500 for outside poor, $10,000 for interest and $7,000 for the town farm, among the larger items of expense.

Good progress is being made at the Stoumbelis block, where new timber rising up from the street level give evidence that a fine new structure will be completed there within a few months.

Good weather with holdups on account of rain is helping the contractors rush forward the job of building the concrete highway out through Killingly avenue toward Attawaugan. This road is being built with greater rapidity than any other of its kind has been built in this corner of the state, due to improved methods and machinery.

Interested spectators who were about the superior court room Tuesday morning for the special purpose of observing whether any more bench warrant cases for violations of the liquor law were taken up were disappointed. Only business of a civil nature came up during the day.

The first in a series of public whists to be held during the winter by Putnam Rebekahs is planned for the coming week.

William S. Johnson is making plans for departure to Tampa, Florida, where he has important interests and where he has spent the winter seasons for several years past.

The annual missionary meeting was held in the parlor of the Congregational church Tuesday. Food, candy, cake and ice cream were for sale.

A feature picture that appeared to be of special interest to patrons of the movies—Robin Hood, with Douglas Fairbanks—attracted large audiences to the Bradley theater Monday.

Mrs. Charles H. Bissell, state regent of the D. A. R., was a guest at the meeting of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., at Monday's meeting.

WINDHAM

The first meeting this season of the Woman's Missionary society was held with the president, Mrs. F. E. Guild with twelve present. As the secretary, Miss Grace Bates is to be out of town this winter, Miss Dorothy Brown will serve in that office. Miss Brown read the monthly bulletin of the H. M. U., letters from missionaries in Butte Montana, Elbowoods, S. D., and other communications. Mrs S. C. Higbee was chosen to solicit subscriptions to the missionary magazine. It wa voted to work for Tongaloo college. The talent money meeting will be held on the 17th. It was decided to have the current events roll call during the social hour. The first chapter of the study book, Creative Forces in Japan, by Galen M. Fisher was given by Mrs. A. W. Clifford. Tea and wafers were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Bickford, Mrs. Tabor, Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. M. R. Plumb motored to Providence Thursday and were dinner guests of Mrs. Plumb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Larrabee.

A public illustrative lecture on Mohegan mechanism is to be given in the Congregational church Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Larrabee were in Hartford Sunday calling on Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown and Charles Larrabee Brown.

C. A. Keeney and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Harvey were in Hartford Sunday to visit Earl Harvey, who is improving, following an operation on his throat.

The Woman's Guild of St. Paul's church is to meet with Mrs. Ida W. MacLaren Thursday afternoon.

About 30 Windham people enjoyed a picnic dinner at Columbia Lake Tuesday, the guests of Samuel Chesbro of Willimantic at his cottage.

The Parent-Teachers' association held its first meeting this season Thursday in the principal's room in the grammar school with an attendance of 34, with the president Mrs. F. W. Barber in charge. After discussing various matters of business, the chairman of the program committee, Mrs. E. K. Leffingwell gave a brief outline for the winter. A food sale was planned some time next month. A fathers' evening will be held when the Storrs college players will present two plays. Speakers on music, mental hygiene and other subjects and one or two plays by local entertainers are being arranged for. Mrs. Leffingwell then introduced the speaker, Mrs. Helen Barker of Windham High school faculty who gave an interesting and instructive talk on detetics and nutritions. Tea and cake were served by Mrs. F. W. Barber, Mrs. Annie Jacobs and Mrs. John Webster. The officers and committee charimen are: President, Mrs. F. W. Barber; vice president, Mrs. John Webster; secretary, Mrs. Annie W. Jacobs; treasurer, Mrs. Edward Bailey; programme committee, Mrs. E. K. Leffingwell; refreshment committee, Mrs. H. C. Hatch; hospitality committee, Mrs. A. W. Clifford; membership committee, Mrs. John Potter; press committee, Miss Gertrude Arnold.

CANTERBURY

The pulpit was occupied Sunday, the 30th, by Mr. Knight, a student from Hartford, who came as a candidate, sent by Rev. Sherrod Soule.

Tuesday a number of parishioners met at the Green to repair the driveway from the main street to the church. Two teams and a truck were engaged in drawing gravel nearly all day. Several women were at work to improve the interior of the building, also to provide a good dinner for all.

A Christian Endeavor social was held last week Friday evening at Henry YarRham's with a good attendance. Games and refreshments were some of the attractions.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hoxsie and children of Westbrook were visiting Mrs. Sager hte past week. Mr. Hoxsie returned home Thursday, leaving his family for a longer visit.

The Pillars, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, is closed for the winter, the family leaving last week for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Frink visited in Hartford Thursday.

Mrs. Addie Waldo has been spending several days at Springfield, Mass.

Herbert Williams is away visiting at Willimantic, Manchester and Hartford. His son, Fred Williams of Willimantic, was a recent guest of his father.

At the grange meeting Wednesday evening a delegation from Ekonk numbering 40 was present and gave the program, besides enjoying the social. Refreshments were served.

James Lathrop recently received word that his son Houston of Monument Beach, Mass., had so severely injured his hand while working on a gasoline engine that it was feared amputation of one finger would be necessary.

The latest newcomer from Backus hospital, Norwich, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lovell and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lovell of this place.

Mrs. Wyeth of Hackensack, N. J., mother of Mrs. Ralph Lovell, is spending several weeks at the Lovell home.

Hyde street was well represented at the town election. Alba Stevens, one of the oldest voters in town, was able to go to the polls as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Clarke motored to Brockton fair Wednesday.

Guests at the Shea homestead Sunday were D. T. Shea and family of Norwich and Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Shea of Providence.

LEDYARD

Albert Selzer, who planted two bushels of Green Mountain potatoes, his own seed, harvested 67 bushels.

David Geer of Yale college and his roommate, John Black, whose home is in Southbridge, were recent callers at the home of Mr. Geer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Geer. They were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Geer.

Mrs. Charles A. Gray, Mrs. Isaac G. Geer and Mrs. Arthur D. Barrett were in Hartford Tuesday. Mrs. Gray went in her machine, and visited her brother, Charles Peckham, who is a patient in a hospital in that city.

There were 24 guests of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Goodenough at the parsonage Tuesday, comprising ministers, their wives or sisters from nearby Congregational churches. Members of the Ladies' Aid society prepared an elegant dinner for the visitors, who appreciated the hospitality of Rev. and Mrs. Goodenough.

Karl Nylen and family of the Drawbridge district school moved Saturday to the John Watson farm at Gales Ferry.

PLAINFIELD

Miss Mollie Baxter arrived home on Saturday night for a short visit, leaving Plainfield Monday evening for Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Herbert Tarbox is with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Burdick, at Flat Rock. Mrs. Ella Salisbury is nursing in the family.

Word has been received by Charles Jerome from Mrs. Jerome in Newburg, New York, that her father, Matthew Waldron, who recently had a shock, is in a state of coma and no hope is held out for his recovery.

Women who kiss each other are often guilty of counterfeiting.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Talk With the Scarecrow.

Well, as I mentioned in the last story, Little Jack Rabbit jogged along on the little pony and by and by, they came in sight of Candy City. But before they reached it they had to cross a bridge made of rock-candy, so that the water wouldn't wash it away, you know.

When safely over, the little pony stopped in front of a barber shop and pitched himself to a red peppermint striped candy post.

Can you tell me where this road leads to?

"While you get your hair cut, I'll wait here. But don't let the barber shave your whiskers for I've heard that a bunny without whiskers can't hop!"

"Very well," answered Little Jack Rabbit, with a grin. "I'll take your advice and not have my whiskers trimmed." And pretty soon he came out with his hair parted in the middle and his whiskers curled up at the ends most beautifully.

"Where shall we go now?" he asked, seating himself on the pony's back.

"Leave it to me," answered the little pony.

And then the little pony
Who was dapple gray,
Threw out his pretty four feet
And dashed a mile away.

By and by they came to a corn field where a scarecrow stood waving his arms back and forth to scare away the birds.

"Whoa!" cried the bunny boy. "I want to talk to that Old Clothes Man."

The pony stopped beside the Old Snake Fence. Taking off his cap, the little rabbit inquired:

"Can you tell me where this road leads to, Mr. Scarecrow?"

"To the Land of Nowhere," answered Mr. Scarecrow. "That's what the birds tell me and they ought to know."

"Maybe they don't tell the truth," answered Little Jack Rabbit. "I certainly wouldn't trust a crow, for he's a thief of a bird."

"Perhaps you are right," answered the Old Clothes Man. I'm sure I don't known fort it's a long time since I've been anywhere. I can't get away from this corn field."

"That's too bad," said the bunny boy.

"Yes. I have travelled a good bit," went on the Scarecrow. "My coat has been to China, my trousers to South America, my silk hat to the Charity Ball and my waistcoat to England."

"Goodness me! But you have been around the world," exclaimed the little bunny.

Jut then a big black crow settled on the Old Clothes Man and began to sing:

"The maid was in the garden
Hanging out the clothes.
When down flew a white bird
And pinched her pretty toes."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

THE WORLD'S SERIES.

Once again today there opens that famous contest for the baseball championship of the world. It is a struggle that grips the interest of many more than the dyed-in-the-wool baseball fans. There are many lovers of the sport who warm up to a real enthusiasm only when the leaders of the two big leagues get together for the determination of the championship. And yet interest is created or remains lukewarm in keeping with the sympathy for the winning teams.

This will be the third consecutive time that the world's championship has rested between New York teams. Needless to say that pleases some more than it does others, without in any way detracting from the high class baseball played by the respective teams.

It took the New York teams a long time to get to the top of their respective leagues, but getting there they have insisted upon remaining regardless of what effect that may have upon the supporters of the various other clubs. That they are there because they have played superior baseball is to be admitted. That it might be better for baseball should the league championships go elsewhere than in one city is open to discussion. That the biggest city should have the best ball team might be expected considering the support it has to draw from, and the financial factor that enters into getting and keeping the best players.

The championship is expected to go to the best team and not be distributed here and there unless merited, but when it continues to be a foregone conclusion as to the winner each year interest is bound to relax. It is a case of having everything to do with in one case and a limited amount in the others, and until players can be obtained in one aggregation that can overbalance the high priced New York teams the metropolis has the inside course. And yet it is not to be forgotten that it has not always been so.

FILIPINOS TESTING THEMSELVES.

Perhaps it is too early to judge the action of the Filipinos by the reports which come from Manila threatening to ignore entirely the message which Governor General Wood may present to the legislature when it convenes next week, or going so far as to oppose what he advocates and to endorse what he opposes.

If this proves to be the real attitude of the Filipinos who have control of the legislature it reflects discreditably upon them. It may be that they are endeavoring by this method to emphasize their clash with the governor general and to strengthen their demand for independence. But if such is th case they are making a serious mistake. They are accentuating the fact that they are unwilling to abide by the laws under which they are living, that they are tolerating conditions which are against good government and that they are dangerously resentful of law enforcement such as the governor general has stood for.

From the time the United States assumed the responsibility in the Philippines, it has been pointed out that there is an unwillingness to release that responsibility until the Filipinos are able to take care of themselves, and that there is an unwillingness to cast them loose and then be obliged to resume control because of the mismanagement that might result.

When legislative leaders in the Philippines take such an attitude as they have and are credited with threatening further embarrassing action, even though under the guise of seeking independence, it reveals not only a lack of appreciation for the services that have been rendered the islands but an unfitness to assume the responsibility of self government. They plainly indicate that the islands are headed for that very state of affairs which would require that resumption of control should they be cast loose, and which step it has been the determination of this country to avoid.

Efforts in behalf of independence that can be constructively indulged in will raise no objection. Whenever the Filipinos follow wild leadership in doing detrimental and resentful things it clearly demonstrated a lack of fitness and pushes much further away the day when freedom will be obtained. If the Filipinos think the people of this country are going to support them against Governor General Wood they are making the greatest mistake of their lives.

BERGDOLL'S MEDICINE.

There is a revival of the talk about the voluntary return of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll to the United States. So far it has not gotten beyond the point of talk and that being by the young man's mother rather than by himself. It was claimed that the purpose of her visit to Europe was to persuade him to come back and "take his medicine" and that, in her opinion, has been successful.

Bergdoll has created a great amount of resentment not only by his efforts to dodge military service, but by the manner in which he has cast aspersions at this country since fleeing from it. Not only did he dodge military service but he succeeded in dodging justice. He got away to that freedom which he desired and which he has insisted he was enjoying to the discomfort of the United States.

But when he went he was obliged to leave a comfortable fortune in this country. He has not been able to get the benefit of that and it is the loss of such that has given him cause for reflection. It is because of that that he must come back to this country if he ever expects to regain possession of it. There is no one that can claim it for him.

It isn't to be supposed that the United States has forgotten Bergdoll, or that it will permit him to return without taking him into custody. There is an unserved sentence hanging over his head, and it is only natural to expect that there will be an additional penalty for escaping. Thus when it is asserted that he is ready to return and "take his medicine" it must be assumed to mean that he is prepared for the worst for it can be expected that if there is such a thing as administering the "medicine" Bergdoll will be the one to get it, and knowing his history and his conduct the public will expect the authorities to give him the full benefit of the example which his first arrest was expected to accomplish.

It will be a case of eating crow for Bergdoll but he can certainly expect a liberal serving provided he feels about his return as his mother seems to think he does.

THE STRUGGLE IN OKLAHOMA.

Some day the true light will be thrown upon the conditions which exist in Oklahoma. Just now the governor and his opponents seems to be endeavoring to get the drop on the other. Entirely unexpected was the action of Governor Walton in summoning the legislature into special session in advance of the date fixed for its convening at the call of a majority of the members. He calls it for a different purpose, being interested in having a law passed that will protect the people from "masked and lawless marauders and secret organizations."

The legislature has summoned itself for the purpose of taking action looking to the impeachment of the governor because of the high handed manner in which he has been running the state and the manner in which they consider he has exceeded his authority as governor. In this connection it is interesting to note that the governor insists that nothing will be permitted to stand in the way of the legislative session which he has called from taking action regarding him if it so desires.

Since the election, conditions in Oklahoma appear to have cooled off a bit. The governor has beem making a strong fight against the Klan and Klan methods. Were it a fact that he was not subject to serious criticism for acts of his own he might have obtained much more support than he did. At least he would not have aroused the opposition of those who are opposed to the Klan. The situation has thus far disclosed the fact that feeling in that state has run quite as strong against the governor as it has against the Klan, and the governor in calling his special session of the legislature seems to hope that he can get action against the Klan, despite the fact that he claimed it was under Klan control, previous to experiencing such treatment as it may decide to hand out to him.

CANAL BENEFITS.

When the Panama canal was being advocated and after its construction was started it was frequently pointed out what advantages it was going to give to commerce between the countries of North and South America, especially between the countries lying on the opposite side of the other continent.

From the number of ships using the canal and the steadily increasing returns therefrom it is evident that great benefits are being obtained, but the gains in exports and imports between the countries to which the advantages have been extended tell the story in another way. During seven months of this year, in comparison with a like period last year, it is shown that our exports to Chile gained 56 per cent; to Peru, 47 per cent; to Columbia 28 per cent; to Ecuador 8 per cent and to all Central America over 20 per cent.

That is a healthy trade improvement in which the canal directly figured. But while we are sending this increase in goods to these countries we are likewise drawing more from them as Chile shows an increase of 120 per cent in exports to this country, the Latin-American countries in general showing a gain of 50 per cent and Central America about 60 per cent. And what the great ditch has done in the past it will continue to do and increase in the future.

FROM LUCILLE'S DIARY

Not long ago Louise Fuller said to me that she felt that she ought to have a large dinner party to repay her social obligations to the many friends who had entertained her and Canby since their marriage. She said she dreaded it.

"Why Louise, I should think you would love to have a party" I remarked. "I thought you were a most hospitable person." Anyway, I offered to engage Mrs. Reid as caterer and suggested a dinner place."

"What's that?" inquired Louise, whose French is notably weak.

"An iced dinner." It will be something new and just the thing for this warm weather. We can begin with cold jellied bouillon, have potato chips with chilled lobster, a frozen salad and cucumbers on ice and other frigid vegetables, with a nice sherbet and for dessert a frozen pudding. It will be a dinner to talk about, my dear."

It always takes rather long to fire Louise's imagination with a new idea, but at last I got her interested in the dinner place and we had a lot of fun planning it. I suggested that the centerpiece should be a large cake of ice, cut to look like an iceberg and surrounded by a sea of green smilax.

A few days before the date set for the dinner Louise telephone me in distress because she could hear nothing from Mrs. Reid. She said she couldn't get her by telephone.

"That's strange. Probably it's because she is so busy. You know, she's such a popular caterer that she is away from her home a great deal. But I'll get in touch with her and everything will be all right." I said reassuringly, inwardly wondering now I had happened to forget to engage Mrs. Reid. I really should not undertake so many commissions for my friends. My mind becomes overburdened with vicarious cares. I called Mrs. Reid over and over again, with no response. Then mother told me that she had gone out of town for several weeks.

"What in the world can I do?" groaned Louise when I told her the news. "I never would have sent out the invitations if you hadn't promised me Mrs. Reid's assistance, Lucile."

"Now don't fuss dear. You can borrow your mother's maid, and Cousin Fannie and I'll both help you. Everything will go beautifully and you'll be saved the expense of a caterer," I said soothingly.

Cousin Fannie was a perfect brick. She and I went over early the day of the dinner and she made nearly all the things which had to be done at home, while I ordered the sherbet and frozen pudding and went to the florist's to select the flowers and smilax. I also rearranged some of the furniture to make the apartment look more artistic. Cousin Fannie stayed to see about all the last things while I went home to dress.

On the street car I was chilled by a sudden icy wind. I was shaking with the cold when I reached home, and I thought of the dinner place with dread and horror. I dare say I was sensitive to the cold because of having overworked at Louise's.

Cousin Fannie came into my room at midnight and reproached me for not having gone to the dinner. She said Louise was greatly hurt when she got the message I had had Tillie phone her.

"I not dressed for dinner at all, had to take your place, Lucile. It was dreadful."

"You're never dreadful, dear," I said sweetly. "I hope the dinner went off nicely."

"That icy meal on a chilly night like this wasn't conducive to gayety and poor Louise was awfully upset. How could you stay away?"

"I'm not responsible for the vagaries of the climate. I was afraid I should have pneumonia, if I ate that iced food. Map Latewood turned up unexpectedly from Atlanta and I felt I couldn't decline his invitation to dinner and the theatre. He is an old friend, you know."

"What about Louise? Isn't she an old friend?" Cousin Fannie asked caustically. I am afraid that my dear cousin is losing her sweet disposition as she grows older. It is too bad. —Chicago News.

CHILD TRAINING

How Children Learn Ease of Manner

By Edith Lochridge Reid

A mother remarked the other day in the course of a conversation on child discipline, "I don't see why it is that my children always act worse when we have guests than at any other time. I'm sure it isn't because they haven't been instructed how to behave."

Now this mother was perfectly sincere in her remark, yet her own phrasing contains the secret of her distress over her children's behavior. Would a child learn to play the piano by being instructed if he didn't practice playing every day? Yet that mother was expecting just as improbable a performance in behavior. She was stressing the old idea of "company manners," and expecting the children to put on culture just as they put on clothes for the dinner party. And because they didn't she was deeply grieved and disappointed.

The reason why children of this type act worse when there are guests than they do ordinarily, is because of strain and nervous tension. In the mother's anxiety to have affairs move smoothly she has held out the threats as to what will happen if all the last minute "Donts" aren't observed, and the result has been to create an unnatural condition that is confusing and disastrous to poise and courtesy.

But aside from the mother's embarrassment over slips of etiquette and behavior, this idea of "putting on manners" is very unwise training for children. They gradually learn to act on artificial motives and lose sight of the genuine and vital character traits that are worth while and lasting.

Just the idea of alluding to the various articles of table appointment as "company silver" and "guest linen," and so on, through all the china and glassware, suggests to the child a feeling of stiffness, and an atmosphere formal and conventional, though he does not analyze it in just those terms.

Why not use the good dishes and linen and silverware occasionally for just the home folks? Then daughter Lois will not cause a panic when there are guests by piping up "Oh, goody, we have the fruit in the best hand-painted bowl." If the little ones become accustomed every day to what is good enough for guests, a great deal of strain for both parents and children is bound to be eliminated.

Right in line with this follows the fact that the place to start preparing the child in "company manners" is the first day he sits in his high chair to eat a meal. There is no need for a tot even this age to throw his spoon and cracker on the floor continually, or to upset his broth or porridge. He may as well learn right then not to stand up in his chair, not to put his face down in his plate and not to scream for what he can't have. This much at least can then be omitted from the "instructions" when the Browns come over to dine a few years later.

When mother is alone and playing with the babies she can teach them much by pretending visitors. They may come in and call on her and advance and take her hand. It will become natural in a very short time.

A mother who includes good manners and polite behavior in the everyday home life, will never have reason to force courtesy upon her children."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Carl R. Gray, who declares that consolidation of railroads can be so accomplished as to maintain competitive service and even enhance, has been president of the Union Pacific railroad since 1919. His career has been the conventional one of a railroad president of the latter-day type. He began as a telegraph operator and station agent on the Santa Fe in 1883, and seventeen years later became its general manager. In 1911 he became president of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Electric Railways, and the following year was elected president of the Great Northern railroad. Subsequently he held the presidency of the Western Maryland system. During the war Mr. Gray was director of the division of transportation of the United States railroad administration.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

HUPEH

Kidnapping of two American priests at Tsaoshih, China, turns attention of the Christian world to a region of a pioneer missionary activity in the Orient, to the triple-city "Chicago of China," and to a province where cotton, wheat and tobacco far outrank the rice crop.

"For Tsaoshih is in Hupeh province, northwest of Hankow, and near enough to be called a suburb in our terminology," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Across one river from Hankow—the narrow, turbulent Han Kiang—is the sister city, Hanyang; and across the mile-wide Yangtze from Hanyang is Wachang. Wachang was famous and venerable when Hankow was a fishing hamlet. Today Hankow lords it over both her sister cities because she sends her cargoes to the seven seas. Her trade outshines her neighbors' temples.

"Nowhere else in the world does a community of this size—the municipal 'Tripolis' has a million and a quarter people—do an ocean going business of such magnitude so far from the sea. For Hankow is nearly 600 miles up the Yangtze.

"The Chinese call the three cities 'The Collecting Place for Nine Provinces,' with a show of accuracy, and a rather less moderate nickname is 'Hub of the Universe.'

"A brief stroll through Hankow's streets with an interpreter would impress an American advertising man that, as slogan writers, the Chinese might offer helpful hints.

"Gaudy and distinctive signs on Hankow shops are as characteristic as the electric sky-signs of Broadway. After each firm name is a motto—a legend of good omen—and when a store changes hands the sign is an item of high value, both for its intrinsic worth and for what we would term a trademark. Moreover there is a regulation of custom, if not of law, regarding these signs for each trade has boards of distinctive shape, special color and perhaps a peculiar design of lacquer.

"Nor is that all. Coolies with rickshas, and coolies with big bundles on bamboo poles, yell and bump into each other despite their yells. Should a mandarin be borne along, the deafening din becomes truly terrible. His coolies seem chosen for their shouting power.

"One would rather wear ear muffs than forego the shops. Their variety is amazing. They offer bean cakes and coffins, rolls of silk and melon seeds, dates and drugs and idols. A child would find a paradise in those which display figures of horses, elephants, carts, and tigers until his parent pulled him away, knowing these were the gruesome tokens sold to bury with the dead.

"Approach the river front, along the Bund, and the scene changes. Here are buildings in Russian, English, German and French architecture. But Hankow's most amazing spectacle is the panorama of junks of many types, ungainly but performing like trained seals in the hands of their expert rivermen and thousands of these craft line up for miles on both sides of both rivers. It is estimated that 25,000 of them ply in and out of the three cities.

"Hupeh, like its metropolis, is a densely populated province. Its area is equal to that of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island combined. Its population is one third greater than these, our most populous states.

"Its soil is fertile, especially in the Han valley, yet even with that advantage the wonder is that its hordes eke out a living with such primitive implements. The native usese a single-handed, iron-pointed plow, and not infrequently a man and a donkey are yoked together to pull it. Wooden mallets for breaking up clods, stones for threshing, and bamboo flails still are employed. Cotton, wheat tobacco and beans are the principal crops.

"Up this valley, flat and prairie-like, runs the Hankow-Peking express with superabundant 'service'—one porter for baggage, another to dust one's shoes and bring in wet towels frequently as pleasant relief for perspiring passengers, a third to serve tea, a fourth to make beds, and others the traveler wots not of until they line up at his journey's end for tips. That expense is more than atoned for in the meals of many courses, each abundant and delicious, which cost less than a dollar."

Stories That Recall Others

The Sunday Book.

The pastor of the church had exchanged pulpits for Sunday and the honor of entertaining the visiting pastor for dinner fell to the X family. Mrs. X was brushing up things and preparing for the guest so did not attend service. At noon the minister, accompanied by the husband who had attended, services arrived to find the latter's little boy industriously turning over the pages of the Bible, which bore little evidence of thumb marks.

"My boy," exclaimed the minister, "you can't read that book, can you?"

"I don't know," the boy replied, "Ma just put it out today."

Applied Psychology.

Considerable notice was being taken of a five-year-old by one of the men of the neighborhood. He liked to tease him to see the interesting responses. One day he did a trick that made the youngster think he was pulling nickels out of the boy's ear. He would reach over to his ear, snap his fingers and out of the ear would drop a nickel.

Then another neighbor who had witnessed the trick caught hold of the other ear, snapped his fingers and out would come a dime.

They got the boy to thinking that about anybody else but himself could give his ear a little jerk and a nickel or a dime would drop out.

Then away went the kid to a grocery store, asked for a dime's worth of candy and when he had got it he turned his head around to the clerk so that his ear was up and said:

"Give it a little jerk and the money'll come out."

WEDDINGS

Gadle—Donovan

At 5 o'clock Tuesday morning in St. Patrick's church Paul Francis Gadle, M. D., of 196 Central avenue and Miss Minnie Irene Donovan, daughter of John and Ellen Shea Donovan of 78 McKinley avenue, were united in marriage. The solemn nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. M. H. May, with Rev. W. A. Keefe, deacon, Rev. Rocco Guerriero, sub deacon, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, master of ceremonies and Rev. Frederick Coholan, thurifer. At the offertory Miss Eleanor Donovan sang Gounoud's Ave Maria.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Julia Donovan as bridesmaid and the best man was Joseph P. Gadle, Jr., brother of the groom. Frank A. Sisk and Dr. J. W. Callahan were ushers. The bride's gown was of white crepe satin cut entrain and she wore a cap shaped veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. Her bridesmaid wore orchid georgette with black picture hat and carried a bouquet of sweet heart roses.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast and reception at the home of the bride's parents, at 78 McKinley avenue, the Wauregan catering. The bride's gift to the groom was a gold pen knife and watch charm. To her bridesmaid she gave a sum of money in gold. The groom's gift to the best man was a pair of platinum K. of C. cuff links and to his ushers he gave gold pen knives. The bride received many beautiful gifts.

Dr. Gadle is the son of Joseph and Margaret Murtha Gadle and was born in Norwich. He graduated from the local schools and was graduated from the Norwich Free Academy, class of 1912, the University of Vermont Medical college, class of 1917, and for two years was an interne at the Backus hospital. Dr. Gadle who has built up a large practice in Norwich is a member of the Backus hospital staff.

His bride was born in Norwich and for several years has been employed as a supervisor at the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company.

During the day Dr. and Mrs. Gadle left for a wedding trip of two weeks by automobile. They will be at home in a newly furnished apartment at 196 Central avenue after December 1st. The bride's traveling gown was of taupe velour, trimmed with squirrel fur and she wore a black velvet hat.

Foley—Purvis.

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Purvis of the New London turnpike have announced the marriage of their daughter, Hazel Mildred Purvis, and James C. Foley of 366 Central avenue. The marriage took place Monday at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church parsonage, Rev. J. Harlow Graham officiating.

Miss Purvis attended the Norwich Free Academy and is a graduate of the Lawrence Hospital Training School for Nurses, New London, and is a registered nurse. Mr. Foley is employed by the Connecticut company.

Blum—Grossman.

Oscar Blum of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Blum of No. 50 Washington street, this city, and Miss Anna Grossman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Grossman of Brooklyn, were united in marriage Sunday evening at the Beth Sholemen synagogue, New York city, by Rabbi Levine, assisted by Rabbi Jackbovitz. Guests were present at the wedding from Washington, D. C., Hartford, Vermont and Norwich.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after which the bride and groom left for an automobile trip through Canada.

Grenier—Bushnell.

Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock Miss Edith Bushnell, daughter of Irving Bushnell of Scotland road, became the bride of Elmer Grenier, son of Mrs. William Grenier of Montville. The bride wore white crepe and carried white carnations. The bridesmaid was Miss Ethel Bushnell, twin sister of the bride, and Archie Grenier, a brother of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaid wore light blue radio silk and carried pink carnations.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's father. The bride received many presents, including cut glass, silver and money.

Mr. and Mrs. Grenier will reside in a newly furnished home at Norwich Town. The bride has been employed by the American Thermos Bottle company, Mr. Grenier being employed at the Crescent Fire Arms.

FUNERALS.

Mildred A. Ring.

The funeral of Mildred A. Ring was held Tuesday morning at 9.15 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ring, 44 Lafayette street. In the attendance were relatives from other cities and there were a number of floral forms. At 10 o'clock a requiem mass was held at St. Patrick's church with Rev. Myles P. Galvin as celebrant. Mrs. Frank L. Farrell rendered a hymn at the close of the mass. Burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery, and a committal service was read by Rev. M. H. May.

The bearers were Walter R. Ring, William Ensling, Charles and Joseph Vounes, Felix Claigne and Daniel Foley.

Undertakers Cummings & Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

SECURING STATISTICS ON NORWICH LIQUOR CASES

Two government employes from Washington were here Tuesday to secure police statistics for the year from July 1, 1922 to July 1, 1923, concerning intoxication and liquor cases. They looked over the police books for the year to find out how many arrests there had been for liquor selling, how many convictions, the amount of fines paid, how many arrests for intoxication and the fines paid or jail sentences served.

LORETTA HIGGINS TRIUMPHS IN FIRST CONCERT IN HOME TOWN

When Loretta Higgins graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in 1916 she was leader and soloist of the Girls' Glee club in its concert at Slater hall. Two years ago in June, almost on her 22d birthday, she sailed from New York to study in Paris for grand opera. Tuesday night she sang her way to a veritable ovation from an audience of over 1,000, one of the greatest that Slater hall has ever held, in her first concert in America since her successful debut last August as a member of the Opera Comique in Paris.

The house had been practically sold out almost from the first day the tickets were placed on sale by the Norwich Rotary club, under whose auspices the concert was given for the benefit of the John S. Blackmar memorial fund for boys' work, and extra seats had been placed in the annex and also on the stage to accommodate all who wished to attend.

From the first burst of applause at the appearance of the singer for her opening number, the enthusiasm of the audience was unrestrained and it grew as the program progressed until at the close the big crowd remained sitting in their seats and applauding until Miss Higgins had come back for three encores and indicated that the program was over with smiling French courtesies to all parts of the house.

The following was the program:

| | |
|---|---|
| I L'Enfant Prodigue, | Debussey |
| II (a) La Maison grise, | Messager |
| (b) Les Vielles de Chez nous, | Levade |
| (c) Elegie, | Massenet |
| (d) Seguidille, | DeFalla |
| III (a) The Lass With the Delicate Air, | Arne |
| (b) Ashes of Roses, | Woodman |
| (c) The Heart Call, | Vanderpool |
| IV Aria from "Manon," | Massenet |
| V (a) At Parting, | Rogers |
| (b) Duna, | McGill |
| (c) Song of the Open, | LaForge |

Miss Higgins displayed a soprano voice of beautiful tonal quality, velvet in smoothness, which she handled with the control of the accomplished singer and artist. Round and full and certain was every note in the register and she showed admirable command of diction and phrasing. Musical critics in the audience acclaimed her as the greatest singer Norwich has ever produced.

In the opening group of French songs, she showed her adaptability to interpretive requirements, and the insistent applause at the close brought her back to bow her acknowledgment of the tribute.

"The Lass With the Delicate Air" was sung with delightful shading and expression and "The Heart Call," a new song by Vanderpool, written for and dedicated to Miss Higgins, proved one of the most attractive numbers on the programme. For an encore she gave a charming rendering of "Fiddle and I" and for a second encore sang with strong appeal the old familiar Carry Me Back to Old Virginny.

Miss Higgins swept her audience to new heights of applause for her splendid rendering of the Aria from "Manon," following which four ushers marched down the aisles with two big baskets of flowers and half a dozen bouquets.

Then ensued an interesting part of the evening as the singer held a whispered conversation over the footlights with one of the ushers who followed her directions and took one of the big bouquets of roses back to her mother, Mrs. M. C. Higgins, where she was seated in the audience with

MISS LORETTA HIGGINS.

Mr. Higgins and Mrs. E. P. Lyman of Somerville, Mass., an aunt of the singer. Mrs. Higgins had to rise to acknowledge the applause that followed the gracious and thoughtful act.

The final group of songs was a triumphant climax for the evening and brought forth a triple encore. Miss Higgins first responded with a spirited rendering of The Waltz Song from Romeo and Juliet, following this with Mavourneen (Lang) and closing with The Little White House With the Little Red Roof (Dietrich).

After the concert many of the audience crowded around Mr. and Mrs. Higgins or sought out Miss Higgins at the stage to offer their congratulations.

Miss Higgins wore a Callot robe de style, designed especially for her by this famous Parisian dressmaker, in rainbow tulle with blue moire ribbons and trimmings of silver lace. Her accompanist was Theron Wolcott Hart, whose fine work contributed to the success of the programme, and the concert was under the management of Robert Kellogg of Hartford.

The stage decorations by Ernst were unusually attractive in autumn foliage along the footlights and over the arch of the stage, hydrangeas and palms.

HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN WORKERS TO RECEIVE INSTRUCTION

A meeting of the entire working force for the Backus hospital appeal will be held this (Wednesday) evening at 7.30 at the Community House, upstairs. This will be the first general meeting of all the teams and their captains and commanders. Its object is to drill the workers in the methods of the campaign and to familiarize them with the story of the hospital and its needs.

The Norwich organization, which will comprise 450 workers, distributed among forty-one teams, is practically complete. Team captains have been holding meetings with their workers in order to go over details of the appeal. At this meeting the method will be explained by which all workers will be given an opportunity to select the names of the prospective subscribers on whom they prefer to call. This meeting for the selection of names will be held in the town hall at 7.30 Tuesday evening, Oct. 16.

A meeting of the campaign executive committee was held at headquarters Tuesday afternoon. James L. Case, chairman of the executive committee and campaign leader, laid before the committee the plan of organization and its personnel, and urged that every member of the executive committee give the campaign leader the benefit of their suggestions and counsel. Treadwell Cleveland, campaign director, told of the card system that will be used, and especially emphasized the fact that, because of the large organization in Norwich, the team workers will not be expected to call upon an average of more than thirty prospects each.

At the executive committee meeting it was further emphasized that the objective of $250,000 announced for the Backus hospital appeal will barely suffice for the building of the new nurses' home and for an endowment fund to maintain it. The larger objective, it was said, is a substantial addition to the general endowment fund of the hospital. On the basis of experience in other communities, it was confidently asserted that the proposed fund of $250,000 could, by persistent effort, be doubled.

The members of the executive committee, which comprises the heads of the organized units of the campaign working force, are as follows:

Chairman, James L. Case; treasurer, Nathan A. Gibbs; Henry A. Tirrell, Mayor Milo R. Waters, Herbert M. Leroux, Rev. William A. Keefe, Samuel Goldberg, James C. Macpherson, Oliver L. Johnson, Grosvenor Ely, Shepard B. Palmer, William G. Park, Philip A. Johnson, Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, Mrs. Mary R. Osgood, Mrs. James L. Case, Miss Louise C. Howe, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, Miss Kathleen A. Dowd.

Y. M. C. A. Physical Dept. Begins

The fall schedule for the Y. M. C. A. physical department was started Tuesday and judging from the interest an enthusiasm manifested by men and boys attending the opening classes, the present season bids fair to be a record breaker for the local association. Various contests and leagues will be included in the regular class work just as soon as the "gymnites" become accustomed to the preliminary exercises. During Tuesday night's session of the senior class plans were made to begin a big athletic league shortly. The new classes starting today and Thursday are as follows:

Wednesday, 3-4 p. m., older boys; 4-5 intermediate boys.

Thursday, 3 to 5, Junior boys; 5.15-6 business men, 7-8 employed boys; 8.15 to 9.15 business men.

GIVES JUDGMENTS FOR PLAINTIFFS IN FOUR SUITS

Judge Isaac Wolfe Tuesday morning in New London handed down decisions in four cases which have been tried before him at the present term of court.

In the case of Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt of Mystic, against James Dunlop of Concord, Mass., for professional services, the plaintiff is awarded $1,200. Attorney Hewitt sued for $2,500. The services were in connection with a foreclosure suit brought by Mr. Dunlop against the Allen Spool and Wood Turning Co., of Mystic.

Ezekiel Spitz, proprietor of the City Coal Co., New London, is awarded $573.04 in his suit against Harry M. Shalett, manager of Shalette's Cleaning, Dyeing, Inc. The suit was for a coal bill and accommodation loans which the plaintiff made the defendant. The judgment is for the full amount of the claim and interest. Attorney Morris Lubchansky was counsel for the plaintiff.

A decision for the plaintiff to recover $250 is given in the case of Teresa Walsh of Stonington in her suit against Harry F. Thomas of the same town for injuries received by being bitten by a dog on July 6, 1922. Attorney Hewitt represented the plaintiff.

In the case of A. C. Persons of Willimantic against Alfred Fusconi of Groton for $1,600 damages for an automobile accident, judgment is given for the plaintiff to recover $581.20. The accident occurred on the highway between Noank and Mystic, at Brown's Corner, in August last, when a Nash sedan, driven by the defendant, collided with a Buick touring car of the plaintiff. Attorney Warren B. Burrows represented the plaintiff.

OBITUARY.

Rev. Joseph Henry Selden

Rev. Joseph Henry Selden, the youngest son of Caroline Lord and Joseph Selden, who passed away Tuesday evening at his home, 270 Broadway, was born at Hadjyme, September 23, 1856, coming to Norwich in 1859. He graduated from the Norwich Academy and from Amherst college in the class of 1878.

He then attended Andover Theological Seminary and on his graduation was awarded a scholarship which took him to England for the study of church music and liturgies. After traveling on the continent he returned to give a course of lectures at Andover Seminary.

In 1894 he accepted the pastorate of the old First Presbyterian church of Erie, Pa., and the same year was married to Miss Florence Bill of Norwich. At various times he was pastor of churches at Cleveland, Ohio, Elgin, Illinois and Greenwich, Conn. Dr. Selden was a corporate member of the American Board of Foreign Missions and for many years was chairman of the co-operative committee for New York city.

He had a broad and technical knowledge of music which he keenly enjoyed. He was also an enthusiastic and widely read student of history and this added greatly to the the interest and enjoyment of four trips abroad when he travelled in Europe, Egypt and the Holy Land.

Eleven years ago Dr. Selden suffered a severe illness and did not regain his health. By rigid but cheerful self-denial he gained strength and to his great satisfaction was able to assist the Broadway church during the 18 months it was without a pastor and to serve as chairman of the Norwich Red Cross during the World war.

He leaves his wife, Florence Bill Selden, one son, Henry Bill Selden of Connecticut college, New London; three greatly loved grandchildren, Mary, Joseph Henry, 2nd, and Jane Potter Selden, and a sister, Miss Elisabeth Selden of Norwich.

Third Birthday Gathering.

Shirley Cecilia Kaplan was the hostess to a large number of her little friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kaplan, Hill street, at a party for her third birthday. Amidst decorations of pink, dressed in a charming tan imported Canton crepe dress, with red embroidered beads, shoes and socks to match, the little hostess received her guests. Numerous vocal and musical selections were rendered and Shirley Cecille rendered her favorite ballad dance to the admiration of all.

A dainty lunch followed and many gifts were received from out of town as well as from her little guests.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION AT NORWICH BELT FIRE

During the fire at the Norwich Belt Manufacturing company's plant on North Main street early Tuesday evening there was a line of half a hundred automobiles of all sizes and makes drawn up alongside the curbing in front of the plant, watching the firemen at work. The traffic congestion for a short while resembled a Saturday night jam at Times Square.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do every thing that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAIECHECK, 944 28th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

ALL FAT PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW THIS

Fat people owe a debt of gratitude to the author of the now famous Marmola Prescription, and are still more indebted for the reduction of this harmless, effective obesity remedy to tablet form. # MISS JESSIE F. SMITH, DIES SUDDENLY IN NEW LONDON STORE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 9.—The result of the inquiry by Rev. T. W. Crowley as to why the city of New London should pay the wages of policemen and provide an automobile for them to hunt bootleggers and other sellers of liquor in adjacent towns brought a reply from the city manager and the state attorney for New London county, and the city council is to forward the reply it received from the officials named to Rev. Dr. Crowley. The gist of the reply is that the city will not have to pay for the automobile hire in the future and the police officers will not be called on to do work outside the city except in special cases where they are pursuing some criminal who has run away. The inquiry also brought out that the city proposes to buy and own its own automobiles and that it will proceed to carry out that plan as soon as convenient. The city will decide upon the make of automobile it deems best suited for its varied purposes, then the automobile service of the city will be standardized and a garage will be supplied by the city and a chauffeur or "hostler" will be kept there constantly and will have charge of all power vehicles of the city outside the fire department. A check will be kept upon all service rendered by each car, the most of maintenance, and other data that will show just what each car does and what the expense of the vehicle is. A schedule that will give this information at a glance is to be prepared by the city manager and then an appropriation will be asked for that will establish such a department as is contemplated. City Manager Holt asked for the appropriation of a sum of money sufficient to buy an automobile for the police, also for a patrol wagon, but when the matter came to be considered in its broader light the provision of a garage and other automobiles was decided on.

Councilor Whiton has served notice on the members of the police force that suspension from duty is to be considered when the time comes that any officer of the department shall ask for retirement on half pay or on any pay. Recent happenings have brought the retirement of police officers into the public eye and there is a sentiment among members of the council that will be antagonistic to retirement with compensation unless the officer asking such retirement and pay shall have been a faithful and conscientious servant of the people. A record is to be kept by the council and by the police department and offenses will be charged up against all officers who are disciplined at any time.

The commandants of the forts, the coast guard and the submarine base have recently expressed themselves to the officials of the city to the effect that the police department of New London has shown more judgment and tact in dealing with the uniformed forces located here and hereabouts than has been shown at any other stations along the coast, or indeed anywhere the commanding officers have any knowledge of.

Judge Prince was puzzled to decide what to do with Frank Porkonitsky, charged with failing to support his wife, when the latter was presented by Prosecutor Cronin in the police court today, but with the assistance of the female interpreter in the court he was able to reach a decision. According to Mrs. Porkonitsky, she has borne fourteen children for her husband and eight of them are alive and with one exception are dependent upon the mother for support, so she demands some of the wages she says her husband earns as a freight pusher at the wharf of the New England Steamship company. The woman described Frank as good enough when he is asleep. At other times she says he is grouchy and hard to get along with. She is 40 and married when she was young and foolish. Of course the husband denied all that was said about him. He declared that he had never taken a drink since the day that prohibition came to these United States. As the probation officer has been called to the Porkonitzky house several times and found Frank celebrating with liquor, the statement of Porkonitzky was not accepted by the court as absolutely true. Judge Prince gave Frank his choice of going to work, as there was a demand from his employer for his services, and paying his wife $8 a week, or going to jail for three months, and he accepted the former. Mrs. Porkonitzky is employed in a mill and earns, when she works long days, $14 a week. At other times she receives $8 a week.

A friend of one of the rum-runners relates that a man nabbed for carrying liquor on a small boat that came to grief here begun his enterprise when he was a fisherman running out of Miami, Fla. He was barely getting a living in that business so when a well-to-do resident there asked him to bring him back from Nassau a bottle or two of liquor and receive good compensation, the fisherman gladly consented to take a chance. He was successful in getting one bottle and bringing it from Nassau to Miami. Then he brought other bottles and did not bring them in singly. His reward came so easily that he engaged in the business of bringing liquor to the Florida port wholly on his own account and at his own risk in disposing of it. He brought load after load finally, and made so much money that he invested it in real estate and now has nearly $100,000 of property in the south. But his rum-running brought disaster and his vessel went ashore. He lost the craft and is not disposed to get another to take the place of the vessel lost. He says he dare not take the risk again, though he assumed it without a second thought originally.

Rev. Father Deshon assembly, K. of C., will exemplify the fourth degree in this city Sunday next at the local armory, when 250 candidates are expected from all parts of the state. The committee of the local council has invited the city council members to review the procession when it passes up State street on the way to the armory at 4 o'clock. The line of march is to be down Tilley street, up Bank and State streets, to the armory.

Miss Jessie F. Smith, 62, of 55 Huntington street, a milliner, with business on Union street, died suddenly of heart trouble this morning at her store, being attacked without warning. Miss Smith is survived by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, and by a sister, Nellie M. Smith. She was a daughter of the late Hezekiah B. Smith, at one time postmaster here and prominently identified with the Connecticut National guard. Medical Examiner Harold H. Heyer after an investigation pronounced death due to heart trouble.

Mrs. Anna Struzienski of Niantic, Fred Scott of High street and George Sherman of Point Judith were patients discharged today at Lawrence hospital.

Max Elliott, owner of the power boat Jennie, reported to the police this forenoon that a day or two ago a boatman appeared at the municipal wharf and moored a launch, going away a short time after he tied his craft up. This morning when Elliott appeared at the wharf the power boat was sunk. Elliott informed the police that he had removed some of the engine parts as a matter of precaution against thieves.

Mrs. P. W. Miller, residing at No. 67 Montauk avenue, complained to the police this forenoon that boys are destroying her garden, making a practice of running through the place and destroying the flowers that she takes pride in cultivating.

An automobile owned by Arthur W. Bruce of East Lyme was stolen last night from Union street. Bruce came to New London early last evening and parked the car near Union lodge room. About 11.30 o'clock, when he decided to return home Bruce discovered that the car had been stolen.

Mrs. Joseph Fino and infant daughter of Blydenburg avenue, Mrs. Mary Campanello of Pierce street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Mary H. Robinson, 87, widow of James H. Beers, died late Monday at the home of her son, Huntley H. N. Beers, of the Golden Spur, Waterford. Mrs. Beers had been an invalid several years. She is survived by two sons, Huntley R. N., with whom she resided, and William Beers of New Haven, three sisters, Mrs. Coles of Mamaroneck, N. Y., Mrs. Brickerhoff of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Cornell of Jamaica, L. I., also six grandchildren.

John Kramer of Colchester was painfully injured this afternoon when a tree fell upon him in the woods near Westerly. At Lawrence hospital, to which institution Kramer was removed, it was stated that he is suffering from fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. Kramer was engaged in cutting down trees and one of them dropped to the ground. Before Kramer could get out of the way he was struck and pinned to the ground. Fellow workers went to his assistance and after being given emergency aid the man was taken to the hospital.

Rev. Joseph Raniszewski, pastor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, has returned from White Sulphur Springs, where he has been receiving treatment for a malady from which he has long been a sufferer, and has been greatly benefited.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Walter H. Buffington to Miss Gertrude Ellen Fraser, daughter of Mrs. H. A. Fraser of Broad street.

Albert Lang, 20, of New York, arrested Sunday night, charged with reckless driving and evading the payment of toll across the Thames river highway bridge, will have to work out the fine of $25 and costs imposed in the police court yesterday forenoon, contrary to Lang's expectations. This morning, in response to a telegram sent by Lang to his mother, asking for funds by which his fine could be paid, the young man's mother replied that she was sorry for his predicament but that she did not possess the necessary money to get him out of his confinement.

Acting Detective Edward Daniels detected a youth this afternoon lurking about an automobile on Bank street and when the lad finally stepped to the running board of the machine the officer approached the lad in time to observe him remove the key from the switch. Detective Daniels got the information that the youthful culprit had visited three other cars and had removed the switch keys. Two of the cars were still in the neighborhood and the youngster was compelled to return the keys to the owners. The remaining two keys were deposited at the police station. Detective Daniels had the boy's mother informed of the incident.

The automobile owned and operated by Louis Villano, in passing through Church street this afternoon knocked down an unidentified boy of six or seven years. The boy refused to give his name and walked away declaring that he wanted to go to his mother. The boy was on the sidewalk and started to cross the street, and stepped directly in the path of the car before Villano could bring the machine to a stop.

James M. Graves complained to the police this evening that a house of which he is the agent, corner of Main and Douglass streets, was being visited by mischievous persons, probably boys.

The formal opening of the winter program of the Diocesan Bureau of Social service, 48 Jay street, took place at the bureau last evening. Miss Delia Moroney, the new district secretary in charge announced today that the classes to be conducted will be open to Catholics and non-Catholics alike. Friday evening of each week a social hour will be enjoyed on the other evenings educational and home training courses will be given. Mrs. Nicia Whiteside has taken charge of the home nursing class, Mrs. Mary Murray the millinery class; Mrs. William D. Noonan the basket weaving class; Miss Julia O'Sullivan, the dressmaking class; Mrs. Fred J. Bacon the music class and Miss Elizabeth Dubois Bache, associate professor of home economics at Connecticut College for Women, the domestic science class. Miss Bache will conduct a class in dietetics if there is a sufficient demand to start such a class. Enrollment in the various courses will continue throughout the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Schwartz are spending a few days in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hall have returned home, having spent a few days with their son, Clarence F. Hall, who is a student at Rensseler Polytechnic school, at Troy, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Reilly of Detroit, Mich. are guests of the Misses Donohue at Ocean Beach.

Mrs. Robert A. McKim and daughter, Miss Caroline McKim, summer residents here, have returned to New York after being guests at the Hotel Mohican several days. Mrs. McKim closed her summer home on Glenwood avenue several weeks ago.

Henry L. Dorsey and Waldo E. Clarke, candidates for election to the city council two weeks ago, today filed their expenses at the office of the city clerk. Mr. Clarke, the successful candidate expended $168.50, while Mr. Dorsey spent $18.50.

GOSHEN

M. Goldstein has sold his farm at Stark's four corners, formerly known as the J. Stark farm, to a Polish purchaser. Mr. Goldstein and family have bought a farm in Colchester, moving there last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wooding of Central Village were recent guests of friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Randall and daughter, Miss Amy Randall of Andover, were with friends here Sunday.

At the Community club meeting on Oct. 3, the following program was given: Club song; report of secretary; business; musical solo, The Music of the Bells; musical selections on the autoharp; solo; reading, The Days of Long Ago; reading of the club paper, The Goshen News; instrumental selection, The Music of the Bells; reading, The Old Cast Iron Stove; violin selection. The sale of candy netted $7. The committee appointed reported favorably on the purchase of an up-to-date radio outfit for the club.

A number from here attended the centennial celebration in Manchester Friday, when 30 bands of music participated in the exercises.

WILLINGTON

The following officers were elected at town meeting last Monday: Town clerk, George P. Bugbee, r; town treasurer, Robert T. Jones, r; selectmen, William H. Brackett, r, W. C. Ruby, r, Merritt Usher, d; assessor, Lodis C. Dimock, r; constables, William O. Eldredge, r, Charles Woodworth, r; board of relief, F. Romaine Tucker, r, William O. Eldredge, r; auditors, Mrs. Annie Service, r, Merritt Usher, d; collector of taxes, James T. Service, r; registrars of voters, Arthur S. Spicer, r, D. L. Royce, d; agent town deposit fund, Charles Gurley, r; school committee, Rosa O. Hall, r, Charles Pobuda, r, D. L. Royce, d; library directors, Rosa O. Hall, r, Frances Merserseau, r, Mildred S. Amidon, r, Mrs. Alice Hall, r, Mrs. R. L. Birdsall, r. The votes for constitutional amendment were 24 in favor, 2 against. It was voted to accept the offer to purchase the Congregational church for $1 for town purposes and it will be repaired by the town. For many years it has not been in use, as the Congregational members had mostly moved away or died, and the remainder were federated with the Baptist church. The present town hall will be sold and moved from its present location.

There was a centennial offering from all the Baptists in Connecticut Sunday, the collections to be sent to Hartford headquarters.

Commencing Sunday, the time of the church services was changed for the next six months. Sunday school commences at 10 o'clock in the morning and preaching is at 11.

Frank Luchart, while sawing wood recently, severed the first two fingers of his left hand cut off the end of the third and split the thumb. He was taken to Johnson hospital, returning home last Monday.

PIECES OF ANCIENT GREEK AND ROMAN SCULPTURE

Rome, Oct. 9.—Excavations in Rome's ancient main street, Corso Umberto, have brought to light many pieces of ancient Greek and Roman sculpture. Four triumphal arches stood in the Corso in ancient times, and many fragments unearthed during the improvements that are being made to the thoroughfare are thought to be portions of these arches.

In the Via Biebisalto there are traces of a great imperial palace and the walls of an ancient temple. At the Piazza Sciarra a Corinthian column was discovered and a fragment from the temple of Neptune. In the Via Caravita two ancient columns were unearthed, and also fragments from a medieval church.

Clarence C. Dill of the state of Washington, youngest member of the United States senate, was at one time a street car conductor.

YOUR INCOME

YOUR annual earning capacity or income is measured by the amount of life's necessities it will buy.

The American Woolen Company has through its activities contributed a great deal to raise the standards of weaving and to lower the cost of clothing, thus enabling you to use a larger portion of your income for other things essential to life and happiness.

Sixty mills equipped with every textile machine known to increase and improve the weaving of cloth, more than 35,000 workers, skilled in operating and caring for those machines, large resources and ready access to the world's markets rendering possible purchase of raw material in immense quantities and at favorable prices—these are the advantages of large-scale operations which lower costs of production so that the ultimate user of woolen and worsted fabrics may benefit.

NO NEED TO FEAR BALDNESS

Tells How to Make Hair Grow Strong, Thick and Lustrous.

Thousands of men and women are growing bald every day. This is needless because baldness usually comes from neglect and anyone who gives the scalp a little attention should always have an abundance of good-looking, healthy hair. Dandruff and dirt cause baldness by clogging the pores in the scalp, and giving the dandruff germs fertile ground for prolific breeding.

The treatment is very simple; remove the dirt by shampooing and destroy the dandruff germs by applying the genuine Parisian Sage, a most efficient antiseptic liquid that druggists everywhere are now recommending as one of the quickest and safest treatments to surely stop itching scalp and falling hair, remove all dandruff, and to properly nourish and invigorate the hair roots.

Parisian Sage is in great demand by discriminating women because it is daintily perfumed, does not color or streak the hair, and gives it a softness and luster that fascinates and compels admiration. Lee & Osgood Co. will guarantee it to you.

GIANTS AND YANKEES READY FOR BATTLE FOR BASEBALL HONORS OF THE WORLD

Baseball Experts Consider Series a "Toss-up" For Either Team and Betting is Now at Even Money—Yankees Have Made Best Showing During the Past Season as Giants Were Handicapped by Injuries—McGraw and Huggins Both Confident of Victories for Their Clubs—Nehf or Scott Will be McGraw's Choice for the Opening Game and Huggins Will Send in Pennock or Hoyt—Wally Pipp Will Play and Lineups Will be Practically Same as Last Year.

New York, Oct. 9—(By the A. P.)—A house divided against itself! Gotham's opposing diamond forces were arrayed tonight in battle order on the eve of that annual American institution—the world's baseball championship—for which the New York Giants and Yankees, rulers of all they surveyed for the past three seasons, will start their 1923 struggle tomorrow.

Records for attendance and receipts at a single game are expected to be shattered when the series opens tomorrow afternoon in the Yankee stadium, home of the American League champions, the biggest and costliest park in the country. It was predicted that the capacity of the stadium, 70,000, would be taxed and that the receipts would be close to $200,000. With games alternating between the stadium and the Polo Grounds, which ranks next in point of size, there are indications that all world's series turnstile records may be broken.

The Giants, who have gained baseball's premier honors for the past two years at the expense of their metropolitan rivals, enter the title battle under the indomitable leadership of John Joseph McGraw determined to establish a record of three straight triumphs. The Yankees, aided and abetted by Babe Ruth—this season's star of stars—and after winning their third straight pennant by a record margin, go into the fray equally as determined to turn the tables and wipe out the sting of reverses in 1921 and 1922.

Struggle Classed as "Toss-Up"

The experts and the "dope"—that nebulous quantity which has acquired a pretty steady habit of going wrong—played safe tonight by viewing the forthcoming struggle as a "toss-up."

There were, of course, those adherents of the Yankees who declared the supposedly superior twirling strength of the American League champions plus their improved morale and the all-around greatness of Ruth, would be the deciding factors and backers of the Giants, recalling the fighting spirit that carried them to victory in eight games in the 1921 series and the remarkable upset last fall when they routed the Yankees with four triumphs and one tie game, were just as confident that the McGraw men had the requisite punch, courage and skill to make it three straight.

But generally, keen analysts of the respective merits of the two clubs, predicted a close, hard-fought series, with the "breaks" likely to decide the issue. On paper, the Yankees, with five star twirlers, possessed a marked advantage over their rivals in pitching, that all-important factor in a short struggle, but there was evidence that the Giant mound staff had rounded into excellent form and might again duplicate its victorious achievements of last season.

Both Teams to Use Regular Lineups

Those who looked for an evenly-waged battle were strengthened in their views tonight by reports from rival camps that both teams probably would take the field tomorrow with their regular lineups intact. Some apprehension on both sides had been caused by injuries to several stars, notably Wally Pipp, first sacker of the Yankees, who had been out of the game for a fortnight with a bad ankle. Pipp, however, took his regular place in the final workout of the Yankees today and while Manager Miller Huggins declined to commit himself definitely, he indicated that the lanky guardian of the initial bag would be on the job. In the event of Pipp's inability to play, Huggins had planned to switch Ruth to first base and start either Harvey Hendrick, a recruit, or Elmer Smith, a veteran in the vacated outfield post.

Other regulars who have been on the hospital list also appeared to have rounded into shape. Casey Stengel, veteran Giant outfielder, had recovered from an injured heel, it was said, while Bob Meusel, Yankee outfielder, cavorted in practice without visible trace of the recent injury to his ankle. The only players definitely out of the contest are two reservists, Mike McNally, utility infielder of the Yankees, who has a lame ankle, and Ralph Shinners, Giant outfielder, who is in a hospital with pneumonia.

No Pitching Selections Made

No definite pitching selections for the opening game had been made known tonight by either McGraw or Huggins but they indicated that the initial struggle might be a battle of southpaws—with Arthur Nehf, diminutive star of the Giants who twirled the opening games of both 1921 and 1922, arrayed against Herb Pennock, crack southpaw of the Yankees whose acquisition from the Red Sox this season proved one of the deciding factors in the Yankee pennant triumph.

Alternate choices were understood to be Waite Hoyt, youthful right-hander of the Yankees, and Jack Scott, Giant veteran who gained fame in the last series. Both have shown a lot of "stuff" in workouts the past few days.

Nehf and Pennock, however, require considerable intervals of rest between games to be effective, it was pointed out, and for this reason they are likely to start, if they are "right", so that they will be available sooner for second assignments.

The only change in the rival lineups which pitching will affect is the centerfield post of the Giants. If Pennock twirls for the Yankees, Bill Cunningham will hold down the job, but if Hoyt or any other right-hander opposes the champions, Casey Stengel will cover the middle garden.

Ross Young and Emil Meusel will hold down the other outfield positions for the Giants while the Yankee trio, barring a last minute change by Huggins, will consist of Bob Meusel, Whitey Witt and Ruth. Against the Giant infield combination of Kelly, Frisch, Bancroft and Groh will be arrayed the Yankee inner defense of Pipp, Ward, Scott and Dugan. Wally Schang, of the Yankees and Pancho Snyder, of the Giants, are expected to handle the catching burdens, though Hank Gowdy, hero of the Boston Braves' victory in the 1914 series, may share honors with Snyder.

With the exception of the battery departments, the opposing lineups are the same as those which opposed each other last season. The Giants have added the veteran Gowdy to the catching list and Jack Bentley, a southpaw, and John Watson, former Boston Brave, to the pitching staff. Huggins' chief acquisition was Pennock, while Bengough, a Young catcher, is another new eligible.

The Pitching Staffs

The twirlers upon whom McGraw banks much of his hope of victory are Scott, Nehf, Watson, Hugh McQuillan, four veterans, with "Rosy" Ryan and Bentley, younger stars as likely reserve material. Neither of the latter is expected to start any of the games unless one or more of the veterans fail to show up to form.

Huggins besides Pennock and Hoyt, has Sam Jones, Bob Shawkey and Joe Bush to depend upon. All five have the "stuff", Shawkey and Bush have not come quite up to their 1922 form, when they were Huggins' mainstays, but Jones, Pennock and Hoyt have performed brilliantly most of this season. Jones has had the best year of his career, twirling a no-hit game against the Athletics and turning in a two-hit performance on his next mound turn.

The Yankees have displayed vastly improved team play this season. Scott, veteran shortstop, has slowed up considerably, in the opinion of critics, but this has been more than counteracted by the improvement of Ward, at second base, and the all-round fine game of Joe Dugan, at third base, and Ruth's great come-back, his spectacular work in all departments of the game, have done more than anything else to lift the club's morale.

The Giants, on the other hand, have been handicapped by injuries which kept Heinie Groh, third baseman, and Captain Dave Bancroft, shortstop, from their regular posts for many weeks of the season. The possession of good reserve material, particularly young Travis Jackson, who plugged both gaps at different times, helped pull the club through these emergencies.

Record Attendance Is Expected

Despite the fact that it has become a three-time annual affair for the local clubs, Gotham fandom has shown no lessening of interest in the diamond classic. Reserved sections of the Yankee Stadium, accommodating between 20,000 and 25,000, have been sold out, the club announced, for the first third and fifth games. All but 2,500 of the 20,000 reserved seats at the Polo Grounds, where the second, fourth and sixth games are to be played had been disposed of tonight. The place of the seventh game, if necessary, will be decided by the toss of a coin.

Expectations of world's series attendance records are based upon the fact that the Yankee stadium, seating about 70,000 and the reconstructed Polo Grounds, accommodating about 55,000, offer far larger facilities than in any series in history. The previous record of 42,620 was set in a game between Brooklyn and the Boston Red Sox at Braves' Field in 1916. The record "gate" is $123,147, established in the fifth and last game of the 1922 series. The record paid attendance at the stadium this season was 80,351.

The Umpires

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, announced the assignment of umpires for the opening game as follows: Evans, American League, at home plate; O'Day, National League, at first base; Nallin, American League, at second base; Hart, National League, at third base. They will change places daily, rotating from first base to home plate in order.

TRIS SPEAKER DENIES HE HAS MATRIMONIAL INTENTIONS

Cleveland, Oct. 9—Reports that Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, is engaged to marry Miss Frances Cudahy, of Cleveland, were denied tonight by both Speaker and Miss Cudahy.

Speaker admitted giving Miss Cudahy a large diamond ring, but both he and Miss Cudahy denied that it signified their engagement. The ring was merely a present, they said.

Speaker left tonight for a two weeks' fishing trip at Rainey Lake, Ont. Upon his return he will go to his home at Hubbard, Texas.

KACEYS OPEN BOWLING LEAGUE IN GRAND STYLE ON LOCAL ALLEYS

The Knights of Columbus bowling league went away to a good start on Tuesday evening at the Aetna alleys. Three matches were rolled between six teams of the league and the evening furnished no little amusement for the players as well as for the large number of interested spectators.

The league was set going by Grand Knight Francis T. Diggins of White Cross council, who rolled the first ball for a near-strike. Then the battle for the bowling honors of the council began in earnest with the following results:

MRS. HURD WINS MEDAL IN QUALIFYING ROUND

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia today won the qualifying medal of the Berthelyn golf tournament for women at the Huntingdon Valley Country club with a score of 80 for the 18 holes, a new woman's record for the course. Mrs. Hurd, a former national champion, led a field of more than 100 prominent women players from many sections of the country. Mrs. E. E. Marshall, also of Philadelphia, finished second with a card of 84, and Mrs. Alice Hanchett of San Francisco third with 85. Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, recently dethroned national titleholder, was fourth with 87.

Miss Priscilla Maxwell of Hartford, Conn., had 91.

Match play will start tomorrow.

LOCAL FANS FAVOR YANKS TO WIN SERIES

Since the days of Danny Murphy Norwich fans have had a slight leaning toward the American league and this year is no exception. The majority of fans locally have picked the Yankees to win the series but remembering the sad experience of last year no odds are offered on the American league champions.

Local followers of the Yanks are pinning their hopes on the admittedly stronger pitching staff of the American leaguers claiming that this year the hurling department is even stronger than a year ago. Another factor in favor of the Yanks is the fact that Babe Ruth is hitting more consistently than at any time in his career and will prove a dangerous man against the Giant hitters. Now that the return of Wally Pipp to first base for the series is assured the Yankee stock has risen among local supporters.

The Giant followers are equally as rabid in their support of the National leaguers claiming that the pitching staff is as strong as the Americans and that the team as a whole is as strong, especially in the infield. However there is very little choice between the two clubs and all dope may go wrong as it did last year when the Yanks were the reigning favorites.

RECORDS SMASHED AT LEXINGTON TRACK

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 9—(By the A. P.)—The Castleton stake, feature of today's grand circuit program, went to Czar Worthy, owned by H. L. Bowles, of Springfield, Mass., and driven by Thomas W. Murphy, in straight heats. The Great Volo, was a close contender.

Buddy Mac, from the stable of Nat Ray, and the property of J. P. Whalen, of Cleveland, proved best in the Lafayette 2:08 pace, the secondary feature. He lost the second heat to Wrack, War Bride won the 2:13 pace. The 2:07 trot went to Walter Sterling in straight heats. A new factor appeared in the unfinished 2:05 pace in Peter Daphne, winner of the two heats raced today.

The thrills were not confined to the racing program today as W. H. L. McCourtie's Mr. McElwyn, driven against time by Ben White, reduced the world record for two year old trotters to 2:04. The Good Time Stable's Ethelinda trotted in 2:02 1-2 against time, lowering the world's record for three year old trotters.

WALKER SUSPENDED FOR YEAR BY JERSEY COMMISSION

Trenton, N. J. Oct. 9.—Both Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion, and his manager, Jack Bulger, were suspended for one year in New Jersey by Commissioner Newton A. K. Bugbee of the state athletic commission today. Walker's faking a bout with Jimmy Jones at Newark last night was the reason assigned by Mr. Bugbee for his action. The case of Jones, Mr. Bugbee stated, would be taken up for consideration at a later date.

Chief Boxing Inspector Platt Adams, who was present at the show, and directed Referee Danny Sullivan to order the contestants from the ring because of their alleged stalling tactics, made his report of the affair to Mr. Bugbee this morning. It was upon this and other reports that he says Mr. Bugbee took action. Gate receipts will be turned over to charity.

McGRAW AND HUGGINS BOTH CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

New York, Oct. 9—John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants discussing his team's chances in the world's series, tonight said:

"In 1921 and in 1922 the dope was all against us. It said my pitchers were weaker than those of the Yankees and my heaviest batters hardly as good as those of the Americans. Yet my pitchers proved strongest and my batters the hardest hitters. The dope, as usual, is against the Giants. Yet there is but one thing to predict—a Giant victory. The Giants are great ball players and they are strengthened by the confidence gained in the winning of two world championships in a row."

Said Miller Huggins:

"The Yankees are a different team than in 1921 and 1922. The personnel is almost the same, but the spirit is changed. Now, along with the exceptional ability, the Yankees are aggressive and are working better together. Babe Ruth is changed. He expects to do heavy work with his bat. The pitching staff was never stronger or more brilliant. I think I may safely predict that the world's championship gonfalon will fly over Yankee stadium after this series.

CUBS-WHITE SOX SERIES WILL START TODAY

Chicago, Oct. 9—The Cubs and White Sox will start their annual series tomorrow to decide the baseball championship of Chicago. Experts figure the Cubs to win because of their superior pitching and hitting. Grover Alexander probably will pitch for the Cubs while Manager Gleason of the Sox plans to start Faber. The first game will be played at the Cubs' Park with a capacity crowd of 33,000 assured.

Comes 10,000 Miles to See Series.

New York, Oct. 9.—Robert F. Murphy today finished a journey of nearly 10,000 miles from Manila, Philippine Islands, to see the Yankees and Giants fight it out.

Other fans have come from Mexico, Cuba and Canada.

Academy Team Takes on Plainfield at the Campus Today

Encouraged by two hard-fought victories, the Academy eleven is to run up against a tough proposition in the fast Plainfield team. Although Plainfield was recently nosed out 7-6 by Bartlett High of Webster, the losers put up a fine game and would have won if they had any of the breaks of the game. The Academy on the other hand has won both of its games played so far and is in good shape for this contest. The chances are that a number of second string men will be given a chance to do their bit in order to save the first team for their game with Westerly on Friday. The game is scheduled for 3.00 p. m.

WESTERLY

There was a large attendance Tuesday evening at the Masonic rooms on High street when Worshipful Master Arthur H. Cey of Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., and his officers worked the third or master Mason degree on a class. Franklin lodge and Palmer chapter No. 34, Royal Arch Masons of Connecticut, in Pawcatuck, have received framed certificates that these two bodies have been inscribed upon the charter of the roll of honor of the George Washington National Memorial association. This association is erecting a memorial building with surrounding landscape attractions which will make it a most striking architectural feature to meet the view of all Washington, D. C. visitors. Located at Alexandria, Va., the cornerstone will be laid the first of November with elaborate Masonic ceremonies. The building will contain among other rooms a memorial hall with a statue of Washington. Many prominent Westerly Masons are planning to be among the 200,000 Masons expected to be present at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund P. York and daughter Elizabeth left Westerly on Sunday for a few days' vacation visit in Washington, D. C.

Prof. A. E. Whitford, president of Milton, Wis., college, having been the guest of his brother-in-law, Allen C. Whitford in Westerly Sunday and Monday, left here on his return Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Gavitt of the West Side are visiting relatives in Bridgeport for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Starr Barker, who have been the guests of Mr. Barker's father in Westerly for the past few days, were automobile callers on relatives in Providence Tuesday.

Twenty-five members of Hope council, No. 6, Junior Order United American Mechanics of Westerly attended the state convention of the order in Wakefield Tuesday.

Frank Vannetti of Westerly was a business caller in Boston Tuesday.

Friday next the football team of Westerly High school will play the Norwich Free Academy eleven on the Playground field. The game which the Westerly High eleven put up against the stronger and heavier New Haven High, resulting in a victory for the New Haven boys by the score of 13 to 0 and the fact that N. F. A. eleven defeated the Stonington High team, assures the football fans a game worthwhile.

This (Wednesday) evening at Westerly town hall will be held the republican caucus. The caucus will be conducted according to the caucus law for the town of Westerly passed at the January session, 1921, chapter 2152. As in times past, it is presumed that the chairman of the republican town committee will be first recognized by the moderator of the caucus, and that the slate as prepared by the committee Monday night will be presented. Should there appear any opposition to the committee slate or should a voter request in writing that a ballot be taken, then an adjournment will be taken until the following Monday, when the balloting on the nominations will take place. The moderator is authorized to receive the ballots of only such voters as appear upon the voting lists supplied for the caucus. The caucus act also states that all voters who have signed nomination papers for candidates in opposition to the caucus nominees shall have their names taken from the party caucus voting lists for a term of 14 months.

A special meeting of the Westerly town council is to be held in the council chamber of the Westerly town hall this (Wednesday) noon to act upon the petition for professional Sunday football games.

Washington county superior court comes in at Westerly this (Wednesday) morning at 10.30 o'clock for its adjourned session, with Judge Hugh Baker on the bench. Following is the docket for the Westerly session:

Lyman Franklin Perry vs. Marshall Thomas; Massachusetts Security Corporation vs. Angelo Selvido; Vincenzo Algiere et al, vs. Angelo Selvido; Anna Evelyn Faulk vs. Lydia M. Davis, Executrix; Westerly Lumber Co., vs. Frank Tuomi, alias; R. J. Leary Co., vs. The P. H. Opie Co.; Everett L. Clark vs. George F. Wilcox, Jr.; Helen Berkeley vs. Domenico Blanda, alias; Catherine Whalen vs. Felix Ferrazza, alias; Daniel J. Whalen vs. Felix Ferrazza, alias; Frank Barone vs. Percy Bliven, alias; Joseph Serra, p. a., vs. Percy Bliven, alias; Antonio Russo vs. George Davison; Thomas H. Barber et al, vs. Catherine A. Bates; The R. F. Goodwich Co., vs. Hugh C. Pendleton; Angelo Algiero vs Angelo Turo, et al.; Gertrude Gavitt vs. Angelo Turo, et al; John Roche admr., vs. Americo Monti; Providence Auto Equipment Co., vs. J. Fred Barber; Empire Cream Separator Co., vs. C. Palmer Chapman; Victoria M. Brown, admx., vs. Adolphus LaBonte; Victoria M. Brown, adm., vs. Adolphus La Bonte; James W. Burke vs. Thomas J. Healey; State, Amos L. Kenyon, complainant, vs. Wilfred Palmer; John E. Rusal vs. N. A. Collins; Haffenraffer & Co., Inc., vs. The J. H. Blackler Co.; Etta Ostman vs. Moly Silverstein; Henry E. Brown vs. Deadima F. Sherman; Catherine A. Bates vs. Thomas H. Barber, et al.; Thomas H. Barber, et al., vs. Catherine A. Bates.

The following is the list of petit jurors summoned for the September session of the superior court for Washington county:

Westerly: Albert H. Barber, James J. Casey, James M. McNamara, J. Henry Burk, Otis L. Burdick, Arthur Clemens, Nicholas G. Smith, Frank Regine, John E. Stenhouse.

South Kingstown: Edward E. Champlin, Herbert Carpenter, William A. Moore, Samuel E. Gould, Stephen B. Gardiner, Jr., George Houghney, Virgil L. Leighton, William A. Watson.

North Kingston: John H. Cooper, Winfred C. Kingsley, Daniel G. Bicknell, Eugene B. Lester, Herbert N. Macdonald, Howard L. Gardiner, John P. Hearn

Hopkinton: Erlo N. G. Barber, Ernest A. Boss, James C. Matteson, Henry H. Brearley.

Exeter: Frank E. Tisdale, Herbert A. Hoxsie.

Narragansett: Edmund C. Champlin, Walter A. Nye.

Charlestown: Ernest L. Day, Frank H. Bliven.

Richmond: Clovis D. Francois, Joseph F. Briggs.

A meeting of the South County Poultry Association was held in Caledonian hall Tuesday evening, at which final arrangements were made for the annual poultry show in November at the state armory. The town of Westerly voted $100 and the state of Rhode Island appropriated $800 to be added to the premium fund.

COLUMBIA

Prof. A. E. Lyman of Columbia and his band furnished the music for the fairs held at Woodstock, Brooklyn, Hebron and Mansfield during September. His band was composed of the members of the Ladies' band of Hampton, the Babcock band of Ashford, of which Mr. Lyman is leader, besides some of his private pupils. He has been featuring some of his players, as Fred Bunce, trombone, Mrs. Hulling, mellophone, and Master Ellsworth Mitten, cornet. Master Mitten is one of the most promising cornetists in this part of the state, being only 12, yet doing solo work in the band.

Recently the Ladies' band celebrated the third anniversary of its organization, and presented Mr. Lyman, the instructor, a handsome set of military brushes and comb in white and amber. The date was Mr. Lyman's birthday, Sept. 30th, and he was also presented a large birthday cake on which were the necessary number of lighted candles.

Fred A. Hunt, with men and teams, completed the filling of his silo Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Bitton returned Monday from an automobile trip to New York.

Mrs. F. S. Pendleton of Williamtic, who has been passing a vacation in town, has returned home.

The All-Stars made no mistake in giving Jones of Hebron a trial against the West Ends at Recreation park, Willimantic. The big pitcher used a fast ball with a hop on it and a quick breaking curve which kept him out of danger at all times. The All-Stars played good ball and earned most of the six runs they got in one inning, with a number fo extra base hits, including a home run by Jones. Jones is being coached by A. E. Lyman, one of Columbia's and Hebron's old pitchers, who with John Richards catching held the strike-out record in this part of the state in the late '90s.

Columbia grange entertained Wednesday evening, 32 members from Echo grange, Mansfield, four from the Natchaug, one from Killingly, and one from the Center grange, R. I. Echo grange furnished a very meritorious and entertaining program as follows: Violin duet, Rexford Crane and Jessie Inman, with Miss Frances Crane, accompanist; piano solo, Miss Frances Crane; dialogue, Elizabeth Bressbrock, Louise Walker, Mr. Littleworth; solo, Just a Yearnnig for You, Charles Hall; accordion solos, popular melodies, Arthur Wod; dialogue, A Slight Misunderstanding, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony; humorous stories, Charles Pomeroy; violin duet, Rexford Crane, Jessie Inman. Refreshments were served, followed by dancing, the music being led by A. E. Lyman.

Pomona grange will meet in Columbia Wednesday and hold an all-day session.

Makes Cooking Easy

"I never knew I was such a good cook"

AND I'll have to give most of the credit to our new Glenwood range, it certainly has made a difference in my cooking. I'm spending less time in the kitchen, too."

"It's a relief to have a range that doesn't need to be coaxed to cook."

• • • •

A Glenwood comes as near to making cooking a pleasure as any range can. It does make cooking easy, which is really more important.

The Model "C" Glenwood is illustrated here.

Its big square oven bakes food exactly right—top, bottom and clear through. The balanced baking damper and the Glenwood Patent Indicator take care of that—you can't make a mistake.

Like every Glenwood, the Model "C" is built for a lifetime of service. It will give you a new idea of how easy it is to be a good cook.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

REMOVING EARLY MOLTERS—SIMPLE METHOD OF CULLING

Ability to choose between the laying hen and the nonlayer is easily developed by poultry owners and should be put into practice inculling the flock if the best returns in both eggs and meat are to be had. In any flock some hens will be found which are such poor producers that they are unprofitable, and these should be the ones to eat.

All hens molt in the fall or early winter. This molting characteristic is easily observed and, when it starts to take place, means that the hen has about finished her laying season and is turning her attention to growing a new crop of feathers for a vacation before she starts her next year's work. If it is desirable to use a part of the flock for meat, says the United States Department of Agriculture, the early molters are the ones to select for eating first because they are laying very few eggs during this molting season which usually lasts about three months. The hens in the flock which have not yet started to molt should be retained for egg production. They should not be killed until they begin to molt and their combs begin to lose size, color, and flexibility, for if these changes have not taken place the hens will probably still be laying when eggs are especially valuable.

As a rule hens of the general-purpose breeds are not profitable layers after they are 2 years old, and Leghorn hens rarely lay profitably after three laying years. Many of the hens should be culled before they reach these ages and replaced by well-matured pullets in the fall.

GREEN FOODS NEEDED LATE IN THE SEASON

Although fowls can exist without green food of any kind, they will be found to do better in practically every way if a portion of their daily ration is green vegetable food or some good substitute for it. They should have as much of this kind of feed as they will eat.

Hens kept in confined quarters if given a liberal portion of green feed will produce more eggs than they could without it. At least one-tenth of the food fed to fowls should be green.

During the summer most fowls can secure a good supply of succulent feed for themselves if allowed a fair range. This keeps up a good egg production and forms a healthful growth to young stock.

Late in the season, however, range fowls will not get a good supply of green feed because late in the autumn much of their natural green range feed will have lost most of its succulent value.

In order to keep egg production at a high level succulent green feed must be supplied whenever the natural green feed becomes dried out.

To keep a good supply of succulent feed the poultryman can usually get the best results from an oats sprouter, many of which can be secured on the market.

Lawn clippings, especially these containing a good percentage of clover, are available during the summer. Lettuce and other greens from the garden are particularly desirable. Cabbage, however, should not be fed to excess or it may flavor the eggs.

Young birds in particular should be given a liberal quantity of green feed. Green feeds tend to correct any deficiencies that may be present in an ordinary ration. It tends to correct and purify the digestive system and promotes vigor of the fowls.

The only place where a liberal quantity of green feed is not recommended is where fowls are being fattened for market poultry. Most feeders claim that birds given an ample supply of green feed do not put on weight as rapidly as when this is withheld.—Seth W. Shoemaker.

TREES SHOULD BE PROTECTED FROM MICE

Fruit trees, especially apple trees in grass orchards, must be protected from mice. Last winter field mice did an immense amount of damage and no one knows but that they will be at it again just as eagerly this winter. The mice are present and whether they work on trees this winter depends only on snow and ice conditions.

At present, perhaps the surest and safest way of protecting the trees is to use wire protectors. They can be made at home by buying quarter inch mesh galvanized wire cloth in rolls 18 inches wide. This can be cut into 24-inch lengths to fit around the trunks. The area around the tree should be first cleared away and leveled off, so that the bottom end of the wire cylinder can be pushed into the soil an inch or two. They should be tied top and bottom after lapping the edges slightly. These protectors can be taken off and stored during each growing season. They will last for years.

FALL PLOWING WOULD KEEP DOWN WORMS

From now until the ground freezes is the best time to fight the grub, cut worm, wire worm, june bug and many other bugs which bothered the producer this year.

When the potatoes are dug and one finds the work of the grub or many wire worm holes in the potatoes, he very seldom thinks of how he can best control them for next year, because he is so busy digging the present crop, but this year's crop should remind him that next year is coming and he should do all that is possible to prevent the same trouble next fall.

These insects burrow in the ground in the early fall, to the frost line, and remain dormant during the winter. If undisturbed they come out in great numbers in the spring and begin the devastating work. If the ground is plowed up after they have hibernated they will be exposed to the weather and many of them will be killed by freezing and thawing in the spring and fall. They will also be exposed to their natural enemies such as birds and other animals that live on insects in the late fall when no other food for them is available.

If there were any disadvantages to the land by fall plowing to offset the advantage of killing these harmful insects, this recommendation would not be given, but in the average field of New London county, fall plowing of land has many other advantages. First, by plowing turf land in the fall the humus has a chance to decay and hence is more available for plant food in the spring; second, the moisture which the plants utilize is much more readily available throughout the ensuing year on fall plowed land compared with spring plowed land; third, the land can be worked much more quickly in the spring as the surplus moisture will evaporate more quickly and the land will warm sooner; fourth, the weeds will come up much more quickly, which enable them to be killed before planting.

Two who tried out spring plowed land against fall plowed on potatoes, said that a marked contrast in favor of fall plowing was noticed throughout the growing season, also at the time of digging.

Of course, there are exceptions to every rule. If a field is very hilly or very sandy so that the dirt would either wash or blow away, it might not be best to plow in the fall.

NOT HAVING LESS SNOWFALL SAYS THE WEATHER BUREAU

"No, we are not having lighter snow falls than when grandfather was a boy," says the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture." "nor are we having appreciably grehter ones." When some reminiscent relative remarks, "We do not have the big snows nowadays that we did when I was a boy, and I don't think we will ever have them again," one may answer with conviction that the records of the Weather Bureau tell another story. As a matter of fact, the deep snow remembered by the man who was a boy in the seventies or eighties probably reached that boy's shoulders, but would be less than knee-high with his present stature. Again, many men who now live in cities were brought up in the country, where large drifts are piled up when the wind has full sweep over the prairies.

Records at Springfield, Ill., dating from 1884, show the greatest fall on record, 46 inches, to have occured in the winter of 1913-1914. January of 1918 was the most severe month in the climatological history of Illinois, both for low temperature and heavy snowfall, combined with heavy winds. At Albany and New York the snowiest winter occurred more than 30 years ago, but there have been only 6 winters with more snow than fell in 1922-1923. Records at New Haven, Ct., seem to indicate a gradual falling off in snowfall, yet the heaviest record occurred in the winter of 1915-1916. Last winter the total was 19 inches above normal. Those who believe the climate is changing will take comfort in learning that the greatest seasonal snowfall on record at Boston, Mass., 96.4 inches, was in 1873-1874, but the winter with the least snow, 5.3 inches, was only 3 years later. At Portland, Me., the greatest snowfall for a winter, 125.5 inches occurred in 1886-1887, but last winter, with one-half inch less was next in amount. In the west we find that Cheyenne's winter of least snow was in 1885-1886, and the greatest some 10 years later. The greatest snowfall at Salt Lake City occurred in 1916-1917, and the second, third, and fourth, since then. Viewing the subject in a broad way, one is led to conclude that there will undoubtedly be heavy snows in the years to come just as there have been in the past, and it is probable that present records will be exceeded in many places.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

The Stafford Springs Agricultural society is rapidly completing arrangements for Stafford fair. Already several of the race horses are stabled on the grounds and the showmen are putting up their tents on the midway. A new barn has been built this year south of the race track and the cattlemen can keep their stock on the grounds over night.

The Rhode Island Worsted mill will be closed all this week. News of the death of J. H. Mall, one of the owners of the plant, who lived in New York, was received here Friday and the mill was immediately ordered closed.

Mrs. Frank Orcutt has gone to Upper Montclair, N. J., where she will spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Hall.

SOUTH GRISWOLD

Stanley Winroth is visiting relatives in Bayonne, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterry H. Kinne, Byron P. Kinnie, Miss Doris Chapman and Joel Palmer were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sayles at Mystic.

The October meeting of the Bethel Community club was held with Byron Kinnie Oct. 2d.

Benjamin W. Young of Northampton, Mass., spent the week end with his family in South Griswold.

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

A Simple Guide to Proper Food Selection

Nourishment— Grape-Nuts with cream or good milk contains every element necessary for perfect nutrition.

Digestibility— Grape-Nuts is partially pre-digested by 20 hours' baking. It is easily assimilated by child or adult.

Flavor— Grape-Nuts, made of wheat and barley, is sweet with natural sugar self-developed from the grain in the making. It has a delightful, nut-like flavor.

Character— Grape-Nuts is real food—the kind you can depend upon for strength and energy. Its crisp granules invite thorough mastication, thus helping to keep the teeth and gums healthy.

Economy— Grape-Nuts is so compact that a package contains many servings; and each serving provides unusual nourishment. A portion for the cereal part of a meal costs about one cent.

MARKET WAS SPECULATIVE

New York, Oct. 9.—Speculators for the decline continued in control of today's stock market, the general list displaying a reactionary tone notwithstanding further evidence of good support for a number of the rail and industrial shares.

News developments again were largely ignored as market factors although the cut in crude prices by the California Petroleum company was regarded as a contributory cause to the renewed heaviness of some of the oil shares. Wall Street appeared to be indifferent to the increasing expressions of confidence in fall and winter business by bankers and industrial leaders.

Reports that Germany had expressed to the Belgian government her desire to renew a discussion of reparations, and that the Stinnes group had asked for authority to continue negotiations with the occupation officials were regarded as hopeful factors but they failed to stem the downward slide of Germany's rapidly depreciating currency which touched a new low record at 6 cents a hundred million.

Heaviness of the railroad shares was generally ascribed to the failure of operators on the long side to attract a public following by the recent advance of that group. Reading was one of the features of that group, touching 79¾ in further reflection of the progress being made with the segregation plan but easing later to 78¾ for a slight fractional gain on the day. Southern Railway also improved slightly in response to the optimistic outlook contained in the annual report of President Fairfax Harrison.

United States Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can, generally referred to as pivotal stocks, closed irregularly within a small fraction of yesterday's final figures. Baldwin had a few sinking spells which carried it down to 114⅝ but good support was forthcoming on all dips and it rallied to 116¾, up ⅛. American Woolen, which has been sold freely on the theory that the $7 dividend was in danger, also found good support around 70 and closed nearly a point higher.

Reports that buyers of copper metal were unwilling to pay more than 13 cents a pound brought some fresh selling into the copper shares, Utah dropping a point and the losses in the other shares being held to fractions. The Western Electric is reported to have placed an order for from 15,000,000 to 30,000,000 pounds at 13 cents during the day.

Estimates of the reduction in unfilled order of the U. S. Steel corporation to be made public tomorrow range from 250,000 to 400,000 tons. U. S. Steel common closed unchanged at 87⅛ although it had touched 86½ earlier in the day.

Call money opened at 5% per cent but softened to 4¾ before the close. The time money market continues quiet with short term loans arranged at 5¼ and the longer dates at 5½. Commercial paper is active at 5¼ per cent for prime names.

Strength of French and Belgian francs which jumped 10 and 9¾ points, featured the foreign exchange market, respectively, to 6.09⅛ and 5.17⅞ cents. Demand sterling eased slightly to $4.55 5-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Heavy selling on the part of recent buyers broke down values in the wheat market today. The selling appeared to be largely a result of disappointment the wheat conference here gave no promise of immediate farm relief. Closing prices were unsettled, 1⅜c to 2⅜c a 2⅛c net lower, with December 1.07⅝, a ⅝c to 1.07¾, and May 1.13¾ to 1.12½ to varying from 1⅜c decline to ¼c gain, oats ¼ a ⅝c to ⅝c a ⅛c down and provisions showing 5c to 22c fall.

It was evident early that the action of the wheat conference here in planning a new cooperative marketing association had failed to encourage confidence in a continued upward tendency of prices. Absence of fresh buying was also noticeable that selling pressure quickly increased, and the volume of offering became more of a burden than the market could withstand. Rallying power seemed to be almost entirely lacking, and the close was at near the bottom figures of the day. Bears pointed out the new cooperative association if finally successful, could only function after the lapse of considerable time, as the plan would be inoperative until fifty per cent. of growers in the nine principal states had joined the organization. Under such circumstances, the plan would apparently offer little help so far as this year's crop is concerned.

Although contract grades of corn for immediate delivery commanded $1.08 a bushel, the highest price this season, future deliveries went down with wheat. Oats followed.

Provisions reflected the weakness of hog values and of grain.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 9.—A further reduction in California crude oil prices furnished bear traders with an excuse for another assault on the oil shares in today's curb market, but except in a few inactive shares the losses were held to a point or less.

Standard Oil of Indiana again led the list in point of activity, closing ⅝ lower at 54⅝ after having sold as high as 55⅝. Standard Oil of Kentucky dropped one point while International Petroleum, Mountain Producers and Mutual yielded fractionally. Pennsylvania Mexico fuel dropped nearly 7 points on a small turn over.

Strength of New York transportation which advanced 3 points to 32 a new high, was associated with reports of the possible increase in the dividend or its absorption by other interests. Reading Coal Rights were again active but they met heavy offerings around 23 and finally closed fractionally lower at 22⅝.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 9.—Bond prices tended to firmness today with a marked falling off in the activity of railroad mortgages which have been unusually strong recently. The volume of transactions dropped off and some of the more speculative industrial liens fell off slightly.

Increased demand for French bonds, particularly the government's 7½'s and 8's, reflected the confidence felt by investors in the ability of Hugo Stinnes to control the German situation in the Ruhr. Neither of these issues, however, displayed more than moderate strength in fairly large trading.

Numerous railroad mortgages declined fractionally traders asserting it reflected scarcity of buyers rather than any selling pressure against the issues. A few mortgages continued to point upward. Refusal of buyers to pay current copper prices influenced some selling of copper company liens. Cerro De Pasco declining more than 2 points. Generally industrial issues were relatively firm.

Active United States government bonds found a better market, practically all of the Liberty issues moving upward.

New bond offerings aggregating more than $20,000,000 were sold readily during the day and bankers reported sales to investors as progressing rapidly.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BARNEY RAPP AND ORCHESTRA AT THE ARMORY TONIGHT

When Barney Rapp's orchestra plays their opening number at the armory tonight the dance lovers will be treated to music such as they have not heard since he last appeared here. His last appearance here, under Paul Whiteman's direction, drew a crowd of over 1,500 enthusiastic dancers. Since then he has played at the Palais Royal, Pavilion Royal and a long engagement at the New Chase hotel in St. Louis. Coming direct from the Palais Royal after a two weeks' engagement, he is bound to please the large crowd which is expected at the armory to hear him.

Sale of North Stonington Property.

Burdick & McNicol, real estate brokers, have sold for W. T. L. Reade his cottage with three acres of land located in the town of North Stonington. The new owners are Leonard K. and Walter M. Lewis of Norwich. They will take immediate possession.

Sale of Laurel Hill Avenue House.

Through the agency of William F. Hill, Chester L. and Alice M. Hussey have sold their two-apartment house located at 294 Laurel Hill avenue to Frederick E. Baker of this city. The new owner intends to make all necessary improvements in this property, which he buys as an investment.

Breed Theatre.

Desire, a special Metro production, is the feature picture at the Breed theatre today and Thursday. It is a society drama of the highest type and embodies engaging entertaining qualities along with tense dramatic action.

The story deals with two wealthy young people of the best families about to be married. At the altar they realize that they are not in love with each other and flee. Later the young woman marries her chauffeur, separates from her family and eventually finishes her life in great unhappiness. The young man, disconsolate, meets a charming girl and the tragedy in his life dies to give place to a great love.

Desire is a poignant story calculated to stir the sluggish blood of any blase audience and to send them away refreshed and with a keen instinct into the "wheels within wheels" which go to make up life.

One of the high lights of Desire is a great fashionable wedding staged in a beautiful garden. It is lavish and highly interesting.

An excellent cast of distinguished players is featured. Marguerite De La Mott, John Bowers, Estelle Taylor, David Butler, Walter Long, Lucille Hutton, Edward Connelly, Ralph Lewis, Vera Lewis, Russell Simpson and Chester Conklin help to turn Desire into a remarkable picture. The picture was directed by Rowland V. Lee from an original story by John B. Clymer and Henry R. Symonds. It is a Louis Burston presentation through Metro and was photographed by George Barnes. J. J. Hughes was art director.

For the second feature, Ben Turpin will be seen in a five reel comedy feature titled The Shriek of Araby, and Movie Chats will complete the bill.

Strand Theatre.

The B. F. Keith vaudeville scheduled for the Strand theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday is as follows:

Ray Kossar offers Bright Song Bits.

Rogers and Tremont appear in the comedy This and That.

Dan Maley and Billy O'Brien in Up and Down is a bright comedy by Frank Duncan.

Cody and King offer A Study in Songs and Dances.

Everybody has heard of The Three Musketeers but Johnnie Walker goes Dumas one better and launches forth as The Fourth Musketeer, in which production he will be seen at the Strand theatre, starting tomorrow.

The Fourth Musketeer was written by H. C. Witwer, one of the foremost writers of humor in America today. The story is rich in romance and drama. Johnnie appears as a lovable and ambitious prize fighter with a great love in his heart for all humanity.

Eileen Percy plays the leading feminine role in The Fourth Musketeer, which has been conceded to be one of the best productions ever turned out by F. B. O.

Broadway Theatre Vaudeville.

Another excellent week end program of B. F. Keith vaudeville is scheduled for the Broadway theatre starting tomorrow.

Dorothy Doyle Trio are featured in a comedy dancing variety act.

Walsh and Bentley are acrobats called The Bellboy and the Athlete.

Lydia Barry, lyrical raconteuse, appears in a repertoire of songs.

Fred Eckhoff and Anna Gordon offer Hokum a la Carte.

The day of the hackneyed motion picture plot is passing, according to the critical New York newspaper reviewers. Originality is what is demanded over everything else by present-day audiences, and if the story of a picture does not measure up to that standard the fact is quickly known to all who follow the printed criticisms, if, indeed, it has not already become known through word of mouth.

Coming to the Broadway theatre commencing tomorrow is a photoplay which has received high praise on the score of its very uncommon originality of story content. Simple, unpretentious, with no bizarre costumes or gilded settings, Fools of Fortune is nevertheless an outstanding attraction purely on the strength of the originality of its story.

Bradley Theatre, Putnam.

Like everything else in the world, the standards of success in the theatre have changed quite as much as have the standards of speed. What constituted a success twenty years ago would be classed as a failure today. And what is termed a success today was unthought of a generation back.

Of this new order of things, there is no better example in existence today than The Bat, the great mystery success written by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, which will be presented at the Bradley theatre, Putnam, on Thursday, Oct. 11th.

The Bat, which has been seen by more than 6,000,000 persons and which has drawn more than $9,000,000 in gross receipts thus far, is unquestionably the greatest theatrical success of all times. What has made it so and what, in fact, makes for great success in the theatre now, is the ability of authors to write and managers to produce, plays that retain their power to attract and hold the interest of the atregoers not for one performance but for repetition over and over again. There is many a theatregoer proud of the fact he has seen the play a dozen times.

The Bat is the great success it is largely because of the fact that no matter how often one sees it there is still in its lines and situations that which holds the interest of the observer from curtain to curtain. Its power to repeat is what has made it literally a gold mine for those who own and control it.

Those who see it during its engagement at the Bradley theatre are asked to bear this one element in mind and it is a foregone conclusion they will agree that, as the last curtain falls, they will find themselves ready to go back and see it over again.

Will Hear Vegetable Specialist

The vegetable growers of the vicinity of Norwich will meet at the farm bureau office, Wednesday, October 10 at 8 p. m.

A. E. Wilkinson, vegetable specialist of Connecticut Agricultural college will address the growers on the subject, Potato Growing. This is to be illustrated with lantern slides and every one interested in the growing and marketing of this crop is welcome.

MANSFIELD CENTRE

Dr. H. K. Denlinger delivered the sermon at the morning worship Sunday, this being his first sermon here since his recent return from Europe.

An all day class in millinery will be held at the church parlors today (Wednesday), under the instruction of Miss Annan, the state millinery specialist of the C. A. C. extension service. Lunch will be served at noon, each attendant contributing some article of food. Mrs. W. R. Davoll is in charge of the local arrangements.

The Young People's club is to meet Wednesday evening in the church parlors. The subject is The Story of the American Thread company. The committee in charge is Mrs. Harold James, Rexford Crane, Jesse Inman, Morris Sword, Miss Amy Hawkins.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid society, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. G. Clausson; vice president, Mrs. W. R. Davoll; secretary, Mrs. G. [illegible] man; treasurer, Mrs. M. E. [illegible]

The Christian Endeavor Society is arranging a fine concert to be given at the church.

Good-bye Gear-shift!
Your doom is spelled by the biggest advance in automobile design since the self-starter—
The Traffic Transmission
Involving a totally new principle, the Traffic Transmission can be shifted with the pressure of the little finger under all conditions, at all normal driving speeds, in any direction (low to high or high to low) by the least experienced driver.
The gears cannot clash. There is nothing new to learn. The familiar old gear lever is there. Thousands (especially women) can now become happy motorists and drive with tranquillity in traffic or on tour.
In handling ease—in the amount of pleasure it gives to driving—no car can now surpass the 1924 Chandler, for it is powered by the Pikes Peak Motor
with all its spectacular high gear capacity retained and with its operation made noiseless and flawlessly smooth by recent refinements.
Now the thousands who have vainly battled with the evils and admitted dangers of the old-fashioned gear shift may sit at the wheel and revel in the master performance qualities of the Pikes Peak Motor on hills and in crowded thoroughfares.
The revolutionary nature of the Traffic Transmission, its simplicity, ease and surety, and the amazing driving convenience it gives, cannot be realized without a ride in the 1924 Chandler
You are urged to come in and learn for yourself. Ten minutes behind the wheel tells all!

OCTOBER.

Not May with bursting buds and singing birds,
Nor charming June with lover's ardent words
Outrivals fair October's peaceful days;
Serene and gracious she in all her ways.

'Tis then Dame Nature dons her gayest dress;
In lavish beauty doth her joy express.
She wields her artist brush with master hand,
Forthwith the landscape glows at her command.

In fervid tints of crimson, gold and green,
She paints the canvas for her harvest scene.
Fulfillment is a gift October brings,
Of luscious fruit and ripe she blithely sings.

Of bending boughs, of overflowing bins;
Her song of glad abundance now begins.
In yellow shock the corn stands on the slopes,
The purple grape fulfills the vine's fond hopes.

For festival and feast it is a time,
Fruition's joys—the year has reached the climb.
Achievement claims a sweet content; her due;
October smiles accomplishment to view.

The trees then clap their hands, the mountains sing,
The little hills rejoice, their praises ring;
The valleys shout for joy, God crowns the year,
Now doth His royal bounty most appear.
—Martha S. Baker, in Indianapolis News.

THINGS ENOUGH.

That man can thank his lucky stars
Whose things to keep are few;
To which the moth and rain and rust
Find little harm to do;

A faith that makes his handshake warm
And simple things most wise;
A wife to make each morning sweet
With morning-glory eyes;

A love to make him foot green roads
Which others motor on;
A garden small and kind enough
To let him watch the dawn;

A pity for the hungry ones,
The ragged and ill-shod;
A tree that's tall and straight enough
To make him think of God.
—Robert P. Tristram Coffin, in Harper's Magazine.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

What is it that stands all day on one leg and has its heart in its head?

A cabbage.—Boys' Life.

"That bantamweight boxer always does things in keeping."

"Yes—he's going about with a pretty chicken!"—Exchange.

Pretty Customer—Of course, I want my shoes to be plenty large enough, but at the same time I want them to look neat and trim, you know.

Shoe Clerk—I see. You want them large inside, but small outside.—Judge.

"I wonder what it is about autumn that makes it so sad, Alfred?"

"Coal and ice bills at the same time."—Ottawa Citizen.

The Boss—Now that I've given you your raise I suppose you'll be swellin' round the office all dolled up like a millionairess.

His Secretary—Not me. I have better taste in dress than that.—Kansas City Times.

She—While you are away promise to keep my picture with you and to think of me every day?

He—You know I will.

"And always love me and never go around with wild girls?"

"I promise, mother."—Exchange.

"Man is queer."

"What's the matter now?"

"He'll pay $12 a bottle for booze for himself, but he won't buy 25 cents worth of alcohol to keep his radiator from freezing."—Detroit Free Press.

There is a preacher in Kansas who should have his salary raised for making the following announcement from his pulpit: "Brethren, the janitor and I will hold our regular prayer meeting next Wednesday evening as usual."—Christian Register. (Boston).

First Attorney—"Your Honor, unfortunately, I am opposed by an unmitigated scoundrel."

Second Attorney—"My learned friend is such a notorious liar—"

Judge (sharply)—"The counsel will kindly confine thier remarks to such matters as are in dispute."—Virginia Reel.

QUICK WORK PREVENTS DISASTROUS FIRE AT BELT MANUFACTURING PLANT

Prompt discovery of a blaze in the hair room at the Norwich Belt Manufacturing company's plant on North Main street, a quick response by the fire department to an alarm from box 248, private box at the plant, and an efficient sprinkler system prevented a disastrous fire shortly after 5 o'clock Tuesday evening. The plant had shut down for the day at 5.45 o'clock and the watchman, who was making his rounds, discovered the blaze in the hair room about 6.10 o'clock. He immediately rushed to a telephone to summon the fire department and then pulled in the company's private alarm box.

The sprinkler system was working when the firemen arrived and served to hold the flames in check. A two and a half inch line of hose was run into the plant from a nearby hydrant and another two and a half inch line was attached to the company's pump in the rear of the plant. The flames were quickly squelched and the recall was sounded a few minutes after the alarm had been pulled.

The fire started in some clothing of the employes which had been placed on the end of a dryer in the hair room. It is thought that a match in the clothing became ignited, the flames starting to spread rapidly. The damage to the building is slight and there is very little damage to the dryer.

192D FIELD ARTILLEY FIRST FOR ATTENDANCE

Connecticut national guard units captured high honors with their drill attendance records during the last fiscal year, according to information just received by Adjutant General George M. Cole from the war department in Washington.

Among the national guard battalions of the nation, the Second battalion, 192d Connecticut field artillery, took first place with a drill attendance of 131.4 per cent. This battalion comprises three units, the combat train and Battrey C, both of Norwalk, and Battrey D of Danbury. Battery D stood second among all the units of the country for attendance, first place going to Battery D of the 141st Alabama Field artillery, with a "yearly average attendance" of 137 per cent. The Danbury unit stood second with the mark of 135 per cent.

Among the national guard regiments of the country, the 192d Connecticut Field artillery ranked first with 117 per cent. This regiment includes units in New London, Danielson, Danbury, Norwich, Norwalk, Stamford and Greenwich. The Second battalion 141st (Alabama) artillery was second in this group with 131.8 per cent., and the Second battalion 101st (Massachusetts) field artillery third with 120 per cent. The 101st (Massachusetts) regiment was second with regimental attendance with 109 per cent., tieing the 105th (New York) infantry at that figure. The 130th (Kansas) field artillery came next with 89.5 per cent.

Letters from the militia bureau congratulating commands and all other national guard units that averaged above 70 per cent. attendance for the year pointed out that the rating on drill attendance "is the only item affording a reliable comparison between the organizations of the various states." In all, the letters stated, there were 50 companies, batteries or troops of the national guard which showed better than 50 per cent. attendance, 46 of these being above 70 per cent. Forty-four battalions or squadrons were above 50 per cent., 37 of them being above 70 per cent. Seventeen regiments had attendance records of 70 per cent. or over.

General Cole said Monday that Battery D of Danbury has a roster of about 118 men and is the second largest national guard unit in the United States. This fact he explained, makes its high record even more of an achievement, since the attendance percentage is figured on the number of men attending drills in proportion to the complete strength of the unit.

S., which is held in Tremont street Temple Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, as delegates from the auxiliary of Trinity M. E. church.

NEW HAVEN RAILROAD RESTORING POWER CONDITIONS

The program of the past year for reconditioning of power and the establishment of high standards has been constantly progressing of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

During 1921 the company was not able to currently carry along heavy repairs and rebuilding, because of the condition of the treasury. In the past year the road has not only overcome the deferred maintenance during the strike of the shopmen and the greater necessities because of unusual winter severity, but also the work of shopping that had been earlier deferred because of lack of funds.

Since January 1st, 1923, shop output in classified repairs has approximated over 40 per cent. in excess of current requirements. The larger portion of this work was performed in the company's shops which are ample for all current requirements.

The general condition of power is better than for the past three years.

Delivery will be commenced this month and completed in advance of winter demands, of 26 new steam and electric locomotives of large capacity. As the tractive power of these engines is about 50 per cent. above the average of the road, this is the equivalent of 39 additional locomotives of average capacity.

Several additions to engine terminals will be completed before winter, which will stand further improve terminal handling capacity. This includes inspection pits at each of the more important engine terminals which will enable more prompt repairs than heretofore. Work not formerly practicable will be performed at the pits and through the use of pneumatic tubes the inspection reports will be immediately transmitted from the points of inspection to the foreman's office which will facilitate the further handling of engines within the terminal. All of these factors will add to locomotive availability.

The mechanical department forces have not only been making excellent records but they are keenly interested in the best practicable standard of transportation and are devoting their energies to the maintenance of power accordingly.

WORLD WIDE GUILD CHAPTER IS ORGANIZED

The young women of the Central Baptist church were entertained Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Ashbey, 111 Broad street, the occasion being the organization of a new World Wide Guild chapter. Officers were elected, as follows:

President, Miss Eugenia Dean; vice president, Miss Viola Hill; secretary, Miss Marguerite Suthill; treasurer, Miss Adelaide Christman; song reader, Miss Polly Mitchell; chairman of program committee, Miss Marion Royce; chairman of social committee, Miss Mildred Peckham; chairman publicity committee Miss Lila Phillips; chairman membership committee, Miss Constance Raymond; chairman reading contest committee, Miss Elizabeth Williams.

The executive committee was authorized to draw up a constitution for endorsement. Meetings will be held on the first and third Fridays of each month. Among those who will act as hostesses for the succeeding meetings are Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, Mrs. Carl W. Brown, Mrs. C. W. Gale, Mrs. C. A. Hagberg, Mrs. G. W. Hamilton, Mrs. S. B. Palmer, Mrs. D. A. Pitt and Mrs. G. S. Raymond.

Miss Alif Stephens and Mrs. D. A. Pitt were present as representative of the Women's League of the church, of which the W. W. G. is a part. On Friday evening at the meeting of the league, there will be a special W. W. G. table and the singing of Guild songs.

ADAM AND EVE STATUES STILL HELD BY TYLER FAMILY

The ancient statues of Adam and Eve are not in the Palmer garden, at the Pequot, as stated last week, but adorn the garden at the home of Mrs. Augustus C. Tyler, on Gardner avenue there. These leaden images were brought from England and were set up in the grounds at the residence of Colonel Tyler's grandfather, Benjamin Lee, on Washington street, Norwich, now the home of Mrs. W. S. Alling. Adam holds a sickle and Eve has a basket of fruit and is holding out an apple.

Benjamin Lee, original owner of the statues, married the celebrated Boston beauty and heiress, Elizabeth Leighton, from whom Mrs. Tyler's younger daughter, Miss Edna Leighton Tyler, takes her name. The British forbade the importation of lead into the colonies, lest it might be turned into bullets, so the statues from England had a double significance. The friends of Mrs. Tyler (Cornelia Osgood, of Norwich) are greatly interested in these pre-Revolutionary heirlooms.

HOMEOPATHIC DOCTORS AT NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

The semi-annual meeting of the State Homeopathic Medical association was held Tuesday afternoon at the Norwich state hospital, with a session beginning at 2.30, and an attendance of about 30 physicians from all parts of the state. Dr. William P. Lang of New Haven, the president, was in the chair, and the records were kept by Dr. Thomas A. Roberts of Danburry, the secretary. Papers were read at the afternoon session and there was a round table conference in the evening after supper had been served at 7.30.

The meeting will conclude with a general surgical clinic this (Wednesday) morning.

REPORT TOWN'S SCHOOLS ARE BADLY CROWDED

Walter F. Lester was re-elected as chairman and Thomas J. Kelly re-elected secretary of the town school board at its annual organization meeting Tuesday afternoon in the school superintendent's room at the court house.

The board discussed badly congested conditions in the town's schools and considered plans for re-establishing the kindergarten at Norwich Town, which had been given up some time ago. Several places where a kindergarten might be held have been offered to the board and are under consideration.

Miss Rosalie Riordan, teacher in the sixth grade at Elizabeth street, presented her resignation which was accepted.

President Lester appointed the following committees: Finance, J. C. Macpherson, chairman, William P. McGarry, President Lester ex-officio; care of property, Robert McNeely, chairman, Dr. E. J. Brophy, President Lester ex-officio; supplies, W. P. McGarry, chairman, J. C. Macpherson, President Lester ex-officio.

TEARS UP TELEGRAPH POLE AND PLUNGES DOWN BANK

After tearing a telegraph pole from the ground, a Packard touring car with a Massachusetts registration number, and driven by Eugene LeBlanc of Norwich avenue, Taftville, plunged down an embankment on the Jewett City road in the rear of the J. B. Martin velvet mill about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and after turning over piled up in a mass of wreckage within a few feet of a large tree. The wreckage caught fire but the flames were extinguished by the aid of fire extinguishers. LeBlanc and a friend who was riding with him miraculously escaped serious injury, if not death. A nine-year-old boy, Willis Thiebeault of Norwich avenue, was sitting on a small cart within a few inches of the spot where the Packard landed after its wild plunge from the road. The child, it is said, was slightly cut.

Details of the accident are lacking as Mr. LeBlanc could not be located Tuesday evening. A telephone message to his home on Norwich avenue in the evening resulted in the information that Mr. LeBlanc had gone out, leaving no word as to when he would return.

It is said that the wrecked car was owned by a Massachusetts man who had left it at LeBlanc's vulcanizing and battery station near Taft's station. From the appearance of the wreck and the damage to the telephone pole it is evident that the machine must have been traveling at a high rate of speed when it left the road after the driver lost control. The machine was headed towards Norwich avenue and as it was approaching the junction of the Jewett City road and Norwich avenue it crashed head-on into the pole, tearing it completely from the ground and pushing it several feet from its original position, smashing it in two about four feet from the butt. The machine then plunged down the several foot embankment, narrowly escaping a tree.

The local police learned of the accident and notified the state police at the Groton barracks. The state police made an investigation of the accident but up to a late hour Tuesday night Mr. LeBlanc had not been located.

CHIEF STANTON WARNS AGAINST FIRE CARELESSNESS

Chief Howard L. Stanton said Monday that more than 75 per cent. of the fires in Norwich are caused by carelessness. This fire carelessness is classed under a number of different heads but the more important classes, he claims, are the allowing of inflammable rubbish to gather in places where spontaneous combustion is but a matter of time, the careless use of matches and the throwing away of cigars, cigarettes and lighted matches by smokers.

Chief Stanton sugests that every match be broken between the fingers before it is thrown away and if any fire is left the person using the match will find it out when he burns his finger. Regarding the pulling in of alarms the chief said:

"You should be as familiary with the location of the fire alarm boxes nearest your home and place of business as you are with the location of the nearest car stop or railroad station. Some day, you may need the fire department, and when you do you will want it in a hurry. It may be in the middle of the night and you will be alone in your search for a fire alarm box.

"Thousands of lives have been lost because someone did not know where or how to send in an alarm of fire.

"On application at any fire station you will be informed of the location of fire alarm boxes and the method of sounding an alarm. There is a fire alarm box in your immediate neighborhood. Learn today of the location of the fire alarm boxes nearest your home and your place of business. Learn today how to sound an alarm of fire. Refresh your memory on these matters at frequent intervals.

"Remember, when sending an alarm of fire, after opening the door of the box the hook inside must be pulled."

"Imagine a day in which a fresh fire broke out every minute, a day in which every fourth alarm summoned the firemen to a dwelling house, a day in which someone was burned to death every half hour, a day in which one hospital and five school buildings burned, endangering the lives of the incapacitated and the young. Can you imagine such a day? Well, the day that you have 'imagined' is, in America, an average day, a 'normal' day. Can any one in Norwich in the face of such a terrible situation, claim that we do not need a Fire Prevention Week?"

OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE WILL MEET THIS WEEK

The following is the program for the 24th Connecticut Older Boys' conference, which is to meet at New London, Oct. 26-28, under the auspices of the State Sunday school association, the state county and city Young Men's Associations, with the conference theme of "Christ's Programme For Me."

GAME WARDENS ON ALERT AT STERLING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Sterling, Oct. 18.—The hunting season opened today with hunters galore on the job and game protectors right on their track to see that no laws are violated.

The county force of wardens under command of Charles M. Letters of Putnam is better organized than ever before, all reliable expert men who are salaried and bonded, making their work better at the very start. In this town Deputy Wardens Kies of Killingly and Byles of Plainfield were on duty today. One of the ways of violating the law that is not considered of much importance is tearing down legal game law notices and the wardens are determined to stop this.

The game and forest fire wardens will work together this year to protect the forests and sprout lands from careless hunters. The game wardens are very earnest in their work and wish to be thoroughly understood as not intending in any way to interfere with honest hunting but law violators must take the consequences.

Tonight is the first night of coon hunting and several parties were out but no "ringtails" have yet been landed.

MADE 1,300 MILE AUTO TRIP TO CANADA

Louis Wunderlich, Bernard Wunderlich, Harry Jennings and William Brosofske made a 1,300 mile auto tour in Mr. Wunderlich's Packe car, going up through Greenfield over the Mohawk Trail to Rutland, Vt., Burlington and Quebec to Montreal, wherey they stopped for a few days. They came home by the way of Rouse's Point to Plattsburgh, where they visited the U. S. training camp. Aver the Adirondack mountains they went to Saranac Lake, where Christy Mathewson was cured. From there they went to Lake Placid, Lake Schroon and Lake George, Saratoga Springs, Albany and Pittsfield, over Jacob's Ladder to Springfield, Hartford and home. Through the mountains there was a beautiful view with the clouds first being above and then below for 200 miles. They stopped at the Silver Fox Farm at Lake Placid. They did not have a puncture on the whole trip.

Treat Your Feet Kindly With Cantilevers

WOMEN with graceful bearing are women who have treated their feet kindly. They're happier, too.

Care of the feet is essential to good health, and shoes such as Cantilevers are helping women everywhere to know better health and happiness.

The flexible arch of the Cantilever Shoe is scientifically designed to support the foot arch without hampering the play of the muscles. The attractive and natural sole line provides room for the toes and permits free circulation, so necessary in warm weather. The well-placed Cuban heel distributes the weight of the body so that there is no strain on the arch of the foot.

The shoe is light and flexible and yields with every foot motion; this induces an easy, graceful carriage. Your step seems lighter, freer and more buoyant in Cantilever Shoes. You won't tire nearly so easily, because Cantilevers permit every muscle of the foot to function freely.

You will find a new comfort and pleasure during your shopping tours—at social calls—attending to your household duties, or whatever you do or wherever you go, in Cantilever Shoes.

Cantilever Shoe

Come in and try on a pair. Enjoy this new foot freedom. Feel how wonderfully comfortable they are. Cantilevers are so easy on the feet—so comfortable—and so good-looking. We will fit you carefully.

STENGEL'S HOMER IN NINTH GIVES GIANTS FIRST GAME

Yankees Had Tied Score, 4-4, in Seventh—Circuit Blow Was a Long Drive to Left Field—Babe Ruth's Hitting and Daring Base Running Features Play of Yanks—Each Team Used Two Pitchers—Both McGraw and Huggins Display Remarkable Baseball Strategy — Attendance Was 55,307, Breaking All World's Series Records—Receipts Total $181,912.

New York, Oct. 10—(By the A. P.)—Swinging his bat in that fabled setting of the diamond—the ninth inning, with the score tied, two out and the count "two and three"—Casey Stengel blasted his way into baseball's hall of fame today with a home run drive that gave the New York Giants a spectacular victory over the Yankees, 5 to 4, in the opening clash of the 1923 world's series.

That mighty and heroic blow by Stengel, who came back after being relegated to baseball's scrap heap not long ago, ended a gripping, pulse-throbbing drama, a thrilling battle in which the wild, decisive punch and brilliant defense of the Giants triumphed over the courage, brawn and fighting spirit of the Yankees.

Crashed to the extreme, right-centerfield stretches of the vast Yankee stadium, that Herculean smash broke the heart of Joe Bush, fork-ball star, who had held the Giants in check after seeing his team-mate, Waite Hoyt, battered from the mound, and who, otherwise, might have stood out tonight as the hero of a Yankee triumph instead of but a courageous figure in defeat. It was a heart-breaking ending to Bush's gallant stand, yet he spoiled his own downfall by his tactical error in "grooving" the ball for Stengel's dramatic feat.

A Record Crowd

A vast throng of 55,000 that shattered all records for world's series attendance and gate receipts and filled close to capacity the far-flung reaches of baseball's greatest monument witnessed the opening of the third successive struggle between New York's rival clubs for premier honors of the diamond.

That colorful gathering of fans from all walks of life and all parts of the compass was whipped to a frenzied pitch of excitement as it saw unfolded before it one of the epics of the game. It saw the Yankees, smarting from the memory of having been beaten for two straight years by their National League opponents, rush spectacularly to the front in the first two innings, only to be overhauled by a sensational rally, a masterpiece of strategic attack, that gave the world's champions four runs and the lead in the third inning; it saw the American leaguers, after being turned back time after time by an amazing defense, finally tie the score in the seventh inning, then go down to defeat as the crack of Stengel's blow was drowned in a thunderous ovation.

The attendance eclipsed by more than 13,000 the highest previous mark, while the gate receipts of practically $133,000 surpassed the old record by more than $50,000.

Slight Margin in Giant's Favor

The Giants, though victorious, came out of the initial fray with but a

COAL AND GRAIN DUSTS CAUSE OF MANY FIRES

New York, Oct. 10.—Many destructive fires which in the past would have been pronounced "mysteries" or attributed to firebugs are now readily explained as resulting from dust explosions, D. J. Price of the United States department of agriculture declared in an address today before the international fire prevention congress which is meeting here during fire prevention week.

"Coal and grain dusts were long thought to be the only ones likely to cause explosions" he said, "and great progress has been made in coal mining, grainhandling and milling industries to reduce the hazard, but other industries are constantly being added to the list. Usually, it seems, it is necessary for a dust explosion to occur before precautions are taken, and as a result many of the explosions reported are in industries in which this peculiar hazard as not been fully recognized."

Practically all industrial plant dusts, with the exception of shale and limestone, will explode under proper conditions, he said.

J. S. STEEL SHOWS GAIN ON UNFILLED ORDERS

New York, Oct. 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation at the end of September totalled 5,035,750 tons, a decrease of 378,913 tons below those at the end of August, and the lowest since March 1922 when orders on hand totalled 4,494,148 tons. The high mark this year was reached in March with 7,403,322 tons.

September's tonnage statement compares with a reduction of 496,100 in August below the month before, and indicates that the corporation's incoming business last month was between 750,000 and 800,000 tons, as compared with less than 700,000 in August.

Bookings for the first ten days of October are reported to be substantially better than those in the corresponding period last year.

RECOMMENDATIONS VOICED BY SENATOR COUZENS

New York, Oct. 10.—Receivership for Germany, a more sympathetic interest by America in European affairs, and modification of the Volstead act to allow five per cent alcoholic content, were some of the recommendations voiced by Senator Couzens of Michigan, who returned on the Majestic from a several months tour of Europe.

He said he believed Henry Ford would be elected president if he were nominated by anyone of the recognized parties but did not hazard a guess as to Ford's chances of obtaining the nomination.

INTERNATIONAL PEASANTS' CONFERENCE IN MOSCOW

Moscow, Oct. 10.—The "First International Peasants' Conference," which the Moscow press compares in potential importance with the first conference in 1919 of the leading organization of the third international, opened in the Kremlin today with one hundred delegates present from twenty countries, including the United States, Argentina and Mexico. Its object is the creation of a world-wide peasant farmers' body, comparable to the red trade unions.

WEBB GRAND JURY HAS ADJOURNED TILL MONDAY

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The grand jury investigation into the allegedly mysterious death of Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb at the Westchester-Biltmore country club two weeks ago today was adjourned until next Monday, after three more witnesses had been heard.

These witnesses were Dr. Davenport West of the Roosevelt hospital in New York, who attended Mrs. Webb during part of her illness and who was alleged to have said he found no trace of her having been poisoned and Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hunten, of Devon, Pa., whose son would have benefited under one of the three wills left by the society woman.

TRAGEDY ENACTED IN DANVILLE (VA.) RESIDENCE

Danville, Va., Oct. 10.—William O. Williams, Danville business man, was killed, and Mrs. Williams was seriously wounded here today by Ben C. Coleman, member of a widely known family of Virginia, who then committed suicide.

The tragedy occurred in a private home where all of the principals resided. While those present were at dinner, a fusillade of pistol shots rang out and both Mr. and Mrs. Williams fell. Coleman then walked upstairs, locked himself in and killed himself.

Among Coleman's effects was found a paper which Coroner J. E. Taylor refused to make public.

OFFICERS OF HARVARD ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Providence, R. I., Oct. 10.—Seeing her father battle with an alleged burglar found in their home at 79 Ashburton street early this morning, 12 year old Victoria Rudowski, clad in night robe and slippers, ran several blocks to the nearest police station. She succeeded in bringing back a squad of officers who arrested the intruder after a short chase through the neighborhood.

Riot Charges Against Klansman Dismissed

Justice of Peace Exonerates N. C. Jewett, Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 10.—Rioting charges against N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma, and two other men were dismissed today by Justice of the Peace Leon B. Wilmc after a preliminary hearing.

The court ruled the evidence insufficient to hold the men for trial.

The charges grew out of the flogging here more than a year ago of E. R. Merriman, in which the defendants were alleged to have participated.

Rhode and C. Whitlock, both of Oklahoma City, were the other men.

Jewett denied on the witness stand today the accusation of Dr. A. A. Maupin, Oklahoma City dentist, that he (Jewett), had led the band of masked men who flogged Merriman for his alleged relations with a married woman. Dr. Maupin, according to transcripts of testimony made public by Governor J. C. Walton, told the military court of inquiry investigating mob violence here that the grand dragon had admitted to him that he had applied the whip to Merriman.

The dentist on the stand today repudiated certain parts of testimony attributed to him.

The courtroom was jammed with spectators and cheers greeted the discharge of the defendants.

READY FOR IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS TODAY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 10.—The Oklahoma legislature completed final arrangements tonight for launching impeachment proceedings against Governor J. C. Walton.

In separate caucuses, both houses of the assembly chose their leaders for the special session which begins tomorrow; and afterwards the legislators announced ready for the fray.

Both meetings were brief.

The house members organized as had been predicted, with Representative W. D. McBee of Stephens county, as speaker.

The senate made no changes, only the formal announcement of the officers elected was made by the legislators after the caucuses. No statement as to their plan of action was issued.

SAYS KLAN WOULD WELCOME REGULATING USE OF MASKS

Oklahoma City, Okla. Oct. 10.—A statement declaring that the Ku Klux Klan "would certainly welcome definite legislation regulating use of masks" was issued here today by N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Klan in Oklahoma. Mr. Jewett asserted that the Ku Klux Klan "believes a law is needed making it a felony for one or more persons at any time to trespass upon private property to appear in public masked," except at public initiatory services or in parade.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST N. H. ROAD DIRECTORS QUASHED

New York, Oct. 10.—Indictments charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust act which have hung over the heads of nine directors and former directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, for nine years were formally quashed today in the court of federal Judge Knox.

The indictments, returned in 1914 and 1915, were against the late William Rockefeller, Charles F. Brooker, Lewis Ledyard, Edward D. Robbins, Charles M. Pratt, George McCullough Miller, William Skinner, James S. Elton and John S. Millard.

They were charged specifically with creating a monopoly in interstate commerce for the transportation of passenger and freight through acquiring trolley lines and other subsidiaries in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont and Rhode Island.

Today's action had little effect on the stock of the New Haven which moved up fractionally. Buying of the road's bonds, however, was stimulated although net changes were only moderate.

LLOYD GEORGE PLEADS FOR UNITED BRITISH EMPIRE

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 10.—(By the A. P.)—Lloyd George before a large audience in Massey Hall today plead for unity within the British Emire "So that when the cry of war goes up the British Empire may say 'halt,' and the cry of war will stop."

Expressing his personal thanks to Toronto and to Canada for the aid they gave from 1914 to 1918, the wartime premier said he feared another catastrophe unless something intervened. That intervention could be supplied by Great Britain, he stated, if unity prevailed within the empire and among all its constituent parts.

"That's why I want to see the British empire strong and mighty," he said, "so that when the cry of war goes up we may say 'halt,' and it will stop."

The address was delivered before a representative and delighted audience including Sir Robert Borden, the wartime premier of Canada, and other public men.

WILL SUSPEND HUNTING IF FOREST FIRES START

Augusta, Me., Oct. 10.—If forest fires stare after the big game hunting season opens in this state October 16, a proclamation will be issued suspending the open season until after a heavy rain, Governor Baxter said tonight in a proclamation of warning.

THREE NEGRO LABORERS WOUNDED IN NORFOLK

Dramatic Scene at Stokes Divorce Trial

Whole Assemblage Angered by Testimony of Elmer Henshaw, Former Chauffeur.

New York, Oct. 10.—A court room crowd of the curious today watched Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes meet with sobbed out shouts of "that's a lie" the repeated but almost instantly retracted insinuations of intimacy made by Elmer Henshaw, her former chauffer, who took the stand as an unexpected star witness for W. E. D. Stokes in the re-trial of the wealthy hotel owner's divorce suit against Mrs. Stokes. Tears rolled down the cheeks of Mr. Stokes, seated a few yards from his wife and he covered his face with nervous hands.

Henshaw, whose appearance took the defense completely by surprise, had testified to driving Mrs. Stokes frequently to the apartment house at 13 East 35th street, where Edgar T. Wallace, one of the co-respondents, lived. Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for Mrs. Stokes, asked him why he wrote her, instead of his employer, when he decided to leave his job.

"Do you want me to tell you?" Henshaw asked.

"Yes," said Mr. Untermyer.

"I was very friendly with Mrs. Stokes," the witness answered.

"Do you mean anything by that?" the attorney asked.

"I mean just what I said."

"Then you mean to imply——?"

"Yes, I do."

Mrs. Stokes' mother, Mrs. A. S. Miller, of Denver, was seated a few feet from her daughter. She jumped to her feet and advanced toward the witness stand, both hands threateningly in the air. Friends held her back.

"That's a lie, you're a dirty liar," she shouted.

Mrs. Stokes, her body shaking with sobs, stood and yelled:

"That's a lie and you know it. Make him take that back. He'll take that back or I'll kill him."

Mr. Stokes buried his face in his hands. Henshaw folded his arms and smiled. Several court attendants rushed to the side of Mrs. Miller, who still was struggling with restraining friends. She was told she must quiet down or leave the room. She was moved to a seat nearer the door.

Mr. Untermyer was questioning the witness in a second.

"Did you mean to say you committed adultery with Mrs. Stokes?" he shouted.

"No. Absolutely not," Henshaw answered.

"Then did I understands you to say you had improper relations with her?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes, I did," came the answer. "She was giving me money to frame up Mr. Stokes and get a divorce. That's what I mant by impropr rlations."

"I never gave him a cent in my life," Mrs. Stokes shouted.

The crowd was visibly angered. One of the jurymen, his fists clenched, half rose as though ready to spring over the rail at the stand. Henshaw later denied he had taken any money from Mrs. Stokes except his salary.

When Henshaw walked past Mrs. Miller at the noon recess, she again had to be restrained.

"Let me at him," she yelled. 'I haven't a gun, but just let me at him."

When he had left the room she quieted, and said:

It took twelve years for Stokes to make demons of a Christian family. I am dead—my heart is dead. I have nothing to live for. But I will avenge this."

Henshaw told the court later that Mrs. Stokes had taken him into her room at White Sulphur Springs to give him money to help her "frame" Mr. Stokes. He said she had offered him $50 once and checks for $5 and $10 subsequently, with the understanding that he was to "bribe" the cook, butler and "another party" to give evidence against her husband.

Mr. Untermyer drew from the witness the point that the 35th street address was across the street from a large store in which Mrs. Stokes shopped often. Henshaw had testified he usually waited about an hour for Mrs. Stokes when he drove there, and that occasionally he was dismissed as she entered the apartment house.

FRENCH LIQUOR BEING SMUGGLED AS "HIDES"

New York, Oct., 10.—Customs officials today stumbled upon a discovery which may reveal a plot to smuggle French liquor into the United States on a wholesale scale.

A longshoreman, rolling a barrel of "hides" along a Hudson River pier after a shipment of 96 had been unloaded from the French liner Chicago, which docked last Saturday, tripped, and the barrel crashed into an iron girder, a customs inspectator, standing nearby, expected to see brine, in which hides usually are packed, gush from the broken staves. The expected flow was not forthcoming.

Opening the barrel, he found inside 48 bottles of scotch, benedictine and apricot brandy. A few hides were used for packing.

He tapped five more barrels. In each was found 40 bottles of contraband liquor.

This in itself is not large, but almost every French ship brings in shipments of "hides." Customs officials now fear that thousands of cases have been smuggled into the country.

TO PROTECT NEGROES FROM "VIGILANCE COMMITTEE"

Pittsburgh, Oct. 10.— Robert H. Braun, chief of Allegheny county detectives and a squad of operatives, were tonight patrolling Stowe township prepared to meet any emergency that might arise in consequence of the action of a self-appointed "vigilance committee" in ordering negroes from the district. Chief Braun was under instructions to see that no unlawful methods were used to intimidate negroes and at the same time was checking up on a number of negroes the "vigilance committee" had reported as undesirable citizens.

E. L. Vann, a negro attorney, today protested to Chief Braun against the action of the "vigilance committee" and was given assurance that all law-abiding negroes of the district would be protected.

The situation arose in Stowe township after the killing Saturday night of Thomas Rowland, 73, and the wounding of his eleven year old grand-daughter by a negro who escaped.

POINCARE REJECTS LATEST OFFER MADE BY GERMANY

Deems It Inadvisable to Consider Any Proposal That Does Not Cover the Entire Reparation Question—Believes Germany Desires to Enjoy the Benefits of a Moratorium Without Accepting Any of the Conditions the Allies Propose as Indispensable—Intimates That Offer Was Made to Allow Germany to Have a Hand in the Ruhr Now That Passive Resistance Has Ended.

Paris, Oct. 10.—(By the A. P.—The reparation problem as a whole is still where it was before the German government announced cessation of the passive resistance in the Ruhr. This is the conclusion in French official circles after today's visit to the French foreign office of Herr Von Hoesch, the German charge d'affaires.

Herr Von Hoesch told Premier Poincare he was instructed to open direct negotiations between the Berlin and Paris governments and to offer Germany's co-operation toward the resumption of the normal economic life of the Ruhr.

The Germans are credited in French circles with being ready to negotiate only in order to have a hand in the Ruhr regime now that the resistance has ended, and Premier Poincare told the German envoy that, inasmuch as negotiations were in progress between the allies and the groups of industrialists and labor leaders in the Ruhr, he did not consider it advisable to undertake further conversations with Berlin on the same subject. When Germany was ready to make a proposition covering the entire reparation question he would be glad to consider it.

The communications made at Brussels Monday and in Paris today on behalf of the Reich are regarded as making no progress whatever toward a final solution of the problem. A real gain, however, it is held, has been made toward material results from the Ruhr occupation in the agreements reached directly with the Ruhr industrial leaders, and the allies will center their attention upon such agreements until they receive something more promising from Berlin.

What the allies are expecting from Germany, it is pointed out, is a proposal for such arrangements as will furnish the guarantee they require before formally consenting to a moratorium. This was the real question up for consideration at the time Great Britain and France broke on their reparation policies and it is still regarded as the uppermost question, although it has been obscured by the more recent events.

The reparations commission still has the moratorium proposition on its calendar, and everybody, including Premier Poincare, is said to recognize that such financial relief must be formally accorded for a fixed number of years.

The French theory is that the Germans desire to enjoy the benefits of a moratorium without accepting any of the conditions the allies proposed as indispensable, hence the absence from the communications to the Franco- Belgians of any hint that Berlin is getting ready to make a general reperation proposal or institute the reforme that France and Belgium have insisted upon.

There is a strong suspicion here that the idea in Berlin is to seek economic accords that would give the Germans some return for the advantages which may be gained from the Ruhr occupation by the allies when the industrial activity there is revived.

The activities of Hugo Stinnes, German industrial magnate, during the last week are responsible in some measure at least, it is estimated, for the caution displayed by M. Poincare. Stinnes is understood to have endeavored to get General Degoutte to impose an increase in working hours on the Ruhr employes, but the allied commander, acting on instruction from Paris, refused to have anything to do with it, telling Herr Stinnes that the French government was determined not to interfere in purely domestic questions. This, it is said at the foreign office, did not prevent the Stinnes's newspapers from reporting that it was the French who wanted to impose the longer working hours.

The negotiations between the allied mine control commission and the operators are continuing at Duesseldorf satisfactorily to the French authorities, it was declared tonight, and for the moment the hopes of the allies are centered there. Indications are that the railroad workers will return to their posts within a few days and that the movement of coal and coke will soon be resumed.

The accords already signed are in the hands of the reparation commission for approval of the clauses providing for resumption of coal deliveries to the allies. If no objection is raised the allies, it is thought, will begin to receive shipments before the end of the present month.

CORRIGAN TESTIFIES IN POLICE LIQUOR GRAFT PROBE

New York, Oct. 10.—Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, who is defendant with Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier in the criminal libel proceedings brought by Police Commissioner Enright, today testified before Judge Crain, who is conducting the police liquor graft inquiry growing out of the libel charges, that he believed the police department inefficient or corrupt in its enforcement of the Mullan-Gage act.

The magistrate was called to hte witness stand after the commissioner had been questioned closely about his financial affairs during the life o fthe state prohibition enforcement act.

Magistrate Corrigan admitted that he had said while sitting in Essex Market court that half the cops are grafters and bootleggers, but they are not satisfied with that but go in and beat a man up." He said he had made the statement in connection testimony in a case in which it was alleged that policemen had used a blackjack on a man whose premises they had raided.

It had seemed to him, he added, that "fifty-per cent of the men brought before me were tried in the corridor and not in the court. It is easy for a policeman to change his testimony after he has made an arrest."

He said he thought Commissioner Enright was a grafter but admitted he had no proof. He said he did not think the commissioner inefficient. "He can be a very good cop when he wants to," he added.

KIPLING INSTALLED RECTOR ST. ANDREW'S UNIVERSITY

St. Andrews, Scatland, Oct. 10.—(By the A. P.)—The men and women students of St. Andrews University had an uproarious day today entertaining Rudyard Kipling, who was installed as rector. Kipling was accompanied from London by his cousin Stanley Baldwin, the prime minister, and was supported by Field Marshall Earl Haig, and other notables.

In his inaugural address, Kipling told the students that "the first use man made of the power of speech when he evolved from the monkey was to tell a lie."

"That was a frigid and calculating lie," he continued. "Most unfortunately we have no record of the meeting of the world's first liar with the world's second liar, but from what we know of their descendants today they were probably of opposite sex, and married at once and began a numerous progeny."

Kipling's text was from Robert Burns—"The Glorious Privilege of Independence." The students, garbed in red gowns, ran riot throughout the ceremony, singing and firing toy pistols and taking liberties with the celebrities, according to the custom of British universities, in a manner unknown to American colleges on such occasions, and frequently bursting into song.

BOYS STOLE $200 FROM THE GRAND THEATRE, HARTFORD

Hartford, Oct. 10.—Two boys, 16, Michael Schick and Edward Gray, were arrested here tonight after robbed, the Grand theatre of a $200 payroll while the manager had left the office for a moment, leaving the bag containing the money near the window. Schick was only released from the Meriden school for boys a few days ago. They said they wanted the money as a "stake" with which to operate a local pool room.

TWO DARING DAYLIGHT ROBBERIES IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 10.—Two daring daylight robberies, in one of which a robber and a messenger were killed in a gun duel, today netted bandits $62,500.

The first occurred on Columbus avenue, this morning, when five robbers, working under the road of the Elevated, sent a wrapped brick crashing through a pawnshop window and escaped in an automobile with $50,000 in gems while communicants were pouring from a Catholic church nearby. Clerks fired at the bandits, but missed and taxis and private cars which took up the pursuit were forced to abandon the chase because of heavy traffic.

The second robbery occurred this afternoon on West 13th street, in front of Rothenberg's department store, when two messengers, bound for a bank with $12,500 to deposit, were held up by four highwaymen. Alexander Oliker, one of the messengers, fired and killed Harry Cramer, one of the bandits, then the gang "drew" on the department store employes as they appeared on the sidewalk. Cramer, with a bullet in the temple, staggered to the middle of the street and fell dead.

His three confederates returned and the messengers fired and Oliker fell with his jugular vein severed. Even as he fell, he snatched at the money bag which the bandits had torn from the hands of his companion, David Vogel, but his grip failed. Still clutching the bag, the thugs fled to a waiting automobile and escaped.

Before departing, the bandits fired again and again in every direction. The front of the store was pockmarked with bullets and a score of employes narrowly escaped injury.

Police reserves had to be called to handle the crowd which gathered including a number of girls, from a high school nearby.

The police tonight were searching for the robbers' car with the aid of the license number given them by the messenger of the store who witnessed the pistol battle from a balcony over the door.

HARVEY EXPECTS TO BE HOME FOR THANKSGIVING

London, Oct. 10.—(By the A. P.)—American Ambassador George Harvey plans to say farewell to the royalty at the Court of St. James in time to eat Thanksgiving turkey and pumpkin pie at Peacham, Vermont, his home town. His sailing date depends upon the time of King George's return to London, but otherwise the retiring ambassador is winding up his affairs preparatory to his homecoming.

After visiting his home folks, Mr. Harvey says he will take a long holiday. When asked about his future political activities, the ambassador replied that he would give consideration to all such matters during his holiday.

SHIPS IN TROUBLE OFF COAST OF WASHINGTON

Port Angeles, Wash., Oct. 10.—The tug Equator of Seattle which went ashore last night in a fog near the mouth of the Quillaute river, fifty miles south of Cape Flattery, sank today, according to word received here. The crew was saved. The tug Dolly C., ashore near the same place, was floated.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 10.—The British tanker El Lobo went ashore this afternoon on Roberts Bank, near Vancouver, B. C., according to a report received here.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office

A state K. of C. athletic committee has been appointed by State Deputy William J. Mulligan, of the Knights of Columbus, as follows: Frank M. Lynch of New Haven, Joseph R. Craaker, New London; Edmund L. Portelance, Willimantic; Raymond A. Keefe, Hartford, and James A. Kelley, of Bridgeport. The committee is to meet for organization in New Haven October 27, and plans for next year's work will be formulated. Bowling and basketball will probably be the principal sports and leagues will be formed in various parts of the state. It is thought that the center of the committee's activities will be at Hartford and that the final contests will be held there.

John Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Williams of 324 Valley street, this city, has attained high honors in the navy and has passed the entrance examinations at Newport, R. I., for the Naval Academy Prep school at Hampton Roads, Va. Mr. Williams had an average of 90 per cent in five of his subjects. The young sailor received his early education in local schools. He was graduated with honors from Natchaug Grammar school, class of 1919, also from Windham High school in 1923. He is to have ten days' furlough after October 20, which he will spend with his parents here.

At the last meeting of Anne Wood Elderkin Chapter, D. A. R., held with the regent, Mrs. Frank Larrabee, a lecture and social hour followed a short business session. At the suggestion of Mrs. Gager, chairman of the committee of patriotic education, $35 was voted to be given in the form of medals or gold pieces in the schools, as prizes for patriotic essays. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Chappell, who in turn introduced Mrs. Bissell, of Southington, the state regent, who gave a most instructive talk. Mrs. George M. Graves and Miss Faith Webster pleased with a violin and piano duet. Mrs. Gager and Mrs. Turner poured tea, assisted by Mrs. Larrabee, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. William H. Hall, Miss Rose Hall and Miss Webster.

Hector Trudeau, a blacksmith of the firm of Ducharme & Trudeau, was scheduled to appear in the police court Wednesday morning to answer to the charge of intoxication and assault on a fellow tradesman, Joseph Mathieu, but Trudeau failed to appear. The mixup was alleged to have occurred at the Nascin blacksmith shop on Jackson street. Trudeau was out on a $35 bond furnished by his partner for appearance in court. After waiting for about half an hour the court officials decided to give Trudeau a chance to save his bond by continuing the case until this (Thursday) morning when an officer will see that he appears in court. Spectators of the affair said that it was a spectacular one. Trudeau came to the Nascin blacksmith shop and started to look for trouble. After talking wildly for a few minutes he picked up a hammer and attempted to strike Joseph Mathieu, who was shoeing a horse. Mathieu dodged and was grabbed by the throat by Trudeau. The latter was then floored twice and the men were separated. Trudeau left and was later found hiding in the attic of his home.

The meeting of the Catholic Welfare Council was held Tuesday evening at St. Joseph's church hall. The following committees with their respective chairmen were appointed: Program, Mrs. John Reilly; hospitality, Mrs. John O'Neill; garments, Mrs. Minnie Flynn; town farm, Mrs. John Meehan; county home, Miss Anna Shea. A communication was read from the Willimantic Woman's Club inviting the council to attend a lecture by Miss Christine A. Ferry on The Vogue of the Handmade in Home Decoration. The lecture, with a large variety of exhibits demonstrating the work is to be given at the town hall, Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Another communication was read from the directors of the Visiting Nurse Association, asking for co-operation in their work and asking for a donation and that a delegate be appointed to represent the society at a meeting of the association. The sum of fifty dollars was voted as a donation and Mrs. James Hurley was appointed delegate to the meeting.

The organization of classes was then taken up. The classes will begin next Tuesday and will be held weekly during the winter. Instruction is to be given in millinery, basketry, embroidery and other forms of fancy work, sewing, cooking and home nursing. Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance will be in charge of the November meeting of the council.

Funeral services for James Bates, 33, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home in Staffordville, where he had been a resident practically all his life. Burial was in the Staffordville cemetery. James Bates was found dead in an automobile in Wales, Mass., last Friday afternoon and his death was due to acute alcoholism, according to the statement of the coroner who investigated the case. Bates was widely known as a dwarf, being less, than five feet tall.

Willimantic is to have a Lions' club and Attorney Harry S. Gaucher has been elected temporary president. The action was taken at a meeting held here Wednesday noon. Harry Chalmers was elected temporary secretary and President Gaucher was vested with the power of appointing a secret membership committee. The club is now an assured proposition in this city and has the following membership: Harry Gaucher, Harry Chalmers, Rev. O. S. Beaumister, Dr. Turcotte, O. L. Willard, William P. Dawson, Clement Hurteau, David O. Feldman, Roderick Jodoin and A. E. Morrill. Field Director H. McKinnen was present at the meeting and gave a short address.

James Hayes Squires and Miss Mary Josephine Kelley were married Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Edward's R. C. church, Stafford Springs by the pastor, Rev. Felix J. O'Neill. Father O'Neill also sang the nuptial high mass. The attendants were Robert Fitzpatrick of Stafford Springs, a cousin of the groom and Miss Irene Kelley, a sister of the bride.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to this city where a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Keley, No. 106 Chapman street. Mr. and Mrs. Squires left later for Boston to spend their honeymoon. They will reside on Center street, Stafford Springs. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Squires of No. 81 High street, this city. Both have been employed in Stafford for some time.

An Oakland coupe driven by Harry N. Bullard was slightly damaged on Tuesday evening in a collision with the South Coventry trolley car, at the junction of Walnut and Main streets. Mr. Bullard reported to the police that in making the corner into Main street he was forced to go over the tracks by the fact that a machine was parked near the curbing. The trolley car was in charge of Basil Romano, of Norwich.

Miss Harriet D. Gerould, dean at the Willimantic State Normal school, recently gave a tea to all students residing out of the residence hall and to the people with whom they lived. The girls furnished excellent music. Miss Nyman and Miss Elliott gave several solos, accompanied by Miss Woods. Miss Orcott and Miss Metaesa poured.

Local automobile drivers have been warned to be more careful in obeying the law which says that motor vehicles must be slowed while passing the vicinity of a school house, or it is very likely that arrests will follow. Complaints of such misdemeanors have been registered at police headquarters, particularly from that section at the east end of Valley and Jackson streets where three large schools are located. Hardly a day goes by but some child has had a narrow escape from being run down by an automobile.

Mrs. John Kilkourey is resting comfortably at St. Joseph's hospital, after undergoing a serious operation.

Chief of Police Allan MacArthur is in receipt of a notification from the state motor vehicle department that the driver's license of John N. Gilman, 283 Prospect street, had been suspended, dating from Oct. 6.

The annual election of officers of the American Benefit Society was held Wednesday evening. Arrangements were made for the annual roll call and banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Welch, of Chaplin, have just returned from a motor tour in Vermont. Mr. Welch, who is interested in logging and saw mill operations, stated that many of the mills in Vermont have suspended business because of the lack of help and the exhorbitant wages asked.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Avery were in Florence, Mass., Wednesday to attend the 50th anniversary of the Florence Casket company.

Charles H. Baker has been inspecting farms in Vermont and New Hampshire.

Joseph Peck of this city is at Atlantic City, N. J.

Mrs. Roland Jordan was a recent Hartford visitor.

Mrs. Sarah Litterick of Prospect street is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Tumeth of Hartford.

Egbert A. Case and family have moved from Prospect street to the Whittemore block on North street.

Miss Elizabeth Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Buck, has gone to Newton, Mass., to be the guest of Lieutenant and Mrs. Edward Eisenberg.

Mrs. D. F. Finn gave a luncheon Monday in honor of Miss Fannie Bishop who starts Friday for California. She served fruit cocktail, olives, pickles, celery, baked chicken, mashed potatoes, boiled onions, creamed cauliflower, cranberry sauce, ice cream, cake and coffee. The other guests were Misses Gladys Bray, Annie Gorman and Irene Hayes.

Two hundred and sixty feasted at a chicken pie supper at the Congregational vestry Wednesday evening. The menu consisted of chicken pie, scalloped potatoes, mashed turnip, cranberry sauce, tomato pickle, rolls, cake and coffee. The waitresses began the serving by marching to music to their tables, were Irene Warner, Ethel Fiske, Mrs. H. S. Stephenson, Ruth Ballou, Lauretta Alley, Sadie and Bessie Thompson, Irene Stewart, Clara Adams, Anna Littlefield, Doris Bliss, Christine Marshall, Evelyn Woodmansee, Doris Johnson and Gladys Jeffers. One hundred and sixty dollars was the receipts with very few expenses. The supper was in charge of Mrs. F. D. Ballou assisted by Mrs. Abraham Zegeer, Mrs. William Dealtry, Mrs. H. E. Paul, Mrs. L. G. Buckingham, Mrs. E. A. Faust and Mrs. Minnie Johnson. Mrs E H Hiscox had charge of the waitresses and Rev. H. S. Stephenson and H. E. Paul were in charge of seating the crowd. Mr. and Mrs. John Whalley, William Dealtry, Mrs. F. W. Robinson and Mrs. S. R. Waters assisted Mrs. Paul in serving. The waitresses had fancy caps and carried shining new trays. It was the largest attended supper ever served by the church, automobiles being parked along Main street on both sides for a long distance. People were present from Norwich, Lisbon, Glasgo and Plainfield.

Mrs. Frank Halyburton of Norwich and son Harry of Waterford spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. George Sparks.

Rev. Albert H. Clement of Vineland, N. J., is spending a week with his son, F. H. P. Clement.

PRESTON CITY

Rev. and Mrs. F. S. Robbins and Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Hetherington attended the Thames Valley Baptist Ministers' conference at Stonington.

Tuesday afternoon the Preston City Baptist Ladies' Aid society did a large amount of work on quilts in order to deliver them to purchasers.

Upon invitation of Preston Congregational church, many Baptists attended the conference of six churches in the Preston Congregational church.

The Baptist church prayer meeting was led by Miss Cynthia Crary. She brought an inspiring message from Northfield.

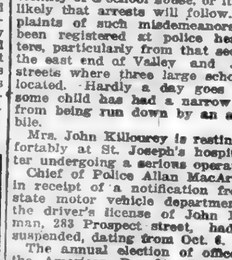
NO NEED TO FEAR BALDNESS

Tells How to Make Hair Grow Strong, Thick and Lustrous.

Thousands of men and women are growing bald every day. This is needless because baldness usually comes from neglect and anyone who gives the scalp a little attention should always have an abundance of good-looking, healthy hair. Dandruff and dirt cause baldness by clogging the pores in the scalp, and giving the dandruff germs fertile ground for prolific breeding.

The treatment is very simple; remove the dirt by shampooing and destroy the dandruff germs by applying the genuine Parisian Sage, a most efficient antiseptic liquid that druggists everywhere are now recommending as one of the quickest and safest treatments to surely stop itching scalp and falling hair, remove all dandruff, and to properly nourish and invigorate the hair roots.

Parisian Sage is in great demand by discriminating women because it is daintily perfumed, does not color or streak the hair, and gives it a softness and luster that fascinates and compels admiration. Lee & Osgood Co. will guarantee it to you.



Only those who have undergone them can realize the mental and physical discomforts which many skin affections cause. The distressing appearance and the intolerable itching and burning too often make life really miserable. Yet Resinol Ointment, aided by Resinol Soap, generally overcomes these troubles promptly, even if they are severe and long-established. The Resinol treatment stops itching instantly.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists. Why don't you try them?

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Looking For The Wishing Stone.

If I had a wishing stone,
I know what I would do—
I'd wish for lots of lovely things
And give a lot to you:
But, oh, my dear, I've never known
Where is this wonder Wishing Stone.

"I know," cried a little voice.

Looking around to see who had spoken, Little Jack Rabbit asked: "Who are you?"

"Here I am," cried the same little voice; and quick as a wink, a tiny fairy jumped out from behind a bush.

"Don't frighten my pony," cried the bunny-boy as Dapple Gray stood up on his hind legs. "He isn't used to fairies."

"No, indeed," whinnied the little pony, for that is the way a horse talks, you know. "I've met lots of people in dear Old Mother Goose Land, but never a fairy."

"If you come into this forest you will meet many little people like me," answered the fairy.

"Will you object if I travel through it?" asked the little rabbit anxiously.

"You have my permission," answered the fairy. "I'm Queen of the Forest Fays, But I thought you were looking for the Wishing Stone?"

"Maybe I was," answered Little Jack Rabbit. "You see, I thought if I could find the Wishing Stone I'd wish I was back in the dear Old Bramble Patch with mother."

"Well, the Wishing Stone is very far from here," said the little fairy. "Follow this path through the trees and by and by you'll come to it. But let me give you some advice. Be sure before you make your wish to say:

Rose red, rose white,
I will try to do what's right."

"Thank you, I'll remember," said Little Jack Rabbit, turning Dapple Gray down the path to the woody glen.

Well, by and by, after he saw a big white stone. It looked very much like a rude stone chair, only of course it didn't have any nice soft cushion in it like the one grandmother used.

"Hurrah!" he shouted, jumping from the saddle. "Now I'll make my wish!" and sitting down in the big stone chair, he closed his eyes and made his wish. But, oh dear me! He was in such a hurry that he forgot to say the little verse and when he opened his eyes instead of Dapple Gray, there stood a little gray squirrel in the very spot where his little pony had been. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

"Now I'll make

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The rusted hulk of a 7-passenger Chandler sedan, which had been consumed by fire in the woods east of the Green Hollow road, on what is known as the old Hammett place, about three miles south of Danielson, was claiming the attention of the borough and state police Wednesday.

Evidence seems to point to the fact that the car was deliberately destroyed—for what reason only an investigation will determine. That the destruction was deliberate seems well established, for no one would ever think of driving a car off an unimproved, though much used highway, through a bar-way and into a pasture studded with rocks and huckleberry bushes, and thence on through an opening in a wall into another field, nearly wholly grown up to brush and entirely out of sight of the road, unless the mission was outside the law.

William M. Franklin of Broad street discovered what remained of the car while hunting through that territory. He reported the matter to the state police and an investigation was soon under way.

What remains of the car is such a mass of junk that it was at first difficult to establish its make. It was finally determined, however, that it was a Chandler sedan, probably of the 1917 series, and approximately worth at the time of its destruction $600 or $700.

The wreck shows that it had been stripped, in all probability before it was set afire, of all its tires, the rims, the headlights, the taillights, the generator, starter motor, spark plugs and various other valuable equipment. In addition the numbers had been chipped off the motor, as a cover against investigation, and apparently every effort made to block an effort to trace the car to its last owner.

All this effort has gone for naught in view of the fact that the manufacturer's number on the car was uncovered by investigators Wednesday, and the number is now in possession of the police.

It is possible that the destruction of the car occurred as long as two months ago. In any event, what remains of it is rusted by long exposure. Three wheels have been taken off the car. Only the right rear wheel remains on the machine and that one is without rim or tire. The gas tank, rusted and scarred by fire, lies a short distance in back of the wreck. Apparently the front wheels had been removed only recently, and it would appear that within a short time someone has been doing further salvaging at the wreck. Nuts that held the rear axle in place were picked up Wednesday afternoon. These nuts are bright and not rusted as they would be if they had lain about for some time.

The hope was held out Wednesday that the last owner of the car will be located, and if he is he will be called upon to explain just what kind of a joy ride brought the car through a bar-way and a couple of pastures into the brush where it burned without any but the parties concerned knowing about it.

Those who saw the wreck Wednesday and noted how leaves on nearby trees had been scared by the heat when the car burned marveled not only at the fact that the woods had not been set afire, but also over the fact that no one saw the flames from the burning machine, the discovery of which by Mr. Franklin was purely accidental.

Scores here who know him, will have a desire to congratulate Fred Hale Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah F. Pierce, of the Squaw Rocks farm, to the south of Danielson, over his election to be associate principal of the Beverley, Mass., High school, with several hundred students. Beverly High school has had a special preference for many years for Bowdoin graduates for its principal and associate principal, but in this instance, after a careful canvass of the available Bowdoin alumni, it has selected Mr. Pierce to become associate principal. He will take up his duties January 1, in the meantime relinquishing his post as principal of the Lewiston, Me., High school, where he has been engaged as sub-master and principal for the past five years, and with distinguished success. It is understood that Mr. Pierce will come to Beverley with the understanding that he is to succeed to the principalship next June on the retirement of the present head of the school.

Mr. Pierce is a graduate of Killingly High school in the class of 1904 and of Brown University in 1908. Since his graduation from Brown he has been engaged in educational work in Maine and with unvarying success and constant advancement.

At Beverly he will be connected with a school of special importance. The city is a wealthy one and the membership of the school especially select. It is stated that his salary as associate principal will be $3,500 a year and that this will be advanced to $4,500 upon his assuming the principalship in 1924.

When J. Carl Witter steps into the auction ring at Brattleboro, Vt., next Tuesday morning to sell in the most important sale of pure bred Holstein-Freisian cattle to be held in the eastern states this fall, he will have entered the blue-ribbon class of auctioneers, wherein only the foremost men of their calling are called upon to officiate, and will have achieved a pre-eminence in his line attained by few auctioneers in the country.

In this great sale, for which pure bred animals only have been assembled from the best known stock farms in New England and New York nearly 200 pedigreed animals will go under the auctioneers' hammer, and the sale will last two days. Holsteins offered will be federally accredited, and the buyers on hand will be representative of more than a dozen states. Mr. Witter will be associated with D. A. Perry of Barre, Vt., another noted auctioneer, in this great sale.

Well known in every section of eastern Connecticut, Mr. Witter some time since began to attract attention outside his own particular field. His appearance at the great sale to be held at Brattleboro will really mark his entrance into what may be termed the big show, where only the top-notchers among the auctioneers get a chance to sell, and where only a long record of merit gains entrance for one who would appear at such an important event. Mr. Witter has handled many very important sales in the past, but none of them take equal rank, insofar as live stock sales go, with the one to be held at Brattleboro the coming week. His appearance there is by invitation and is ample recognition of the place he has won in his own special field of endeavor.

At this sale all the animals offered are catalogued, many of them are nationally known among Holstein breeders and the buyers will be representative of the most expert men in their line in eastern states.

It will be good news to his hundreds of friends in Killingly, where there always has been abiding faith in his responsibility, that William S. Martin of Dayville has been declared entirely innocent of a charge of forging a check, and the case disposed of to his entire satisfaction in a court at Richmond, Va., during the past few days.

About three years ago while Mr. Martin was in the south playing professional baseball, a confusion of names resulted in legal action being taken against him for forgery. The charge was as much of a surprise to Mr. Martin as it was to all the friends here who have known him and believed in him since his boyhood, and now that it is established that the check in question was endorsed by a William Martin, Jr., and not by William S. Martin of this town, there is general satisfaction here. The court frankly informed Mr. Martin that the case was wrongly brought against him, and this is completely verified by developments in the case resulting from investigations that have gone on during all the period the matter was pending trial.

Disposal of the case with such a happy and all to be desired ending is a matter of great satisfaction to Mr. Martin, whose innocence is completely established, and to his great number of friends in eastern Connecticut, where he has played semi-professional baseball for years.

Wednesday afternoon at the home of Judge Oscar E. Atwood, in Brooklyn, funeral services for Walter Nichols were conducted by Rev. George I. Browne, of Washington, Conn. The bearers were Fred Miller, F. D. Spalding, S. Irving Frink and D. L. Blake. Burial was in the South cemetery. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bassett and son, Earl, after a tour in the White Mountains and to Montreal, were at Niagara Falls Wednesday. They are expected here some time Sunday.

A rehearsal of the Treble Clef club, which is arranging a concert, was held Wednesday evening.

Numbers motored from Danielson to Providence to view the damage caused by the fire of Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Miss Elsie Stoddard of School street and Arthur Gauthier of Broad street were united in marriage by Rev. John Roux, M. S.

The opening meeting of the Civic Federation was well attended and plans were discussed for the coming year.

A summary of the summer's work was given, including the report by Mrs. Keach of a visit to Seaside sanatorium at Niantic, where children are treated for bone and glandular tuberculosis. Special interest was attached to the fact that a child of this community, treated there, was discharged perfectly cured. This is one of the many advantages made possible through the tuberculosis work of the Civic Federation.

The general work is no less interesting and valuable, and the goal of $600 has been set for the tag day planned. This amount seems necessary if the work shall maintain the standards reached during the past years. Mrs. Esther A. Jacobs was elected first vice president to fill the place made vacant by the removal from town of Mrs. C. A. Potter.

The report of the nurse, Miss Boomhower, for September, follows: Cases carried over 9, new cases 11, discharged 10, died 1, still under care 9, paying patients 4, free patients 16, number of nursing visits 97, medical patients 12, surgical patients 3, obstetrical patients 1, tuberculosis patients 4, social service visits 30, money received from patients $10.60, 23 attended the clinic, 4 half-days were spent in school. Town farm was visited September 22.

The nurse attended the New England tuberculosis conference.

Relief given: three garments, bottle of malt, ointment, medicated soap.

Contributions received: Clothing, Mrs. Oliver Downe, Mrs. M. Kelman, Mrs. J. C. Williams, Mrs. William Litch; fruit and vegetables, Mrs. Henry Smith.

EMMA F. PILLING,
Secretary of Civic Federation.

PUTNAM

In a transaction just completed, Ransom H. Bradley of this city has sold what is familiarly known as the Priest's Island property, south of the city, to the state forestry commission for preservation as a state park.

This pretty tract of land around which the Quinebaug river winds comprises about 30 acres and is heavily wooded. It will now be added to Connecticut's chain of state parks and is expected to be made available for the use of the public much the same as are other such tracts of land throughout the state.

It was regarded here as within the possibilities that the state in due time will erect a bridge across the Quinebaug river to the island, so that it can be readily reached by those who would visit it from the state highway that leads out of Putnam through Park street and along the route to the Putnam Country club.

The area taken over by the state is an ideal one for recreational purposes, and old citizens here recalled Wednesday that twenty score years ago it was in use during summer periods for church outings and picnics arranged by Father Vygen, for years pastor of St. Mary's parish in this city.

At the present time there is considerable underbrush in the groves on the island, but at a comparatively small expense the island area taken over by the state can be transformed into one of the real beauty spots in this section of Connecticut.

During the past few years lumber manufacturers have considered purchasing the property for the timber that is on it, but these negotiations never were consummated, so the property finally passes to the state and will be preserved for the benefit of the people at large.

The 1923-1924 season of the Men's club of the Second Congregational church opens Sunday with a pilgrimage to New Britain. The members of the club will go in cars to visit the famous Sunday school class led by Rev. John L. Davis of that city. This class in Trinity Methodist church meets at 9.30 every Sunday morning and numbers over 1,000 members. It has an average attendance of over 500. Last Sunday about 550 men attended the class. The local club has been notified by Mr. Davis that he has passed the word along to the proper officials that the Putnam visitors are coming and they will do all they can to assure the local men their heartiest welcome. The crowd will start from the Second Congregational church at 6.45 Sunday morning.

The discussion classes which were held last season will be resumed Oct. 21. They are held in the church parlor every Sunday at 12 m. Every man is privileged to come and to bring a friend. The topics for discussion during the coming months are live ones. Following is a list of the meetings and leaders until the new year:

Oct. 14—Pilgrimage to New Britain. Opened by Forum.
Oct. 21—The Eye, E. B. Williams.
Oct. 28—Vacations, F. F. Russell.
Nov. 4—Why Be a Christian Rather Than a Mohammedan? Rev. S. E. Cozad.
Nov. 11—Why the Luxury Price Coal? E. C. Kinney.
Nov. 18—Should We Approve Church Union? Newton A. Ballard.
Nov. 25—What the High School Should Mean to the Community. Principal M. E. Stinson.
Dec. 2—Marketing. W. J. Bartlett.
Dec. 9.—Why Be a Christian Rather Than a Buddhist or Confucianist? Rev. S. E. Cozad.
Dec. 16—Problems of State Finance. Hon. G. H. Gilpatric.
Dec. 23—The Spirit of Christmas. C. D. Sharpe.
Dec. 30—The Christian Faith and the Hebrew Faith. Rev. S. E. Cozad.

The first meeting of the club comes in November. Jacob Aipert and Ernest Morse are chairmen of the committees in charge of this meeting. It is hoped that some sort of an entertainment to raise funds can be arranged some time during the winter.

Evening classes at the State Trade school opened Oct. 1st, giving instruction in the following subjects: Machine shop practice carpentry, steel square application, framing, cabinet making, weaving and loom fixing, cloth analysis and designing, yarn calculations, elementary and advanced electrical work, mechanical drafting, architectural drafting, shop mathematics, sewing, dressmaking, millinery, cooking.

To date, about 150 applications have been received and registered. The feature of this year's evening school work is the large class enrolled in home economics.

The splendid teaching facilities and excellent equipment of the school brings to Putnam types of spare time training and experience that cannot be equalled in many large cities.

Applications are still coming in and a limited number can be accommodated in several departments.

Students enrolled in the machine shop, textile and electrical courses are entitled to one night a week in drafting room practice, in mechanical, architectural drawing, shop mathematics or blue print reading.

Evening classes in the school usually continue, providing attendance warrants, until the first of April.

A considerable number of new pupils have entered the Putnam schools since the first day. Total registration on the first day this fall was 844. The total registration this week is 871. This makes the schools larger than they were last year. Last year at this time 831 pupils were attending Israel Putnam school; this year 869 pupils are in attendance. The Sawyer school had the highest percentage of attendance for September, 98.8 per cent. Putnam High school was second with 96.3 per cent. The highest individual room was Miss Mary D. Wilbur's, 99.1 per cent.

A settlement agreeable to the parties concerned has been arrived at in the case of Joseph H. Elliott of Abington vs. John P. Grosvenor of Pomfret. It is understood that Mr. Elliott has received a substantial settlement in bringing about the adjustment of the case, which has been pending trial in the superior court this week. As stated in Tuesday's issue of The Bulletin, the matter involved in the case was the wonership of certain standing timber on land formerly owned by Mr. Elliott.

It was stated here Wednesday that the state is about to close a contract for the rebuilding or resurfacing of approximately three more miles of state highway from Pomfret station westward on the trunk line to Willimantic and Hartford. During the past summer the state highway department contracted for the rebuilding of the section of this trunk line from near Cargill Falls in Pomfret street in this city over the entire route through the Gary district and Pomfret street to Pomfret station. This contract has been practically completed, giving a fine highway between Putnam and Pomfret. Continuation of the work will be appreciated by all those who figure in the heavy traffic that daily passes over this main artery of travel in this section of eastern Connecticut.

There will not be a short calendar session of the superior court in this city Friday morning, as had been originally intended, but instead a session on Tuesday morning of next week. The jury that was to have come in here next week will instead be called for service at Willimantic on Tuesday, Oct. 23. Not a case has been tried at the October term in Putnam, some of the cases assigned for trial having been settled and others taken off the list, for various good and valid reasons.

Wednesday afternoon at her home in Phoenixville funeral services were conducted for Mrs. Sarah M. Latham, 66, whose death occurred Saturday. Mrs. Latham leaves two sons, both of whom were in the service of the United States during the World war.

Mrs. Hannah M. Wilcox, 76, wife of Charles A. Wilcox, died Wednesday morning at their home on Putnam Heights. Mrs. Wilcox leaves her husband and several children, among whom are two sons, Fred and Ellsworth, of Putnam.

Along with the high price of coal ranges the high price of hard cordwood this fall, $12 being the top price quoted so far, though some are selling the product at $10 per cord in this territory.

A considerable number of people from this section were at Stafford Wednesday to attend the Stafford fair, the last exhibition of the kind to be held in eastern Connecticut this fall.

Hunters who have been out during the first three days of the present open season say that game birds are plentiful, but difficulty is being experienced in getting them on account of heavy foliage. John Maynard of this city brought in two fine cock pheasants after a short hunt Wednesday morning.

WESTERLY

Associate Justice Hugh Baker opened the adjourned session of the superior court for Washington county in the court rooms on Union street Wednesday morning at 10.46. Judge Baker said that before calling the calendar he would say that the court only had two days here in which to hear and try cases and that the lawyers in responding would bear this in mind. From Westerly the court would go to Woonsocket where it would sit for two weeks. The next session here would be the November term when more time could be given. Friday is Columbus day, a holiday in Rhode Island, when no court sessions are held.

It developed that but two cases were ready for trial in the two day session of this court, Massachusetts Security Corp. vs Clifton D. Hall et al, in which M. Walter Flynn appeared for the plaintiff and John Ferguson, Jr., for the defendant; and the case, Providence Auto Equipment Co. vs J. Fred Barber, with the same attorneys.

Judge Baker then called the Westerly calendar for the September session of the superior court and it was answered as follows:

Lyman Franklin Peiry vs Marshall Thomas, trying case in Providence. Passed.

Massachusetts Security Corp. vs Angelo Selvido. Announced as ready.

Vincenzo Algiero et al vs Angelo Selvido, trying case in New London. Passed.

Anna Evelyn Faulk vs Lydia M. Davis, exec'x. Could not be tried in two days. Passed.

Westerly Lumber Co. vs Frank Tuomi, alias. Passed.

R. J. Leary Co. vs the P. H. Opie Co. Continued to November session. Westerly calendar.

Everett L. Clark vs George F. Wilcox, Jr. Passed.

Helen Berkeley vs Domenico Bianda, alias. Passed.

Catherine Whalen vs Felix Ferrassa, alias. Continued to November session.

Daniel J. Whalen vs Felix Ferrassa, alias. Continued to November session.

Frank Barone vs Percy Bliven, alias. Continued to November session.

Joseph Serra, p. a. vs Percy Bliven, alias. Continued to November session.

Anntonion Russo vs George Divison. Announced as probably a settlement. If not set down for Westerly case in November.

Thomas H. Barber vs Catherine A. Bates. Set down for November Westerly cases.

The B. F. Goodrich Co. vs Hugh C. Pendleton. Passed.

Angelo Algiero vs Angelo Turo, et al. Continued to November session.

Gertrude Gavitt vs Angelo Turo, et al. Continued to November session.

John Roche, adm'r vs Americo Monti. Set down for November session, Westerly calendar.

Providence Auto Equipment Co. vs J. Fred Barber. Ready. Assigned for Thursday, with trial without jury.

Empire Cream Separator Co. vs C. Palmer Chapman. November term, Westerly calendar.

Victoria M. Brown, adm'x vs Adolphus LaBonte. November term, Westerly calendar.

Victoria M. Brown, adm. vs Adolphus La Bonte. November term, Westerly calendar.

James W. Burke vs Thomas J. Healey. November term, Westerly calendar.

State, Amos L. Kenyon, comp't vs Wilfred Palmer. November term, Westerly calendar.

John E. Russi vs N. A. Collins. Ready in November, Westerly session.

Haffenraffer & Co. Inc., vs the J. H. Blackler Co. November term in Westerly.

Etta Ostman vs Molly Silberstein. Passed.

Henry E. Brown vs Deadima F. Sherman. Set down for 3rd day of November session at Kingston.

Catherine A. Bates vs Thomas H. Barber, et al. November docket at Westerly.

Thomas H. Barber et al vs Catherine A. Bates. November docket at Westerly.

The case of the Massachusetts Security Corp vs Clifton D. Hall et al, is an action to replevin a Durant touring automobile, alleged to have been purchased by the defendant under a contract, said to have been broken and the plaintiff seeks to regain possession of the automobile. The jurors were called as follows: Frank H. Bliven, Charlestown; Ernest L. Day, Charlestown; Winfred C. Kingsley, North Kingstown; Frank Regine, Westerly, William A. Moore, South Kingston; Daniel G. Bicknell, North Kingston; John H. Cooper, North Kingston; Clovis D. Francois, Richmond; Stephen B. Gardiner, Jr., South Kingstown; James C. Matteson, Hopkinton; J. Henry Burk, Westerly and Howard L. Gardiner, North Kingston. J. Henry Burk of Westerly was challenged and Jos. F. Briggs of Richmond was drawn. Clark Caswell named John H. Cooper of North Kingstown as foreman and the trial proceeded.

Outlining the case to the jury Attorney M. Walter Flynn said that to save time and expense the testimony would be given from depositions which had been prepared with Attorney Ferguson present and which he would read to the jury.

At this point Judge Baker permanntly excused the remaining jurors for the rest of the term, they were paid off and discharged.

The first deposition presented was of Arthur B. Sherman, no wof New Bedford, Mass., formerly residing in Brockton, a vice president of the S and F. Motor Sales Co. for whom Hall had worked at two previous times.

Lewis E. Barbour of Westerly accompanied by Edgar Thomas of New London left Westerly the first of the week on a gunning and fishing vacation trip, ten days of which will be spent in Sussex, New Brunswick and ten days in Belfast, Me.

Herbert E. Cooke, Westerly agent of the American Railway Express Co., returned this (Thursday) morning to his duties at Westerly railroad station, after two weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Vars left Westerly Wednesday morning on an automobile vacation trip which will take them to Washington, D. C.

L. Ward Alger, letter carrier at the Westerly post office, his wife and daughter Betty and Mrs. Harriet J. Brown returned to Westerly Tuesday evening from an automobile trip to New Haven and a visit with relatives.

Steward A. F. Beill of the Miaquamicut Golf club has returned to his winter home in New York.

The 8.10 a. m. accommodation train of the New Haven railroad for New London was delayed Wednesday morning at the Westerly station by a stalled freight ahead. The train was backed to the tower with the expectation of taking the east-bound track, but the freight was moved and the train proceeded on track one with but little added delay.

Samuel R. Gould of Wakefield was a business caller in Westerly Wednesday.

Albert C. Larkin of Quebec, Can., and his brother Frank Larkin of Newport News, Va., are visiting relatives in Westerly for a few days.

Henry G. Clark of South Kingstown was a business visitor in Westerly Wednesday.

Herbert W. Caswell of Narragansett Pier was in Westerly on business Wednesday.

A special railroad car will bring the member of a minstrel company to Westerly this (Thursday) forenoon from Lewiston, Me., to be sidetracted at the Westerly station.

WAUREGAN

The Wauregan band gave another concert in front of the mill office Wednesday evening, appreciated by a large number, many of whom came from outside villages. Friday next they will play for dancing in Wauregan hall. These free dances are attracting a good number of dancers.

Relatives of Leopold Lavallee of Canada received notice of his death on Friday last.

Albert Bassett has had a week's vacation.

Quite a number of local people attended Brockton fair.

Mr. and Mrs. James Moffitt have enjoyed a vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moffitt of Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. John Westcott returned Friday from a western trip, having spent some eight weeks in Utah.

BALTIC

Miss Fannie Greisharner was given a surprise by her shopmates Monday evening in honor of her approaching marriage. She was presented a beautiful clock also silver.

Music and games were enjoyed by all present. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Greisharner and daughters, Margret and Emma.

No man ever makes two mistakes in marrying—unless he marries more than once.

FOREST FIRE PREVENTION.

While thoughts are being directed to the need of fire prevention this week it isn't necessary to draw on the past to illustrate the importance of accomplishing it through being careful. From day to day the examples are all sufficient. It can be understood how easy it is to have a fire kindled in a factory, a grain elevator, a cathedral or in forest land.

Only last month the city of Berkeley, California, suffered great loss because a fire in the woods surrounding it could not be controlled. This week there has been a forest fire raging in Michigan which threatened to wipe out a town for the second time, and before the rains and snows make it impossible there will be numerous reports of forest fires which have done tremendous damage but which could have been easily prevented had there been sufficient effort at the right time.

Connecticut isn't located in a great lumbering region like Michigan but there are nevertheless too many woodland fires within this state, a large proportion of which are needless. According to the Connecticut Forestry association there has been an average of 852 forest fires in this state for the past 13 years burning over an average of 41,000 acres each year. The association estimates the "damage to standing timber, young growth and property of various sorts averages over $400,000 per year. The loss of real estate value and the destruction of game and the ruin of beautiful scenery might well double the figure."

When it is realized that half of these fires are started through carelessness it is to be appreciated what responsibility rests upon each individual who visits the woodlands whether afoot or in a machine. It is the careless throwing aside of firebrands that too often kindles the blaze after the one who does it is far away.

Fire prevention lies in giving heed to the importance of avoiding the starting of fire, and discouraging conditions that will lead to serious results.

ELIMINATING A DANGER.

"Boring from within" is a condition which has been known to exist since the last great effort to organize the steel workers. It was the policy of the radicals, and only within a few days has warning gone forth against the great danger that was threatened to organized labor by the reds within their circle.

Indications were that whatever the strength of those "boring from within" a few years ago it has been increasing, and gotten to the point where active opposition is called for. How generally this has become recognized within trade union circles is shown by the action taken by the American Federation of Labor in removing from its convention W. F. Dunne, the communistic leader from Montana. His claim to the effect that he was a good trade unionist despite his communistic ideas could not be swallowed by the convention. By an overwhelming vote his credentials were recalled and he was as much as told that there could be no such mixture as he claimed and be a true trade unionist.

What the federation did in this instance is what other organized bodies are also doing. There is recognition of the need of getting rid of such dangerous influences and to let it be understood that there is an unwillingness to harbor them, however much they may desire to remain. The refusal to let such leaders continue under false colors not only checks their activities within union circles but it makes clear the union's attitude toward such policies. Giving them a place within organized labor to promote rash doctrines has seriously reflected upon union organizations and activities. It takes a high and commendable stand when it throws out such elements and insists upon a needed housecleaning.

Methods which are advocated and supported by the communists are so astray from constitutional methods that there is no surprise that the federation cannot endorse them, and by throwing such advocates out of its ranks it makes a striking repudiation of any disposition to tolerate them.

THE VERMONT PRIMARY.

Because of the death of Senator Dillingham, Vermont has been obliged to go to the polls to determine the candidates for that vacancy. There was no lack of those who wanted the nomination on the republican ticket since it is in securing that nomination that the real struggle for office lies in Vermont.

Thus the success of ex-Congressman Porter H. Dale, who resigned from the lower house that he might run for senator, over the two other aspirants for the place, especially since he received a greater vote than the other two combined indicates pretty clearly what Vermont thinks of him and what it intends to do on election day.

The republicans of Vermont indicate by their votes that Congressman Dale has, through his service in the house, equipped himself to look after the state's interests more satisfactorily than any other. They attach value to the record he has made and they believe he has shown himself worthy of greater honors.

Inasmuch as it was known that Congressman Dale stands close to President Coolidge, having been one of those who witnessed the ceremony of swearing in the new president early in the morning on the third of August, his choice at the primary unquestionably reflects the support of the administration.

Quite as emphatic was the vote received by Colonel W. E. Gibson of Brattleboro for the nomination of congressman to succeed Mr. Dale.

Vermont is one of those states where a nomination is practically equivalent to an election, and where members of congress are apt to be kept in office term after term. Inasmuch as the prohibition question doesn't appear to have entered very seriously into the primary contest its part in the election doesn't seem likely to be sufficient to upset the prospects of the republican candidates in the coming election.

DEALING WITH GUN TOTERS.

Two years in the house of correction is the sentence that has been given to one man for carrying a dangerous weapon in Massachusetts. This indicates that the prosecutor and court recognizes the wisdom of penalizing those who are a serious menace to the public, those who carry on their nefarious work through the use of firearms and who are responsible in many instances for many untimely deaths.

It is fully understood that in the states where the law requires a person to get a permit to carry a gun the evasion of the law may be easy. It is possible for those engaged in crime to obtain firearms without complying with the regulations. That is a most unfortunate situation but it does not alter the duty of the authorities in dealing properly with those who are found carrying guns and who are known to be engaged in unlawful business.

Possession of a gun too often aids and abets crime. Other weapons are available to the criminal but there are advantages in firearms which others do not possess. While it may not be possible to get each and every gun toter, and there may be difficulties in the way of apprehending all who use guns against the law and the rights of others, there is an opportunity for discouraging the practice of carrying concealed weapons unlawfully when individuals are found armed and looking for trouble. Sentences of the kind imposed in Massachusetts should serve to bring them to realize that the law means something more than a twist of an ear or a slap on the wrist. On the other hand there is the protection to the public which deserves full consideration.

LEVIATHAN MENUS.

Protest is being made by a returned congressman against the use of French on the menu of the Leviathan and the use of English on the menu presented in the steerage where nearly if not all are foreign.

When it is urged that the effort in behalf of Americanization and the English language is being stimulated by the use of the English language the wonder is whether the present use of the French menu is providing an education in French for those traveling first class.

It is easy to understand that those who seek dishes other than the regular ship fare should want to know what they are ordering. It is even understandable that there may be a partiality to French cookery. Let that be so, but not very much satisfaction is gained by being confronted with a long list of French terms when a person doesn't even understand the nasal sounds in French. It's like buying a pig in a poke and there are those who do not like the disturbing experience of trying out the whole list in order to get what they might like.

If it is so that French is necessary on the menu in order to get the benefit of the excellent French cooking, it seems necessary for each one to carry a pocket dictionary in French or employ an interpreter unless something is done to relieve the situation. That something is not a very difficult or costly scheme for if the French names on the menu should be immediately followed by the English terms the problem would be quickly solved. It wouldn't be necessary to try chicken hash, gooseliver pie and various other French dishes in an effort to get a bowl of bean soup.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Whichever team wins the series, New York gets the pennant.

Reports of fires, near and far, give further evidence that increased fire prevention is needed.

News that Texas is selling gasoline at nine cents a gallon only makes the rest of the country envious.

There are many workers in the anthracite mines who seem never to be satisfied unless they are engaged in a strike.

It will not be long before the storm windows and doors are put in place for the winter to help out on the fuel bill.

The man on the corner says: Even though many things are done that are hard to explain, it's great to be human.

Poor business conditions among the mills of New England these days do not indicate the situation in the older industry.

Grover C. Bergdoll may be willing to return from Germany, for punishment but the country will be the best satisfied if he remains away.

Through the increase granted the miners a boost in the price of coal was made possible. If the railroad employes get their wage increase are we to expect higher freight rates and thus another jump in coal prices?

SOME EXPLANATION

"I don't see why you always have another engagement when I say that my friend Pansy Hart is coming over to see me!" aggrievedly began the girl who did so want her brother to get married and settle down. "She is a perfectly lovely girl even though the average person might not say that she was a beauty—"

"You are approaching the root of the difficulty," said the wary brother, keeping on in his preparations for an evening anywhere away from home. "I don't care in the least that your friend Pansy has one of those hopeless faces which observers forget just as soon as they are able, saying rapidly to themselves, 'No-no, it cannot be possible.'

"I guess I can appreciate a girl's true worth and all that sort of stuff but I'll tell you just why it is I run like a rabbit from Pansy. It is because there is nothing on earth so dreadful as a hopelessly homely girl who persists in acting as though she were a beauty. Just that.

"If a girl is just moderately homely she may be able to get away with that sort of stunt. When the man she is archly talking to gets occasional glimpses of perky expressions and observes that even though her eyes are too light, her lashes are quite long and that there is a hint of a dimple when she laughs, he doesn't get irritated. But when a girl is downright homely she certain is a goose to try and perform as though she had all the movie beauties beaten a mile.

"If she were actually smart she'd capitalize her homeliness and charm in a totally different manner than that of her pretty sister.

"The real homely girl should do it this way: 'Isn't it amusing,' she should seem to ask you by her calm survey when she meets you, 'that I should be such an awful looking Lizzie? Really when I look in the glass and the fact is brought to my attention it hits me as a huge joke! Because my face isn't really me and I really am mighty clever and interesting once you get to know me! Come on! Let's forget what I look like and have a jolly old time! You tell me all about yourself and I'll tell you all about myself and I'll bet a cooky you'll be quite crasy about me before the evening's over. In the first place you won't feel that I'm trying to flirt with you and you can be comfortable instead of on guard, and I can be interested in you without eternally thinking about myself. You know, I forget myself just as fast as I can, because I find there are so many beautiful things and persons in the world to look at that it isn't worth while to waste time on myself. You're mighty interesting and I'd really like to get acquainted with you!"

"That may seem a lot to say in a look but it can be done. Of course the girl has got to have plenty of brains. Any girl has to have 'em if she wants to stick, because a man grows tired of just a face with nothing back of it, though for the moment he may flutter around it with considerable attention.

"If a girl is downright homely and knows it and doesn't do anything more than keep herself perfectly groomed and then casually forgets herself and proceeds with life she's apt to walk all over the merely pretty girl who is so busy with herself that she hasn't much time for you.

"There is a certain penetrating charm to a woman who is homely, but well dressed, with an air of being somebody, exquisitely groomed, composedly amused by existence itself, giving the impression that if only you can be fortunate enough to get her to talk you'll hear something. I'll let her be as graceful as she chooses, because ease and grace are no special prerogative of the beauty and no matter how homely she is no girl makes herself ridiculous by adopting them as goals.

"But when the homely girl begins to drop her eyes or look at you through her lashes, to twist a button on your coat with an awkward hand because she saw a pretty girl look cute doing the same thing, to smile beguilingly or coquettishly over her shoulder showing her discouraging profile, to curl up like a kitten when her type is the young hippotomas, to adopt the baby stare when her expression is distinctly mature and settled and altogether attempt being cunning or lovely when she is fifty pounds overweight or is dowered with the general attractiveness of a freight boat in a yacht harbor, why she is making an awful mistake and as for me I've no time to waste on her.

"If your Pansy Hart would just quit acting as though she had set her teeth and said to herself: 'Dogron it, I'm as homely as a mud fence but believe me I'm going to act just as though I were a raving beauty and I'll dare any one to resist me when I get started,' she would be a better and wiser girl—"

"Never mind," the disappointed sister said haughtily. "I'll bet you marry a girl not half so nice as Pansy—"

"I hope so," said the wary brother finally completing preparations and heading rapidly for the door. "I'm a married man and I don't want more than I deserve!"—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tribute to Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Selden.

Mr. Editor: A perusal of the obituary notice of Rev. Dr. Selden this morning impels me to ask the use of your columns for a brief personal tribute to one of the dearest friends of my life.

Anyone who knew his parents, as I did, could understand where he got his peculiar charm of manner. It was first "bred in the bone" and confirmed by long association with good men, in many places.

He is the last survivor of four brothers; as fine looking a set of fellows as I ever saw in one family.

The severe illness of eleven years to which the obituary refers, and whoih he bore with such uncomplaining heroism, while retiring him from his active professional life, was, no doubt, the incidental cause of his later residence here.

His activities in this community as connected with the Broadway and the United Congregational churches, as head of the Norwich section of the American Red Cross during the great war, of the Norwich Music association, etc., are too well and favorably known to need my special comment.

His use of the Otis library was constant and wide. An omnivorous reader, he had the rare gift of being able to draw at will from the stores of his wide investigations.

I have never met a man with a more accurate knowledge of current events, at home and abroad, than Dr. Selden.

The last few years of most intimate intercourse with him have bred such a personal attachment as to bring me the deepest grief at his loss.

A very high type of the real Christian gentleman has been taken from us.

WILLIAM A. AIKEN.

Law Enforcement and Public Sentiment.

Mr. Editor: The outstanding features of the resolutions recently adopted by officials and members of the bar in the several counties of Connecticut have been the appeals for the rigid enforcement of law and for an active expression of "public sentiment" in support of law, and with special reference to the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

It seems in order to point out, not only that it is the sworn duty of every citizen to uphold the law, whatever his personal opinion of it—for such is the essence of civic loyalty and without it there can be no government of the people; but especially is it important to emphasize the fact that the desired public sentiment is already in existence—latent, and needing only to be aroused.

I make this statement deliberately, and respectfully invite consideration thereof, because it is a fact beyond dispute that no citizen who will candidly and honestly face the underlying facts can do otherwise than sustain the eighteenth amendment, and the essential features of the Volstead act. What, then, are the underlying facts?

There is an old-time political adage that "nothing is settled until it is settled right." What is the main fact underlying the eighteenth amendment and the civic policy of "prohibition" as applied to the traffic in alcoholic liquors as a beverage? Just this: Not one citizen who opposes prohibition will defend alcohol as a safe and wholesome beverage. Please get that statement clearly in mind, and then think it out for yourself.

No person can use such beverages to any considerable degree without damage. The alcoholic drink traffic is an unqualified public enemy. Therefore it can have no proper standing under the authority of a government which proclaims its chief purpose as to "promote the general welfare."

The eighteenth amendment was placed in the federal constitution after more than one hundred years of definite agitation of the man-wrecking quality of alcohol, and after more than fifty years of definite legislative progress to outlaw the indefensible alcoholic drink traffic. The amendment was approved by the congress and ratified by 46 out of 48 states, by the votes of more than 5,000 state legislators in favor and only 1,259 against. No amendment to the federal constitution has ever received any such measure of civic approval.

The definition of one-half of 1 per cent. as a maximum alcoholic content was originally framed as a part of the internal revenue system, long before the days of "prohibition," and is based on scientific inquiry abundantly verified by experience. The person who sets out to repeal or modify this definition must first overcome the truths of modern science.

The moment any honest citizen sets out upon that backward path with an open mind, in that moment he begins to realize the truth, and as his honest inquiry progresses he cannot fail to realize that the eighteenth amendment and the essential features of the Volstead act are founded upon the bedrock of natural law.

And, finally, when the honest, candid citizen faces these facts, he cannot longer refuse to become a part of the desired "public sentiment." It is for this reason that I say deliberately that the desired public sentiment is already latent, and needs only to be aroused.

As long as it remains latent, lawlessness will flourish. The responsibility for present conditions rests definitely with those leading citizens who know the facts but will not stand up for the truth. It is ridiculous to say that the lawless elements can continue to rule and ruin when once public sentiment gets into action. The time has come for each and every citizen to take a decisive stand upon this vital issue of law and order.

Stories That Recall Others

Schoolboy's Lament.

A youngster sorrowfully gathering up his books Monday morning waved a sad farewell to his dog and bicycle and started off for school. Then he turned and lamented:

"I don't see why we couldn't have been born already educated."

Fighting Again.

A small lad of only a few months had a dog whose companionship he enjoyed very much. The dog, however, was afraid of its own shadow. The fluttering of a leaf would send it scurrying to the kennel. A kitten's mew was a clarion sound that put the fear of death in the puppy.

One day recently puppy came scurrying into the house where his lord and master was at play.

The lad looked at him a moment, and then sternly remarked: "Say, dog, have you been fighting again?"

A Little Talk on Thrift

Still Great Work To Be Done.

Back in 1859 a young Belgian school teacher named John Henry Thiry came to this country and settled in New York City. Twenty-six years later his untiring efforts resulted in the establishment of a phase of thrift activity that is just now beginning to take its rightful place among the recognized institutions for public welfare. It was this obscure school master who brought the school savings bank idea to our country and developed it into a concrete manifestation 50 years after the idea first had been worked out in Europe.

As frequently is the case with great and successful movements, the first years were ones of discouragement, but today this work has grown until there are numbered among the school savings bank depositors of the country upwards of 2,000,000 children with deposits of $12,000,000. In 1916 there were a little more than 200,000 depositors which number was about doubled (424,000) in the next decade, and since the school year of 1919-20 has grown with most satisfactory rapidity.

There is still great work to be done, for not more than 10 per cent. of the school children of the nation are school savings bank depositors today.

The importance of teaching thrift to the young cannot be over-estimated, and the rapid recent growth of school savings banks is significant of sound public tendencies. However, it should at all times be borne in mind that thrift does not entirely consist of saving pennies. It is for this reason that the work of teaching thrift in the schools, as inspired by the National Committee on Thrift Education, fits in admirably with the growing popularity of the school savings bank.

These two great educational movements should co-ordinate as they develop.

Unmistakably there is a growing popular interest in thrift education. Our children are finding the study of thrift not dull but interesting; they are finding their savings bank work and their adventures in thrift knowledge sources of real happiness.

Watch these things now taking place in our schools if you would keep in touch with one of the most important developments of our day. —American Society for Thrift.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG
It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

He had resided in Boston, New York and Philadelphia a large part of his life, being engaged in the lodging house business, at which he amassed a substantial fortune that enabled him to retire from active business in the later years of his life. He was of a kind hearted and generous nature in the home and to his friends and he bore the long suffering of his final illness with great patience

SUES WOMAN'S ESTATE ON CLAIM FOR $2,600

The alleged failure of Augusta M. Clark of Old Lyme to provide in her will money due him as salary is the basis of a suit brought by Robert H. Appleby of Old Lyme against Robert Noble and Eugene Cauldkins of the same town, executors of Mrs. Clark's will, the trial of which began late Wednesday morning before Judge Isaac Wolfe and a jury in the superior court in New London.

In his suit the plaintiff claims that on Oct. 1, 1918, he and Mrs. Clark entered into an agreement whereby he was to be manager and caretaker of her homestead, grounds and livestock until her death at a salary of $100 a month, $40 to be paid in cash each month and the balance to be provided for in her will. It is claimed that Mrs. Clark died on June 1, 1922 and that she failed and neglected to make the provision in the will according to the agreement. The plaintiff claims that there was due him at the time of Mrs. Clark's death, $3,640. Mr. Appleby alleged that on Nov. 13 he presented his claim to the estate and that it was disallowed on Dec. 22.

Mr. Appleby was called to the stand as the first witness and remained on the stand the remainder of the morning session and most of the afternoon, telling about his agreement with Mrs. Clark and the work he did.

The following jury is trying the case: Frederick S. Gould and James Gilmartin, New London; Ernest W. Brown, Groton; Courtland York and Frank A. Sheldon, Stonington; Harry D. Watt, Fred I. Phillips and Robert A. Tefft, Montville; William Ackley, Paul W. Noyes and William M. Brown of Waterford and Russell Beebe of East Lyme.

The lawyers are C. Hadlai Hull for the plaintiff and Arthur T. Keefe for the defendant.

VERDICT OF $2,120 FOR ORPHAN GIRL'S WORK

A verdict of $2,120 was given by a jury in the superior court at New London Wednesday morning to Miss Josephine E. Murray, 20, an orphan, in her suit for $5,000 against the estate of the late Henry C. Gardiner, formerly postmaster at Flanders, East Lyme. The jury was out about half an hour.

Miss Murray brought the suit against John Gardiner as administrator. She had been admitted to the county home in Norwich when she was five years old and had been taken from there when she was 13 to live with the Gardiner family. She claimed she had worked in the Gardiner household, store and post office from that time on and had never received any pay.

Other witnesses for the plaintiff were Rev. and Mrs. Robert D. Trick of Bridgeport, formerly of Flanders. They testified that they had heard Mr. Gardiner say the girl's services were worth $1 a day and she could take it or leave it.

Attorneys A. P. Tanner and G. C. Morgan represented the plaintiff and C. H. Hull and Hadlai A. Hull the defendant.

THAMESVILLE LUNCH ROOM DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire of unknown origin did considerable damage at the Thamesville Lunchroom, Max Gershon, proprietor, on lower West Thames street, shortly before 2 o'clock this (Thursday) morning. Smoke was seen issuing from the single story structure by a pedestrian and an alarm was sent in from box 13, West Thames and Shipping streets. The department made a quick response and two lines of hose were run into the restaurant, which with a line of chemical squelched the fire in short order. The recall was sounded a few minutes after the box alarm. The fire was confined to the interior of the restaurant by the metal ceiling, roofing and sides of the structure.

LECTURE ON POTATOES BY STORRS SPECIALIST

The members of the Norwich Vegetable Growers' association hear an interesting lecture on potatoes by Prof. A. E. Wilkinson of Connecticut Agricultural college Wednesday evening at the rooms of the New London County Farm bureau, Shannon building. Prof. Wilkinson's lecture, which was of an informal nature, was illustrated by a number of stereopticon slides illustrating methods of growing and harvesting and giving figures as to costs, fixed costs, yield per acre and profit per acre. President L. H. Peckham presided at the meeting which had a good attendance.

At the next monthly meeting, the third Wednesday in November, Prof. Wilkinson will give an illustrated talk on crops of the present season.

Branch Meeting at Bozrah.

The Bozrah Congregational church is to entertain the Eastern Connecticut Branch of the W. B. M. for its fall meeting today, when there will be morning and afternoon sessions for the reports of the officers, routine business and a missionary speaker.

AVIATOR LANDS HERE WITH CRASH BUT SPEAKS AT ROTARY MEETING

After wrecking his plane in a difficult landing on the Elmer R. Pierson farm at East Great Plain and receiving slight injuries to himself and his mechanic, Sergt. John Murin, Lieut. D. E. Rowland of the U. S. Air service at Mineola, L. I., gave a very interesting talk on aviation in time of war and peace, at the luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon. Lieutenant Rowland, immediately after his plane crashed to the ground, had his injuries, which consisted of slight cuts about the hands, dressed and went to the Wauregan hotel where his talk to the Rotarians was of unusual interest.

Lieutenant Rowland said: I am very glad to be here even if I did crash into your midst so emphatically. This was my first accident since I began flying at the outbreak of the World war and is due largely to my own fault. One of our oldest fliers has said that a good landing is one that the pilot is able to walk away from. So, according to him, my landing was not so bad after all. In the flying game there are many amusing incidents and some that are tragic, but the rapidity in which the humorous changes with the tragic is what makes the game so absorbingly interesting and fascinating. During the World war I was a flying instructor at numerous aviation fields in this country and later was engaged in a sort of Cook's tour flying instruction in the use of planes in various sections of the country.

In talk with the average person I find that there is a great misconception of flying and the layman knows really very little about the game either from a commercial or military standpoint. This seems to me a crime and that the people should be enlightened as to the value of the airplane as a means of defense in time of war and also as a means of quick transportation in times of peace. Rapid strides are being made in aerial navigation and the time is coming when the commercial plane will be a very common thing and the armored airplane a small flying fortress. The construction of airplanes that will fly is not a hard thing but to combine more than one principle in a machine is what bothers the aviation engineers. We have planes capable of great speed but little lifting power; also planes of great lifting power but little speed; also planes capable of quick manoeuvres but not a whole lot of speed. It is hard to combine any two of these principles in a single ship but engineers are working on that phase of airplane construction.

The plane as a fighting machine is divided into four groups: the pursuit planes, bombers, the fighters and observation planes. The pursuit planes are used as scouts and as defense planes to beat off attacking aircraft. The bombers are used in attacking vital points in the enemy territory and destroying military bases and heavy guns. These planes are slow but carry heavy explosives. The attacking plane is a small plane equipped with machine guns and rifles and is used in attacking the enemy planes and flying low over the enemy trenches and spraying them with machine gun fire. These planes are armored to the best of the ability of the engineers. The observation planes are used for observing the movements of the enemy troops and directing the fire of the artillery. They are also used in photographing the enemy territory and in map making.

It is hoped that in the future a real armored plane will be constructed that will be a success. A plane that can be used as a small fortress when it lands in enemy territory.

Speed is the prime requisite of all planes and today we have planes capable doing nearly 250 miles an hour. However, there is difficulty in operating these planes at maximum speed owing to the effect on the operator and also on the materials of the plane. A pilot, who recently set a record for speed, said that in taking his plane from a straight course he lost consciousness for a few seconds every time the plane deviated from the set line. Physicians say that it was due probably to the fact of centrifugal force on the heart action. This is a problem that will have to be solved. The materials used must be much stronger if great speed is to be attained. These are but few of the problems that the flying service has to contend with. Another problem is landing places. The faster the plane the larger the landing field must be and here we have the difficulty should we be flying in enemy territory.

The air forces will be one of the important factors in defense. Anti-air craft guns on ships and on land are far from effective according to tests but are more effective than during the war. The bombing program has shown a wonderful advance since the war and recent tests show that a greater percentage of hits are registered from the air than by the anti-aircraft guns against the fliers.

However we need more money with which to carry on this important factor of defense and the appropriations made by the government are far too small to put over the air force work as is should be done. The people of the country should be made to realize this fact and urge more money for the air service.

At the conclusion of his talk Lieut. Rowland who came here at the request of Chairman Russell A. Clapp of the program committee was given a rising vote of thanks for his talk.

At the business session President Charles A. Saxton presided and Alfred G. Lillibridge was the song leader. One of the features of the meeting was the musical battle between Joe Worth's team of vocalists and that headed by Rue Bliven. The battle developed into a verbal debate in which Mr. Worth outpolished his opponent according to Referee Saxton who rendered the decision.

Another pleasing feature were the two solos by Charles Prior of Hartford, who was a guest of the club. William G. Park, chairman of the committee in charge of the Norwich-New London golf tournament, announced that the play would be held at the Norwich Golf club next Wednesday afternoon and that the meeting on Wednesday would be held at the golf club.

President Saxton said that Loretta Higgins' song recital held on Tuesday evening at Slater hall was a decided success and that the club had realized a substantial sum which will be added to the Dr. John R. Blackmar Fund for Boys' Work. He thanked the Plaut-Cadden company for the effort they made in securing the Chickering piano used in the concert. Mr. Saxton also thanked the members of the club for their interest and also thanked Frederick H. Cranston for his work at Slater Hall.

The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

AIRPLANE WRECKED AT EAST GREAT PLAIN

An airplane belonging to the government air forces at Mitchel field, Mineola, Long Island, is a total wreck at the Fairgrounds at East Great Plain as the result of an unsuccessful landing made Wednesday morning by Lieut. D. E. Rowland, who was piloting the plane. Lieut. Rowland and his mechanic Sergt. John Murin, flew from Mineola to Norwich, where Lieut. Rowland was to address the Norwich Rotary club.

The aviators had flown from Mineola to Norwich in one hour and five minutes and were making the landing at the field just south of the Fairgrounds when the accident took place. Lieut. Rowland in describing the accident said that he had been flying about a hundred miles an hour during the trip to Norwich and upon sighting the landing field had cut down his speed to pick out a good spot. Upon getting his bearings he started to come down, but as he neared the ground he saw that the field was not as smooth as it appeared from a higher altitude. When within 30 feet of the ground he realized that he was going to crash, as the ground was very rolling, and he cut out his switches to eliminate any danger of the plane catching fire. Then he loosed his safety belt and hoped for the best.

The under-rigging of the plane caught in the gully and the nose of the ship, digging into the ground, the tail whipped over and the machine landed bottom side up. Lieut. Rowland was thrown clear of the craft, but Sergt. Murin was pinned beneath the fuselage. Lieut. Rowland immediately went to his companion's assistance and freed him from the plane. The force of the blow had rendered Sergt. Murin unconscious but he soon revived and was taken to the Wauregan hotel, where he received medical attendance. He suffered a severe strain of the shoulder and a sprained side, besides other minor cuts and bruises. Lieut. Rowland escaped with slight cuts on his hands.

The plane is badly damaged and according to Lieut. Rowland it is practically a total wreck. The plane will be shipped today to New London by army truck and from there to Greenport by boat and then back to the flying field. During the afternoon hundreds of people from the city visited the wreck and many came away with souvenirs of the flying ship.

DESCRIBES HOW CHILDREN LISTEN TO MUSIC

The fall meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Kindergarten Primary association was held in the vestry of the United Congregational church on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. About 70 teachers heard the very interesting talk on How Little Children Listen to Music given by Mrs. Grace W. Drysdale of the Drysdale school record service, Cambridge, Mass.

By means of simple instruments for the "play band," such as cymbals, triangles, bells and tambourines, used with a good record, she illustrated how easily and quickly children feel rhythm and respond to it. Then comes bodily expression, as skipping, swaying, dancing, whirling, etc., the children expressing just what the music means to them. Folk dances and singing games are made simple and fascinating by using these especially prepared records, all of which bear the stamp of approval of Prof. Patty Hill of Teachers' college, New York. A new method of using the records was as a means of interpreting a story already well known and beloved. This calls for careful listening and a musical appreciation which may at first seem beyond the ability of the child; but just try it and see.

Mrs. Drysdale has traveled all over New England and has dealt with nearly 10,000 children a year for the past six years. Now she has established this service that teachers may know they are getting the very best records possible and are giving the children good music.

HEAVY RUMBLING SOUND WITH SHAKING OF HOUSES

A heavy rumbling sound, with what was reported to be a jarring of houses in the Thamesville section of the city, made an unsolved mystery Wednesday night just before 11 o'clock. To some it seemed like an earthquake, to others the firing of a big gun towards the south, and to others like the rumble of a big motor truck.

The noise was heard in such widely separated places as police headquarters, on the beat at the Falls, on upper Washington street in the Backus hospital neighborhood, and in Thamesville, but no explanation of it was forthcoming.

CLAIM MRS. DISHER'S BEQUESTT TO AVERY FAMILY, GROTON

ROGERS' CAR WRECKED WHILE HE'S IN JAIL

The 1915 Packard car which was driven against a telegraph pole and completely wrecked at Taftville Tuesday night by Eugene Leblanc belonged to Rene Rogers, who is now serving a 45 day jail sentence in the Norwich jail on a conviction for rum-running.

Rogers was arrested in New London on Sept. 13, charged with the transportation of 32 gallons of liquor in a boat. He was found guilty and given a jail sentence which he is now serving. At the time of the trial it was understood that he was a Massachusetts man and the car has Massachusetts registration No. 362-104. While he is serving his jail sentence his wife and children are staying in Occum and the car was recently brought from there to Leblanc's garage to have a battery fixed up. Leblanc reduced the car to a heap of junk in his ride Tuesday night that ended against a telegraph pole.

Leblanc and a motor truck that he owns have been missing since the accident, it is understood, and the state police have been unable to find the man. Wednesday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main served an attachment on Leblanc's garage and closed the place on a claim brought by Rogers to collect the damages on the wrecked automobile.

MRS. GEORGE H. PRIOR KING'S DAUGHTERS' PRESIDENT

The twenty-seventh annual convention of the Connecticut branch of the King's Daughters, which closed at Hartford Wednesday, elected the following officers: Mrs. George H. Prior, of Jewett City, president; Miss Harriet E. Eaton, vice president; Miss Ada Shedd, secretary; and Miss Ida Lyon, treasurer.

Rapp's Orchestra Pleases Dance Crowd.

Barney Rapp's orchestra, with everything in its repertoire that delights the followers of dancing, played for the dance Wednesday night at the armory under the auspices of Battery B, 192nd Field Artillery. There was a good attendance at the dance and many encores were called for.

Florida Colored Singers.

Colored singers from the Florida Normal and Industrial Institute, one of the well known schools of the south, are in the city to give a concert at which the collection taken will be for the benefit of the school. Their music is of the old time slave days and the old folk songs. George D. Hernandes is the tenor soloist and one of the quartette is a fascinating reader.

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Ragonese of Westerly announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie Antoinetta, to Samuel Bellone to this city.

DIED

MANNING—In South Windham, Oct. 11, 1923, Alfred Nelson Manning.

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for a while all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it.

If you are not strong and well, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron—at once. But be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, worn-out women in two weeks' time.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

"Vampire Complexion" Is Natural, She Says

They say of a certain well-known dancer that she has a "vampire complexion." It is so bewitchingly beautiful. Yet to intimate friends she has confided she abhors make-ups and that her complexion is really natural. Her secret is—ordinary mercolized wax. She spreads a thin coat of the wax over her face at night, and washes it off upon arising. This simple application actually absorbs the dead particles of scarf skin which daily appear, and a fair, soft, fresh, girlish skin is always in evidence. The complexion is kept perpetually young by preventing the accumulation of the aging cuticle.

As mercolized wax is obtainable at any drug store (an ounce is sufficient), anyone may enjoy the benefits of this remarkable beauty secret.

Keeping Millions Free From Colds and La Grippe

W. H. HILL'S LIFE WORK

Colds cause more illness than any other human ailment. Realizing this 50 years ago, W. H. Hill determined to develop a quick-acting scientifically correct cold and la grippe remedy.

Years of research brought success. Mr. Hill discovered a most remarkable formula. He backed it with energy, faith, integrity and a name that meant "satisfaction or money back."

Today more than 4,000,000 families—one-fifth of America's population—use and recommend Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine.

The formula has never been changed in a quarter century. What Hill's has done for millions, it can do for you. Demand red box bearing Mr. Hill's portrait. All druggists, 30 cents.

OBITUARY.

William A. Frazier.

The death of William A. Frazier occurred about 7.30 Tuesday evening at his home, No. 15 McKinley avenue, following a long period of failing health since the latter part of June. He was the son of Thomas M. Frazier and Louisa Hood and was born in Norwich Jan. 10, 1846. He was married in 1871 to Annie Davis of Trading Cove, her death occurring in 1913. In this city on July 30, 1919, he was married to Miss Mary E. Jencks, who survives him. He also leaves a brother, Joseph T. Frazier, of Bean Hill, a rural free delivery carrier, and three nephews, Clarence J. Frazier and Roscoe P. Frazier, who reside out of town, and Henry T. Frazier, of Bean Hill.

He had resided in Boston, New York and Philadelphia a large part of his life, being engaged in the lodging house business, at which he amassed a substantial fortune that enabled him to retire from active business in the later years of his life. He was of a kind hearted and generous nature in the home and to his friends and he bore the long suffering of his final illness with great patience

SUES WOMAN'S ESTATE ON CLAIM FOR $2,600

The alleged failure of Augusta M. Clark of Old Lyme to provide in her will money due him as salary is the basis of a suit brought by Robert H. Appleby of Old Lyme against Robert Noble and Eugene Cauldkins of the same town, executors of Mrs. Clark's will, the trial of which began late Wednesday morning before Judge Isaac Wolfe and a jury in the superior court in New London.

In his suit the plaintiff claims that on Oct. 1, 1918, he and Mrs. Clark entered into an agreement whereby he was to be manager and caretaker of her homestead, grounds and livestock until her death at a salary of $100 a month, $40 to be paid in cash each month and the balance to be provided for in her will. It is claimed that Mrs. Clark died on June 1, 1923 and that she failed and neglected to make the provision in the will according to the agreement. The plaintiff claims that there was due him at the time of Mrs. Clark's death, $2,640. Mr. Appleby alleged that on Nov. 13 he presented his claim to the estate and that it was disallowed on Dec. 22.

Mr. Appleby was called to the stand as the first witness and remained on the stand the remainder of the morning session and most of the afternoon, telling about his agreement with Mrs. Clark and the work he did.

The following jury is trying the case: Frederick S. Gould and James Gilmartin, New London; Ernest W. Brown, Groton; Courtland York and Frank A. Sheldon, Stonington; Harry D. Watt, Fred I. Phillips and Robert A. Tefft, Montville; William Ackley, Paul W. Noyes and William H. Brown of Waterford and Russell Beebe of East Lyme.

The lawyers are C. Hadlai Hull for the plaintiff and Arthur T. Keefe for the defendant.

VERDICT OF $2,120 FOR ORPHAN GIRL'S WORK

A verdict of $2,120 was given by a jury in the superior court at New London Wednesday morning to Miss Josephine E. Murray, 20, an orphan, in her suit for $5,000 against the estate of the late Henry C. Gardiner, formerly postmaster at Flanders, East Lyme. The jury was out about half an hour.

Miss Murray brought the suit against John Gardiner as administrator. She had been admitted to the county home in Norwich when she was five years old and had been taken from there when she was 13 to live with the Gardiner family. She claimed she had worked in the Gardiner household, store and post office from that time on and had never received any pay.

Other witnesses for the plaintiff were Rev. and Mrs. Robert D. Trick of Bridgeport, formerly of Flanders. They testified that they had heard Mr. Gardiner say the girl's services were worth $1 a day and she could take it or leave it.

Attorneys A. P. Tanner and G. C. Morgan represented the plaintiff and C. H. Hull and Hadlai A. Hull the defendant.

THAMESVILLE LUNCH ROOM DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire of unknown origin did considerable damage at the Thamesville Lunchroom, Max Gershon, proprietor, on lower West Thames street, shortly before 2 o'clock this (Thursday) morning. Smoke was seen issuing from the single story structure by a pedestrian and an alarm was sent in from box 12, West Thames and Shipping streets. The department made a quick response and two lines of hose were run into the restaurant, which with a line of chemical squelched the fire in short order. The recall was sounded a few minutes after the box alarm. The fire was confined to the interior of the restaurant by the metal ceiling, roofing and sides of the structure.

LECTURE ON POTATOES BY STORRS SPECIALIST

The members of the Norwich Vegetable Growers' association hear an interesting lecture on potatoes by Prof. A. E. Wilkinson of Connecticut Agricultural college Wednesday evening at the rooms of the New London County Farm bureau, Shannon building. Prof. Wilkinson's lecture, which was of an informal nature, was illustrated by a number of stereopticon slides illustrating methods of growing and harvesting and giving figures as to costs, fixed costs, yield per acre and profit per acre. President L. R. Peckham presided at the meeting which had a good attendance.

At the next monthly meeting, the third Wednesday in November, Prof. Wilkinson will give an illustrated talk on crops of the present season.

Branch Meeting at Bozrah.

The Bozrah Congregational church is to entertain the Eastern Connecticut Branch of the W. B. M. for its fall meeting today, when there will be morning and afternoon sessions for the reports of the officers, routine business and a missionary speaker.

AVIATOR LANDS HERE WITH CRASH BUT SPEAKS AT ROTARY MEETING

After wrecking his plane in a difficult landing on the Elmer R. Pierson farm at East Great Plain and receiving slight injuries to himself and his mechanic, Sergt. John Murin, Lieut. D. E. Rowland of the U. S. Air service at Mineola, L. I., gave a very interesting talk on aviation in time of war and peace, at the luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon. Lieutenant Rowland, immediately after his plane crashed to the ground, had his injuries, which consisted of slight cuts about the hands, dressed and went to the Wauregan hotel where his talk to the Rotarians was of unusual interest.

"Lieutenant Rowland said: I am very glad to be here even if I did crash into your midst so emphatically. This was my first accident since I began flying at the outbreak of the World war and is due largely to my own fault. One of our oldest fliers has said that a good landing is one that the pilot is able to walk away from. So, according to him, my landing was not so bad after all. In the flying game there are many amusing incidents and some that are tragic, but the rapidity in which the humorous changes with the tragic is what makes the game so absorbingly interesting and fascinating. During the World war I was a flying instructor at numerous aviation fields in this country and later was engaged in a sort of Cook's tour flying instruction in the use of planes in various sections of the country.

In talk with the average person I find that there is a great misconception of flying and the layman knows really very little about the game either from a commercial or military standpoint. This seems to me a crime and that the people should be enlightened as to the value of the airplane as a means of defense in time of war and also as a means of quick transportation in times of peace. Rapid strides are being made in aerial navigation and the time is coming when the commercial plane will be a very common thing and the armored airplane a small flying fortress. The construction of airplanes that will fly is not a hard thing but to combine more than one principle in a machine is what bothers the aviation engineers. We have planes capable of great speed but little lifting power; also planes of great lifting power but little speed; also planes capable of quick manoeuvres but not a whole lot of speed. It is hard to combine any two of these principles in a single ship but engineers are working on that phase of airplane construction.

The plane as a fighting machine is divided into four groups; the pursuit planes, bombers, the fighters and observation planes. The pursuit planes are used as scouts and as defense planes to beat off attacking aircraft. The bombers are used in attacking vital points in the enemy territory and destroying military bases and heavy guns. These planes are slow but carry heavy explosives. The attacking plane is a small plane equipped with machine guns and rifles and is used in attacking the enemy planes and in flying low over the enemy trenches and spraying them with machine gun fire. These planes are armored to the best of the ability of the engineers. The observation planes are used for observing the movements of the enemy troops and directing the fire of the artillery. They are also used in photographing the enemy territory and in map making.

It is hoped that in the future a real armored plane will be constructed that will be a success. A plane that can be used as a small fortress when it lands in enemy territory.

Speed is the prime requisite of all planes and today we have planes capable doing nearly 250 miles an hour. However, there is difficulty in operating these planes at maximum speed owing to the effect on the operator and also on the materials of the plane. A pilot, who recently set a record for speed, said that in taking his plane from a straight course he lost consciousness for a few seconds every time the plane deviated from the set line. Physicians say that it was due probably to the fact of centrifugal force on the heart action. This is a problem that will have to be solved. The materials used must be much stronger if great speed is to be attained. These are but few of the problems that the flying service has to contend with. Another problem is landing places. The faster the plane the larger the landing field must be and here we have the difficulty should we be flying in enemy territory.

The air forces will be one of the important factors in defense. Anti-air craft guns on ships and on land are far from effective according to tests but are more effective than during the war. The bombing program has shown a wonderful advance since the war and recent tests show that a greater percentage of hits are registered from the air than by the anti-aircraft guns against the fliers.

However we need more money with which to carry on this important factor of defense and the appropriations made by the government are far too small to put over the air force work as is should be done. The people of the country should be made to realize this fact and urge more money for the air service.

At the conclusion of his talk Lieut. Rowland who came here at the request of Chairman Russell A. Clapp of the program committee was given a rising vote of thanks for his talk.

At the business session President Charles A. Saxton presided and Alfred G. Lillibridge was the song leader. One of the features of the meeting was the musical battle between Joe Worth's team of vocalists and that headed by Rue Bliven. The battle developed into a verbal debate in which Mr. Worth outpointed his opponent according to Referee Saxton who rendered the decision.

Another pleasing feature were the two solos by Charles Prior of Hartford, who was a guest of the club. William G. Park, chairman of the committee in charge of the Norwich-New London golf tournament, announced that the play would be held at the Norwich Golf club next Wednesday afternoon and that the meeting on Wednesday would be held at the golf club.

President Saxton said that Loretta Higgins' song recital held on Tuesday evening at Slater hall was a decided success and that the club had realized a substantial sum which will be added to the Dr. John B. Blackmar Fund for Boys' Work. He thanked the Plaut-Cadden company for the effort they made in securing the Chickering piano used in the concert. Mr. Saxton also thanked the members of the club for their interest and also thanked Frederick H. Cranston for his work at Slater Hall.

The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

AIRPLANE WRECKED AT EAST GREAT PLAIN

An airplane belonging to the government air forces at Mitchel field, Mineola, Long Island, is a total wreck at the Fairgrounds at East Great Plain as the result of an unsuccessful landing made Wednesday morning by Lieut. D. E. Rowland, who was piloting the plane. Lieut. Rowland and his mechanic, Sergt. John Murin, flew from Mineola to Norwich, where Lieut. Rowland was to address the Norwich Rotary club.

The aviators had flown from Mineola to Norwich in one hour and five minutes and were making the landing at the field just south of the Fairgrounds when the accident took place. Lieut. Rowland in describing the accident said that he had been flying about a hundred miles an hour during the trip to Norwich and upon sighting the landing field had cut down his speed to pick out a good spot. Upon getting his bearings he started to come down, but as he neared the ground he saw that the field was not as smooth as it appeared from a higher altitude. When within 30 feet of the ground he realized that he was going to crash, as the ground was very rolling, and he cut out his switches to eliminate any danger of the plane catching fire. Then he loosed his safety belt and hoped for the best.

The under-rigging of the plane caught in the gully and the nose of the ship, digging into the ground, the tail whipped over and the machine landed bottom side up. Lieut. Rowland was thrown clear of the craft, but Sergt. Murin was pinned beneath the fuselage. Lieut. Rowland immediately went to his companion's assistance and freed him from the plane. The force of the blow had rendered Sergt. Murin unconscious but he soon revived and was taken to the Wauregan hotel, where he received medical attendance. He suffered a severe strain of the shoulder and a sprained side, besides other minor cuts and bruises. Lieut. Rowland escaped with slight cuts on his hands.

The plane is badly damaged and according to Lieut. Rowland it is practically a total wreck. The plane will be shipped today to New London by army truck and from there to Greenport by boat and then back to the flying field. During the afternoon hundreds of people from the city visited the wreck and many came away with souvenirs of the flying ship.

DESCRIBES HOW CHILDREN LISTEN TO MUSIC

The fall meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Kindergarten Primary association was held in the vestry of the United Congregational church on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. About 70 teachers heard the very interesting talk on How Little Children Listen to Music given by Mrs. Grace W. Drysdale of the Drysdale school record service, Cambridge, Mass.

By means of simple instruments for the "play band," such as cymbals, triangles, bells and tambourines, used with a good record, she illustrated how easily and quickly children feel rhythm and respond to it. Then comes bodily expression, as skipping, swaying, dancing, whirling, etc., by the children expressing just what the music means to them. Folk dances and singing games are made simple and fascinating by using these especially prepared records, all of which bear the stamp of approval of Prof. Patty Hill of Teachers' college, New York. A new method of using the records was as a means of interpreting a story already well known and beloved. This calls for careful listening and a musical appreciation which may at first seem beyond the ability of the child; but just try it and see.

Mrs. Drysdale has traveled all over New England and has dealt with nearly 10,000 children a year for the past six years. Now she has established this service that teachers may know they are getting the very best records possible and are giving the children good music.

HEAVY RUMBLING SOUND WITH SHAKING OF HOUSES

A heavy rumbling sound, with what was reported to be a jarring of houses in the Thamesville section of the city, made an unsolved mystery Wednesday night just before 11 o'clock. To some it seemed like an earthquake, to others the firing of a big gun towards the south, and to others like the rumble of a big motor truck.

The noise was heard in such widely separated places as police headquarters, on the beat at the Falls, on upper Washington street in the Backus hospital neighborhood, and in Thamesville, but no explanation of it was forthcoming.

CLAIM MRS. DISHER'S BEQUESTT TO AVERY FAMILY, GROTON

ROGERS' CAR WRECKED WHILE HE'S IN JAIL

The 1915 Packard car which was driven against a telegraph pole and completely wrecked at Taftville Tuesday night by Eugene Leblanc belonged to Rene Rogers, who is now serving a 45 day jail sentence in the Norwich jail on a conviction for rum-running.

Rogers was arrested in New London on Sept. 13, charged with the transportation of 23 gallons of liquor in a boat. He was found guilty and given a jail sentence which he is now serving. At the time of the trial it was understood that he was a Massachusetts man and the car has Massachusetts registration No. 362-106. While he is serving his jail sentence his wife and children are staying in Occum and the car was recently brought from there to Leblanc's garage to have it battery fixed up. Leblanc reduced the car to a heap of junk in his ride Tuesday night that ended against a telegraph pole.

Leblanc and a motor truck that he owns have been missing since the accident, it is understood, and the state police have been unable to find the man. Wednesday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main served an attachment on Leblanc's garage and closed the place on a claim brought by Rogers to collect the damages on the wrecked automobile.

MRS. GEORGE H. PRIOR KING'S DAUGHTERS' PRESIDENT

The twenty-seventh annual convention of the Connecticut branch of the King's Daughters, which closed at Hartford Wednesday, elected the following officers: Mrs. George H. Prior, of Jewett City, president; Miss Harriet E. Eaton, vice president; Miss Ada Shelley, secretary; and Miss Ida Lyon, treasurer.

Rapp's Orchestra Pleases Dance Crowd.

Barney Rapp's orchestra, with everything in its repertoire that delights the followers of dancing, played for the dance Wednesday night at the armory under the auspices of Battery B, 192nd Field Artillery. There was a good attendance at the dance and many encores were called for.

Florida Colored Singers.

Colored singers from the Florida Normal and Industrial Institute, one of the well known schools of the south, are in the city to give a concert at which the collection taken will be for the benefit of the school. Their music is of the old time slave days and the old folk songs. George D. Hernandes is the tenor soloist and one of the quartette is a fascinating reader.

Big New Guinea Butter Beans

On display in the window of Disco Bros. store on Main street are New Guinea butter beans grown by Rev. W. D. Hetherington at Preston City. One bean is 51 inches long, weighing 18 lbs., 8 oz., and the other 47 inches long weighing 22 lbs. 4 oz.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Ragonese of Westerly announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie Antoinetta, to Samuel Bellone fo this city.

DIED

MANNING—In South Windham, Oct. 11, 1923, Alfred Nelson Manning.

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for a while all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it.

If you are not strong and well, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron—at once. But be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, worn-out women in two weeks' time.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

"Vampire Complexion" Is Natural, She Says

They say of a certain well-known dancer that she has a "vampire complexion." It is so bewitchingly beautiful. Yet to intimate friends she has confided she abhors make-ups and that her complexion is really natural. Her secret is—ordinary mercolized wax. She spreads a thin coat of the wax over her face at night, and washes it off upon arising. This simple application actually absorbs the dead particles of scarf skin which daily appear, and a fair, soft, fresh, girlish skin is always in evidence. The complexion is kept perpetually young by preventing the accumulation of the aging cuticle.

As mercolized wax is obtainable at any drug store (an ounce is sufficient), anyone may enjoy the benefits of this remarkable beauty secret.

GAME AS SEEN BY THOSE IN GRANDSTANDS MANY INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS ON FIRST

New York, Oct. 10.—(By the A. P.)—A successful bit of baseball strategy was put on by Manager McGraw of the Giants before today's opening game of the world's series got under way.

It came when the Giant manager ordered both Jack Watson, a right-handed flinger, and Art Nehf, his star southpaw, to warm up during the ten minutes preceding play, and thus kept Manager Huggins and his team, as well as the crowd, puzzled as to which of the two would take the mound.

That Huggins was completely baffled was evidenced in the fact he employed both right and left-handed practice before pitching. It so happened that the Yankees ended their practice against a southpaw and then were called upon to face Jack Watson's right-handed delivery.

Ex-Bostonians made up the rival batteries picked to start the game—Hoyt and Schang having once been team mates on the Red Sox, and Watson and Gowdy having been with the Braves until early this season. Bush, who succeeded Hoyt, is another former Red Sox, as are Ruth, Dugan, Scott, Jones, Pennock, Mays and McNally of the Yankees. Nehf, McQuillan and Scott, of the Giant pitching staff, together with Watson and Gowdy, comprise the former Braves now serving under McGraw.

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the buffoons of baseball, had a new piece for the revue they always give before the start of the game. As years pass on the two comedians add something new to their display until it has come to take up a lot of time and many fans go to the park early to watch them.

Their new stunt is a reproduction of the Dempsey-Firpo boxing match. A miniature ring, with the top strand of rope coming up to their knees, was pitched on the diamond and chairs placed outside of it. They wore boxing gloves and rushed at each other with some show of zeal.

Once, twice, three times Altrock—who impersonated the Wild Bull of the Pampas—went down from short right and left hooks. On his fourth knockdown Schact—the Dempsey of the piece— waited only until "Firpo" was barely off the ground before he knocked him down again. That brought forth the jeers that the moving pictures of the fight elicited when shown in Broadway theatres.

The show ended with the final knockdown which the pair did in slow motion time.

Then they went through their slow motion picture pantomime of a pitcher and batter, a relic of their former offerings.

Commissioner Landis was one of the early visitors to the park, reaching it before noon. He went to the press headquarters and had lunch on his feet with the reporters who went ahead to describe the early crowds.

The announcer at the stadium showed his prejudice without effort. In announcing the Yankee lineup the man with the megaphone shouted, "Lineup for New York."

Persons uninterested in baseball who were in a hurry to travel were in bad luck when they reached the vicinity of the stadium. Motormen on the elevated tracks slowed their trains to a snail's pace, and looked—not straight ahead to avoid hitting the man tied on the tracks—but into the huge arena. Fans who couldn't be at the stadium hung out the car windows.

One of the prominent "gate crashers" to exhibit himself was "Tammany" Young, the terror of ticket takers. "Tammany" didn't tell how he got in for nothing, as at least three more games are to be played. "One-eye" Connolly, who boasts that he couldn't be kept out of jail if a big sporting event was on there, got in but kept hidden.

It was a military band that appeased the customers during the early hours and it had none of the rollicking music that the Manhattanite likes. "East Side, West Side" and "Little Annie Rooney."

George Kelly, who batted in the winning run in the last game last year, distinguished himself again today. With Dugan on third with the winning run he made a one-handed stab—with his bare hand—of Ruth's hot liner down first base way in the seventh. He knocked down the ball and without hesitation whipped it home accurately and Dugan was caught flat-footed.

Heinie Groh of the Giants and Lawton Witt, of the Yankees are rival leaders in the runs-batted-in contest, each having two to his credit. Witt's big effort came in the second inning when his single to centre scored Ward and Schang, while Groh's telling wallop came a half inning later on a triple to right, which sent Maguire and Bancroft across the platter.

M'GRAW AND HUGGINS ARE PROUD OF THEIR BALL TEAMS

New York, Oct. 10.—"I'm proud of my ball team; mighty proud." "We played bad baseball." These were the statements given tonight by Managers McGraw and Huggins, respectively, after the first had seen his men clinch the first world's series game and the other had watched his players let the game slip out of their grasp.

McGraw's Statement.

Said McGraw:

"It's great to sit back on the bench and gaze upon the wonderful plays that Kelly, Frisch and Groh made, and I know that the big crowd got a real thrill out of every one of them.

"And it's great to have a team that can deliver a punch like the one the Giants uncovered in the third inning against Hoyt today. Even when the Yankees scored their three runs off Watson my players were confident they would beat Hoyt and at the first opportunity they drove him out of the box.

"Now that we have won the first game, we can sit back and let the other fellow do the worrying. Every one declared before the series that the Giants again had a weak pitching staff and that the Yankee pitching staff would carry the American league team to victory. The Giants are not weak in pitching. Ryan proved this by holding the Yankees in check after Watson left the game. Ryan pitched smart baseball and showed courage under fire.

"I have not decided on my pitcher for the second game. It may be McQuillan and then again it may be Nehf. I will not make my selection until before the game starts. Every one of my pitchers believes that he can beat the Yankees. They figured on great fielding behind them—just like Ryan got yesterday—to pull them through to victory."

Sentiments of Huggins.

Huggins was in a different fram of mind, but said he still believed he has the best ball club in the country and is glad they've "got it all out of their system."

"We played bad baseball," he said. "Our base running was terrible, and then Hoyt lost his effectiveness when I surely expected him to hold the Giants after we got the first three runs. Pipp getting caught off second in the eighth inning spoiled our chance of scoring in the eighth, and there were several other pieces of poor base running.

"But I'm glad that my players got it all out of their system today. You know, too, that the Giants got the breaks. It was on the cards for Frisch to make his great catch in the fifth inning and throw Ruth out at the plate, but it was not on the cards for Kelly to stop Ruth's wicked drive in the seventh inning. It was a freak stop, that's all, and one of the breaks against us.

"I'm going to pitch Pennock against the Giants tomorrow. He's ready and the Giants will find a real southpaw facing them. We don't care who McGraw pitches. I am sure that my players are going to hit in this series. They hit the ball hard enough to win and only poor base running cheated us out of a victory.

"Bush has pitched great ball against the Giants and his pitching today was one of the pleasing features of the game. He'll be back at the Giants and beat them next time."

Colonel Jacob Rupert was another who said that the Yankees played bad baseball. "We'll win tomorrow," said the colonel with a smile, "and even the series."

PITCHING ANALYSIS SHOWS 249 BALLS PITCHED IN GAME

New York, Oct. 10—(By the A. P.)—There were exactly 249 pitched balls in the opening game of the Giants-Yankees world's series at the Yankee stadium today, of which 133 were delivered by Giant twirlers and 116 by Yankee slabmen.

Analysis shows 94 of the 249 pitched balls were called balls by Umpire Billy Evans; 58 were called strikes; 25 were foul strikes; 9 were fouls; 24 results in infield outs; 18 resulted ni outfield outs, and 20 were hit safely by the rival batsmen.

The individual records of the four pitchers who worked during the game follow:

Jack Watson of the Giants pitched 38 balls in the two innings he faced the Yankees. Fourteen of that number were called balls; 11 called strikes; 4 foul strikes; 3 infield outs; 1 outfield out; 4 safe hits.

Bill Ryan of the Giants pitched 95 balls in the seven innings he faced the Yankees. Thirty-seven were called balls; 19 called strikes; 12 foul strikes 3 fouls; 7 infield outs; 9 outfield outs; 8 safe hits.

Waite Hoyt of the Yankees pitched 33 balls in the two and one-third innings he faced the Giants. Twelve were called balls; 7 called strikes; 3 foul strikes; 1 foul; 4 infield outs; 2 outfield outs; and 4 safe hits.

Joe Bush of the Yankees pitched 83 balls in the six and two-thirds innings he faced the Giants. Thirty-one were called balls; 22 called strikes; 6 foul strikes; 5 fouls; 9 infield outs; 6 outfield outs and 4 safe hits.

TRACK RECORD SHATTERED AT STAFFORD FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Stafford Springs, Oct. 10.—Sakura, driven by Harry Brussie, won the feature event of the racing card at the Stafford fair here this afternoon, equalling the track record in the first heat and clipping a quarter second off it in the second heat. Prodigal Guy was the winner of the 2.20 trot and David Hal captured the 2.20 pacing event. Wriver Squires was fined $100 and suspended for one year for laying up with Frank Manager. The summaries:

CUBS TAKE FIRST GAME IN CHICAGO CITY SERIES

Chicago, Oct.—The National League drew first blood in the Chicago City series today when the Cubs defeated the White Sox, 8 to 4. Charley Robertson, the Sox starting pitcher, paved the way to the Cub victory with a bad throw to the plate in the fourth which allowed two Cub runs. Lyons replaced Robertson but was hit hard. Alexander pitched and Stats and Adams led the hitting for the Cubs. Ed Collins hit a home run with Hooper on first in the fifth inning. Score:

WORLD'S SERIES RESULTS PLAY BY PLAY WILL BE MEGAPHONED AT BULLETIN OFFICE

As customary as every World's Series rolls around the results of the games that will be played will be megaphoned from the Bulletin Office window every afternoon. The Associated Press has a direct wire to the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium that is connected with the Bulletin Office and Norwich fans will get the plays of the game almost the same instant that they take place on the playing field.

The results will start to come in at 2 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) and will continue until the game is over. Stephen P. Coffee, official announcer, will be at the small end of the megaphone for the 15th consecutive year having never missed announcing at a series during that time. The Bulletin will gladly answer all calls for the score.

All persons are kindly requested to refrain from seeking admittance to the editorial rooms during the game.

ACADEMY LOSES HARD-FOUGHT GAME TO PLAINFIELD HIGH ELEVEN, 13 TO 0

In spite of the feeling that Plainfield would be easy picking, the upstaters took the measure of the Academy 13-0, Wednesday afternoon at the campus. The game was a good one although the locals did not get started until the last few minutes. Another feature that was not ideal was the playing of some of the Plainfield team. They seemed to take the advice of their rooters in several instances to run up their score of knockouts. But even taking this into account, the game was well worth watching.

Both teams battled in the middle of the field without any score during the first half. The play was about even although Plainfield seemed to have the best of the affair in one or two instances.

The third quarter started with Norwich kicking off. Plainfield tried the line and ends three times but was forced to punt on last down. Academy had no better luck and they also punted. Plainfield here started on a march down the field making five first downs on the way. Allard then took the ball over on an end run and Williams kicked the goal.

In the last quarter Norwich opened up an aerial game and completed two passes for 20 yards in all. Williams, however, nabbed the next one and ran 55 yards for a touchdown, this time failing to kick the goal. Plainfield almost had another in this quarter but were stopped on the Norwich eight yard line. Here the Academy stepped in and took the ball on downs.

Phil MacNamara pulled off a 25 yard run and then several short passes mixed in with line plunges brought the ball up to the Plainfield 18 yard line and here the game ended.

Steinman played a fine game and mussed up a number of plays that would have resulted in gains for Plainfield. Hinricks also played a fine game and smeared a lot of plays. For Plainfield Williams and Allard were the main ground gainers and both played a good game.

The lineup:

NUMBER FOUR

slight margin in their favor. In the rejuvenated Yankees, led by the dynamic personality of Babe Ruth, they faced stiffer and more resourceful opposition than at any time in the three seasons of strife between these rivals for title honors. The closeness of the struggle today fulfilled the predictions of those who anticipated a bitterly waged contest, a duel that may go the limit seven games before either team is returned victorious.

But in the end today, it was the story of previous defeats the Giants have administered to the Yankees, the triumph of a machine guided by the "master mind" of John Joseph McGraw over brilliant individual resistance. As a team the Yankees today played better than at any time since their brief days of ascendency in the 1921 series, but at the critical moments, they were outthough, outgeneralled and outplayed.

Waite Hoyt, youthful twirling star of the Yankees and hero of the 1921 series, opposed John Watson, whose selection by McGraw came as a last minute surprise in the opening mound duel but neither lasted long. Watson, the veteran, was unsteady from the start and after being bombarded for four hits and three runs in the first two innings, was withdrawn when an army of Giant reserves was rushed into the attack in the third inning. He was relieved by "Rosy" Ryan, a younger star, who stayed the limit on many occasions only by the spectacular character of his defense.

Hoyt, after an impressive start in the first two innings was shelled into retirement in the third inning. After the Giants had tied the score, Bush and his red flannel shirt came to the rescue and "Bullet Joe" after being found for a fourth run in that inning settled down brilliantly. He held the Giants to three hits in the remaining six innings, allowing only one runner to get as far as second base until the ninth, when Stengel came through with the winning punch.

The Yankees got away to a flying start in the first inning. The central figure was Babe Ruth, whose attempt to come back after previous world's series failures and crown with glory the greatest season of his career, has absorbed almost as much interest as the outcome of the championship fray itself. With one out, Ruth forced Joe Dugan, who had walked, and then on a hit and run play, scored on Bob Meusel's two-base smash to centerfield. It was a daring and spectacular bit of base-running by the Bambino and he was accorded an ovation as he slid across the plate with the first run of the series.

Geared into action, the Yankees came back in the next inning and scored two more runs. Ward and Schang opened with singles, were sacrificed along by Scott, and tallied when Whitey Witt drove a whistling drive across second base that Frisch dove for but could not stop.

Groh's single in the first inning was the only hit garnered off Hoyt when the erstwhile "boy wonder", looked upon as something of a Giant nemesis, "blew up" unexpectedly. Four runs clattered across before the inning ended and the entire complexion of the battle was changed.

Kelly, first up, singled sharply to center and when Gowdy walked, the Yankees held a hasty conference in an effort to settle Hoyt. Then came the real turning point of the game, a masterpiece of generalship by McGraw that gave the Giants a formidable advantage. Quick to sense Hoyt's weakening, the Giant pilot decided to retire his battery and sent Bentley, a slugger, to bat for Watson, while Maguire ran for Gowdy.

The Yankee outfield, playing back for Bentley, was caught unprepared when he popped a Texas Leaguer over the infield. It fell safe and the bases were filled with the heavy artillery of the Giants in the offing. Kelly came in with the first score when Bancroft forced Gearin, who was running for Bentley. Heinie Groh followed with a booming triple down the right field line that tallied Maguire and Bancroft, tying the score, and completing the downfall of Hoyt. Bush came to the rescue but before he could retire the side, Frisch shot a single to right that brought in Groh with the fourth run.

Then began the desperate fight of the Yankees to overcome this lead. Outhitting the Giants altogether by a margin of 12 to 8, they had golden opportunities to score in five of the six remaining innings, but in only one of them did they make good, that was in the seventh when Bush, who had singled, scored on Dugan's terrific three-base clout to right that "Pep" Young juggled for a fatal few seconds. Ruth had an ideal setting when he came to bat, but though the Babe tried hard, his effort went for naught through a spectacular bit of work by "Long George" Kelly.

Ryan, cutting the corners with his sharp-breaking curves, had Ruth swinging prodigiously until the big slugger caught one that whistled down the right field foul line. It was labelled a hit but Kelly, with a quick dive, got his bare hand on the ball, batted it down and then with a quick throw to Snyder, caught Dugan at the plate.

Kelly's sparkling play was but one of several by which the Giants turned back their rivals at threatening junctures. Twice double plays checked the rallies of the Hugmen, while twice it was the sensational work of Frank Frisch, brilliant second sacker, that averted possible disaster for the champions.

In the fourth, Schang walked and after Scott fanned, Bush doubled to left. Witt bounded to Ryan, who trapped Schang off third, Groh making the putout and then doubling Witt at second base as the little Yankee outfielder tried to make an extra bag on his tap.

Ruth again entered the limelight in the fifth, when, with one out, he drove a wicked liner to left, making third in another daring exhibition of base-running when Irish Meusel handled the hit slowly in the belief that the Babe would pull up at second. Bob Meusel lifted a looping fly over second base which Frisch grabbed from over his shoulder while running at top speed. Turning quickly, the Giant second sacked lined the ball to Snyder who blocked and tagged Ruth several feet from the plate to complete the double play. Base runner and catcher both rolled to the ground.

Schang doubled with two out in the sixth but was stranded when Frisch, with another fine running stop tossed out Scott to retire the side.

Pipp cost the Yankees a run in the eighth when after singling and going to second on a wild pitch, he was caught off the keystone sack by Snyder's quick throw to Bancroft. Ward followed with a single that would have scored the first sacker but it was wasted when Ryan retired the next two batters.

Pipp's apparent lapse, reminiscent of the famous 1922 occasion when Witt was caught "napping" off first base, was due. Observers believed, more to his ankle than to a lack of watchfulness. There seemed little question but that the injury, which had threatened for a time to keep the first sacker out of the series, slowed up his footwork by just the fraction of a second by which he was trapped.

The Yankees were retired in order in the ninth and thus was concluded the first act of the drama of 1923, the drama in which McGraw, the "little Napoleon" who is seeking his third successive world's championship, triumphed over the sheer power of the Yankees and Babe Ruth—their star of stars. For, above the team play, fans are watching with intense interest the struggle between these two types—Ruth, the greatest hitter of all, the mainspring of the Yankees, and McGraw, the silent, masterful tactician, juggler of baseball's tricks.

The victory, incidentally, was the eighth in succession gained by the Giants over their metropolitan rivals in world's series play, a streak interrupted only by the tie game of 1922. The Giants won the last three games of the 1921 title struggle to gain a margin of five out of eight games, routed their opponents in four games last year and added another triumph today. So far, McGraw's is a record unparalleled in diamond annals, but the drama is not yet completed. The score:

WILLS AND SMITH READY FOR THEIR BATTLE TONIGHT

New York, Oct. 10—Harry Wills, the burley negro who has repeatedly challenged Jack Dempsey for his heavyweight crown, and Homer Smith, of Kalamazoo, who recently was knocked down a number of times in his bout with Luis Angel Firpo but escaped a knockout, tonight had completed their training for their ten-round battle in Long Island City tomorrow night.

Fight fans will gather to note the condition of Wills, who has not been seen in action for some time. The question is of whether he will be able to knock out Smith after Firpo failed to do so is expected by experts to throw some light on his chances if he ever gets a bout with Dempsey.

Among those who will be at the ringside will be the South American warrior, who a few weeks ago was knocked into slumberland by the champion.

KANSAS CITY TAKES FIRST GAME FROM BALTIMORE

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10—(By the A. P.)—The Kansas City Blues, champions of the American association, defeated the Baltimore Orioles, International league pennant winners, 9 to 4, in the first game of the junior world series here today. Baltimore used three pitchers, Parnham, Ogden and Thomas. Skiff's triple scoring two and Becker's home run with two on bases largely accounted for Kansas City's victory.

Dodgers Win

Mansfield, Ohio, Oct. 10—The Brooklyn National League team, with Dazzy Vance pitching, defeated a picked nine here today by a score of 12 to 3. George Uhle, star pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, pitched for the locals, and was found for sixteen hits. Neis, Fournier and High getting homers.

VERY LITTLE NEW BUILDING GOING ON IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 10.—Cases of a contagious nature seem to have practically disappeared in New London, for the only case of contagion reported to the state board of health for the week ending the 6th inst., was one, that being whooping cough. The children of New London who had this malady have been many, but latest reports indicate that the epidemic is practically at an end.

At the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Manwaring Memorial hospital, held in the Manwaring building yesterday afternoon the following officers were elected: President, Frederick W. Mercer; treasurer, James D. Copp; secretary William T. Hobson; trustees, Dr. Daniel Sullivan, Dr. Charles B. Graves, Rev. James W. Rixler, George S. Palmer, Alfred Colt, William T. Hopson, Frederick W. Mercer, James D. Copp and Lucius B. Whiton.

Announcement has been received in New London of the marriage in Boston Oct. 1st of Norman R. Blaisdell of Boston and Mrs. Ruby P. Barton, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Blaisdell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Blaisdell of Truman street.

Dr. and Mrs. Albert B. Hart and Mr and Mrs. Frederick A. Beebe have gone to the White Mountains for a week or two. The trip is being made in Dr. Hart's automobile.

A demented sailor, until today stationed at the government reservation at Newport, was brought to New London this morning en route to the naval hospital in Washington, where he will undergo treatment. A guard of four sailors accompanied the patient who created much noise at the union station while awaiting a through train for Washington.

Mrs. A. B. Hull of Westerly is being entertained by her daughter, Miss Ethel Hull.

Darwell Sullivan, about 12, while riding his bicycle on Ocean avenue this morning collided with an automobile driven by Miss Deborah Williams of 140 Ocean avenue, a visiting nurse, and was knocked from the wheel. He was taken to Lawrence hospital, where an examination revealed that the youngster had sustained only minor bruises. The accident occurred when Miss Williams started to drive the automobile from the highway to go to the hospital grounds.

City Clerk Julian D. Moran started on his vacation of two weeks today. Mr. Moran is in New York and was among the fans at the opening game of the World's Series.

Miss Sadie Crawford, in the employ of Huber and Chitten, many years, has resigned to be clerk for Reagan Brothers.

Charles Fox of Oakdale, Thomas Sharpen, Westerly, DeWitt Wisita, Montville, Mrs. Henry Appleton, Pequot avenue, Mrs. Arthur Kaiser, Howard street, Santo Vitteritta, Westerly, Miss Elizabeth Kobelski, Montville, and Miss Ruth Rathbun, also of Montville, were patients at Lawrence hospital discharged today.

The funeral of John Ledwith, whose body was found in the sound Sunday, a few hours after he had been struck by a train of the New Haven railroad, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wolischlager. The bearers were James Daly, Frank McCormick, George Kelly, John Brutsman, John Doyle and William Coughlan. The floral tributes were beautiful. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, Stonington.

Roland J. Brantner has returned home, having spent several weeks at Rockford, Mich., to which place he was summoned by the serious illness of his mother.

John E. Clark of Fremont street and Alfred Wallett, manager of the Mohican company's store, returned to New London this morning, having spent a week in Canadian cities. The trip was made by automobile.

The funeral of Mary H., widow of James Beers, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her son, Huntley R. Beers of the Golden Spur, Waterford. The services were conducted by Rev. Myron E. Ganter, pastor of the Methodist church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles A. B. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Patrick Cosgrove 7. West Colt street to be suspended.

Madeline M. Cone has sold a building lot on Henry street to Aaron and Marie A. Barbelate.

The deed transferring the residence at the corner of Montauk and Willetts avenues from Thomas H. Sisk to Harry Titus was received for record today at the office of the city clerk.

Abraham J. Agranovitch has sold a house and lot on Fowler court to Clyde R. Smith.

Catherupo Bruna, a shoemaker, pleaded not guilty of intoxication in the police court today. It was Bruno's 15th appearance on the same charge. He always pleads not guilty and never escapes a penalty. It was fortunate for Bruna that his appearance today was made possible. Policeman Babcock found him sitting bolt upright and asleep alongside the railroad tracks, in the rear of the Chappell coal pockets about 7 o'clock at night. His back was to the wall but his feet were within about 24 inches of the car tracks. Bruna was complained of, or he would not have been found then. He was sentenced to remain with the sheriff of the county for 30 days. He was ready to pay, but no settlement would be made by the court.

Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Frank Philopena, this evening, accompanied by Patrolmen William Graham and Augustus Ray pounced down on three places where it is alleged that liquor was either sold on the premises or distributed by the occupants of the places on the street. Three arrests were made and in each instance the accused party is a negro. In one place considerable evidence was obtained, but in the others but little to indicate that liquor was on sale was found, but in one case two actual sales by the accused from the street are alleged.

The arrested parties are Margaret Brooks, 115 Main street, John Jones, 39 Douglass street and William Wilkinson, familiarly known as "Shorty" of 25 Douglass street. Each was held in bonds of $1,000 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning and in default of a surety on their respective bonds, the accused were locked up pending a hearing. The home of the Brooks woman, yielded a pint of white mule and a soda bottle of the same contents, together with a number of empty bottles, the order of which [illegible] alcohol. A drinking glass were found and seized as evidence.

The next place visited was that of Jones and little or no evidence was found there, although Sergeant Hick said that they had evidence of two actual sales of liquor that Jones made on the street.

At the Wilkinson home, several empty bottles, all bearing an odor that left little doubt that alcohol had been their original contents, were found. Wilkinson has been arrested several times before, but tonight is the first time the accused has been charged with a liquor law violation.

City laborers have been engaged this week making temporary repairs to sidewalks, crosswalks and highways by placing tarred gravel upon them.

Miss Florence Friedland and Miss Anna Socol are spending a fortnight with relatives and friends in New York and Philadelphia.

Former City Manager James E. Barlow left this evening for Jaffrey, N. H., where he will join Mrs. Barlow and their daughter, and after a brief visit there, Mr. Barlow and his family will return to New London. Mr. Barlow will assume his new duties as efficiency expert at the Whitton Machine company plant, the 15th inst.

Assistant Superintendent Robert M. Smith of the New London division of the New Haven railroad accompanied by Mrs. Smith, has left for Hot Springs, Ark., to remain about two weeks.

The second of the new type of devices for the control of traffic at the most important points of congestion in New London was installed this morning, corner of State and Bank street. The device, of the mechinical "Stop" and "Go" type, is the second to be installed in the city in the past few days, the other signal having been put into operation at the corner of Bank and Howard street.

Nonawantuc tribe, Independent Order of Red Men, has accepted an invitation of Tountonomoc tribe, West Haven, to confer the chief's degree on a class on the night of the 25th inst. The New London Red Men will make the trip by automobile truck.

John W. Kramer, of Colchester, a woodchopper, who sustained a broken back yesterday when a tree fell on him at Laurel Glen, was reported this evening at Lawrence hospital as resting as comfortably as could be expected.

Cedar Grove cemetery, is to be further improved without delay by the erection of chapel, rest room and administration building. The structures will be of stone and will be erected from the income of a fund left by Miss Annie B. Beckwith in memory of her father, B. F. Beckwith. The income has been accumulating for years. The contract has already been awarded to the H. Wales Lines company of Meriden, although two New London contractors, Bartolucci Brothers and the [illegible] company submitted lower bids than the out of town concern. The awarding of the contract to the Meriden firm makes three construction projects the firm is engaged in pushing to completion in New London.

There is not so much employment for young men in this city just now as has been available in recent years, so many are considering taking civil service examinations, to enter the employ of the government.

Carpenters declare that there has not been a time in recent years when there was less new work—the construction of buildings—going on than at present. There is considerable work in the line of repairs, but new work is scarce. Building ceased in large degree when the present high cost of material and labor made investors think before they undertook the outlay of large sums of money. It is said that the Woolworth company contemplates the alteration of the Garfield building and the installation there of stores to accommodate the Woolworth business in this city and that tenants in the building were notified some months ago that their leases upon expiration would not be renewed. Since then the leases have been extended for a considerable time and the stores will not be vacated for a year or more. The high cost of construction is given as the reason for the change in plans of the Woolworth company. Frank A. Munsey is also said to have contemplated an addition to the Mohican property in the rear of the big structure on State street, but he deferred many of the changes until such time as there should be a decrease in the cost of the buildings he contemplates erecting. There are other buildings in contemplation, but that work has been put off until the change in prices shall come. Reagan Brothers are building on State street, but that firm was compelled to do this work to provide a location for their business, as the lease they have on the premises they now occupy will expire early next year and they cannot renew the lease of the present store. When they vacate it is not known what use will be made of the building they occupy.

The school building being erected at corner of Riverview avenue and Willetts avenue is rapidly approaching completion so that there are prospects of its occupancy before the winter weather has set in well. The building is in marked contrast to the other school structures the city has in that it is only two stories in height and in design is different from any school building the city has. It is being erected at a cost of about $70,000 and is declared to be absolutely fireproof. The building is of brick, cement and stone, and is fairly ornamental without attempt at any construction of an ornate nature. There are seven rooms in the building.

When the water main at the junction of Bank and Truman streets broke a week or more ago it tore a hole in the street that has not yet been repaired, though a gang of men have been at work there ever since. A gate has been put in there now and that will facilitate the control of the water that has not been possible in the past.

When the city begun improvements it contemplated laying of a macadam surface in Mitchell court, but that work has not been carried out of late. The improvement made in Darrow street has created most favorable comment from all who pass there as well as from all who use the highway and the excellent sidewalks that have been laid. The work cost a considerable sum, but the property owners paid or will pay for half the cost of the walks.

The collection of personal taxes, the city prosecutor announced a week or more ago, was to be pushed with vigor, without delay. That notice to the delinquents had the effect of sending a lot of money into the city treasury.

Yes, How?

Laziness is a lost art, according to a scientist. It can hardly be called a lost art, but most of us are at a loss to know how to get by with it. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

New Liquid Dissolves Teeth Stains

Whitens Dull Yellowish Teeth in 2 Minutes—Entirely Safe.

Never before has it been so easy to acquire clear flashing white teeth! For scientists have discovered a new harmless liquid which dissolves teeth stains instantly, giving even the dullest teeth a charming new whiteness and lustre.

This new liquid is called Blanchodent. It is absolutely safe in every way—for it simply curdles or loosens the staining substances on the teeth so that they may be instantly removed by a tooth brush. It cannot affect the enamel in any way.

No matter how dark, stained or dingy your teeth may be you will be astonished at the results brought by the very first application of Blanchodent. Nearly all other stains disappear almost like magic. If you want sparkling, white, pearly teeth—the kind everyone admires—get Blanchodent today. Money instantly refunded if not delighted with results. Costs only a few cents for full size bottle, lasting many weeks, at all good stores. [illegible]

MARKET WAS STRONG.

New York, Oct. 10.—Short covering operations imparted temporary strength to leading stocks in today's market but free offerings of some of the speculative favorites in the last hour brought about a general reaction, the net losses in active issues ranging from fractions to nearly 2 points.

A heavy tone was apparent in the first few minutes of trading but all offerings were well absorbed and it was not long before a moderate rally was in progress with several of the leaders selling a point or more above yesterday's final figures. The high prices, however, brought about a sharp contraction in demand which encouraged a renewal of selling operations by bear traders accounting for recessions of a point or more from the top prices in Studebaker, American Can, United States Steel and some of the railroad shares.

The most favorable development of the day was the declaration of the regular dividends on Sinclair common and preferred. Wall Street had considered the possibility of the reduction or omission of the common with the result that the announcement of the dividend action brought about a sharp rally in the stock which crossed 13 and then eased to 18 7-8, up 1 on the day. Other oils improved in sympathy but they were unable to maintain their gains.

Heaviness of the copper shares was construed as reflecting speculative disappointment over metal prices and the immediate outlook for export business. Anaconda was depressed 2 points, selling of this issue also being influenced by reports that the company was suspending some of its development operations in the Andes mountains in South America.

Publication of the monthly tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation showing a reduction of 878,-913 tons in unfilled orders was about in line with Wall Street's earlier estimates. A report circulatd just before the statement was issued that the reduction would be much less, however, caused a run-up in the stock to 97 7/8 but it reacted to 96 5-8 just before the close, showing substantial support around 9 1-2.

New low records for the year were established by a number of ordinarily inactive issues including National Enameling, Pierce Oil Preferred, Consolidated Cigar Preferred, Colorado & Southern, Replogle Steel and Pressed Steel ar Preferred.

Some of the chemical stocks were strong, American Agricultural Chemical Preferred and commercial solvents a closing about 2 points higher, but Davison was again heavy, losing 2 1-4 points. Strength and activity of Pittsburgh Coal, which closed a point higher, attracted considerable interest and led to reports of mergers in the Pennsylvania soft coal fields.

Call money opened at 5 per cent, but it eased off to 4 1-2 before the close. Bankers continued to ask 5 1-2 per cent. for time money with brokers bidding 5 1-4, some 30 day loans being arranged at the lower figure. Out-of-town banks are the principal takers of Commercial Paper, the ruling rate for prime names being 5 1-4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges lost ground. Demand sterling yielded slightly to $4.55 1-16 and French francs dropped nearly 6 points to 6.03 1-2 cents. German marks sold as low as 2,600,000,000 for $1.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Wheat took a decided new upturn in price today owing chiefly to bullish aspects of the government crop report and as a result of notable strength in the corn market. Wheat closed strong at the day's best level, 1 1-2 to 2 1-8c net higher with December 109 3-4 to 109 3-4@7-8 and May 113 7-8 to 114. Corn finished 1 1-4@1 3-8 to 4 -8 up, oats at 1-2 to 7-8@1c and provisions ranging from 7s decline to 20c advance.

In view of the fact that the government estimate as to the domestic yield of spring wheat was not only smaller than private reports had indicated but was the smallest since 1919, many commission houses went promptly to the buying side, and met with little resistance until after the market had scored the greater part of the day's advance. Bulls asserted that the spring crop in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana was shown to be the smallest in thirty years. Much notice also was given to the fact that despite a bearish report which the government had made as to corn the corn market today was soaring above the season's previous top prices of corn for immediate delivery and for October and December as well. Some additional purchasing of wheat was ascribed to vague reports about a gold loan to Germany. Scarcity of current supplies of old corn became so pronounced that talk was heard as to a likelihood of corn selling higher than wheat although some new corn is being booked for early shipment to Chicago from nearby farms. Oats ascended with corn and wheat.

Improved shipping demand helped to lift the provision market.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 10.—A renewal of buying in railroad mortgages and the strength and activity of local traction featured today's trading in bonds on the New York stock exchange. The volume of business fell off some, due probably to the absence of many traders for the opening of the world's series.

Traders were unable at account for the sharp upturn in Interborough Rapid Transit securities, the 7s gaining 2 points, except on the theory that the recent depression had carried them to a bargain basis. Net changes among the general run of railroad mortgages were small with the majority pointing upward. Quashing of indictments against New Haven directors, returned in 1914 and 1915, stimulated buying of that road's bonds but advances were slight.

Little interest was shown in European bonds, but South American issues found good support at slight advances. Active United States government bonds improved with the exception of the Third Liberty 4 1-4s which sagged a little.

Industrial liens were inclined to be reactionary, small declines being recorded by some of the oil, steel and copper company issues.

Bankers offering the $10,000,000 Kansas City Terminal 2-year 5 1-2 per cent. secured notes announced the issue had been subscribed and the books closed.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 10.—Considerable irregularity developed in today's quiet curb market but the main price tendency, particularly in the oil group, was again downward.

Fractional recessions were registered by Standard Oils of Indiana and New York, Vacuum and Mutual while Prairie Oil & Gas dropped 3 points and Cities Service 1.

Fluctuations of Gillette Safety Razor, which closed 8 1-4 points at 268 1-8 were the feature of the industrial group. Durant motors sold 1 1-2 points below the previous sale and Ford Motors of Canada dropped 2 3-4 points.

International Concrete Industries touched a new high at 10 1-4.

Kansas City Terminal 5 1-2 per cent. notes were admitted to trading, the only transaction being at 99 1-2.

Narrow and irregular fluctuations took place in the mining group.

Today is the 70th anniversary of the opening of the New York Clearing house, the first organization of its kind in America.

David Lloyd George, the eminent British statesman, and his party are scheduled to pay a visit to Niagara Falls today.

The 11th general assembly of the International Association for Labor Legislation is to begin its sessions today at Basel, Switzerland.

The North Pacific livestock show, one of the largest annual exhibitions of its kind in the northwest, opens today at Everett, Wash.

Lord Renfrew (Prince of Wales) is to be the guest of E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific railway, at a dinner at Montreal today.

Plans for the approaching campaign will be discussed at a conference in Denver today of the members of the republican national committee and other party leaders from Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Central Baptist Church.

At the meeting of the Woman's League at the Central Baptist church Friday night, Miss Bertha Bridgeman of Hartford, a specialist in Italian work, will be the chief speaker. There will be musical numbers and the World Wide Guild Girls are also on the programme. Everybody will be welcome after 7.30, both men and women.

Well Baby Conference.

A well baby conference will be held at Colchester grange hall, Thursday, Oct. 11. A well baby conference is to be started in North Grosvenordale, in co-operation with the resident visiting nurse.

Schwartz Bros. Buys Iron Beds.

Abner Schwartz and Joseph M. Lahr of Schwartz Brothers left for Brooklyn, N. Y., to make arrangements for the shipping of 200 iron beds which were recently bought by Schwartz Bros. from the Royal Metal Bed company of Brooklyn.

Real Estate Sold.

Through the offices of the Norwich Land Title and Insurance company, James O. Connell has transferred the title to No. 17 Pearl street to Benjamin Goldberg of Norwich. Mr. Goldberg takes title to this property with the intention of remodeling it into a three-apartment house, and is to start alterations at once. This property is one of the best located and most desirable properties on the West Side with a four-car garage included and will be one of the best apartment houses in Norwich when completed.

At the Bryod Today.

Desire, a special Metro production, is the feature at the Breed theatre today. It is full of thrilling action and strong drama and contains many scenes of great beauty, particularly one of a fashionable wedding held out-of-doors amid great splendor and lavishness.

A brilliant cast of well-known players appear in Desire. Here are Marguerite De La Motte, John Bowers, Estelle Taylor, David Butler, Walter Long, Lucille Hutton, Edward Connelly, Ralph Lewis, Vera Lewis, Russell Simpson and Chester Conklin. Desire was directed from the story by Rowland V. Lee from the story by John B. Clymer and Henry R. Symonds. J. J. Hughes was art director and the picture was photographed by George Barnes. It is a Louis Burton presentation.

Ben Turpin will also be seen in a five-reel comedy feature titled The Shriek of Araby and Movie Chats will complete the bill.

Broadway Theatre.

Another fine show of B. F. Keith vaudeville will be presented Thursday, Friday, Saturday at the Broadway theatre that is sure to take well.

Walsh and Bentley, the ball boy and the athlete, open with a balancing and tumbling offering that should please.

Fred Eckhoff and Anna Gordon offered Hokum-a-la-carte. A laughing trombone comedy and music features their act.

Lydia Barry, lyrical raconteuse, will appear in a repertoire of songs.

Dorothy Doy Co. Trio offer a piano, song and dance act.

In Fools of Fortune, which will be shown at the Broadway theatre commencing today the characters are not figments of the author's imagination but are people from real life. This is a departure from the usual method of creating a story, but there is an excellent reason for it in this instance. W. C. Tuttle, who wrote the magazine story, from which the photoplay is taken, lived among the westerners he brings to the screen and declares that but for changing their names they are precisely the same men on the screen as they are in real life. The story in its entirety is, of course, fiction, as are the characters in the eastern episodes of Fools of Fortune; but the four cowboys, principals in this most amusing and original story, are as if they themselves had stepped from the Montana range to the silver sheet.

Strand Theatre.

The following is the order of the B. F. Keith vaudeville program scheduled for the Strand theatre the last half of this week, starting today.

Ray Kassar offers Bright Song Bits.

Rogers and Tremont present a comedy riot called This and That.

Maley and O'Brien appear in a comedy by Frank Duncan called Up and Down.

Cody and King close the bill with A Study in Songs and Dances.

Johnnie Walker has scored another noteworthy triumph in The Fourth Musketeer, the current attraction at the Strand theatre. The story was written by that master of sport writers, H. C. Witwer. In the creation of The Fourth Musketeer, Witwer has given Johnnie Walker a vehicle that fits his virile and lovable personality like a glove.

The story is rich in dramatic situations, with Walker's sparkling Irish humor given full opportunity to give the audience clean, healthy laughs.

K. of C. Fair Committee.

Tonight at the K. of C. home the fair committee is to hold a social evening with entertainment, dancing, singing and refreshments. This is an open night for members and their lady friends and anyone connected with the fair.

Columbus Day Dance, Wildwood Park

Picking up the season where the Wildwood Park Amusement Co., left it off, the Service Battery, 192d Field Artillery, will see to it that lovers of dancing do not go without their favorite pastime during the fall and winter months. Opening Friday evening of this week with a Paul Whiteman Palais Royal orchestra, the battery will have a Columbus day dance.

ELLINGTON

Rally day was observed in the Sunday school with exercises, a pleasing feature of which was the promotion of five from the cradle roll to the primary department. There was a large attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Smith of Talcottville and Ralph and Florence Ressler of Bridgeport were guests at F. M. Charter's recently.

M. R. Steele is in Manchester Memorial hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hale and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Clark have returned from a motor trip of several days in New York. They visited Poughkeepsie and Newburg on the Hudson and went on the famous Storm King highway to West Point and other places of interest.

Miss Dorothy McKnight of the Springfield public library recently spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McKnight.

Miss Carrie Noble spent the week end with friends in Bristol, Conn.

The four-town fair was held here Wednesday with a large crowd in attendance. There were large and interesting agricultural and fancy work exhibits in the town hall and a cattle and poultry exhibit on H. O. Aborn's lot. A feature of the morning program was the parade. Dinner was served in the church by the Ladies' Aid society.

The new school supervisor, A. L. Young, and family have moved into the house on Maple street formerly occupied by Supervisor L. C. Staples, now in Suffield.

GRISWOLD

Mrs. Bell Pratt of Norwich is visiting at the home of W. B. Montgomery.

Seventeen from this place attended the local conference at Preston City Wednesday.

Mrs. Jane Lester returned Tuesday after two weeks' visit with relatives in Mystic and Westerly, R. I.

Mrs. Augustus Reed is recovering from her recent illness.

A delegation of 35 from Pachaug grange attended Plainfield grange meeting Tuesday evening and gave four numbers on the program.

Pachaug grange has bargained for the tract of land known as the Dr. Opay place, later known as the Mrs. S. E. Tillinghast place, for a grange hall site.

The Hon. Jean Ogilvie-Grant, sixteen-year-old daughter of a British peer, has made a success as a writer of fairy tales to be broadcast by radio.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of rheumatism; rid themselves of the torturing pain; reduced the swollen joints; thrown away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and be of use to themselves and their families.

They took Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, arthritis, gout and chronic neuralgia.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few hours after beginning the treatment that the poisonous uric acid is leaving your system through the natural channels. You will feel better in a day; you will know you are going to be helped in less than a week.

There is no guess work about Rheuma bringing you back to health. That's why The Lee & Osgood Co. and good druggists everywhere sell it with guarantee of money back if it does not give quick and blessed relief almost at once.

A MULTITUDE OF WOMEN RECOMMEND IT
The strongest recommendation possible for any medicine to have is the sound testimony borne by the vast multitudes of women who have used it. It has been proven that 98 out of every 100 women once ill with ailments that caused suffering and despair have been restored to the joys of health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This marvelous record shows its power over the ills of women, and the letters of recommendation we are continually publishing in this paper should induce every sufferer to try it.

POETRY

ROMANCE LAND.

The romance land of Yesterday
Is sometimes seen through tears
That makes a rainbow, far away,
And veil the sorry years
In mystic colors, silver sweet
With mingled joy and pain;
That hide the roads our pilgrim feet
May never tread again.

The romance land of Yesterday
Is gay sometimes with mirth,
That lilts like little sprites at play,
Across the tired earth,
Until the troubles of the hour
In happy smiles are dressed,
And lonely hearts are all aflower
With hopes and joys unguessed.

The romance land of Yesterday
Is filled with faiths that died,
And some of them are dimly gray,
And some are starry eyed!
And some of them will live once more
In word, in tender look—
And some of them are verses for Life's great, immortal book.

The romance land of Yesterday—
It sometimes almost seems
As if our outstretched fingers may
Half touch its vanished dreams!
A broken song, a scrap of lace,
A faded rose, a sigh,
May bring us swiftly face to face
With all that has passed by!
—Margaret E. Sangster, in Saturday Evening Post.

LOVE.

If Love should count you worthy, and should deign
One day to seek your door and be your guest,
Pause ere you draw the bolt and bid him rest,
If in your old content you would remain.

For not alone he enters; in his train
Are angels of the mists, the lonely guests,
Dreams of the unfulfilled and unpossessed,
And sorrow, and Life's immemorial pain.

He wakes desires you never may forget;
He shows you stars you never saw before;
He makes you share with him, forevermore,
The burden and the world's divine regret.

How poor if you should turn him from the door!
—Exchange.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Lady (to policeman at the corner): "I want the Brooklyn Bridge."
Police Policeman: "I'm afraid I can't let you have it, mum."—Boys' Life.

Higgs—While out in the country yesterday we run over a skunk.
Biggs—That so? What was his name?—Exchange.

"Do you believe that people follow the same occupation in the next world that they do on earth?"
"My mother-in-law won't. She makes ice cream."—London Tit-Bits.

Rooster—My wife has just laid an egg. My wife—
Fish—Well, what of it? My wife has just laid $3,000 and you don't hear me crowing about it.—Farm Life.

"Got a cigaret to spare, Dudley?" asked Hoffy at the Home Folks' hop.
"Yes, but I thought you didn't smoke cigarets."
"My wiff wants a whiff."—Ottawa Citizen.

Brown—Met your wife and little daughter today. I remarked to your wife that the child is the very photograph of her mother.
Jones—You might have added phonograph as well.—Boston Transcript.

Customer—But you guaranteed this watch would last me a lifetime.
Clerk—Certainly; but you looked pretty sick the day you bought it.—Christiania Kornaren.

"Do you think man will ever revert to type?"
"No—but I believe women will some day. Each spring the fashions are drifting more and more toward the costume worn by Mother Eve."—Florida Times-Union.

Waiter—Here, what are doing with those teaspoons in your pocket?
Customer—Doctor's orders.
Waiter—What do you mean—doctor's orders.
Customer—He told me to take two teaspoons after every meal.—London Answers.

TAFTVILLE

The carnival being given by the Army and Navy club at their clubhouse on Dion street opened with a big street parade Tuesday night, which formed near the postoffice and marched up Merchants' avenue, south on Hunter's avenue to Dion street. The members were in line and carried red and green lights. Troop 4, Boy Scouts of America, with their well known drum corps, and Battery B of Norwich were also in line. Joseph Waldron was marshal. At the hall all the booths did a good business and dancing was in order until midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Smith of North B street have returned from a few days' stay in Anthony, R. I.

The dance given by Peter Albano in Ponemah hall Wednesday evening was one of the social events of the week and many guests attended. Mr. Albano had engaged Jimmie Fitzgerald, winner of the dancing championship of eastern New York, to entertain his guests.

Castle Perilous, No. 8747, Knights of King Arthur, met Wednesday evening in the Taftville Congregational church.

JAPANESE SCHOOL HEAD, FORMER VISITORS HERE, TELLS OF EARTHQUAKE

A vivid recital of experiences during the earthquake and fire at Yokohama is given in a letter to friends at Northampton by Miss Clara A. Converse, principal of a school for girls in Japan, who has been a visitor in this city on one or two occasions in the last few years when she was the guest of Mrs. Charles W. Gale of Pinehurst and spoke at the Central Baptist church.

Miss Converse, who is a graduate of Smith college in the class of 1883, has been in Japan for about 33 years and is principal of the Mary A. Colby School for Girls, which is located at Kanagawa and is under the direction of the Baptists.

In her own words, the story of the earthquake is told, written as it was only two days after, on Sept. 3:

"I went to Yokohama Saturday (Sept. 1st), to do some shopping and had taken a kuruma to return by way of the postoffice. It occurred to me that I was near the Japanese Advertisers office, and so just stopped to order paper sent to us. My message was short, but before I has quite finished the quake came. I was on the first floor, near the entrance, but I could not stand, just crouched in the doorway, which is always the safest place. It was about 11.55 o'clock.

Fire Breaks Out.

"The air was immediately black with soot and dust. The building I was in was a strong stone building—and the place where I crouched is still standing, though the inside of the building is burned out. Soon fire broke out in different places and though the street in every direction were piled high with debris, we climbed over it—all bricks, timbers, stones. I just followed the others.

Lay Down in Park by Turns.

"As we were climbing over the debris we could hear the groans from those beneath. Every house was down. There was no street, the road being filled with debris. Finally I saw whither we were hastening when the park came in view. By this time fires were blazing in every direction. We reached the park and stayed there until the next morning. It was literally packed. At night we could not lie down except to do so in turns, for lack of space. One of our graduates who was in an office, and a gentleman in the same office, saw me and called me to them. They were Kanagawa people. As soon as it was light we went to the Bund, (the street by the seashore). To get there we waded through water, muddy water, up to our knees, for we could not go the usual way. We saw people from Kanagawa and found that we could pass and so started to walk, reaching there about eight o'clock in the morning. It was about three miles. All along the way houses were down, or if frames were standing the insides were completely burned out.

Heat Severe.

"The experience in the park was indescribable. Encircled by roaring flames on every side, the heat was severe and the smoke stifling, but we put our faces close to the earth and so could breathe. This unbearable heat was not, however, for so very many hours. The wounded were by us and one man died very near me. When we went through the street to the Bund, and also along the way to Kanagawa, the corpses were lying everywhere.

Pitiful Demand for Water.

"I had heard that the school was safe, but I knew they would be in great anxiety, so I hurried as fast as I could. I had eaten nothing since the morning I left and had only two swallows of water out of a big pail. A well was drained. When water was brought during the night the demand for it was pitiful.

"When we reached Kanagawa, at the foot of the hill, leading to the school, a Japanese smilingly handed me a Japanese pear. This pear is full of juice, so it was fine for quenching thirst. It was a boon.

"As I came near the school I met a graduate, not now in school, and she greeted me and hurried to the house to get me a drink. They say that the cry, 'The principal has come,' was shouted again and again, and one came in with milk and another with water and there was great rejoicing.

Many Calling For Friends.

"A Japanese friend went, it seems, to the park the night before and to the bluff, but though he called my name, I did not respond. There were so many calling that it is not strange. I did not hear him and that he did not find me. He came at a great risk, for fires were blazing everywhere. They say he searched from 11 o'clock at night until 5 o'clock in the morning.

"Of course my first thought was as to the safety of the people. One of the Bible women and three of the pupils were all that were in the house besides the cook and her boy and two servants with their families. All these were safe.

"Our foreign house, the recitation building, the chapel building, with recitation rooms, and the gymnasium do not seem to be specially demolished except that the plastering is everywhere off on the floor and over everything. The dormitory is badly broken. Repairs will require a great deal of money. Many of our pupils are burned out. How many are alive, we do not know. Everything in Yokohama is gone, it would seem from reports. Our two missionary residences and the church in the same compound are in ashes.

"The Fishers and Gressitts were away for the summer. Mr. Gressitt himself came home Saturday morning and went to the boat with a friend. While there the earthquake came. There were people in the house, and when he was here yesterday he had on a white suit, which looked nearer being black. That was all he had in the world, he said.

Public Buildings Wiped Out

"The public buildings, the fine large Memorial hall—built on the 50th anniversary of the opening of the country to foreigners, postoffices, county house, city house, many schools, perhaps all, four railway stations, churches—everything—wiped out. The work of 50 years, just celebrated, in the winkling of an eye, wiped out.

All of the foregoing was written by Miss Converse on the Monday following the Saturday of the earthquake. She continues her letter on Tuesday, Sept. 4th: "Frequent quakes, some very severe, have followed the first one. Sunday night we all slept out of doors on our lawn but last night, (Monday), we all slept in doors. Three or four times we got up on account of the quakes, but nothing serious—probably there will be nothing more.

Koreans Causing Trouble

"But there is another trouble about which you will doubtless read. There are a large number of Korean neighbors now in Japan. They have taken this time to do evil to Japan. They have poisoned wells set fire to buildings and are out in bands. The Japanese are watching and have killed many. They are guarding our buildings. The officials have given our young men permission to guard against the Koreans and to kill them if necessary. It is a lawless proceedure, but one of the Americans who came out to inquire how we are says the Japanese are behaving wonderfully well. They have to take their severe measures.

Narrow Escape

"One thing is sure as can be—if I had not called at the Japan Advertiser, this being a strong building, I should have been crushed under the debris, for the road I should have passed was piled high with debris.

"Mr. Root, one of the Americans, lost his wife, his son and his son's fiancee. He was able to trace them so that he knows pretty well where they were at the time. They were doubtless buried under the debris. Another American was looking for his wife in about the same place. He called and called and his wife answered him by name. They went to work with vigor to excavate her but the fire came and they were obliged to stop. He thinks his people were there.

"God has been wonderfully gracious to us. We feel that we are so well off. We are housing others and as we find out the needy ones shall house more. Miss Wakamatsu, one of our workers is ready to give away everything she has—I have to caution her. She took 16 pairs of tabi (Japanese stockings) to Yokohama yesterday and gave them to those who needed them. I hear that Tokio and other places are pretty well burned out.

Food Scarce

"We have little in the house to eat. The cook had given an order that day, which was not filled, but people are very kind. The farmer near here told us to take from the field, sweet potatoes and onions. Others have given us rice. It is most fortunate that school had not begun.

"Do not be anxious about me. I have written that you may know I am much better off than I might be. On how much less than we ordinarily think we can subsist. It will be a long time before we can have electric lights or the telephone, but we happen to have a supply of candles which will do. We shall not be able to have city water for some time, but we have a good well and have been able to supply many people.

"I am busy cleaning house and meeting people who come with sad stories. We shall not be able to open the school for some time. Two large mission girls' schools, the oldest, are burned, also the government school. This is about the only girls' school in the city now."

Miss Converse did not send the letter away until Thursday and her last words were "all safe."

BAPTIST CENTENNIAL WILL RECALL EARLY STRUGGLE

The centennial meetings which the Baptists of this state are to hold in Hartford, October 16-17, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Connecticut Baptist convention, point attention to some of the early history of religious efforts in this state, and show that in Connecticut there were those who were made to suffer penalties because they would not conform to what was prescribed by what might be called the state church.

When the first Baptist church was founded in Connecticut, at Groton, in 1705, every Baptist in the colony of Connecticut was liable to a fine of ten shilling for every time he absented himself from worship or attended a meeting in a private house, and in default of fine, could be publicly whipped, according to the law. While this penalty was not rigidly enforced, there were instances where Baptists were arrested and fined.

At Saybrook, in 1729, a number of Baptists were arrested and were compelled to walk twenty-five miles, chained to an ox cart, through snow and mud, to New London, where they were imprisoned and were held for weeks in jail in the winter time, without fire, one of them being a woman with a baby in her arms, because they dared to believe and preach "the principle of conscience in religious faith."

It was not until the adoption of the Constitution in Connecticut in 1818, that entire freedom of worship came to the Baptists in this state. It was largely through the direct efforts of the Baptists that the principle of religious freedom was inserted in that document. It may well be said that the principle of the separation of church and state was written into the Constitution of the United States by the influence of the Baptists of America.

As early as 1784, the Baptist churches in the southeastern part of the state formed the Stonington association, in order that they might more closely co-operate, and in 1790 the Danbury Association was formed. It was not until October, 1822, that representatives of thirty churches gathered in Hartford and formed the Connecticut Baptist convention. This organization has now become the organization which directs and stimulates the state-wide activities of the Baptists. It gathers money from the churches for educational and missionary purposes, and helps the weak country churches to minister to the needs of the community. It also aids in the work of eight Italian missions, three Russian missions, two Slovak missions, and a Hungarian and a colored mission. The membership of the 152 Baptist churches in the state is about 20,000. There are, however, many Baptists in the state who have their church letters with them and who do not present them to a local church, for one reason or another, so that the membership of the denomination is larger than the figures would indicate.

At the coming meetings in Hartford, various phases of Baptist history will be presented by speakers of note. There will also be an announcement of the future plans of the denomination is to its missionary and educational programs. Among the speakers will be President Edgar Y. Mullins of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, President Clarence A. Barbour of Rochester Seminary, the Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin of New York city, Mrs. Andrew MacLeish of Chicago, Rev. John Y. Atchison of New York city, Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter of Hartford, Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale, and William Travers Jerome, Jr., of New York city.

STOP BURNING LEAVES ON STATE HIGHWAYS

As a result of several instances of damage to the surface of public highways through the burning of leaves on the roads, officers of the state police department patrolling the state have been instructed to put a stop to the practice. This action was taken by Superintendent Robert T. Hurley at the request of the state highway department which brought to his attention a number of cases of flagrant violation of the law in this respect.

This is the season of the year when leaves are being burned on the pavements in various parts of the state and serious damage has already been done in several places.

Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald, in a communication to Superintendent Hurley of the state police department, pointed out that the highways are mostly treated with asphalt, tar or some carbohydrate which contains volatile oils, easily ignited. It has been ascertained that any fire or heat applied to the highways, especially fires of leaves, which produce as hot a fire as it is possible to obtain is very disastrous to the roads. The leaf fires are dangerous in view of the fact that the ashes serve as a mat and hold heat for a long time.

The needless waste that results from just such fires is an expense that the highway department is anxious to eliminate. The warning is especially timely in view of the national observance at this time of fire prevention week.

Prosecutions will follow, under a statute which provides for penalties for damage to the highways, if the warnings of the state police officers fail to prevent citizens from persisting in violating the law.

Communicable Diseases Reported.

According to the weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health the following communicable diseases were reported from towns in eastern Connecticut last week:

Diphtheria—Stafford Springs, 1; Thompson, 1.

Measles—Stonington 5.

NORWICH TOWN

The several committees of the Norwich Rural association are to hold a special meeting Friday evening in the First Congregational chapel.

The Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church is to hold its first meeting of the season Friday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington. This also will be an informal social gathering, all women of the parish having been invited. Sunshine bags will be opened, those who took the bags at the beginning of the summer bringing or sending them in at this time.

During Monday afternoon Master John De Lancy of Williams street visited Backus hospital and delighted the patients in the men's ward by playing several old fashioned dance tunes on his violin.

Mrs. Erastus Hull, who for the past three months has been ill at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hull, of Lisbon, has returned to her home on Huntington avenue.

NO DISAPPOINTMENTS IN APPOINTMENTS

If you are a Salesman or a Buyer, why gamble valuable time and the cost of railroad fares that the party you wish to see will be in when you call on him?

The high cost of personal interviews is materially reduced and many more calls can be made per day if you make definite appointments by TOLL LINE. You won't have to wait or make other trips to see your party.

Avoiding disappointments by making appointments by TOLL LINE is one of the most profitable uses a traveler can make of the telephone.

BABE RUTH'S MIGHTY HITTING EVENS UP SERIES FOR YANKS

The Bambino's Two Homers Break Up McGraw's Strategy and Give Yanks a 4 to 2 Victory Over Giants—Four Home Runs Figure in Score—Yanks' Triumph a Victory of "Brute Baseball Strength" Over the Cunning of a "Master Mind"—Attendance Was 40,402—Gross Receipts Were $158,498.

New York, Oct. 11.—(By the A. P.)—Babe Ruth crossed with mighty tread today the threshold of world's series glory that has been barred to him for two years.

Driving out two thundering home run thrusts in successive innings, a feat unparalleled in championship baseball history, Ruth was the dynamo in the powerful attack that enabled the New York Yankees to turn the tables on the Giants, capture the second game of the series by a score of 4 to 2 and square the count with the world's titleholders in the 1923 struggle for diamond supremacy.

First up in the fourth inning, with the score tied at one-all, the great slugger put the Yankees into the lead with a terrific, towering blow that landed atop the second tier of the right field grandstand and started the downfall of Hugh McQuillan, Giant ace. Another run was scored in that hectic inning but on his next turn at bat, in the fifth, the Babe crashed one of Jack Bentley's southpaw shoots into the lower right field stands. That blow was the climax of the game; Yankee victory was clinched then and there, for it proved merely a formality to carry on to the finish.

Spectacular Victory for Yanks.

It was a spectacular triumph for the Yankees, whose punch mastered John McGraw's strategy and gave them the first world's series victory they have known since the fifth game of the 1921 championship—a span over which eight defeats and one tie have been the disastrous portion of the American league champions. It was a brilliant day for Herb Pennock, fragile left-hander, who twirled the Giants into subjection in masterful fashion; and for Joe Dugan, fleet-footed third sacker whose marvelous defensive play brought him repeatedly into the limelight.

But, over and above the mere outcome of the game, the brilliant copy that figured into the winning Yankee machine, it was the day of days for Ruth, baseball's star of stars, who had come into his own and found the end of the rainbow of world's series fame for which he had sought before in vain. True, Ruth earned his spurs as a pitcher, hanging up a record of 29 scoreless innings in championship play that still stands; but it is batting laurels that the greatest home run hitter of all time was seeking and he gained them today. No matter what he does the rest of the series, his place among series immortals is secure.

A Great Triumph for Ruth.

Thus it was a triumph even greater for Ruth than for the Yankees the ascendency of brute force, the power of the walloper over the tactical genius of John McGraw, baseball's "master mind." For behind the struggle for premier diamond honors from the start has been the greatest drama of all, the matching of Ruth's dynamic individuality against the strategy of the gray-haired, silent leader of the Giants.

Two years ago, Ruth was handicapped in the series by injuries; last year he was a "bust," outguessed, baffled by the tactics of the "Little Napoleon." But tonight he is a triumphant figure, a vital force that upset with sheer might the best laid calculations of his opponent. And, knowing the confidence that his great achievement today has inspired, he may prove the deciding factor in the outcome of the third straight battle between Gotham's rival clubs and spell McGraw's goal of a third successive championship.

Ruth's feat of two home runs in a single world's series game has been done thrice before in two decades of championship history, but in none of these instances were the circuit blows made in successive innings and successive times at bat. P. H. Dougherty, of the Boston Americans, was the first to accomplish the trick, in 1903. It was duplicated in 1915. By Harry Hooper, also of the Boston Americans, who drove out home runs in the third and ninth innings of the fifth game of the series with the Philadelphia Nationals and again, in 1917, by Benny Kauff, of the Giants, who hit for the circuit in the fourth and eighth innings of the fourth game of the series with the Chicago White Sox.

Yesterday the story of victory was one of Giant smartness, alertness and generalship, plus the decisive ninth inning home run of Casey Stengel; today the situation was reversed and it was punch, typified by Ruth, that decided the issue. And the Yankees won, because they carried their brains in their bats.

Yesterday it was the Yankees who knocked at but could not open the door, the door of opportunity; today it was a tale of missed chances by the Giants, though they were fewer than their opponents had in the opening game.

Pennock Very Effective.

Except for two innings, Pennock, southpaw star of Miller Huggins' staff, had the Giants at his mercy, twirling with consummate, invincible skill and backed up by a defense that at times was spectacular. Opposed to the frail-looking but superbly confident left-hander were two of McGraw's mound stars, McQuillan, who was bombarded into retirement in the fourth inning, and Jack Bentley, portsider, who, except for Ruth's second circuit clout, pitched capably for the rest of the game.

Pennock's victorious performance was all the more remarkable in the face of an accident in the fourth inning when he was struck on the side and painfully hurt by the first ball pitched by Bentley. Pennock fell to the ground, writhing in agony, and it required several minutes' work upon him before he was able to walk to first base, but the mishap apparently

FOR AIR LINE BETWEEN BERLIN AND BUENOS AIRES

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 11.—Negotiations for a five day air line between Berlin and Buenos Aires have been in progress for some time, it was declared tonight by Captain Anton Heinan, German zeppelin expert, who is pilot of the United States navy's giant dirigible the Shenandoah, formerly the ZR-1.

Plans under consideration, Captain Heinan said, call for the commission of huge airships, two thirds larger than the Shenandoah, capable of carrying 150 passengers each with mail and express between central Europe and western South America in less than one fourth the time taken by steamships.

STEAMERS RANK AFTER COLLISION IN LAKE HURON

Sault Sainte Marie, Mich., Oct. 11.—The steamer Huronton, of the Matthews Steamship Company of Toronto, up-bound, went down in Whitefish Bay after colliding with the steamer Cetus, of Interlake Steamship Company in fog, according to a wireless message received here tonight. So far as is known no lives were lost. The damage to the Cetus is unknown, here. The Cetus now is anchored off Whitefish Point. The Huronton was a 1500 ton steel ship.

FIXED PRICE FOR WHEAT NOT HELPFUL TO FARMERS

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 11.—A fixed price by the government on wheat would only aggravate the farmers' burdens, Henry C. Wallace, secretary of the United States department of agriculture, said in an address today to delegates to the seventeenth annual sessions of the international farm congress in progress here.

"Any fair price that might be fixed," Mr. Wallace said, would be a stimulated price and would do more harm than good."

WINDSOR MAN KILLED WHEN SHAFT GAVE WAY

Windsor, Oct. 11.—Frank Thomas, 42, of this place, was killed instantly today when the shaft on which a buzz saw was mounted gave way, splitting the saw in two and hurling one piece of it into the man's skull. Thomas was operating the saw which was at the Hazelwood plantation of the American Sumatra Tobacco company's plant here. He is survived by his wife and two children.

WEALTHY RETIRED HOTEL MAN SLAIN BY NEPHEW

Redwood City, Calif., Oct. 11.—James D. Doolittle, wealthy retired hotel man, was found beaten to death today at his home here after his nephew, James Moore, had tied up three members of the Doolittle family in separate rooms. Moore later was arrested after a pistol fight. Moore was a bar containing virtually all of the Doolittle family.

COMPLAINT AGAINST TWO NEW HAVEN ROAD OFFICERS

New Haven, Oct. 11.—A request to commit to jail Edward G. Buckland, vice president and general counsel of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, and Arthur E. Clarke, secretary of the company, for refusal to produce certain documentary evidence in deposition proceedings, was made today to Attorney Frank S. Bishop, sitting as a notary public.

Counsel for the officers, however, gave notice that an injunction would be sought to restrain Mr. Bishop from issuing the mittimus and consequently the hearing was adjourned for two weeks.

PRINTING SHOP ENTRANCE WAS WRECKED BY BOMB

Chicago, Oct. 11.—A bomb explosion wrecked the entrance to the Forcum Press printing shop on the south side early today and was attributed by the police to enemies of the Ku Klux Klan. Six months ago another printing shop owned by Jack Forcum, and where "Dawn" a Ku Klux Klan publication, was issued, was bombed.

HUNTING SEASON IN MASS. MAY BE POSTPONED

Boston, Oct. 11.—The hunting season in this state, scheduled to open on Saturday October 20, will be postponed unless rain comes to lessen the fire danger from the tinder-dry forests, it was announced from the state house today. Orders were issued revoking all permits for fires in the open.

MEMBERS OF BUNCO RING MUST REMAIN IN JAIL

Denver, Oct. 11.—Members of Denver's so-called "million dollar bunco ring," will have to remain in the penitentiary until the state supreme court passes on their appeal, the supreme court decided here today. Sixteen convicted bunco men had filed an application for a writ of supersedeas which the court today denied.

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER OF PATROLMAN

6,756 New Dwellings In State in One Year

Grand List Increased 2.04 Per Cent., From $1,962,763,631 to $2,018,526,711.

Hartford, Oct. 11.—An increase of 6,756 dwelling houses in Connecticut in one year, swelling the aggregate value of such property by $18,776,851 was disclosed by a compilation of returns from all towns completed the day at the state tax department. The value of taxable dwelling houses in the state was put at $704,861,163.

The state grand list total leaped from $1,962,763,631 to $2,018,526,711, an increase of $55,763,080 or 2.84 per cent., whereas last years' increase was 1.42 per cent. The figures are based on tax lists filed last year. They showed that all the towns in the state collected an aggregate of $41,434,658.11 in taxes in the collection period of the twelve months ended April 1, 1923, which was an increase of $3,109,827.62 over the previous year.

New Haven leads in the number of taxable dwelling houses, having 17,687, followed by Bridgeport with 15,228, Hartford with 12,153, Waterbury, with 9,758 and New Britain 5,603.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF REP. CONVENTION IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Oct. 11.—The fight between the "old organization," with reputed John T. King backing, and the "new organization," sponsored by admittedly anti-King men, for control of the republican city convention apparently was unsettled in the primaries here tonight, and the fight will go to the convention. Primary contests existde in four districts, two being won by the "old organization," and two by the "new organization." In the eight uncontested districts, each faction claimed four, so the factional fight goes to the convention deadlocked. It was expected that the "old organization" support would concentrate upon former Senator Frederic A. Bartlett as the candidate for mayor, while the "new organization" favorite is Alderman Wilbert J. Sanford.

BOTTOM DROPPED OUT OF MOTORSHIP KENNECOTT

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 11.—The bottom has dropped out of the motorship Kennecott, which struck Monday night on the rocks near Graham Island and the vessel is a complete loss, said a message received here today from the coast guard cutter Unalga.

The Unalga wireleased that she was taking twenty-five men of the Kennecott to Ketchikan, while Captain John A. Johnson, master of the motorship and eight other members of his crew had remained at the wreck. The Unalga stated that the Kennecott lay in Kano inlet a mile inside Hunter Point, at the southwest corner of Graham Island.

OKLAHOMA HOUSE VOTES IMPEACHMENT RESOLUTION

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 11.—(By the A. P.)—Holding in abeyance recommendations of Governor J. C. Walton, that they consider at once legislation affecting the Ku Klux Klan, the lower house of the state legislature today adopted without dissenting vote a resolution empowering the speaker to name a committee of investigation and impeachment which would be empowered to inquire into the official acts of all impeachable state officers.

The house then recessed until tomorrow afternoon. The senate was already in recess until tomorrow morning.

PLANE HIT LAMPOST NEAR GRANT'S TOMB

New York, Oct. 11.—Lieutenant Edwin Johnson, flying from Mitchel field today in an effort to land on a New York street, crashed into a lamp post near Grant's Tomb, smashing wing and propeller.

Johnson, who used a Sperry Messenger, the smallest plane in practical use, then telephoned the flying field for spare parts to enable him to fly home and announce he would attempt the feat again Saturday or Monday.

SIX DEATHS RESULT FROM PENN. TRAIN HITTING BUS

Williamsport, Pa., Oct. 11.—The death tonight of Allen L. Waltz increased to six the number killed today when a Pennsylvania railroad train struck the Williamsport-Trout Run motor bus at Hepburnville, near here. Waltz was the driver of the bus and lived in this city. One of the victims whose name could not be learned today has been identified as G. H. Ritter, of Liberty, Pa.

Four other passengers in the bus were injured, one of them so badly that he is not expected to recover.

STOLEN REVOLUTIONARY WAR CANNON RECOVERED

Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 11.—The Revolutionary war cannon, found last Sunday in a swamp on the estate of Bryan R. Dorr, here, and stolen from the cellar in the home of Alfred Briggs, early Tuesday, has been found, according to the police officers today. They refused, however, to tell where it was located. A controversy over ownership of the relic developed immediately after it was found.

GIRL HAD HABIT OF KICKING WINDOWS OUT OF TAXIS

New York, Oct. 11.—Magistrate Barrett in Essex Market court today retailed a police matron to pilot Miss Ruth Cortwright, claiming to be a member of a wealthy Denver family, back to friends at the Ritz Carlton hotel after she had been arraigned for the second time within a week on a charge of kicking the window out of a taxi.

Three of Train Crew Killed by Robbers

Mail Car Was Blown Up—Hold-Up Near the Oregon California Boundary.

San Francisco, Oct. 11.—Three members of the crew of Southern Pacific's San Francisco express, Portland to San Francisco were shot and killed and the mail car on the train was blown up by train robbers who halted the train as it was entering a tunnel near the Oregon-California line today. A posse from Yreka, Cal., under Sheriff Calkins of Siskiyou county is in pursuit of the bandits.

The train came to a jarring stop after the locomotive and mail car had entered the tunnel. An explosion was then heard, Conductor Marratt and C. O. Johnson, Brakeman, proceeded to the head of the train, where they encountered the bandits. Johnson was shot through the chest and died within a few minutes. The bandits fled as the conductor advanced. He continued his search and found the body of Engineer S. L. Bates on the ground on one side of the engine with a bullet through his head. On the other side he found the body of fireman Seng, also with a bullet through his head.

The mail car was wrecked and all of the windows in the nearest chair car were shattered. No passengers were hurt.

The condition of the mail car prevented an immediate survey to determine if any mail matter or money had been stolen.

The mail car was set on fire by the explosion but the blaze was quickly extinguished. Calls for help were sent to Ashland, Oregon, Yreka, and to other points. A wrecking crew cleared the track a few hours after the holdup.

No passengers were molested by the bandits or injured by the explosion, as far as could be learned tonight.

The robbery and slaying were believed to have been the result of one of the most carefully planned holdups in the history of western railroading. Only two men participated in the robbery according to reports received here. One version of the robbery was that an explosion blew away part of the roof of the tunnel, causing it to cave in on the train. As the engineer brought the train to a grinding stop the two robbers advanced to the locomotive and shot the engineer, fireman and Johnson, who was believed to have been riding in the engine, although he was not on duty.

Bates and Seng evidently died instantly, with bullets through their brains. Johnson was shot in the chest and died a few minutes later.

The bandits then ran to the mail car and blew the door open with a charge of dynamite, which ripped a gaping hole in the car and set it on fire. This explosion is believed to have caused the death of Mail Clerk Edwards, the only occupant.

After gaining entrance to the car, the bandits are believed to have dynamited the safe. They scooped up the contents and fled from the car, which was burning.

A baggage clerk reported seeing two men run toward the front of the train after the explosion in the mail car.

As soon as the train stopped, Conductor Marrett, started forward to investigate. He found Bates dead in the cab and Seng lying on the ground beside the engine, dead. Johnson was dying.

Apparently the engine crew was shot and killed without warning and without mercy. Bates had served as an engineer on the San Francisco division of the Southern Pacific for twenty years. He is survived by a widow and one child.

Another version of the stopping of the train, emanating from Ashland, Oregon, 17 miles from the scene, was that it was flagged as the locomotive emerged from the tunnel, trainmen at the rear of the train assuming the stoppage was due to the fact a bridge repair crew was working in the vicinity. According to this version four or five bandits were involved, some of them having boarded the train at Siskiyou.

The train was pulled out of the tunnel and the fire in the mail car was extinguished. The car was cut out of the train, which proceeded south with a new crew in charge.

Meanwhile, officers of Ashland, Oregon, Andredina and Yreka, Calif., had been notified and a hurried call as sent out for volunteers and tonight posses are scouring the Siskiyou Mountains for the bandits.

Southern Pacific officials rushed to the scene and an offer of $2,500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any of the robbers was made on the spot.

The extent of the damage to the mail has not been determined. The car virtually was destroyed, according to advices, and it is considered probable that much of the first class mail was burned. No damage was done to other cars with the exception of the baggage car, in which windows and doors were broken by the explosion in the mail car.

HELD ON SUSPICION OF MURDER OF EMMA DICKSON

Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—Detectives declared tonight they were convinced that Ernest Faccenda, held without bail on a technical charge of suspicion of murder of Emma Dickson, fifteen-year-old Millville High school girl, was withholding information vital to the prosecution of the case. The girl's body was found September 22 not far from her home at Bricksboro, N. J., with the head crushe.

Much of the information on which the detectives based their declaration was obtained through a policeman who was placed in Faccenda's cell last night ostensibly as a fellow prisoner.

According to the detectives, Faccenda, again and again led them almost to the point of a revelation only to balk at actual details.

TWO WOMEN AND ONE MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Grafton, Mass., Oct. 12.—Two women and one man were killed and a second man was seriously injured here early today as the result of an automobile crashing into a tree on an incline and then going over an eight-foot embankment. The dead: Patrick J. Foley, Worcester, fractured neck; Mrs. Cornelius Sullivan, Worcester, fractured skull; unidentified woman, fractured skull.

Cornelius Sullivan, husband of the dead woman, was removed to a nearby farmhouse in serious condition.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN THE RUHR BY THE UNEMPLOYED

Result of the Discharge of Thousands of Workers by the Metal Industries—Workers Believe That the Industrialists Design to Increase Working Hours—Beginning October 17 the Berlin Government Will Transfer All Responsibilities for Unemployment in the Ruhr to the Municipal Authorities—French Cavalry and Armored Cars Are Being Used to Preserve Order.

Duesseldorf, Oct. 11.—(By the A. P.)—Demonstrations by the unemployed, some of a very threatening character, have already begun in the Ruhr in consequence of the discharge of thousands of workers by the metal industries. The occupation authorities here predict rioting and plundering unless something is done immediately to relieve the plight of the workless.

One of the most serious manifestations thus far occurred late this afternoon in Duesseldorf when more than three thousand persons gathered around the town hall and soon became so menacing that the French cavalry and armored cars, which have been safeguarding order since the separatist meeting of Sept. 30 resulted in bloodshed, were summoned nastily.

The use of force, however, was unnecessary. A French officer, speaking German, addressed the crowd from the steps of the building and told them to disperse quietly. The French, he said, would do what they could to aid them.

Demonstrations of a similar character were reported today from nearly every large town in the Ruhr.

It is feared the situation of the workmen and their families will become desperate before the month is out. The German state authorities are powerless to offer relief, as the Berlin government has decided that, beginning October 17, all responsibilities for unemployment in the Ruhr will be transferred to the local municipal authorities in the occupied area.

The purchasing value of the employment doles from Berlin has already been severely curtailed by the disintegration of the mark. The 2,000,000,000 marks which is the weekly dole to the head of a family is barely sufficient to buy bread for one adult for seven days.

The municipal authorities can do nothing because the cities have no income, and the metallurgical plants which are laying off their workers refuse to be responsible while they have no orders for their products. As for organized charity, it is practically inexistant, because there are no funds for the support of the charitable institutions.

The situation is made all the more serious by the belief prevalent among the workers that their employers' conditions are not as serious as the latter claim, and that the industrialists are simply maneuvering to increase working hours and to clear the way for sweat shop methods throughout the entire district.

SOCIALISTS CAUSING DISCORD IN REICHSTAG

Berlin, Oct. 11.—(By the A. P.)—Storm signals are flying over the Reichstag building although less than a week has elapsed since Chancellor Stresemann's laboriously resuscitated coalition ministry was inducted into office. The four parties constituting the coalition group, which it was believed could command a sufficient majority to enable the chancellor to put through his dictatorial legislation, failed today to mobilize enough deputies to give Dr. Stresemann's authorization law the needed constitutional sanction.

Discord in the ranks of the socialists, whose left wing assumed an obstreperous attitude, and the successful filibustering tactics of the nationalists and communists forced the coalition leaders to seek refuge in having the final vote on this measure postponed until Saturday.

GERMAN TAXES PLACES ON GOLD MARK BASIS

Berlin, Oct. 11.—President Ebert has issued a decree whereby taxes henceforth will be calculated on a gold mark basis.

It is announced from Dresden that two communists, Boettcher and Zeigner, have entered the Saxon ministry as head of the finance and economic departments respectively.

I. W. W. DENOUNCED AT A. F. OF L. CONVENTION

Portland, Ore., Oct. 11.—(By the A. P.)—The Industrial Workers of the World were denounced as a force aiming to destroy organized labor, and investigation of its activities was ordered by the American Federation of Labor in convention here today. The charge was made that the field workers were paid by the employing class to fight organized labor.

"Let us not overlook the fact," said a declaration which was adopted, "that there are I. W. W.'s at the top of the industrial world, and that these are very influential and much more dangerous than the I. W. W.'s among the working people.

"They claim to be an industrial organization, when as a matter of fact, they are a purely political one, using industrial conditions and industrial facts as a cloak."

Andrew Furuseth of the Seamen's union, said the I. W. W. aimed to wreck the union movement and to discredit the legislatures. He said the same forces were at work throughout the world.

"The theories of the upper crust of this movement," he said, "are exactly the same as those of the itinerants—they aim to suppress free speech, free press, free locomotion and the union shop."

He declared the workers in the field were paid by the employers for their activities against organized labor. The seamen's and longshoremen's unions, he said, had suffered from the I. W. W. activities, but were gradually working out of its influence.

CHARGE UNJUSTIFIED SLURS ON PRESIDENT WILSON

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 11.—Counsel for the Chemical Foundation, Inc., in concluding their arguments today in the government's suit against the Foundation for the recovery of seized enemy dye and chemical patents, freely charged the executive department of the government with making unwarranted attacks and slurs on President Wilson and other officers of his administration.

William D. Guthrie, of New York, told the court that in the face of evidence to the contrary the brief filed by government counsel to the effect charged President Wilson with signing an executive order in haste and without complete knowledge of the facts; of sending to congress a report of an executive officer without reading it and of signing an executive order confirming the sale of the patents to the foundation at a time when he was too ill "to know what he was doing."

Mr. Guthrie also asserted that the government's brief indicated a belief by its counsel that former Attorney General Palmer had perjured himself at the trial of the case when he testified that he had told President Wilson about all of the facts connected with the sale of the patents before Mr. Wilson sailed on his return to Paris in March, 1919. He declared further that there was in the brief a statement that "the trust imposed upon Mr. Palmer was deliberately perverted to selfish ends."

FEAR CREW LOST OF TANKER CITY OF EVERETT

Key West Fla., Oct. 11.—But little hope is held out here tonight for the crew of thirty of the tanker City of Everett, which sank this morning, 150 miles west of Dry Tortugas. The Mallory liner Comal reported this afternoon that she had reached the spot where the Everett went down, and tonight, after a search in that vicinity, sent a message to the navy yard here stating that she had been unable to find any trace of the Everett's lifeboats.

VIOLENT SCENE BETWEEN LAWYERS AT STOKES TRIAL

New York, Oct. 11.—Acting District Attorney Pecora, entering court today to seek the arrest of a witness for W. E. D. Stokes in the re-trial of his divorce against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, heard the witness accuse officers of the district attorney's office of trying to influence his testimony. It was not definitely announced what charge Mr. Pecora intended to prefer against the witness.

Before he left the crowded courtroom, Mr. Pecora saw Max D. Steuer, counsel for the wealthy hotel owner, and Stanley Richter, son-in-law of Mrs. Stokes' attorney, Samuel Untermyer, almost come to blows at the statement of Steuer that "I would not use a son-in-law of mine to ranything like that." The court room was pandemonium as officers separated the two lawyers. Mr. Pecora said he would refute the charges directed at his office in testimony at the next hearing Monday.

The witness, Joseph A. Thornton, former negro janitor at 12 East 35th street, were one of the co-respondents, Edgar A. Wallace, lived, was called by Steuer to repeat his testimony at the first trial two years ago that he had seen Mr. Stokes at the 35th street house in company with Wallace he said he had seen her entering and leaving the house three or four times, once with Wallace.

HEARING BY GOVERNOR ON STATE FARM FOR WOMEN

Hartford, Oct. 11.—Governor Templeton, who this afternoon gave a hearing to the Women's League of Voters and to Mrs. Hellen Wade Rogers of Hampden, a director of the institution, as to conditions at the state farm for women, said earlier in the day that he had not made up his mind what course to take in the tangle in the administration of the farm. He would not come to decision, he said, until he had fully considered whatever the Women's League of Voters and Mrs. Rogers had to say. He might not come to a decision for several days.

Mrs. Helen W. Rogers, of Hamden issued a statement yesterday offering to resign as a member of the board of directors of the state farm for women if all of her fellow members of the board would agree to do likewise, and it was assured that Miss Anna M. Peterson would not a continued as superintendent of the institution.

FORD NOT TO WITHDRAW MUSCLE SHOALS OFFER

Detroit, Oct. 11.—Henry Ford's offer for the purchase of the Muscle Shoals project in Alabama is still before congress and will not be withdrawn, his first public assertion since the Mr. Ford said today in a statement, sale of the Georgs plant to the Alabama Power company.

Mr. Ford charged that political influences were brought to bear to keep him from obtaining the plant and the "same influences prevented a vote in the house last spring," on the sale of Muscle Shoals to the Ford Motor company.

FORD NOT AVERSE TO THE PROGRESSIVE NOMINATION

Omaha, Oct. 11.—A letter received today at Lincoln by Secretary of State Pool, from Henry Ford's general secretary, E. G. Liebold, contained no rejection of a filing of a petition to make Mr. Ford a candidate of the progressive party, a special despatch to the Omaha World-Herald said. The letter was in reply to a communication from Mr. Pool notifying Mr. Ford that unless his name was withdrawn, it would be placed o nthe Nebraska presidential preference primary.

Hector Trudeau is now on his way to Canada, according to the belief of his friends. In the opinion of his partner in the blacksmith business Trudeau was overcome with remorse over his escapade Tuesday afternoon, when he fought with a brother blacksmith in Mascia's shop and for which he was arrested and charged with intimidation and assault. It is thought that Trudeau decided to leave the city and it is likely that he has gone to Canada. Following the arrest, Trudeau was released on bonds of $50 furnished by Exaurias Ducharme and he was scheduled for a hearing Wednesday morning. The court waited his arrival for half an hour and decided to give the accused another chance, by continuing the case until Thursday morning. Trudeau was last seen Wednesday afternoon driving an automobile in an easterly direction. At the session of police court Thursday, Trudeau's bond was called. Trudeau has a wife and two children residing here.

The voting members of St. Paul's Episcopal church elected William M. Higgins vestryman and treasurer, at a meeting held to chose a successor to D. L. Mason who, for personal reasons had resigned before the expiration of his term. Mr. Higgins was unanimously elected. The parish meeting was held after the vestry meeting. The clerk was instructed to notify the members of the ways and means committee of their appointment at a previous meeting and to call for an early report.

A number of local golfers have entered the Pomfret tournament for amateur golfers in Windham county. They are: L. H. Arnold, R. G. Remington, G. Donald Bartlett and R. C. Comins. These will probably be additions to the list. Mrs. George M. Graves and Mrs. R. G. Remington have entered for the women's play Friday.

After starting out with an excellent record, the Windham High school eleven are now ready for the third fray of the season when they stack up against Killingly High here this (Friday) afternoon. Coach Callahan will use the same lineup that defeated New London Vocational school. A new form of play to be used today, and which has been perfected is an aerial play which is expected to bring good results.

Over one hundred members and friends of the Junior Catholic Daughters of America gathered at a masquerade party in St. Joseph's hall recently. Games were played and prizes were awarded Marion Tyberzy, Augustine Giraca, Evelyn Glowtier and Marion Pickett. Miss Mary Riordan and Miss Virginia Hinds wore the prettiest costumes and were tied for the prize. Miss Riordan won. Miss Mildred Davis and Miss Mildred Merchant were selected as wearing the funniest costumes. Miss Agnes Ryan and her assistants were in charge of the affair.

Alfred N. Manning, 78, of South Windham, died suddenly at his home there early Thursday morning. He was born in Windham, August 17, 1853, a son of Benjamin S. and Asenath Robinson Manning. He leaves seven children, Mrs. Elizabeth Whaley of Norwich Town, Gertrude Manning of South Windham, Mrs. Lillian Mitchel of Brattleboro, Vt. Alfred of Providence, R. I., Mrs. Ethel Chappell of Windham, Martha Manning of Norwich, and Mrs. Mary Chamberlain of South Windham; a brother, Herbert Manning of Willimantic; also a sister, Mrs. T. H. Ward of Franklin and nine grandchildren.

Miss Ellen F. Swett, 88, died at her home in Hebron Wednesday. She was born in Hebron May 17, 1835, a daughter of Ellis Porter and Lucy Kellogg Swett.

The members of the Windham school committee do not favor the project of starting a night school here again this year due to the poor support accorded the plan last year when the school was finally discontinued. However, a law requires every town in the state having a population of 10,000 or over, to conduct a night school for 75 nights, and of necessity a night school must be conducted here. Hormisdas Dion, Mrs. Harriet E. Fenton and Walter R. King have been authorized to make the arrangements for the opening of the school. The sessions will be held in the high school building. Prospective pupils will be asked to register at the high school next Thursday and Friday evenings. The school offers an excellent opportunity to anyone interested in classes of commercial work, sewing, cooking, general beginners' studies and to foreigners.

Those desiring to secure motor vehicle drivers' licenses Thursday were sorely disappointed when informed by Chief Allen MacArthur that the state police in Stafford Springs were needed at the fair there and could not come to Willimantic to give the examinations. They were told to return next week.

Friends of Samuel Israel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Israel of Natchaug street, called on him Wednesday evening in honor of his birthday. There were games, musical selections and a supper.

The offices in the town building will be closed all day today (Friday) in observance of Columbus Day.

The first meeting of the Women's Charitable Fund was held recently with Mrs. George F. Taylor.

Mrs. Don M. Curtis of Windham Road entertained the Windham Road Club of three tables at her home this week.

A chimney fire in one of the tenements of a house at 611 Main street broke out Wednesday afternoon about 4.45 o'clock and an alarm was rung in. The members of Engine Company No. 1 responded and used six gallons of chemicals with which to extinguish the blaze.

About 4.45 o'clock Thursday afternoon an alarm was rung from Box 53, corner of Jackson and Valley streets, for a blaze in a woodshed in the rear of the home of Abraham Krug, Valley street extension. The shed was burning rapidly when the firemen arrived and hose connections were quickly made and the fire gotten under control.

The pupils of the sixth grade of Natchaug grammar school inspected the Bank street engine house Wednesday afternoon in a body. They were in charge of their teacher, Mrs. Elinor S. Smith. Assistant Chief Henry J. Kelley explained to the children the use of the equipment and apparatus.

Mrs. Elizabeth Zokiel of Pleasant street entertained at a luncheon for South Coventry friends recently. Her guests were Mrs. E. Prince, Miss Hattie Albro, Mrs. John Wood, Mrs. Rose Bennett, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Tripp.

There will be plenty of sweet cider in Willimantic next winter and spring if one is to judge by the number of wagon loads of apples seen on their way to the cider mill.

The Needle Art Club held its first meeting of the season with Miss Leona Hurteau at 319 Valley street. Fifteen members were present. The room was decorated in an attractive manner with autumn foliage. Luncheon was served.

The Imperial quartet of Willimantic is to give an entertainment at the Mansfield Center church under the auspices of the C. E. society.

Dr. F. C. Guild was unanimously re-elected chairman o fthe town school committee at its October meeting in the selectmen's office. Robert A. Case was re-elected secretary. All the members of the committee were present, among them George W. Hickey the newly elected member who succeeded Christopher Case.

Contracts for the transportation of school children were approved. The report of Truant Officer Jean B. Paulhus, showed 16 cases investigated during the month. Four of the absentees had gone to Putnam where they had hired out as caddies, and the parents of the quartet were severely reprimanded by the officer. Eighty children were examined for tuberculosis by school physician Dr. W. P. S. Keating, it was reported that the general health of the children was good.

The question of drinking water at the new Windham Center school was again brought up. An analysis has been made of a nearby well which is found to be fairly pure with the exception of surface water contamination. It was decided if the well was drained and cleaned out and a coping erected around the edge the water would be fit to drink, and this will be done, providing a temporary source of drinking water. Artesian wells are to be dug later. During the month it cost the town $21 to furnish drinking water at the new school.

A communication was read stating that the annual inspection of the Windham High school was satisfactory and that the school has received the annual approval of the state board of education.

A letter was read from Mrs. Harry S. Vail in regard to the pupils who travel to school on the South Coventry trolley, requesting that the schools curriculum of out-of-town pupils be changed so that they could return home in the afternoon on the earlier car, students now being compelled to wait over a half hour for the trolley. It was perceived that the change would not be practicable in that it was more advantageous for pupils under the present system.

Walter R. King spoke on the part-time schedule in some of the schools due to the increased registration of pupils. The part time schedule of the Oaks school, which is under state supervision has been eliminated, the extra pupils being so divided that the school is on a regular schedule. At Natchaug grammar school, however, there are 216 pupils on part time and until the new eight-room addition is completed there is no way of overcoming this state of affairs. There are 68 pupils at the school who are under 6 years of age and it was thought of removing them to make more room, but Principal Harroun stated that 14 of that number would soon be six years of age. The remainder occupy the kindergarten room which is not fitted toaccomodate older children. The condition at the school is not as critical as last year and the teachers and pupils have become accustomed to the part-time schedule. so progress is but slightly impaired.

Chairman Guild announced that he would make but few changes in his committee appointments; Walter R. King was appointed chairman of the teachers' committee; George W. Hickey appointed to replace Egbert A. Case on the committees and H. C. Lathrop appointed to replace William J. Sweeney. It was voted to fix the salary of Janitor Wood at the new Windham Center school at $900.

Secretary Case then handed out lists of statistics on the cost of school operations in various towns throughout the state. In Windham the cost per capita last year was $8.58, one of the lowest rates in the state.

Adjournment was taken at 10 o'clock.

PLAINFIELD

William Inglis is soon to have the stitches removed from his foot, injured in Lawton mills just after returning from the polls on election day. He will be able soon to take up his work again.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cleland motored to Hartford Sunday to visit their daughter, Marion Cleland, who is attending a business college there.

William P. Barstow has notified the society committee, of which he is chairman, to meet at the pastor's study this (Wednesday) evening.

Bishop Acheson of Middletown will take the service at St. Paul's church Sunday, Oct. 14, at 3 in the afternoon. This will be the last service for Rev. David Comb as rector of the church, for he is leaving Plainfield the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rood and infant, who have been living with Mrs. Charles Pratt during the summer, have moved to Newton, Mass.

After a long illness in which George Dean has been confined to his bed, he is able to sit up, improving slowly each day.

Among recent visitors have been school teachers of former days, Mrs. Ella Greene, Mrs. Ella Salisbury and Mrs. Walter Stanton of Danielson.

John Inglis returned to work in Lawton mills Monday after an absence of six weeks due to illness.

Rev. Henry A. Blake and Samuel Raymond of Hartford and Rev. and Mrs. Walter B. Williams of Danielson were callers at the Congregational parsonage Monday.

May Evans and Irene Evans have returned to Baltic and taken up their studies in the convent school.

Leon Frink, James Muldoon, Albert Mathieu and Albert Rundall, who attended the Brockton fair last week, reported 125,000 people present.

Mrs. Herbert E. Gray is again employed for the holiday season in the Mercier store.

Arnold C. Adams' case before the Putnam court for driving a motor car without the proper license has been continued one week owing to illness.

A farewell reception was tendered the Episcopal rector, Rev. David Combs and Mrs. Combs, Wednesday evening in St. Paul's church hall, by the parishioners. It was arranged so that when Mr. and Mrs. Combs came to the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, they were surprised by a large company of their friends. The following program was carried out: duet, banjo and piano, by Misses Eva and Ruth Higgenbotham, auto harp, Arthur Crisfield; duet by Miss Marsden and Mrs. Baldwin. Refreshments were served. In a brief addres appreciative of the faithful service of Mr. Combs, Arthur Crisfield presented the Rector an elegant smoking set from St. Paul's Brotherhood, which Mr. Combs helped organize. Francis Baxter gave a brief outline of the efficient and untiring work of Mr. Combs during his pasterate of four years and three months. He said that Mr. Combs has built up the Church, erected a new rectory, taken a great interest in enlarging the public library of which he was president, and that he had always been ready to assist in furthering the best interests of the community. Mr. Baxter then presented Mr. and Mrs. Combs a purse of $42, a gift from his people, who regret deeply the going away of the rector and his family.

During the four years and more in which Mr. Combs has been Rector of St. Paul's the Woman's Auxiliary has contributed $640 and the Girls' Friendly society, of which Mrs. Combs was the leader, has raised over $1,000 from which they have contributed liberally to the erection of the rectory and to the support of the Church. At the meeting of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Robert Sykes was chosen president and Mrs. William Patten vice president to succeed Mr. and Mrs. Combs.

The people of Plainfield wish Mr. and Mrs. Combs the best success in their new and larger field, but regret that they must leave this community.

The opening fall meeting of the Parent Teacher Association was held in the Community House Wednesday evening, the teachers being well represented, as ten out of the thirteen were there. Following the business hour many interesting and instructive pictures were shown by Principal C. L. Butler using the school's new stereoptican lantern.

Cocoa and wafers were served by Mrs. Arthur Holmes assisted by Misses Nellie McGovern and Marion Lee.

The Principal of the school reports that the school building can be cleared of pupils in one minute, during fire drill exercises.

The sixth grade has organized with the following officers:

President, Geneva Kelley; Vice-President, Arnold Smith; Secretary, Evelyn Warburet; Treasurer, George Wilson.

White and gold are to be the class colors; class pins have been selected.

Miss Evelyn Stetson of Providence, who has been very ill at the home of Mrs. J. L. Chapman, had a consultation of doctors Thursday afternoon and was removed at once to the Day Kimball Hospital in Putnam for an immediate operation. Miss Stetson's brother, Kenneth Stetson, accompanied her to the hospital.

Stanley Sullivan, who came on from Denver, Colorado, some weeks ago where he was employed in the banking business, compelled to take a lengthy vacation, owing to serious illness, is greatly improved and is enjoying himself with his family in Plainfield. His brother, Francis, who accompanied him on the trip is back again in his position with the Trust Banking Company of Denver.

The pastor's cabinet met in the Benedict library Tuesday evening and voted unanimously to hold a second annual bazaar at the Congregational church before the end of the year to raise money for the repairs and alterations going on at the church.

A booklet of 36 pages contains the printed reports of the town and is full of interest to every citizen.

DANIELSON

The following from a Lewiston, Me., paper relative to F. H. Pierce, as published in The Bulletin Thursday morning, is of general local interest:

Frederick H. Pierce, principal of the Jordan High school, Lewiston, has accepted a position as associate principal of the Beverly (Mass.) High school at a salary of $3,600, and has tendered his resignation to the Lewiston school board, to take effect Jan. 1, 1924. In confirmation of the report relative to his going to Beverly, Mr. Pierce said that he had received the offer rather unexpectedly last week.

Mr. Pierce will assume the duties of his new position after the Christmas vacation, as associate principal. The present principal of Beverly High has held that position for a great many years and has resigned with a year's notice. Mr. Pierce has been engaged with the express understanding that he will act as associate principal during the last half of the year, taking the principalship of the school next year at an increased salary.

The principal of the Beverly High school is an enviable position. The school has an average attendance of 1,300 and a staff of 50 teachers. The city of Beverly is now erecting a $1,000,000 building which is to be opened next fall, with accommodations for 1,500 students. The new school is expected to be one of the finest in the east when completed. In all probability Mr. Pierce will become its first principal.

Mr. Pierce is now on his fifth year as principal of Jordan High, prior to which he served five years as assistant principal and athletic coach. Last spring there was some talk about increasing his salary, which the last two years has been $3,100, but this was opposed by certain members of the board on the grounds that $3,100 was all the city could afford to pay for a high school principal.

During the spring of 1923 Mr. Pierce was one of two high school principals selected for the principalship of the South Manchester (Conn.) High school, Clarence P. Quimby, of Augusta High school being chosen. About that time Mr. Pierce received an indirect offer of the principalship of Cony High, but the place was filled before he was able to give an answer.

Many will regret Mr. Pierce's resignation, as he had been considered an excellent principal both from the standpoint of teaching ability and administrative adaptability. He has been well liked both by the teachers and students.

A voice that actually submerged the noise of automobile traffic and all the varied commotion of a busy day in a small town boomed out Thursday afternoon as those who paid real money to see "New York" play filed into a baseball field in the big town expectant of seeing the Babe hit a home run, or struck out and throw his bat across the field, or in seeing some more obscure player win fame by a sensational catch or a prodigous wallop. A few people who had nothing more important to hold their attention were on hand to listen to the giant voice of the radio telling what was going on in little ole New York, in these days nothing more than a vision of expense, with little return, for the yokel who brings his hard earned dollars to spend with the boys who boast of the fact that they make their living by their wits.

And with this little protest against the clean-up methods of New York, one may proceed to say that the radio brought the news of the big event in Manhattan to Danielson about as soon as it did to some of the sucker towns that are on Long Island, or at other points just outside New York.

This year the world's series in Danielson was chiefly a demonstration of the fact that the radio has been wonderfully developed during the past two years. It wasn't so much what the radio was saying as the fact that it was saying it that was of special interest Thursday afternoon. It really was out of the ordinary to hear a great voice booming out above the noise of a busy day's activities and knowing that voice was being transmitted by wireless from New York. That fact was, in effect, the world's series for Danielson—was a fine demonstration of the development of the radio; baseball achievement was a bad second. Incidentally, New York money-grabbing town that it is, hasn't figured out yet how to stop people in eastern Connecticut and other parts of the country from hearing what the radio man says without making them pay for it. But New York is much like the reformers—it will have the public paying by next year for whatever information the public gets, or know the reason why.

All in all, the world's series is a great event for Danielson. It knows in April that New York is going to win—both teams—and that the spring and summer and early fall schedule of games is nothing more than an arrangement leading up to a financial clean-up for the Big Town teams in the fall. Given the same amount of money to operate with, Danielson could have a world's championship baseball team any October day, but would have to get along with one-hundredth of one per cent. of the publicity that attracts fans to New York from the nethermost corners of the earth—that is, providing Taftville was figured out.

Danielson's chief interest in the world's series is the demonstration that the radio is being developed remarkably, but this interest could be maintained equally effectively by having some giant voice blurt out that beaver is a popular fur this fall or that an earthquake had wrecked Mars. As an athletic event the world's seires is a great boost for the development fo a scientific proposition—the transmission of news by radio.

Balloting by employes of the Southern New England Telephone company in the Danielson, Putnam and Moosup divisions has resulted in the selection of Miss Effie Danielson of Putnam and Miss Elizabeth Dunn of Danielson to represent the commercial department during the coming year; of Isaah McNally of Danielson and Frank McGorty of Elmville to represent the plant department, and of Miss Mae O'Brien of Putnam and Mrs. Anna Reynolds of Danielson to represent the traffic department in the relations between the employes' association and the company.

Boys 14 years and over in the grade schools of Killingly will have an opportunity to study agriculture under Mr. Wooding of the Killingly High school faculty and instructor of agricultural methods, it is announced by Leon M. Farrin, superintendent of schools. Pupils in the grade schools who are interested in the course may take up agriculture, devoting four hours each week to this study.

Numbers of Danielson people were at Stafford Thursday to attend the fair.

Henry A. Williamson of Derby was a visitor with friends in Danielson during Thursday.

Miss Katherine T. Thayer, who has been spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Witter, has returned to her home in Putnam.

Making Connecticut a more difficult proposition than it has been, has driven the trade across the border into Rhode Island, where road houses are springing up like mushrooms to take care of the Connecticut overflow.

In observance of Columbus day, a legal holiday in Connecticut, Danielson will practically forget the event, and business will go on as usual.

George A. Wimerth of Wilmington, Del., was in Danielson Thursday on a business trip.

There were no developments Thursday relative to the Chandler sedan found burned up in the woods off the Green Hollow road south of here.

PUTNAM

As a demonstration as to what may be done business-wise when the average man is whining that business isn't very good, Louis Wolf and Simon Kaminsky, business men of this city, dipped in 15 days ago and acquired 48 dwellings and some building lots, formerly the property of the Nightingale-Morse Mills corporation, with a view to selling them to individuals who might like to own homes of their own.

Of course, the possession of some nerve was an essential to the venturing into such a project, not to mention the fact that an investment well in excess of $125,000, but the gentlemen went in and took their chances—and in the meantime they have disposed of 24 of the dewlings they took over and, day by day, are selling off the others to meet the demand they anticipated existed for homes for those who have the money to pay a reasonable price for them, but not the funds to build a home at present costs of construction.

In the city in which they have placed their faith and pledged their money, Messrs. Wolf and Kaminsky have met with a response from the buying public that is proving a revelation to the conservative elements of the population. They guessed the prospect and are reaping the reward. They surmised that people would buy homes if they could buy them at a reasonable price, and in this surmise they were correct, as indicated by the amazing manner in which they have been getting rid of houses during the past two weeks.

Herewith is a list showing how the mill village they acquired is being disposed of to individuals, all residents here and now almost certain to remain, as assets to the community:

Levi Bousquet, Mill street; two-family house; Deus St. Sauveur, Mill street, two-family house; John Renshaw, two houses, one on Mill and one on Church street; Wilfred Dutremble, house on Main street; Ed-Dutremble, house on Main street; Elixis Ethier, four tenement house on Mill street; Levi Dutremble, house on Mohegan street; Sabina Pawluc, four family house on Powhattan street; Gaetano Leo, four family house on Powhattan street; Elie and Georgianna Bonosconi, two family house on Church street; William and Marie Jolly, four family house on Mill street; Agnes Peloquin, house on Church street; Mrs. Flora Auclair, house on Church street; Lucian Karykowski, two family house on Main street; John Laparle, two family house on Church street; Remie Arpin, two houses on Church street; Lewis and Vorina Richard, house on Providence street; Wicenty Pempek, three four-family houses on Powhattan and Providence streets; Emanuel Duvert, two-family house on Mohegan street.

Something the Putnam Rotary club has been striving for a long time—a 100 per cent attendance meeting—was achieved this week when every member of the club appeared at the weekly among other things of interest, heard an address by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of Hartford, this talk largely having to do with what the motor vehicle department is doing to safeguard the the motorists of the state and particularly relative to the anti-accident campaign not being actively carried out in Connecticut, and which has resulted in many violators of the law, particularly as to road rules, being brought into court and dealt with in accordance with the evidence presented against them.

Guests at the luncheon included State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric of this city and Attorney Archibald Macdonald, brother of the head of the state highway department and formerly deputy state commissioner of motor vehicles.

Numbered among the activities of Secretary John H. Corbett of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. during the present week was his Wednesday evening visit to the Pioneer Group at North Grosvenordale, where Kanute Johnson is leader. Following the business meeting there was a social session at which sweet cider, cake and cookies were served. Later there was a meeting of the local committee made up of N. Verne Rawson, Rev. William Newton and Kanute Johnson at which the matter of raising North Groavenordale's apportionment of the county budget was considered. Secretary Corbett is well pleased with the showing made by county delegations at the meeting at West Haven the past week end. There were 18 delegates present from this county, and it may be mentioned that a team from the number won the baseball championship of the state, as represented at the meeting.

This is an age of innovations and few among the blase are surprised at anything, but even those who know a lot, or think they do, took two extra looks Thursday morning when Oliver Bancroft came up town driving an automobile with only three wheels—the right front wheel being missing—and got along more or less as well as though the machine had its missing member attached. Admittedly the demonstration was an advertising stunt, but it was a good one and novel and gave the people in the business section something to think about. At first glance the car had much the appearance of the progressive party—getting along all right, though doing it on three legs—but after a minute's consideration most motorists sensed the fact that they never saw a four-wheel car that would run with one wheel missing and keep in the road and that one that was doing it before one's eyes was doing something out of the ordinary. It was explained by Mr. Bancroft that a tubular arrangement—a backbone, as he put it, to strengthen the chassis of the car—made it possible for the machine to go along as it was going without one of its front wheels. And many a man who saw it was tempeted to inquire whether any such devices had been perfected for application to those atoms of humanity who feel their knees weakening and their whole superstructure threatening to cave in and mess life into something barely worth living.

Jerome Charron, born August 15, 1848, at L'Presumption, P. Q., died at his home here early Thursday morning. Mr. Charron was little known to the people of the city as a whole, but had made his home here for a number of years.

The various classes of Tourtellotte Memorial High school at Thompson, have organized for the coming year as follows: Senior class—Stanley Dartt of Quinebaug has been elected president; Anita Peloquin of North Grosvenordale, vice president; and James Ryan of Thompson, secretary and treasurer, and member of the students' council.

James Kenney of Mechanicsville is the president of the junior class; Olive Baker of Fabyan, vice president; Bernice Welch of Wilsonville, secretary and Margaretta Hainsworth of Quinebaug, treasurer. Lucien Codderre of North Grosvenordale represents the class at the students' council.

Louis Smith of Thompson leads the Sophomore class. Lawson Robbins of East Thompson is vice president, Theresa O'Brien of Mechanicsville secretary and Minnie Towne of Thompson, treasurer. Margaret Lohse of Wilsonville is the sophomore member on the students' council.

In the freshman class, the elections resulted as follows. Daniel Chubbuck of Mechanicsville is president; Russell Blid of North Grosvenordale, vice president; Irene Johnson of North Grosvenordale, secretary and Ardath Leveille of Brandy Hill, treasurer; students' council member, Perry White of East Thompson.

The eighth grade of the Junior High school has elected Raymond Mayhew of East Thompson president; Edna Leveille of Brandy Hill, vice president; Shava Condos of Quinebaug, secretary, and Elizabeth Sobosik of Wilsonville, treasurer.

Getting away to what would appear to be a flying start, though their activities are being carefully checked up by those who will oppose them politically, a group of citizens are working with a view to controlling the biennial city election, in early December. The fight at the present time promises to center on the election on what may b described as a liberal common council. Incidentally, there seems to be a movement on foot to elect a council that can be used to punish the police for their activities of the past few months in raiding places engaged in the illegal handling of intoxicants—to punish them by ousting them from office, a mere matter of votes in the city's governing body. With these activities underway two months in advance of the election there is promise of a lively campaign during the time just preceding the casting of the ballots. As to candidates for mayor, little is being said. Victor Chapdelaine, the present chief executive, has not announced his candidacy for re-election, although it is known he is being urged to do so by those who feel that he has been a very fine official and entitled to a full term of office.

Red Seal Concert and Operatic

| | | | DOUBLE-FACED Number | List Price |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Since First I Met Thee (Weaver-Robinson) | Mabel Garrison | | 941 | $1.50 |
| Gay Butterfly (Hawley) | Mabel Garrison | | | |

"Since First I Met Thee" is Rubinstein's melodious "Romance in E Flat" set as an English song with 'cello obbligato. "Gay Butterfly" is a brilliant waltz song with delightful coloratura passages.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Song of the Viking Guest (from "Sadko") (Rimsky-Korsakow) | Feodor Chaliapin | | 6416 | 2.00 |
| Song of the Flea (Gounod-Mussorgsky) | Feodor Chaliapin | | | |

The Viking Song is a magnificent bass number, with rolling, surging music like the heave and backwash of great seas. The setting of the "Song of the Flea" is one of the oddest in music.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Etude in A Minor (Chopin) Piano Solo | Alfred Cortot | | 6417 | 2.00 |
| Impromptu in A Flat (Chopin) | Alfred Cortot | | | |

Two numbers of the highest beauty and importance for the true lover of piano music. Melody, melody everywhere! These pieces are almost without rival.

Melodious Instrumental

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| A Hunting Scene | Arthur Pryor's Band | | 19116 | .75 |
| The Mill in the Forest | Arthur Pryor's Band | | | |

Numbers that will especially please children. The Hunting Scene tells its own story. The Mill in the Forest is quiet and idyllic with a polka tune in the middle.

Light Vocal

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| If I Knew You Then as I Know You Now | Charles Hart | | 19134 | .75 |
| I Wish I Had Someone to Cry Over Me | Lewis James | | | |

These favorite artists have two fine tenor waltz songs—a song of love disillusion, very sweet and sorrowful, and a touching companion song, with a fine saxophone interlude.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| I've Got the Yes! We Have No Banana Blues | Belle Baker with The Virginians | | 19135 | .75 |
| Jubilee Blues | Belle Baker with The Virginians | | | |

To judge from this record the "Bernhardt of Big Time Vaudeville" has heard too much of the recent favorite street song. This number and "Jubilee Blues" are both with a jazz orchestra.

Dance Records

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Foolish Child—Fox Trot | Benson Orchestra of Chicago | | 19136 | .75 |
| That Old Gang of Mine—Fox Trot | Benson Orchestra of Chicago | | | |

In "Foolish Child" a saxophone crows joyously above some bell effects. "That Old Gang of Mine" is as good a fox trot as it was a song.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| The Frivolous Girl—Tango | International Novelty Orchestra | | 19137 | .75 |
| Love-Longing—Tango | International Novelty Orchestra | | | |

These tangos in the Argentine rhythm are romantic in style, not jazzy. They will test your dance skill if you possess it and develop skill if you don't.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Oh! Sister, Ain't That Hot!—Fox Trot | Charles Dornberger and His Orchestra | | 19138 | .75 |
| Mean, Mean Mamma—Fox Trot | Benson Orchestra | | | |

"Mean, Mean Mamma" is well-named. The rhythm, melody, harmony and tone-color get into mean combinations—and untangle cleverly. "Oh! Sister, Ain't That Hot!" is another of the same sort.

THE STATE FARM DIRECTORS.

Another proposition concerning the adjustment of the situation at the state farm for women at Niantic has been made to the governor by Mrs. H. W. Rogers of Hamden, whose attitude as a member of the board of directors of the farm is responsible for the existing trouble. Unable to accept the action of the majority of the board and cooperate with it Mrs. Rogers so directed her efforts that the superintendent of the institution would tolerate them no longer and resigned. All the other members of the board had agreed to resign if Mrs. Rogers would, that the state might be relieved of the embarrassing situation. That she refused to do. Since then an impartial investigation of the farm has been made in which the services of the superintendent who resigned was highly endorsed and the resignation of Mrs. Rogers from the board, or the remainder of the board that the governor might obtan others who could work with her, was made.

Now Mrs. Rogers comes forward, before the governor has taken any action on the report, and offers to resign if the other directors will, but makes it a requirement on the part of the unnamed board of directors for the future that the former superintendent must not be re-engaged. In other words she is endeavoring to tie the hands of some board of which she is not to be a member.

Whatever may be the attitude of any board in the future it is plain that it is not likely to be willing to have a member who has been causing friction in the present board say what it shall or shallnot do. When the time comes for action on a superintendent to fill the vacancy the board in charge at that time must be free to exercise its own judgment. It cannot be expected to accept the domination of a former board member any more than the present board.

It doesn't appear that it is the resignation of the full board that is required of the governor to accept in order to straighten out the trouble at the state farm for women.

EXTENDING THE SEARCH LIMIT.

While there is no assurance that Great Britain will grant the request of the United States for the extension of the three-mile limit to twelve miles for the search of rum-running vessels, it is to be realized that such action is certain to be based upon the granting by this country of the right to British ships to bring liquor into the ports of this country under seal. It thus means that a policy of give and take is to be followed. The British ships are experiencing some handicaps in not being able to bring a load of liquor from abroad into our harbors sufficient to last them for the return trip. If such liquor is sealed at the three-mile limit there can be no serious objection as long as the seals remain intact. The trouble lies in the fact that the transportation of such liquor into our territorial limits is against the prohibition law.

Thus if the right to search for rum outside the three-mile limit and up to twlve miles is granted by Great Britain, it will require that this country so modify the Volstead act that it can extend to Great Britain the right to carry liquor under seal into our ports. That means that such a right being extended to one country it would be expected by the others. On that basis the right to search the vessels of other countries would be sought by the United States. Unless there is a willingness to enter into such a give and take policy it would seem as if searching within the twelve-mile limit was some distance away.

The plan has been put forth. There is not an eagerness on the part of Great Britain to enter into it even though a favorable outcome has been intimated. In view of the fact that a change in our dry law is involved the plan is as yet much up in the air. The various requirements may not be so difficult to work out but getting the changes made and putting them into operation is another matter.

Approval by Great Britain, if it is obtained, will be only another step ahead in a complicated deal.

RECONSTRUCTION IN JAPAN.

After overcoming the conditions of distress and want in Japan, occasioned by the earthquake, there is certain to be faced the problem of reconstruction. It is a problem that has already been getting consideration, and inasmuch as Japan is not able of itself to supply the demands for building material the situation naturally arouses more than ordinary outside interest.

There has come from Japan evidence of a desire to avoid having famine prices forced upon them. This is shown by the statement that Japan is planning to live in shacks for the next five years. It may be some time before its reconstruction could proceed under full steam, but it is recognized that if there is a demand made upon the world market for building material it is likely to result in boosting the price, and Japan knows that prices are high enough already. Certain supplies are obtainable here and in other countries. That there may be some lively bidding for the business is possible but when more than the surplus of any market is sought it not only threatens higher prices for such material to go to Japan but higher prices for the material for domestic use.

When Japan reaches the decision that the devastated region will live in shacks for the next five years it not only gives an idea of the time that will be used in reconstruction but a recognition of the economic situation concerning building material.

That this country could and would supply considerable of the needed material is highly probable. Coming as it does when building requirements in this country have not been supplied it cannot fail to have its influence on the market if any great amount is obtained, and especially if the domestic requirements result in a spirited bidding. There will be the tempering influence of other markets but such attention as the department of commerce is already giving to the matter is well calculated to see that, while proper help is not denied Japan, the building supplies are not sent on a new skyrocketing trip.

SHIP BUILDING.

According to a statement which has been issued by Lloyd's Register of Shipping this country has not only fallen from its high position in ship construction to its old place but has even gone lower. It now stands sixth in the list of nations, Great Britain, Germany, Italy, France and Holland being ahead in the order named.

That this country has experienced a slump in ship building is not strange. It is to be remembered that during the period of war we put forth unusual energies in that direction. We built ships, ships and more ships until we had obtained a fleet the like of which this country never had before. We took a commanding position in the shipping world. The fact is that we built some of those ships so poorly that they have been of no use but we built far more than we could use and built them at war prices.

That fleet, or part of it is still on our hands. Many ships have been reconditioned and put into use but there are many which are resting idly at their anchors waiting for business to call them into use. Whether that day will ever come is a question. This surplus of ships makes it evident that new ship construction on a large scale is not to be expected. Except that they could be built cheaper than they could be bought, or on lines that would better serve the purpose desired, new ships are not going to be built in large quantities while ships are a drug on the market.

Ship building is showing a decline in most countries, Great Britain even having a smaller tonnage under construction at this time than it did ten years ago, but this country cannot be expected to keep on making big additions to the surplus that has long existed.

LLOYD GEORGE'S ENDORSEMENT

When Lloyd George made the statement in his Montreal speech that the Hughes plan for the appointment of a commission of experts to determine Germany's capacity to pay reparations is the most practical solution of the European situation, he indicates that he has not been moved from the position he has previously taken concerning that important question.

He is convinced of the merit of that proposal. He thinks it would settle the matter. But he must not be unmindful of the fact that France is not favorable to it, will have nothing to do with it and it doesn't appear that Lloyd George's view upon this matter will have any more influence in changing the French attitude than the British position did relative to the Ruhr.

France is taking the view while it may be that some reduction will have to be made in the reparation requirements, it is unwilling to leave that cut to any other than those who have been empowered to look after such matters. It lost faith a long time ago in Germany and its plea that it could not pay. It has insisted that Germany could pay and Germany has shown that it had funds for passive resistance while maintaining that it couldn't meet its promises.

Merit though there may be in the opinion of the ex-premier of Great Britain in the Hughes plan, it is evident that it cannot be put into operation until France gives its consent. From the way in which France has been emphasizing its opposition to anything of the kind it will apparently require something more than the Lloyd George endorsement of the idea to have it put into operation, however much others may feel the same as the British statesman does.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

You are mindful of the fact, of course, that this is Columbus day.

When Germany makes a list of its enemies it should not fail to include itself.

The man on the corner says: Thankful must we be for every day that helps to reduce the coal bill.

The automobile has accomplished many things. Perhaps it will yet bring about the widening of streets.

The great wonder is that England could rest so calmly during these days when the prince of Wales has dropped out of sight.

DESPERATE WORK

The pretty girl had got her elusive beau nicely arranged in the veranda living room, lured by a clinking pitcher of lemonade at one hand and a plate of fudge at the other, when her oblivious brother sauntered out and sat down with the air of one planning to remain all evening.

"Where are you headed for tonight, Jimmy?" she asked with sweet interest. "I think it is so nice after Jimmy has been working hard in the hot office all day that he is able to get the fresh air and go anywhere he wants to, now he has his new car," she said in sisterly tones to the young man caller.

"Oh, it's so hot I didn't feel like driving anywhere," the oblivious brother explained politely, helping himself to the nicest piece of fudge and pouring himself a large glass of the lemonade.

"Seems to me if I had a dandy car like yours," said Gerald, rising nobly to the occasion, "I'd be out in it every minute I wasn't working. I think the heat has sort of got you today, Jimmy—you look kinda pale. If you went down in Jackson park along the lake—"

"The moon is utterly beautiful on the lake these nights," sighed the pretty girl rapturously.

"I'll drive you down there if you wanta go," the oblivious brother said kindly. "You can sit in the back seat and Gerald can sit with me and I'll show him about gears and brakes and things."

"The very idea, Jimmy!" remonstrated the pretty girl gently, trying to kick him under the table and failing by two inches. "When there are three or four girls just dying to be taken out by you. No, you go over and get Cinnamonia Curdle. Cinnamonia is a lovely girl."

"Had her out twice last week," objected the oblivious brother, reaching for the fudge. "Can't make yourself too obvious these days or the girl will be sending out wedding invitations before you know it—hey, Gerald? Don't you find that you have to step wary and sort of distribute yourself around if you want to keep foot loose? Don't do to see one of 'em more than twice running."

"You'll miss the best part of the evening, Jimmy," broke in the pretty girl with a hint of a vicious gleam in her eye, Gerald having been there four nights that very week. "If you don't want to take Cinnamonia, you really ought to pay a little attention to Beulah Allspice. You needn't worry. Girls aren't so crasy to get married as you think. They—"

"Aw, you see it on every hand!" declared the oblivious brother expansively. "Thier best bet is making a fellow feel comfortable and then they rope him in because the poor dub thinks they'll go right on feeding him lollypops and cooing over him. Pass the fudge."

"Oh, but you've got to move around socially whether you like it or not," polated out the best beau helpfully. "I can tell you of a spiffy new place where you can get whacking good things to eat out under the trees."

"Come on, let's go!" offered the oblivious brother.

"I'm afraid of the night air," she said. "But you go right along."

"Yes, don't feel that because we can't join you you must give it up," added Gerald urgently. "You go right up Sheridan road to the—"

"I'll get Beaulah on the phone while Gerald's directing you," offered the pretty girl getting up hastily.

"And then you turn this way and go about six blocks," went on the best beau drawing diagrams. "I think you left your hat in the house—"

"Say!" cried the oblivious brother rapidly ceasing to be oblivious. "You folks seem to have my evening all dated up whether I want it or not."

"The very idea, Jimmy!" his sister died with a merry girlish laugh putting his hat in he hand and clearing a way to the front steps. "As though we had thought of such a thing. Don't look for your key, I'll leave the door on the latch."

"If I swallwed a little gasoline I believe I'd be able to spin along without my car with such a good start" grumbled the departing brother, who had been very comfortable where he was.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Henry Morgenthau of New York, who has accepted the presidency of the Greek refugee settlement commission from the League of Nations, has a creditable record as business man, philanthropist, and political manager, but it is in the field of diplomacy that he has won his widest reputation. In addition to several years spent at Constantinople as the United States Ambassador to Turkey, Mr. Morgenthau has fulfilled a number of special diplomatic missions for the United States Government. Thus, in 1919, he was a member of the commission which the American Peace Delegation sent to Poland to investigate reported pogroms. The following year he was appointed as the President's personal representative in mediating between the Armenians and the Turkish Nationalists. ## Brooklyn Couple Give Praise to Tanlac For Recovery.

"My wife and myself both know Tanlac is a wonderful stomach medicine and tonic, for we have tried it and gladly recommend it to everybody," is the statement made, recently, by Isadore Kaufman, proprietor of a high class delicatessen at 112 Ralph Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Since taking Tanlac I have no more indigestion, headaches or dizzy spells, and have gained around 12 pounds. My wife felt tired all the time, had no appetite and her work was a drudge. But now she is a changed woman. In fact, we are both like new people, thanks to Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale at all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Stories That Recall Others

The New Way Conversation.

Two young girls were going along the street recently with one doing all the talking. It was evident from the other's actions that she wished a chance to say something.

Finally she caught at the talker's arm, "Say, if you want to talk to me," she exclaimed, "Listen!"

He Hit a "Blue" Note.

He is a true sportsman and sometimes he forgets that there are other achievements. For instance the other evening he was introduced to a young woman musician with this expression, "You no doubt have heard of Miss X—— through her playing."

His face brightened, "What does she play—poker or golf?" he asked.

And now he is wondering where and why she went.

COLUMBUS

Behind him lay the gray Azores,
Behind him the gates of Hercules;
Before him not the ghost of shores,
Before him only shortless seas.
The good mate said: "Now must we pray,
For lo! the very stars are gone.
Brave Adm'r'l, speak, what shall I say?"
"Why, say, 'Sail on, sail on, and on!'"

"My men grow mutinous day by day;
My men grow ghastly wan and weak."
The stout mate thought of home: A spray
Of salt wave washed his swarthy cheek.
"What shall I say, brave Adm'r'l, say,
If we sight naught but seas at dawn?"
"Why, you shall say at break of dawn,
'Sail on, sail on, sail on, sail on!'"

They sailed and sailed, as winds might blow,
Until at last the blanched mate said:
"Why, now not even God would know
Should I and all my men fall dead.
These very winds forget their way,
For God from these dread seas is gone.
Now speak, brave Adm'r'l, speak and say—"
He said: "Sail on, sail on, and on!"

They sailed, they sailed. Then spake the mate;
"This mad sea shows his teeth tonight,
He curls his lip, he lies in wait,
With lifted teeth, as if to bite!
Brave Adm'r'l, say but one good word;
What shall we do when hope is gone?"
The words leapt like a leaping sword:
"Sail on, sail on, sail on, and on!"

Then, pale and worn, he kept his deck,
And peered through darkness. Ah, that night
Of all dark nights! And then a speck—
A light! A light! A light! A light!
It grew, a starlit flag unfurled!
It grew to be Time's burst of dawn.
He gained a world; he gave that world
Its grandest lesson: "On! sail on!"

ANNULMENT OF THE ADAIR-FONTAINE MARRIAGE VACATED

New York, Oct. 11.—The appelate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn today reversed a decision rendered by Justice Tompkins in Nyack in January, vacating annulment of the marriage of Evan Burrowes Fontaine, a dancer, and Sterling L. Adair. Justice Tompkins' vacation of the decree on the ground that it had been obtained by fraud in 1920, was made on motion of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney against whom Miss Fontaine had filed a $1,000,000 breach of promise suit which was dismissed when the annulment was vacated.

The appellate division ruled that Whitney was unable to make application for vacation of the judgment because he had now shown that a legal and equitable right of his had been invaded. The case came up on Miss Fontaine's appeal although in the meantime, Adair had died and Whitney had married Miss Marie Norton of New York in Paris last may.

Ignorance is supposed to be bliss, but it isn't even a good counterfeit.

WAS WEAK, DEPRESSED AND NERVOUS

Says Wincarnis Gave New Health

"I feel in duty bound to write and thank you for the wonderful benefit I have received from your splendid 'Wincarnis.' For months I had been depressed and nervous, and so weak I could hardly walk, and I felt I wanted to be always sitting or lying down. But now 'Wincarnis' has put New Life into me. I can now go about my work with a new vigor that makes my household duties a pleasure, instead of a burden as before. I cannot properly express my gratitude for the grand health your life-giving 'Wincarnis' has given me. It is splendid to feel so strong and well. I have told my neighbors about 'Wincarnis,' and I feel I want to tell the whole world what a splendid tonic and restorative it is."

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating, or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

NO NEED TO FEAR BALDNESS

Tells How to Make Hair Grow Strong, Thick and Lustrous.

Thousands of men and women are growing bald every day. This is needless because baldness usually comes from neglect and anyone who gives the scalp a little attention should always have an abundance of good-looking, healthy hair. Dandruff and dirt cause baldness by clogging the pores in the scalp, and giving the dandruff germs fertile ground for prolific breeding.

The treatment is very simple: remove the dirt by shampooing and destroy the dandruff germs by applying the genuine Parisian Sage, a most efficient antiseptic liquid that druggists everywhere are now recommending as one of the quickest and safest treatments to surely stop itching scalp and falling hair, remove all dandruff, and to properly nourish and invigorate the hair roots.

Parisian Sage is in great demand by discriminating women because it is daintily perfumed, does not color or streak the hair, and gives it a softness and luster that fascinates and compels admiration. Lee & Osgood Co. will guarantee it to you.

FACTORY TO MAKE LEAK-PROOF TUBES IS TO LOCATE ON THAMES STREET

Norwich is to have a new industry added to its already varied lines. The H. E. Allyn Rubber corporation, manufacturers of the self-seal leak-proof inner tube for automobile tires, has just taken a lease of factory space in the old C. B. Rogers shop on Thames street from A. R. Manning and will shortly move its factory from Philadelphia to this city.

Negotiations to bring the Allyn corporation to this city have been under way for some time past and have been promoted by the Chamber of Commerce, whose secretary, John J. O'Rourke, showed the officers of the company a number of possible sites about two weeks ago. Their selection settled upon the Thames street location and a lease from the first of November has been taken of 4,600 feet of floor space on the first floor and the basement of the building. Offices have been hired in the Disco building, and Mileski Bros. at 15 Ferry street have been appointed local distributers of the product.

The factory in Philadelphia, where the concern have been manufacturing the self-seal tube for 18 months, will be discontinued on the first of December, and from then on the tubes will be made at the Norwich factory, which will be developed to a minimum production of 3,000 tubes daily.

New patents and improvements of the self-seal tube, which have just been obtained, have brought the tube to a point where it is absolutely puncture proof and give it an immense sales field that promises every prospect of an extensive and constantly enlarging and profitable business. The officers see no reason why the tubes "Made in Norwich" will not be known the world over, as the sales agencies are extended. Twenty-three dealers are now handling the tubes and the factory is not able to fill the orders that they are turning it. One big contract has just been closed in California.

The officers of the company, who are H. H. Allyn, president; Charles P. Hill, secretary and treasurer, and O. A. Ryfle, sales director, will all remove from Philadelphia to this city to make their homes in Norwich with their families. They received such favorable treatment here and such substantial financial support that they decided Norwich was the place to locate, and three Norwich men are to be added to the board of directors at a meeting soon to be held.

The factory in Philadelphia has a working force of 30 at present. Some of the experienced workmen will be brought here but the larger part of the workmen at the Norwich factory will be recruited from the Norwich field.

Besides the tubes, the company has other products which it will manufacture.

EASTERN CONN. BRANCH MEETING IN BOZRAH

Between 60 and 70 were in attendance at the fall meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions held with the Bozrah Congregational church Thursday.

Miss Abby Willard of Colchester, the president, presided and following the devotional exercises during which Mrs. A. J. Bailey was at the organ, and the reports of the officers were heard and approved. She read parts of a letter from the Charles Ransomes in Africa in which the events that go to make up a busy day for a missionary were given.

Miss Alice Cogswell gave an account of the Northfield conference this summer. Following luncheon the ideal weather made it possible to hold the afternoon session outdoors on the church steps. Mrs. Charles T. Bard led in the hymns and Dr. J. Beveridge Lee of New London offered prayer after which he told of the every member canvass concerning missions and its aim.

Mrs. William N. Zumbro of Madura, India, gave a most interesting talk on "What missions have done in India."

Nine churches were represented at the meeting and there were visitors from Wyoming, R. I. and Massachusetts. The women of the church furnished lunch and coffee.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANTS IN SUIT FOR SERVICES

A verdict for the defendants was returned by the jury in the superior court at New London Thursday morning in the suit of Robert H. Appleby of Old Lyme against Robert Noble and Eugene Caulkins of the same town, executors of the will of Augusta Clark.

Appleby claimed that Mrs. Clark failed to make a provision in her will leaving him a balance of $2,640 due for services as manager and caretaker of her household, grounds and livestock. Mr. Appleby alleged that on Oct. 1, 1918, he agreed to work for Mrs. Clark the rest of her life at a salary of $100 a month, $40 to be paid in cash and the balance to be paid by bequest in her will.

The jury went out at 11.30 after arguments had been made by Attorney C. Hadlai Hull for the plaintiff and Attorney Arthur F. Keefe for the defendant and Judge Wolfe had given his charge. It returned with the verdict at 11.42 after being out 12 minutes.

LIONS HEAR FIRE CHIEF TALK ON FIRE PREVENTION

Chief Howard L. Stanton was the speaker Thursday before the Lions at their weekly luncheon at the Wauregan house. The Norwich fire chief gave an interesting talk upon fire prevention, giving a number of instructive facts about the great losses from fire in the United States and urging that each one present decide that he will do all possible to make Fire Prevention week mean something to each individual and each community.

President George D Finn introduced Chief Stanton and the other guests, who were Carleton Havens, Angus Park, Joseph Panek and William Burdick of New York.

TRYING $5,000 SUIT AGAINST STONINGTON MEN

Before Judge Isaac Wolfe and a jury in the superior court at New London Thursday about noon trial was started in the suit of Henry Frits of Stonington against Darius Gaudet and Victor Santi, also of Stonington for $5,000 damages for injuries in a collision of automobiles in Thames street Groton, on Nove. 14, 1919. The plaintiff claims that about 4.30 on the afternoon in question he was a passenger in a public service automobile conducted by Gaudet. The automobile was going in a northerly direction when a Ford automobile owned and driven by Santi, going in the same direction, attempted to pass the Gaudet car and the two machines came together. Frits claims that he was badly cut about the head and leg and that his shoulder was dislocated. The accident happened opposite the plant of the New London Ship and Engine Co.

Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt appears for the plaintiff and Attorney Clarence E. Roch of Westerly for the defendants.

The first witness called to the stand was Frits who testified that he was riding in the bus driven by Gaudet when at a point near the plant of the Ship and Engine Co. the bus suddenly swerved to the left and collided with Santi's Ford automobile, which was going in the same direction. The bus then swerved suddenly to the right and turned over. That was the last he knew until he was picked up unconscious.

William G. Robinson and Edward A. Walsh the former a passenger in Gaudet's car and the latter a passenger in the Ford, followed Frits on the stand and substantially corroborated his story of the accident.

TALKS TO SCHOOL CHILDREN ON FIRE PREVENTION

Scout Executive F. A. Benton and James L. Case talked on Fire Prevention and Insurance at Elizabeth street school Tuesday afternoon to the pupils and teachers at the invitation of Principal J. R. Stanton. Mr. Case in his speech stated that the annual fire loss would equal the enormous total of seven rows of pennies laid side by side encircling the globe. Mr. Benton explained the forest fire laws, the reason for the requiring fire permits and the state foresters plan of appointing scouts as forest guides. Connecticut uses 380,000,000 feet of lumber every year for building purposes. One-sixth of it only is grown in Connecticut and $3,000,000 is paid in freight bills in bringing it into the state. One-half of the state is natural forest land, fit only for that purpose, and 99 per cent of the forestry problem is conservation. Hence, the importance of great care in preventing fire. Permits for burning brush are required between September 1st and December 1st, also between March 1st, and June 1st. Forests furnish not only lumber, and firewood, but they save the water supply of the rivers and lakes, and so serve a double purpose.

The deputy forest fire wardens for Norwich district are Frederick H. Wyant, Lucius Davis, and Lawrence Browning whose jurisdiction are Norwich Town, Preston and West Side respectively.

JAMES PERELLI MISSING SINCE WEDNESDAY MORNING

James Perelli has been missing from his home at 134 North Main street since 9 o'clock Wednesday morning and the police have been asked to look for him. The only trace that has been reported of him since he left his home has been furnished by Officer Gwodowski, who stated that he saw the man on Asylum street near the Canada bridge about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At that time he was headed toward Norwich Town.

Perelli, who is known by his nickname of "Little Jimmie" is a gray-haired man, past middle age, who traveled around the streets with a bag on his back in which he picked up whatever he might find which he considered of value. When he left the house he was wearing a black hat and a black suit, old and shabby.

WHITE CROSS COUNCIL OPENS SOCIAL SEASON

White Cross council, No. 18, Knights of Columbus, gave its first social of the season Thursday evening at the K. of C. home on Broadway with an attendance of 200, including members of Mercier assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, who were guests of the evening, as well as all committees of the coming fair.

Cards and dancing with solos by Warren Keefe and music by the Blue Ribbon Orchestra and the Royal String orchestra made up a delightful programme that was continued to a late hour. Hot dogs and coffee, ice cream and cake were served.

The social was under the management of the fair committee of which T. F. Sweeny is chairman.

NARCOTIC DELINQUENTS IN DISTRICT 300 SAYS EATON

According to a survey made Monday by Collector of Internal Revenue Robert O. Eaton, covering registrants who hold permits under the federal government to manufacture, dispense and use narcotics in the Connecticut district it was found that there are practically 2,400 of such registrants of all classes in this district.

It was disclosed by this report that there are in this district approximately 300 delinquent registrants who have failed to file the necessary return and receive authorization under the Harrison act.

Collector Eaton warned again that the mere fact that they had no narcotics on hand would not relieve them from the necessity of properly registering, and that if they retained any orders forms for narcotics issued by the internal revenue bureau, and failed to register, or to return same to the department for cancellation, they held such forms illegally and rendered themselves liable to the penalties under the Harrison narcotic act.

A list of all delinquents who have failed to register or to properly account for order forms for narcotics held by them is being prepared by Collector Eaton and the field officers of the internal revenue office will soon check up delinquents.

A penalty of $2,000 or a term of imprisonment of five years, or both may be imposed upon the violators.

MUST FILE NOTICE TO RECEIVE TAX EXEMPTION

Attention of local tax assessors and town clerks was called to the requirement that ex-service men desiring exemption from taxation to the extent allowed by the state must file notice in advance with the town clerk of the municipality in which they live, in a letter sent out Thursday from Hartford by State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett.

Property to the value of $1,000 owned by any Connecticut resident who served in any of the United States military forces in time of war and was honorably discharged, and property to the value of $3,000 owned by any such ex-service man who is permanently disabled or blind as a result of such service, is exempt from taxation in this state, and in cases where the property of an ex-service man entitled to the $1,000 exemption has a value less than that amount, so much of the property of his wife as shall be necessary to equal $1,000 is exempt.

Lebanon D. A. R. Meeting

The October meeting of the Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., of Lebanon was held Monday afternoon at their home in the War Office. Reports of the regents' meeting at Windsor were given, and a paper read on the work of the D. A. R. at Ellis Island. Copies of the manual of the United States for the information of immigrants and foreigners, published by the National Society, Daughter of the American Revolution, are being placed in the homes of all foreigners in town.

One man who has just received his naturalization papers carried one of these books home when he returned from work at night. His wife read it and the next morning was inquiring how she could get her papers.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside.

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

Wonderful for Piles Says Peterson

If you received every week a dozen more letters like the ones below from people who have suffered torments from piles, wouldn't you feel happier than the man whose life is devoted to money grabbing?

"Gentlemen—I have been suffering with a fistula for the past twenty years. During that time I have tried numerous remedies, all of which have failed.

"Two months ago I determined to give Peterson's Ointment a trial. The improvement was so decided after using one box, that I have continued, and on the completion of the fifth box am now entirely cured.

"This is written with the view of passing along the good word to other sufferers." Very truly yours, Chas. E. Caswell, 233 Third St., Albany, N. Y.

Here's another from Mr. Edgar Thomas, age 76, of Hemlock, N. Y. He writes:

"I had the itching piles, also high blood pressure. I saw Peterson's ad in the paper. I used one box and a half of Peterson's Ointment for itching piles and the piles disappeared, also the high blood pressure." 35 cents a box at all druggists.

"BABE" RUTH STANDS OUT AS GREATEST HITTER IN ALL BASEBALL HISTORY

New York, Oct. 11—(By the A. P.)—When the last baseball is tossed and the tarpaulin is pulled over the diamond to cover it for all time, and when the records of the game are compiled with finality, in all probability one mark will stand out unequalled at the top of the list and along side the details of the record will be the name of George Herman Ruth, and if the compiler is human he'll probably add (in parenthesis, "Babe".

Without doubt the greatest baseball figure since the game began, said by some to be "greater even than the game itself."

George Herman Ruth probably has attracted more public attention over a given number of years than any other living man with the possible exception of David Lloyd George, the schoolmaster's son who led Great Britain through the greatest war of the ages.

Ruth's diamond history is too well known to be detailed again. Everyone knows that he first gained fame as a pitcher when he came to the Boston American League club from the Baltimore Orioles and that he first became celebrated as a world's series pitcher. Notable as were his achievements on the mound they did not compare with the prodigious batting that he accomplished when he came to the New York Yankees as a center-fielder and slugger extraordinary.

He holds the record for home run hitting. But though he had participated in numerous world's series,—this is his third since joining the Yankees—he always failed miserably to hit in the October classic. A wheel slipped somewhere; Ruth couldn't do much damage to world's series pitchers until today and today he came into his own, his two home runs being the margin by which his team triumphed over the Giants and covered the series.

Ruth's hitting could not have come at a more important time unless it could be in the deciding game. The victory today meant much for his teammates. It restored their confidence with the tremendous psychological advantage that entails and it enabled them to go to sleep tonight in the knowledge that when they next take the field they at least are on even terms, and, according to some critics, better than that since the Giants have used up four pitchers.

Ruth today was officially credited with three times at bat though he went to the plate twice more than that. The first time, in the first inning, he was walked in his order of delivery: ball 1, 2, strike 1, ball 3, 4. He forced to second base, Dugan, who had previously been passed, but he was tagged out on the next play when Meusel hit into a double killing that ended the inning.

Ruth's next appearance was in the fourth inning when he was the first man at bat. At that time the score was tied one and one. The first delivery was a ball, the second a strike and the third a ball. On the next pitch Ruth put his great power into his swing and connected; the ball travelled up and out to the right, up to a point seldom seen outside of league batting, and landed on the roof of the righfield grandstand, bounding out into the street.

His next time at bat was in the following inning, the fifth, after Dugan had been put out. He fouled the first ball, fouled his second strike, took his second ball, fouled a third time and then viciously hit the next pitch which went swinging on a low curve into the lower right field stands.

On his fourth and next appearance he again was walked after two were out. The order of delivery was: ball 1, strike 1, ball 2, 3, 4. On the first pitch to Meusel Catcher Snyder whipped the ball to first baseman Kelly and Ruth had been caught off the bag he dashed for second and Kelly threw the ball to shortstop Bancroft. Seeing he was blocked Ruth made a desperate effort to return to first but Kelly was waiting with the ball for him five feet off the bag.

His last time at bat was in the ninth. After two were out Dugan hit a terrific two-bagger into left. Ruth took a ball and then a strike before smashing the next delivery on a high parabola to centerfield where Casey Stengel, the hero of the first game, who went in as a substitute just a few minutes before, raced back almost to the bleacher fence and trapped the ball. Ruth was the last Yankee to out.

Manager McGraw of the Giants has been quoted as saying that his pitchers would deliver to Ruth just as they did to an ordinary batter, whether in the belief that his men had mastered the Bambino's weaknesses or because he thought the fans desired to see Ruth smack the ball is unknown. But the Giant pitchers did pitch to him today. Just as they did yesterday, to their dismay.

By establishing a record for two home runs in successive times at bat Ruth demonstrated today, if a demonstration was necessary, that he is no ordinary batter. It is true that the stands of the Polo Grounds cut down the size of the field and that a home run made on the comparatively small field would not have been a home run everywhere else, but there were fly in the press box who denied that Ruth's two smashes would have been homers anywhere.

Hazmond Back in Game

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 10—Jack Hazmond, one of the best kickers on the Harvard football squad whose wellplaced punts were a feature of last year's game with Yale, today was declared officially off probation." He will kept out of the opening game with Rhode Island State because of a scholastic deficiency but judgment passed today on a French examination restored him to good standing. Hazmond won varsity letters in football, hockey and track as a sophomore.

Loughran Beats Greb

Boston, Oct. 11—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, was awarded the decision over Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, after a 10-round bout here tonight. The men fought at catch weights and the title was not at stake. Loughran weighed 166 pounds and Greb 166.

According to ringside opinion Loughran carried five rounds and Greb four, while one round was even. Both men were strong at the finish. In the fifth round Greb was cautioned by the referee for holding with his right and pounding Loughran's face with his left.

NUMBER FOUR

did not loosen in the least his effectiveness, for he retired the Giants in order in the next two innings.

The Yankees gathered ten hits off McQuillan and Bentley, only one more than the Giants collected off Pennock, but the blows of the American leaguers were of the more solid variety. Both clubs hit hard sporadically and Ruth was not the only one to gain home run glory.

Ward Also a Hero.

Aaron Ward, black-haired second sacker, who played an excellent all-round game, scored the first run in the second inning with a booming clout to the upper tier of the left field grandstand. In the Giants' half of the inning, Irish Meusel tied the score with a duplicate smash.

Ruth's first monumental crash opened the fourth inning, but the Yankees increased their advantage to two runs when Pipp singled, went to third as "Pep" Young juggled Schang's smash and scored on Scott's drive to center. That blow ended McQuillan's stay on the mound. Assuming the rescue role, Bentley filled the bases by hitting Pennock, but then settled down to retire the side by forcing Witt to fly out.

After Ruth's second homer in the fifth—a clout that brought the Babe one of the most thunderous ovations he has ever been accorded—Bob Meusel got to second when Young mishandled his single, but Pipp and Ward were easy for Bentley.

The first display of bitterness that has cropped out in the play of the rival clubs occurred in the sixth when the Giants' rally was checked after Young, the last of the game, had been scored. It looked as though the tide of battle was about to turn when Groh, Frisch and Young opened with successive line singles, the third-sacker scoring on "Pep's" blow, but here the Yankee defense stiffened behind Pennock's cool box work.

Young Spoils Double Play.

With Young on first and Frisch on third, Irish Meusel drove a grounder to Scott, who tossed to Ward with an easy double play in sight. Young forced out but in driving to second he upset Ward and blocked the throw to first. It was the signal for a vehement protest by the Yankees who mobbed about Umpire Bob Hart to protest against Young's play, which, to the crowd, seemed deliberate piece of tactics. The argument lasted several minutes before the players went back to their positions. It was something of the irony of fate that Cunningham, the next Giant batter, hit directly to Scott and this time, the double play went through and the Giant sortie was ended.

The Giants had another chance to break through in the eighth, when Young, and Irish Meusel singled with two down, but Gowdy, batting for Cunningham, shied out to Witt. The champions went out in order in the ninth.

The Yankee half of the ninth witnessed a bit of drama in itself. Ruth, who had walked in the seventh, was in the ochre, swinging his warclubs, and the crowd centered its interest in the possibility that the Babe might add another homer as a parting shot. With two out, Dugan paved the way for Ruth's turn at bat with a double.

Once the Babe swung and missed; next a ball, then the crack of wood and leather and a mighty shout. Astonishingly high and far out to center flew the ball, but under it settled Casey Stengel, hero of yesterday, who had come back for just one inning of play, and finis was written to the mighty deeds of Ruth for the day.

As customary in every World's Series rolls around the results of the games that will be played will be megaphoned from the Bulletin Office window every afternoon. The Associated Press has a direct wire to the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium that is connected with the Bulletin Office and Norwich fans will get the plays of the game almost the same instant that they take place on the playing field.

The results will start to come in at 2 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) and will continue until the game is over. Stephen P. Coffee, official announcer, will be at the small end of the megaphone for the 10th consecutive year having never missed announcing at a series during that time. The Bulletin will gladly answer all calls for the score.

All persons are kindly requested to refrain from seeking admittance to the editorial rooms during the game.

WILLS KNOCKS OUT SMITH IN SECOND ROUND OF 15-ROUND BOUT

New York, Oct. 11—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight of New York, tonight knocked out Homer Smith, of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the second round of a 15-round match in the Queensborought Stadium, Long Island City.

Smith was knocked down five times in the first round, but did not appear to have been hurt by the body punches of the negro as he went to his corner.

In the second round Smith went down once without being hit, but jumped to his feet when the referee started after him. Wills then clipped him in the body with a left and he went down for a nine count. Regaining his feet he walked into a right that sent him to his knees. After a count of two, Smith rolled over on his back, stuck his feet in the air and was counted out.

The crowd seemed to take the match as a joke. Smith never once made an effort to hit Wills and he apparently was little hurt when he walked from the ring.

Smith was down on his knees from a right to the body before a half of the first round had passed. He took the nine count. Twice more he was on his knees for counts of eight and was down twice for counts of one.

Smith gained a bit of notoriety by staying ten rounds with Luis Angel Firpo before the Argentine fought Jack Dempsey.

Smith weighed 190 pounds tonight and Wills 211.

CRUICKSHANK TURNS IN LOW CARD AT MEMPHIS TOURNEY

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 11—Bobby Cruickshank, of Westfield, N. J., small of stature but mighty of wrist, literally ironed his way to premier qualifying honors today in the western open golf tournament with a score of 140 for the two days of qualifying play topping a field of 116 entrants.

Cruickshank and sixty-five other players will battle through a 36 final tomorrow for the title.

Today's play also brought golfing laurels aplenty to others who will clash in the deciding round tomorrow. "Jock" Hutchison equalled the course record of 67, four under par, in today's 18 holes and tied with Wilbur Oakes, Chattanooga, Wilfred Reid, Detroit and Walter Hagen, New York, as runner-up for low qualifying score.

Hagen ran Hutchison a close second for low score honors for the day with a 68, six strokes better than his card of yesterday. He was out today in par and turned the inside nine in three under.

Oakes went the round today in two under par, clipping the par mark for the incoming nine. Reid's total was par for the thirty six holes.

H. C. Hagersblade, Bristol, Conn., finished in third position in the qualifying test with a 143 which he accomplished by negotiating today's journey in a 69—playing the last nine in three under par after taking one more than par mark for the outward journey.

Mike Brady, defending champion, tied with Bob McDonald, Metropolitan champion, J. A. Kennedy of Tulso, and C. W. Hall, Birmingham, Ala., with qualifying scores of 147, two strokes over that of Joe Kirkwood.

CUBS MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT FROM WHITE SOX

Chicago, Oct. 11—The National Leaguers made it two straight over the Americans in the Chicago City series today when the Cubs won the second game of the set from the Sox, 4 to 2.

Vic Aldridge pitched tight ball and was afforded brilliant support for seven innings, but after yielding two runs in the eighth and passing Mostil, first up in the ninth, he was replaced by Fussell. Hollis Thurston twirled the route for the Sox and was hit hard in spots.

Catcher Ray Schalk of the Sox was banished in the second inning for throwing a handful of dust at Umpire Ormsby in protesting a close decision at second, when Schalk was called out. The score by innings:

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cubs | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | —4 |

ORIOLES EVEN UP SERIES WITH ASSOCIATION CHAMPS

Kansas City, Mo.,—(By the A. P.)—The Baltimore Orioles, international League champions, tied the junior world series here today by defeating the Kansas City Blues, American Association pennant winners, 3 to 1 in the second game. Baltimore hit Caldwell opportunely while Groves held Kansas City to four scattered hits.

Groves won his own game when he singled over third to score Boley in the sixth inning.

The teams will resume the series Saturday after a day of rest tomorrow. Zinn probably will pitch for Kansas City but Baltimore's selection is uncertain. The crowd today, in spite of a light rain before the game, and threatening weather all day was approximately 14,000. The score by innings:

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Baltimore | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | —2 |
| Kansas City | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | —1 |

Greeneville to Have Football Team

The Greeneville section of the city will be represented again this season on the gridiron by a team of veteran players. There will be a meeting of the players held in Union hall on next Monday evening and it is expected that there will be a large turnout of present day players and those would hit the line a few years ago. Plans are under way to make the meeting a success and the committee will serve refreshments.

Melrose A. A. Challenge

The Melrose A. A., a newly organized athletic club having its headquarters on the West Side, have organized a football team and are out for the 120 pound championship of Eastern Connecticut.

The team is composed of such men as Bill Conefrey, formerly of Bronx A. A., Will Clabby and Dave Volevits, former Academy stars, Red Donegan, Pep Tombari, Shorty Seigal, Jim Pichenie and Nipy Rankin all former Hardig players Joe (Tuck) King, Bouncer Sadinsky of the Judeans, Jes Syp and Joe Kamos of the Polish A. C., and last but not least Benny Butts the well known athlets of the West Side. For game write: Dave Volevits, Melrose A. A., Spring Street, Norwich, Conn.

Academy Tackles Westerly Eleven at Westerly Today

Although the Academy team is not seriously disturbed on account of their loss of Wednesday's game to Plainfield the team is in rather poor shape on account of injuries sustained in both the Stonington and Plainfield games. Light practice was held yesterday in order to run over the signals and perfect one or two faults shown in the last game. The past week has been an exceedingly hard one for the locals on account of the two hard games already played and prospects for an even harder one today. Westerly played New Haven last Friday and lost out by the score of 13-0. Quite a large number of local rooters are going down and the Academy will do its best although it is not in as good condition as it might be.

WORLD'S SERIES NOTES.

New York, Oct. 11. (By the A. P.)—John McGraw gambled again today with his pitching staff but this time he lost still holding his ace, southpaw, Art Nehf, in reserve, he sent in Hugh McQuillan, the third right-hander to face the Yankees in two days, but Hugh proved an easy victim. Jack Bentley who succeeded him, demonstrated that the Yankees take none too kindly to southpaw slants.

Nehf may be McGraw's choice tomorrow, now that he has lost his opening advantage. Jones or Shawkey appear likely Yankee mound candidates.

McQuillan was in trouble in the first inning today when he passed Dugan and Ruth, but the Giant infield came to his rescue with a double play on Meusel's grounder to Bancroft.

Ruth, the game's hero, was also the "goat" for a moment in the seventh when he was caught off first after receiving his second pass. He dashed for second when Snyder's quick toss caught him far from the bag but was quickly retired, Kelly to Bancroft to Kelly. Two were out at the time and so the Babe's slip did not prove damaging.

After the Yankees' defeat in the first game, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, the owner of the American league champions, invited his mother to attend today's game as the club's honorary mascot. The tide changed with her presence and the colonel announced tonight she had been "signed" for the series.

Fluctuating with the tide of battle, betting odds showed the Yankees favorites again tonight after their second triumph several wagers were made at odds of 10 to 9 and 6 to 5 on the American league champions.

Dugan figured in three pretty defensive plays. The first was a brilliant pickup and toss on McQuillan's bunt in the third inning, the second was a running catch near the left-field grandstand of Bancroft's looping foul in the seventh and the third a marvelous running pickup of Kelly's pussling roller in the ninth and a bullet-like throw that nailed the runner by inches.

"Pep" Young had a variety of troubles. The usually reliable Giant right fielder erred on two drives to his territory, one off Schang's bat in the fourth and another by Bob Meusel in the fifth, then he was jeered by the crowd for the rest of the game after the play in the sixth when he spilled Ward at second base while the Yankee infielder was trying to complete a double play.

Babe Ruth was one of the most vehement of the "squawkers" when the Yankees gathered en masse about Umpire Bob Hart to protest against Young's alleged unfair actions. The Bambino gesticulated and kicked up dust in a manner reminiscent of his outbreaks in the 1922 season.

Ward's all-round play and the marvelous defensive work of Joe Dugan were high lights in the Yankee victory. Ward connected for a single in the eighth, in addition to his home run in the second, besides handling seven chances in the field cleanly.

The attendance at the second world series contest today was 40,402. Gross receipts were $158,466.

HANOVER YOUNG BANK MAN WRITES OF JAPANESE HORRORS

The friends of Ralph D. Standish of Hanover are interested in a letter received from him relative to the disaster in Yokohama in March and April of this year. He was then substituting for members of the bank's force who are on leave of absence. Mr. Standish, who has been at Kobe since January of this year, save for the time he served in the Yokohama bank, writes thus of the experience of his friends in Yoko:

Kobe, Japan, Sept. 9, 1923.

Copies of newspapers that I'm sending will probably give you a better idea of the terrible disaster than I can give. I haven't been able to get to Yokohama by any hook or crook. The boys at the bank had a wonderful escape—Holbrook and Morse alone paid the penalty for living in this d—a country. Three of the nine were aboard or alongside the Empress of Australia when she sailed, or, rather, was to sail, at noon, Sept. 1st. Seven men were left in the four-story, ram-shackle stone building. The manager ran out and was pretty badly cut up by bricks from the American Express Co. across the way—big gashes all over his head, shoulder broken (he's been to work every day since, shoulder broken or no). One leg was also badly bruised.

Reed rushed toward the cable room, where I used to work, and that wall of the building stood, and after crawling from under the debris he found that Lee, the sub-manager, was safe.

Lofquist and Freeman dove under their desks. The nearby wall fell outward and the whole building fell toward the other direction, burying Morse, Holbrook and the greater part of the Japanese staff under 20 to 30 feet of stone and wood.

Morse was not killed by looters, as reported.

Lofquist and Freeman had to worm their way to the top, through the ceiling and floor above.

One of the remarkable things was that the three bank's mess servants came down the four stories with the building and were practically unhurt.

Inside of 15 minutes all Yoko was in flames—there were two avenues of escape, the bay and the park. Our boys chose the bay. A tidal wave would have killed every survivor; but there was no tidal wave, although the water receded sharply four times. Everyone had to stay under water, breathing through a damp cloth, until the fire was out.

A large supply of Standard oil near the Bund started burning. The fierce typhoon wind drove the smoke and sparks everywhere. Most of the refugees were in the water five hours before they could be rescued. The British and American ships stood by; the Japanese did not come near to save their people.

The relief party found the city of Yokohama—except for two gutted buildings—completely wiped out. The bank safes are all ruined. It will cost us a lot of money. They brought back refugees—Kobe is now packed with them.

The general opinion is that Yokohama will never be rebuilt, and that there never will be a city of that name. Three times it has been totally destroyed. The Japanese may take it all as a reprimand against armament. The forts that guarded Tokio were toppled into the water. The big naval base was burned. Japan is immediately a second rate power—not to be feared. Newspaper reports haven't exaggerated, it—they couldn't!

The work as well as the mental strain the past week has been terrific. After all, it's a brave community—I've seen just one person in tears, and complaints are almost never heard. Many of them are carrying on just as though they had not lost the accumulation and even the friends of a lifetime.

The whole thing may cause a few shifts. They may move these fellows out of Japan and another lot in. Anyway, it's all over now—and Kobe is out of the earthquake zone of the Orient. One quake is enough to prove that Japan is a weak nation—that they have no strong racial traits.

The foreigners lived through everything and got the worst done because they were in five big buildings. Less than 10 per cent. of the foreigners were killed—their minds saved them. Blood will tell, I guess. In the Yoko branch more foreigners than Japanese came through the fire and quake, although the numbers were about 7 to 1 against us.

I wish I could have lived through that experience at Yoko!

GIVES EYE-WITNESS STORY OF QUAKE AND FIRE HORRORS AT YOKOHAMA

The following is an extract from a letter from Mrs. Philip F. Greene, sister of Merwyn L. Autiman, formerly an instructor at the Norwich Free Academy and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell of Fairmount street, the letter having been written on board the Empress of Canada on which steamer Mrs. Greene was a passenger, en route to China.

Our first word of the disaster came Sunday morning, a fragmentary wireless message "Yokohama destroyed by earthquake. Deaths mountainous." On that day we waited tense for word but little came. And as night came on we picked up a long dull glow on the horizon. It was Tokio burning sixty miles away. The night was black and sultry with an eery phosphorenescence on the water. The wave went away from the bow in molten silver sometimes turning to copper green flame and rose and blue. I have never seen anything like it. We watched that and the glow till midnight.

Monday morning we came into Yokohama harbor, nosing our way in inch by inch for no one knew what changes there might have been in the channel. The sky was hung with smoke, great gray clouds of it drifting away like mountain ranges. As we came in closer, we ran through solid sheets of oil. We soon learned what it meant. Sunday the oil tanks at the docks burst and flooded the harbor with burning oil. About nine o'clock the first relief boats got back to our ship, for we had anchored two miles from shore. Men without hat or coat, shoeless and stained to the neck with mud and blood, women in kimonas, with overshoes tied on their feet, little children with bandaged heads and feet, carried up by the ship officers or their faithful Japanese amahs. Old women sobbing and carried up like babies, old men with bandaged sightless eyes, half led, half carried and almost every boat load had its dirty little terrier or collie.

There were six missionary doctors and surgeons on board beside the ship's doctors and they worked all through the day and till late last night, setting broken arms and legs, dressing burns and lacerated faces.

People in this boat estimate the dead at between three and five hundred thousand, too stunning to believe but they all say later figures will be greater rather than less.

The first man we talked to, an Englishman had his wife and little daughter with him. He had lost everything he had in the world, but his face fairly shone. All he could say was "No, I'm just lucky that's all." He was in the Oriental hotel at the time of the shock. The building fairly cracked in half and fell with a crash. He picked himself out and finally reached a friend a man who, with his wife had been buried in the wreck. The man got out and called his wife who answered him and whom he saw pinned far down under the roof. He ran to get help and when he got back a little later the place was in flames and he saw his wife burning to death.

The shock came just at noon. A terrific shock without warning, that brought down walls at a stroke. There were two shocks later both severe and I have talked with many who say the earth quaked continuously for hours so that it was almost impossible to stand. It ripped a bluff near the sea right open. One Englishman on board, whose bungalow had stood on the bluff said that he came to and found himself plunged down a hundred foot embankment his piano on one side of him, a great wardrobe on the other, and his little brown and white dog in his arms. He has no idea how the dog came to be near him but there he was. They picked themselves out and the man said "Come Val, let's find her," for he thought to find his wife dead. The two went back among the ruins and found her alive and unhurt. All three of them are here. "Catch me leaving that dog behind," he says.

They have just carried a woman into the cabin across from ours. She is bruised from head to foot and she sobs and moans ceaselessly. Friends tell her that they have seen her husband alive and unhurt but she is separated from him, and the faithful Japanese gardener who carried her two miles on his back saw her son and daughter dead. As she lies there sobbing, the dirty little terrier who followed her lies by her bed and no one can drag him away. I touched him a moment ago suddenly and he jumped as though at a shot and then sank back shaking. The wonder is that these people have any sanity left. And some of them have not. I saw an old man lying back in a steamer chair with his hands tapping the arms and his eyes red and staring. I thought he had been crying and sat down beside him. He talked volubly and explained how lucky he was to be an old bachelor and have no one to worry about and how his eyes hurt and how the buildings had rocked, so incoherent and mazed. He did know what he was talking about.

They carried several woman on board who fell to screaming almost insanely and had to be kept under morphine for hours.

As we talk to these people horror piles on horror. One girl whom we have come to know quite well was with her sister and her baby on a street car at the time of the shake. The car was not thrown from the track but the crashing buildings made flight necessary. Then the terrible fires came. It was just noon when the first quake occurred. Every little paper Japanese house had its fire going for the noon meal. Stoves were upset and the people say that in less than fifteen minutes tremendous fires were breaking out everywhere and spreading like fury for the native houses are nothing but straw and paper and the wind was high.

These two women I speak of finding themselves cut off on all sides by fire got into a boat on the canal. The fire soon made even a boat on the canal dangerous so they leaped into the water up to their necks, holding the baby just above water. There they stood hour after hour. The Japanese men nearby threw handsful and pailsful of water over their heads from time to time to keep them from being scorched by the heat for things were burning to the very water's edge. Then a mass of debris came surging up the canal swept in by the sea. And they had to fly along the shore through the heat and almost the fire itself, back into the water beyond the debris lower down, for a day and a half, the six year old daughter of the older sister was lost. Then they found her. The husband was up in the country and whether the quake reached there or not no one knows yet.

You will hear much against the Japanese through all this that they sent no ships to shore, that they pushed people back into the water and refused to take them on board. These things may be true but certainly we have heard of the most beautiful and heroic acts of the Japanese as well. I personally know of one woman whose baby with her Japanese nurse was pinned down under a mass of wreckage. The nurse while the building was burning got the help of another Japanese servant to whom she passed the baby in safety and then fell back into the fire and was killed.

The Englishman, owner of the dog "Val" tells over and over again of the Japanese man who worked with him getting food for those who were saved and lying out on the golf links that first night. This Japanese fellow he says worked like a man possessed carrying food, lifting wounded people all the next day carrying and lifting the sick onto the Empress of Australia. That night when things were somewhat quiet he collapsed and they found that he had been working all that while with a broken arm. People who have no love for the Japanese tell of the looting and pillage that went on so bloodily after the disaster. But along with other things the big prison just outside the city went down and released a crowd of desperadoes. It seems to me very unjust to score up these things against Japan. Every city and particularly every port city has its ruffians and no place is proud of hers or responsible for them.

This is a disaster which no matter what Japan has or has not done should arouse only the boundless sympathy of other countries for her and the most genuine desire to work with her in her reconstruction. The country had been under a terrific financial strain trying desperately to keep up to the high mark she set for herself. Misguided she may have been in setting her mark where she did, but her effort and her success in building a tiny nation into a first power certainly bespeaks a vitality and a force for good somewhere. This loss coming at a time when her finances were so precarious to start with, is nothing short of disaster to Japan.

In whatever way you can make the people at home realize this, and that what Japan needs far more than our charity, (though she needs millions for reconstruction) is our friendship and our understanding of the problems she is facing you are helping not only the cause of peace but of justice.

HUMANE SOCIETY POSTERS TO BE SHOWN AT NORWICH

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Connecticut Humane Society held at headquarters in Hartford this week, the following agents were reappointed: E. Hart Geer of Hadlyme, Ernest W. Sherman, Trumbull, M. W. Ralston, Ridgefield, Lewis R. Thomas, Orange, Harry R. Latrop, Brooklyn, and Myrtis V. Fairchild of Stratfield.

The society now has on its staff besides two special agents, twelve special police officers under appointment by the governor engaged in the work of the society about the state and more than two hundred local or resident agents in the different towns in Connecticut.

In September there were forty-nine additional families rescued involving some form of neglect of children. There were fourteen children placed either with relatives or friends or given medical and hospital care. Four children were placed in state institutions and five persons were made to answer charges in court concerning children.

In the animal department eighty-nine complaints were filed charging abuse of animals; involving fifty-six horses, thirty-six cats, twenty-five dogs and eighty-one head of live stock. Fifteen horses were taken from work and sixteen animals were provided with veterinary care. Fifty-six animals were furnished food or shelter and stable repairs benefited by many others. Agents of the society humanely disposed of eleven unfit or disabled horses found working onroads besides 25 small animals that were rescued and mercifully destroyed. Two arrests were made, charging ill treatment of horses.

It has been decided to make an annual event of the humane poster contest which was held for the first time this years with such gratifying success. In connection with the meeting of the State Teachers' Association this month there will be an exhibit of posters on display at the high schools in Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport and Norwich.

Judge Hugh Baker opened superior court for the second and last day of the Westerly calendar session of the September term, in the court rooms on Union street, Thursday morning at 10.45. Trial of the case of the Massachusetts Security corporation vs. Clifton D. Hall et al proceeded. Attorney John Ferguson made his plea in behalf of Clifton Hall and was followed by Attorney M. Walter Flynn for the Massachusetts Security corporation. Judge Baker charged the jury and at 12.30 they were conducted by Deputy Sheriff George Phillips to the jury room. It was apparent when the jurymen sent out for their lunch that it would be some time before a verdict would be arrived at. Judge Baker, after waiting for some time, in company with Clerk Caswell and the court stenographers went to lunch. As the judge returned the jurymen sent out for additional evidence and retired to their room. At 3.45 the jury returned to the court room with a verdict for the defendant.

Following the retirement of the jury the case of the Providence Auto Equipment Co. vs. J. Fred Barber was considered. It was announced that the defendant submitted to judgment in the sum of $2400.78 without costs. Court then adjourned for this term.

Thursday noon at the junction of Broad and Main streets a new Ford automobile driven by Miss Florence Webber, of Ashaway, collided with an electric car on the Watch Hill line. Miss Webber, accompanied by Harold Blanchard was learning to drive the automobile and had just crossed the Pawcatuck river bridge and turned down Main street just in time to have a head-on collision with the trolley car. No damage was done the trolley but the front springs on the automobile, the mud guards and wishbone were badly bent. Miss Weber sustaining a slight cut. Miss Webber acknowledged her responsibility to Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown who investigated the accident.

Miss Lucinda Barber and Miss Rachael E. Barber are passing this week end on an automobile trip over the Mohawk trail.

E. M. Fisher of Warner, N. H., was a business visitor in Westerly from Leominster, Mass., Thursday.

C. E. Greene and H. A. Greene of South Boston, Mass., were business visitors in Westerly and Norwich on Wednesday.

James Triopolis of Westerly is visiting in New Britain this week.

William Spencer of the West Side returned to New York the first of the week, after a visit here with relatives.

Miss Mildred Higginbotham, of Fall River, Mass., formerly of Pawcatuck, in company with Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bailey of Fall River, Mass., is in Toledo, O., on an automobile tour which will take the party into Canada.

The basketball team of the 249th Co., R. I., C. A. C., practicing in anticipation of the first basketball game of the season which they will play at the state armory next week, against the Fort Wright basketball team from Fishers Island.

Today (Friday) Columbus day, no especial observance of the day will be held. The Westerly High school football team plays Norwich Free Academy eleven here in the afternoon. The town hall will be closed as well as the banks, and holiday hours will be observed at the Westerly post office.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stanton returned to Westerly Wednesday from an automobile tour of New York state. They were accompanied on their return trip by Miss Emma Crandall, who had been visiting her brother, Willard Crandall, in Bayonne, N. J.

LaClede Woodmansee returned to Westerly on Thursday morning from a business trip to New York.

Thomas Tuite, a spare trainman on the New Haven railroad, was the guest of West Side relatives on Thursday morning.

Mrs. William Grant is the guest of her brothers in Providence, while attending the three day annual conference of the Rhode Island W. C. T. U. at Trinity Methodist church and will attend the Rhode Island Sunday school convention today (Friday.)

Mrs. A. B. Hull has returned to Westerly after being the guest of her daughter, Miss Ethel Hull, in New London.

Mrs. Allen C. Whitford of Westerly is the guest of Providence relatives this week and in attendance at both the Rhode Island W. C. T. U. annual conference and the state Sunday school convention.

Westerly Shriners, members of Pal-estine Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., are planning to attend the annual concert of Palestine Shrine band, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 21, at Providence.

Courtland York, Frank L. Shannon and Frank A. Sheldon of Stonington are serving as jurors at the superior court session in New London. Earl S. Robinson and George D. Johnson, under summons, have been excused.

Interest among Westerly baseball fans in the world's series of baseball games between Giants and Yankees although started has not reached the fever heat point of some of the previous 18 series.

The members of the Stonington party which left Westerly Sept. 24th for Forestholme, the Atwood fishing and hunting camp in Maine, have returned to their homes.

About 100 republican voters assem-bled in Westerly town hall Wednesday evening when Moderator Eugene B. Pendleton called the caucus to order. Clerk Lewis Stanton read the call. Dr. John M. O'Connell, chairman of the republican town committee, said at a meeting of the committee held Monday night the following had been endorsed: Moderator, Eugene B. Pendleton; clerk, Lewis Stanton; town clerk, Everett E. Whipple; first councilman, Clifford W. Campbell; second, Thomas H. Morrison; third, George E. Utter; fourth, Louis J. Rossi; fifth, Charles A. Fowler; sixth, John D. Nichols.

At this point Joseph S. Grills placed in nomination for sixth councilman, Captain Beppo Boumenot. Maurice W. Flynn for third councilman named George A. Dolan. Michael Juliano for first councilman offered the name of Edward L. Sawyer. Farquhar Smith moved that the nominations be considered one at a time. The nominations were reconsidered and taken up in their proper order when Chairman O'Connell presented the name of the committee nominee and the opposing candidate, if any was named.

For seventh councilman Dr. O'Connell named Farquhar Smith; no opposition; for town treasurer, James M. Pendleton; collector of taxes, James M. Pendleton, both unopposed; assessor of taxes for six years, William H. Ledward; overseer of the poor, Oliver P. Crandall school committee for six years, Thomas Perry, all unopposed; highway commissioner for six years, Louis Leone. John Pickering presented the name of Elihu Chesbro.

As many nominees as were unopposed were voted the caucus nominees. By the caucus act, the contested nominees were carried over to the adjourned caucus, in the Westerly town hall Monday next, at 2 o'clock, as the caucus laws require that, when nominations are filed in writing.

Chairman O'Connell said that there was a debt of $100 and asked "Where can we get the money to defray the expenses?" He said that in years past he had made a personal canvass but did not dare to do so now. Samuel H. Davis moved that a collection be taken up and it was so voted. Joseph S. Grills and Dr. Edwin Whitford were named as collectors. The sum collected was $62.88.

While the money was being counted, Chief of the Fire Department George E. Egger invited the gathering on adjournment to visit the fire department headquarters where moving pictures were demonstrating fire extinguishers, this being Fire Prevention Week. The meeting adjourned to Monday, Oct. 15, at 2 p. m.

The funeral of Albert Cary Lam-phere, 66, who died at Watch Hill, on Oct. 5, was held at local funeral parlors Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick. The bearers were Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, Deputy Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, Captain Court Collins, of Quonoquontaug, and Clarence Hebb of the Watch Hill station, representing the coast guard Charles Girard and Michael Brown, Bowen Lodge, Knights of Pythias. Burial was in River Bend cemetery, Westerly.

Mrs. E. T. Multon has leased the house owned by Mrs. Charlotte F. Stanton, corner of Summer, Granite streets and Custer avenue, where she formerly resided.

At the special meeting of Westerly town council, Wednesday there were present Chairman Campbell, Councilman Morrison, Utter, Rossi and Smith, and Council Clerk Whipple. Consideration was given the petition of the Westerly Italian Athletic club for permission to play professional football Sunday. As there was no opposition the privilege was unanimously granted by the council.

Thomas H. Morrison was appointed by the council a member of the board of water commissioners, to fill the unexpired term of A. M. Crandall, deceased. Consideration was given by the council to the caucus laws as affecting the caucuses to be held preceding the next election.

FARMING, A COMPLICATED, TECHNICAL TRADE.

(Written Specially for the Bulletin)

You may recall that I have, at various times, spoken more or less disrespectfully of the so-called "science" of agriculture. I have even ventured to intimate, once or twice, that there wasn't any such thing. Perhaps some of you may have thought I was just a little prejudiced and old-fashioned in this.

Well, the recent conclusion of a seventeen years' experiment in crop-production by the experts of the New York state agricultural experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., has resulted in the publication of a station bulletin setting forth the results of the seventeen years' experience.

And I find, by a rather careful perusal of this document, that the highly trained and super-scientific experts who carried on the experiment for those seventeen years are just about as much in the dark, now, as when they began.

Everything in the test was done by careful weight and measure. Everything was gauged and checked and then counter-checked, so there might be no mistake. Results were tabulated with finical care, and the tables are duly set forth, in somewhat bepuzzling amplitude. The total net result is, apparently, that the test managers and experimenters are just about as much puzzled as anybody else to see what their trials have proved.

But let me tell you what the test was and how it was carried on for those seventeen years.

The field was one of twelve acres, taken from the station experimental farm near Geneva. It was divided into eight plats of an acre and a half each. Two of these plats were given no fertilization. The other six were given three unlike kinds of fertilization: Two, farm manure at the rate of ten tons to the acre, twice in four years; Two, complete commercial fertilizer at rates varying somewhat but averaging about 1,000 pounds to the acre; Two, a partial fertilizer running well up in phosphorus but with very little nitrogen and no potash. A four-year rotation was practiced, corn, oats and grass in that strict order. The fertilizer was put on the corn and wheat, manure on the oats or grass. The grass in four plats was timothy; in the other four clover. In both these cases the grass was mown bu fence, the aftermath being plowed under. The corn was cut and used for silage; the oats and wheat for both grain and straw.

There; that gives you the "bones" of the experiment. You can see that the attempt was made with greatest care to be fair to all propositions. Perhaps the only crop which didn't have a chance to do its best was timothy, which, we all know, wants at least two seasons to get into its best stride, but which was cut the first year and then plowed under, same as the clover. This could hardly have been helped, however, in a four-year rotation.

Now, as to some of the results. As every one will naturally assume, the plats receiving no fertilizer gave the poorest yield. Those receiving big doses of farm manure and complete commercial fertilizer each gave about one-half more. Those treated with plenty of phosphorus, a minimum amount of nitrogen and no potash gave about a third more. If there was any difference in the apparent effects of farm manure and complete commercial fertilizer, it was in favor of the farm manure. If there was any difference in the apparent effects of timothy and clover, it was in favor of the clover. But whatever differences existed in either of these cases were too small to be worth considering in practical farming. So far as market-able values were concerned, the differences weren't enough to set down in dollars and cents.

This was for the total production of all the plats for the whole seventeen years, be it remembered. But the production varied widely from year to year, with the same soil and the same fertilization and the same treatment. In other words, seasonal conditions had a material effect in retarding or accelerating the action of the fertilizers and the tillage. There's nothing new or startling about that. We've all known the importance of weather, ever since we began farming.

One result obtained at Geneva was rather puzzling. In the four rotations of four years each on the wholly unfertilized check plats, production was maintained as effectively with timothy as with clover. This is in square disagreement with the usual experience of New England farmers, who have long found clover a uniquely valuable soil renovator and restorer. I do not attempt to explain the difference further than to suggest that there is a marked unlikeness between the soil of this central New York farm and the soils of most New England farms. One man's meat is another man's poison, according to the old saying. Perhaps one soil's meat may be another soil's poison, likewise.

Two other items developing from the seventeen years' test may be interesting. One is that the fertilizer which paid the best, net, on this somewhat stubborn New York loam was acid phosphate with a minimum amount of nitrate of soda and no potash. By "minimum amount" is meant somewhere about a hundred pounds to the acre. That is, the fertilizer for a dollar's worth of crop cost least in this form.

The other interesting item is that a comparison of two analyses of the soil, one made before and the other made after the seventeen years of unlike fertilization and cropping, showed no differences or changes which gave any indication of the effect of the unlike systems of treatment or the unlike productivity of the plats."

That is to say—and I hope you'll mull this over till you thoroughly comprehend what it means—there was absolutely no findable difference in the contents or character of the soil, after seventeen years of what is popularly considered extravagant fertilizing and steady cropping. There was nothing which even the chemist's most sedulous care could bring out as a result clearly traceable to the manuring and the cropping. Of course, there were infinitesimal differences in the analyses, just as there would have been in the analyses of two spadefuls of the same dirt taken up two feet apart at the same time. But there was no difference which represented as much as a nickel's loss or increase in the value of an acre.

Some extra keen-minded critic might say that this fact showed how carefully the fertilisers given the soil had balanced the croppage taken off it. But the totally unfertilized check plats retained practically the same productivity during the seventeen years, and yet the soil gave its analyzers practically identical results in 1897 and 1914. This seems to knock out that explanation—or any other visible on any horizon.

Let me quote a few lines from the general summing up of the two professors who had charge of the experiment:

"The general problem of crop production is exceedingly complex. Many factors, physical, chemical and biological in their nature, are immediately related to fertility, and the aggregate influence of these factors determines whether any particular soil is fertile. * * * In no phase of agricultural science has the development of well established knowledge been so unsatisfactory. * * * In field experiments it has not been possible in most instances to determine either the absolute or the relative influence of the various factors which influence plant growth. Moreover, the results of such experiments are determined by local conditions which may or may not be similar to the conditions of any other farm or region. * * * It is safe to say that these experiments have established few principles or facts of general application, which would serve as a safe guide to an individual farmer in regulating his practice. It would appear that the maintenance of fertility is a local problem."

Yes, sir, Yes, ma'am. That's simply the professional and slightly high-brow way of saying that every man must learn his own cabbage-patch by itself and treat it accordin'. If you'll read it over, three or four times, you'll see that is just what it comes to. And that is the very thing you and I have been saying for the last twenty years.

In the sense that "science" is a body of accumulated knowledge, there is, of course, a science of agriculture. But in the sense of "science" as a compendium of demonstrated laws, obedience to which will always bring invariable results, "there ain't no sech thing."

If you build a hot enough fire under the teakettle the water'll boil, sooner or later. If you drop a teaspoonful of soda into a glass of winegar the mixture will effervesce and foam over. If you put a gasoline engine into an automobile and properly connect it up, the flivver will fly, anywhere from five to fifty miles an hour.

When you put either an $80 ton of commercial fertilizer or a $2 ton of barnyard manure on to your back pasture and plow it up for corn, you don't know whether you're going to get your money back or not.

The soda and vinegar will mix and make foam when you combine 'em. But whether the manure and the dirt will combine to make weeds or corn enough to pay the piper, only time will tell. I have known of cases here it didn't seem to make either.

I don't suppose there are two farms in all New England which are just alike in all respects. I don't suppose there have ever been two years which have had exactly the same weather. I don't suppose there are two farmers who have precisely the same physical or mental makeups.

With the most of us, farming is the matching of our ignorance against very dimly comprehended natural forces and conditions. In the course of time, if we're diligent and observing and capable of putting two and two together so they'll make four and not three or five, we may come to know fairly well how to handle our own farms.

But that knowledge won't enable us to take right hold of some other farm in some other place and make a howling success of it, first off.

People who talk about the "science" of agriculture sound quite fine. But you and I, old fellow hayseeds, know that farming is a trade. A mighty complicated and technical trade, too. There is no item of knowledge, between the mightiest sun that flames in outermost space and the smallest ion that cruits in the invisible atom, which may not, sometime, be of service in it. But what it most exigently demands is technical ability and proficiency. In most trades, these are best attained at the bench. In farming they are best learned on the farm.

Moreover, as every star differeth from every other in glory, so every farm differs from every other farm in cussedness.

The trained carpenter can saw boards as accurately in Seattle as in Boston. The plumber can plumb as efficiently in Galveston as in Portland. But the farmer has to learn, not some general scheme of farming, that applies as well to Arkansas rice fields as to Aroostook potato patches, but how to farm just one particular bit of land. He has to summer and winter it; he has to work days and sit up nights with it; he has to find out its whys and its wherefores and—if he can—its much more numerous and contradictory whims.

He is a fool if he doesn't take gratefully all the help science can offer him. He is a bigger fool if he thinks any other man's science can make him a proficient workman at his special trade.

He's got to learn his own trade, his own tools and his own job. And everlastingly sticking to it is, after all, his best rule for that.

THE FARMER.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Royal Medal Bed Co. to Sell Cream of the Stock to the Plaut-Cadden Co.

Several weeks ago the representative of the Royal Bed Co. of Brooklyn, N. Y., manufacturers of high grade medal beds, approached the Plaut-Cadden Co. of this city and New London and informed them that the company had decided to discontinue the manufacturing of beds, and they recognized the great outlet the Plaut-Cadden Co. offered for taking and disposing of the balance of their stock on hand.

The stock sheets were carefully gone over the best of the stock selected by the Plaut-Cadden buyer and bought at their own price resulting that today there is in stock and in the warehouse of the Plaut-Cadden Co. more than 2,500 beds. This means that the 2,500 beds are the pick of the entire stock of the Royal Medal Bed Co. These beds will be offered to the public at less than the manufacturing cost. See the Plaut-Cadden Co.'s advertisement for full details of this very unusual offering. A cordial invitation is extended by the Plaut-Cadden Co. to visit their store Saturday and see these beds, the largest shipment which has been brought into the state for retail purposes, and these beds will be sold at prices which are much less than the cost of production. Every bed is absolutely guaranteed to be "firsts;" no "seconds" or imperfect beds, all of the finest selected materials—first quality only.

Bradley Theatre, Putnam.

The difficulties that beset Channing Pollock, an established playwright, when seeking a manager to produce his most successful play, 'The Fool,' were so numerous that they would have disheartened any young and ambitious author. Being a dyed in the wool and hard shelled worker the managers could not down him. By his persistency and dogging their footsteps at every turn, eventually he corralled one whom he convinced there was a big play in 'The Fool,' and so the piece found its way to the stage. The manager who produced The Fool was Archie Selwyn of the Selwyns, a happy man today knowing that he has beaten his competitors in producing a play that promises to equal in popularity that other tremendous success for years, namely, General Lew Wallace's Ben Hur.

Mr. Pollock had a good idea in The Fool. It was a new idea but none of the leading managers to whom he offered his play could appreciate the novelty and froce of this new idea, at least they couldn't see any profits coming from it. That Mr. Pollock had written many good and true plays that won the favor of the public made no difference to these managers when he offered them a new idea.

That The Fool is a tremendous success is already theatrical history, and the most surprised of all are, of course, the very managers who turned it down. The Fool will be acted everywhere in this country during the current season, and at the Bradley theatre, Putnam, Conn., Thursday night, Oct. 25.

Breed Theatre.

James Whitcomb Riley's An Old Sweetheart of Mine, one of the finest poems ever written, has been made into one of the most delightful photoplays and will be shown at the Breed theatre today and Saturday. It will undoubtedly prove extremely popular with moviegoers everywhere, and deservedly so, because it has the irresistible appeal which is in the poem itself.

It is the poem, developed and heightened in dramatic power, and transferred to the silver sheet. All the elements which make the poem so well loved are in this Metro photoplay. And the original theme is worked into a rapidly moving story full of humor, pathos and thrills. It is the type of picture we should have more of.

Elliott Dexter and Helen Jerome Eddy deserve the highest praise for their realistic portrayals of difficult roles. Pat Moore, Mary Jane Irving and Turner Savage are charming in the children's parts. Lloyd Whitlock as Stuffy Shade, Barbara Worth as Irene Ryan, Arthur Hoyt as Frederick McCann and Jean Cameron as William Norton interpret their roles in a realistic and convincing manner.

The picture was produced by Harry Garson. The screen adaptation was made by Louis Duryea Lighton. The photography was done by William L. O'Connell, and the film was edited by Violet Blair. The lighting effects were executed by Harry Collins. Joseph Wright was art director.

Other pictures on the bill include Ruth Roland in Haunted Valley, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy.

Strand Theatre.

Another enjoyable bill of Keith vaudeville was presented at the Strand theatre yesterday.

Ray Kossar opened with bright song bits of the comedy type which made a hit.

Rogers and Tremont in This and That followed. Theirs is a comedy offering consisting of song, dance and music.

Dan Maley and Bill O'Brien appeared in a comedy by Frank Duneau entitled Up and Down. They interpret Italian characters and certainly were a scream.

Cody and King closed with A Study of Songs and Dances which made a very good closing number.

The Fourth Musketeer starring the ever popular Johnnie Walker is now playing at the Strand theatre. Never has the redoubtable Johnnie appeared in a role better suited to his dashing virile personality than that of the pugilist who wants to win just one more fight before forsaking the ring. Charming Eileen Percy Ziegfeld Follies beauty, plays the leading feminine role opposite Walker.

F. B. O. sponsors The Fourth Musketeer.

Broadway Theatre.

A very good program of B. F. Keith vaudeville was presented last night at the Broadway theatre to a delighted audience.

Welch and Bentley, the Bellboy and the Athlete, offered the opening act, consisting of balancing, tumbling and gymnastics.

Talbot and Gordon in second place presented Hokum a la Carte. A laughing trombone, mirth and melody made this offering very good.

Lydia Barry, lyrical raconteuse, appeared in a repertoire of songs. She pleased all in third spot.

Dorothy Doyle Trio closed the program with a fine piano, dance and song offering.

A frolicking comedy absolutely original in action and climax, Fools of Fortune, deals with the sort of characters often seen on the screen, but they are placed in situations as novel as the are funny. Amusing subtitles sparkling with homely wit; action that shifts from the typical west to the drawing rooms of the east; laughs in every scene, and a climax that is guaranteed to surprise the most hardened fan—this, in brief, is the formula used successfully in Fools of Fortune, the photoplay at the Broadway theatre.

NEW LONDON POLICE RUN DOWN GANG OF NEGRO BOOTLEGGERS

New London, Oct. 11—Dr. Alfred Labensky, until recently located at San Leandro, Cal., where he was interned in the Alameda county hospital two years, has returned to New London. Dr. Labensky is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Labensky and prior to going to San Leandro was engaged on X-ray work at Lawrence hospital.

Mrs. John Murray had returned to her home in Springfield, Mass., after having visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Watson.

William Bishop and his sister, Miss Fanny Bishop of Jewett City are spending a few days in New London, guests of their sister, Mrs. Charles H. Phillips. Later they will leave by automobile for several weeks' visit to the Pacific coast.

Edgar W. Thomas and Lewis H. Barbour, the latter of Westerly, are in Maine, for a month or more of hunting, principally in the woods of Sussex, New Brunswick and Belfast.

Ellsworth Clark Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Clark of Groton and Miss Emma May Darrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Darrow of New London, were married last evening by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, at the home of the groom's parents, Cyrus Hewitt was best man and Miss Amy Havens of New London, attended the bride. Mr. Clark was for several years employed by the New Haven railroad as agent at the Groton station and at present is employed by the railroad at the Midway yard.

Robert Kelly of West Coit street, a clerk at the New London post office, is a patient at Lawrence hospital, suffering from bruises and a fractured left collarbone, sustained this morning when his automobile overturned, pinning the driver beneath it. Kelly was on his way to New London and had reached a point about a mile east of Westbrook, when the steering wheel of the machine locked, causing the driver to lose control of it. Before the car could be brought to a stop the machine overturned. M. H. Brown of Saybrook, happened along and investigation found Kelly held fast beneath the overturned car. Kelly was extricated and brought to the New London hospital by Mr. Brown.

Thomas F. Robertson, 48, of 179 Huntington street, a well known barbershop proprietor, died this morning at Lawrence hospital, in which institution he had been under treatment about two months for anaemia. Mr. Robertson is survived by three brothers, William and James Robertson of Pottsville, Pa., and John Robertson of Yonkers, N. Y., and by a sister, Mrs. Emma Nagle of Pottsville. He was a member of New London lodge, B. P. O. Elks, Fraternal Order of Eagles and Mohegan lodge, I. O. O. F.

Mr. Robertson was born in Frackville, Pa., and moved to New London about twenty years ago. About twelve years ago he established himself in business. Mr. Robertson was taken ill about two years ago and had received treatment in New Haven as well as New London. As a last resort Mr. Robertson submitted to several blood transfusions, but these operations only afforded temporary relief. Mr. Robertson was a bowler of considerable ability and appeared in several cities of the state as a member of the Elks' bowling team.

Mrs. Emma Chappell, of Mercer street, Mrs. Thomas Crandall and infant daughter, Frances, [illegible] Wright, Waterford, and Mrs. Napoleon Cote of Union street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Miss Jessie F. Smith was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home, 51 Huntington street. The services were conducted by Rev. Myron E. Gentzler, pastor of the Methodist church. Relatives and acquaintances gathered to pay their last respects. Burial was in the family plot in Jordan cemetery.

Miss Nellie A. May, of 149 Connecticut avenue, is in Middletown where she will remain indefinitely as the guest of Miss Mary Hazlehurst.

City Treasurer Herbert J. Huntley and Sidney Mendel have returned from a two weeks' tour of Canadian cities, the trip having been made in Mr. Mendel's automobile.

Sadie Beit and Philip Sunn have sold a house and lot on Belden street to Louis Koslin.

The members of the city council convened as a committee last night in the office of City Manager William A Holt where the tentative budget was discussed for over two years. The councilors considered the amount necessary for the numerous appropriations, but no definite amount for any of them was decided upon. It is probable that the budget will not be completed and ready for action by the council before the first of the year.

Michael J. Miner, 66, died suddenly of heart disease this morning at Lawrence hospital. So far as is known, he had no near relatives. Mr. Miner suffered a shock May 15th and was removed to the Spicer home in Groton. A week ago today his condition became worse and he was transferred to the hospital. This forenoon with but little warning, the patient suffered a heart attack and expired, a short time after being stricken. Mr. Miner was a laborer in New London many years, but he abandoned active work several years ago.

Mrs. Alberta Heath and Miss Clarice Dalkin of Hartford are being entertained by Mrs. Oliver E. Neff.

Edward McClue and Theodore Walsh were instrumental in running down a gang of negro bootleggers who have done a thriving business in dealing out the poorest sort of rum in New London. These young men were the aids of Sergeant Rich and Patrolman Philopena. The pair took Sunday night for their work and fell in with a negro known as "Shorty" Wilkinson, who has a long police record. He has been a bootlegger before and he has been engaged in various shady transactions. He made a pretty serious bluff today to get out of his scrape. He declared that McClue and Walsh bought liquor from John Jones, and that was true, and the liquor they received from Jones was in a bottle, but the stools also bought drinks from Wilkinson, and paid the bootlegger price for it. It was six. When Jones, pleaded to secure out of his mess he declared that he went out of the Wilkinson house on Douglass street and went to the home of Martha Brooks, also colored, and a comparatively newcomer to New London, and there he got his supply. That was gin. Martha acknowledged the sale and said she had sold liquor only a few times prior to Sunday, but it turned out that the police had been watching the Brooks house at 115 Main street and were so firmly convinced that it was a sort of supply place for the other negroes that they were in the possession of a search warrant Sunday night. They searched and found for they came away with several bottles that held great or small quantities of the liquor. That was a pretty good clean-up for the police in one night.

All three of the gang were convicted, fined and sent to jail. "Shorty" went up for the longest time.

Mayor Scott is confined to his home on Broad street, ill with intestinal grip. He was seized suddenly Wednesday evening and when his physician saw him he ordered him to stay in the house a few days.

Morris Koslofsky, familiarly known as "White Mule," was arrested tonight by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Frank Philopena, charged with violation of the liquor law. He was held in bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. In default of a surety on his bond, Koslofsky was locked up.

Koslofsky was taken into custody on North Bank street after he had been shadowed by the officers some time as Koslofsky had been suspected a long time of being a distributor of liquor, it being his habit, it is stated, of carrying the liquor about his person and selling it by the half-pint, pint and quart to his customers. When Koslofsky was searched in his pockets was found a pint of Harper whiskey and a quart of moonshine.

Carlton M. Gracey, 47 Granite street, complained to the police late this afternoon because of the conduct of school boys in causing damage about his home.

John Manning of Coleman street was arrested late last night by Patrolman Augustus Ray and Ernest Opperman, charged with breach of the peace and upon complaint of his wife. In the police court this morning Judge S. Victor Prince imposed a jail sentence of ten days. Mrs. Manning testified that her husband had beaten her several times and her face bore marks of the punishment inflicted upon her.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Platt, recently married in New London, are now residing in Springfield, Mass., where Mr. Platt is employed.

The power launch Lanna, seized several weeks ago as a rum-runner and upon which government officials seized 600 cases of Scotch and rye whiskey, was taken to New York this morning and will be delivered to the United States customs department. The Alanna is of the expensive type of motor craft and when seized she was headed eastward through the Sound. When a short distance east of Montauk Point the United States revenue cutter Gresham, en route from New York to Boston, came along and the master of the cutter, observing the boat being low in the water, suspected that the launch was a rum-runner. Going alongside the launch, the latter craft was halted and when an officer boarded her the cargo of liquor, valued at close to $50,000, was found aboard. The craft and her cargo were brought into port, the boat being tied up and the liquor stored in the custom house. The liquor, together with other seized liquors, was taken to New York about a month ago. The master of the Alanna and two of her crew, who were held for trial before the United States district court in an aggregate bond of $8,000, will be given a hearing at the present session of the court.

Samuel Levin has returned, having spent a few days in New York.

PENITENTIARY SENTENCE FOR FORMER BROKER FIELD

New York, Oct. 11.—A penitentiary sentence of from six months to three years was given by Judge Rosalsky today to Leon A. Field, formerly in the stock brokerage business under the name of Field Bros., with branch offices in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Field who had been a member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, previously had pleaded guilty to attempted larceny in the second degree, following indictment for grand larceny.

Field's local firm failed with liabilities of $200,000 and virtually no assets, it was said. The specific complaint on which he was indicted was made by Frank H. Simmonds, of New Haven, Conn., who charged that Field pocketed $244 he gave him to buy stock.

JAIL SENTENCES FOLLOW LIQUOR ARRESTS AT STAFFORD FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Stafford Springs, Oct. 11.—Several things not on the card happened during the second day of the Stafford fair today tending to enliven things considerably for some people who are well known in this town.

Rumors that bootlegging of the most barefaced type was being carried on around the fairgrounds led State Policeman Russell I. Harmon to plant a worker in the grounds, this man, Stanford W. Bigelow, getting most of the evidence which resulted in the arrest of two negroes and two white men about 2 o'clock this afternoon, charged with violations or sale of liquor.

The first scoop was made by Officer Harmon when he nabbed Jerry McCoy of Coney Island, N. Y., and Haywood Webb of Philadelphia, both colored, as they were vending their intoxicants to buyers. The next arrests made by Officer Harmon were both men well known in town, the first being George M. Scott, proprietor of the Stafford Springs house, and the other Stephen J. Ford of Russell, Mass.

The quartet was brought before Judge William Heald about 7 o'clock tonight and some of the stiffest sentences ever handed out for violations of the liquor law were imposed.

McCoy, charged with selling and keeping with intent to sell, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty by the court and fined $150 plus costs of $16.36 and given a 30-day jail sentence. As he was broke and had no friends, his term in jail will be close to six months.

Webb, also charged with sale and keeping for sale, was fined $200 and costs of $16.36 and sentenced to 30 days in the jug. H. R. Nipson of Long Branch, N. J., paid his fine but the jail sentence went and both McCoy and Webb were given lodgings in the Tolland county jail.

In the case of Scott, proprietor of the local hostelry, charged with violation of the liquor law he asked for a continuance until Oct. 27th, which was granted by Judge Heald. Bonds were fixed at $200. Ford also asked for continuance until Oct. 27 and was placed under a $200 bond.

Daniel J. Ryan, caught earlier in the afternoon playing "African golf," was charged with gambling and fined $15 plus costs of $12.96, which he paid.

It is believed that the arrests of the four men will check any other attempts at booze selling in Stafford during the remaining days of the fair but the police will keep a lookout for further violations.

STAFFORD FAIR, SECOND DAY, ATTRACTS PLEASED CROWD

(Special to The Bulletin)

Stafford Springs, Oct. 11.—At the annual Stafford fair Wednesday and today, Exhibition hall displays have been of a superior quality and attracted much attention. An especially attractive display is entered by the local manufacturers, featuring the woolens made here, and a pearl button manufacturing concern of Staffordville also had an unusually interesting display in connection with the manufacturers' exhibit. This is the first year that local manufacturers have had an exhibit in the main hall.

The women were admirers of the fancy work and needlework displays and the variety and quality of these entries were sufficient to keep the spectators interested.

Cattle judging and exhibition of blooded stock was a part of the morning's program at the grounds, many fine exhibits being entered in this department. A new cattle shed, erected on the further side of the track, provided comfortable quarters for the blooded stock housed here. As has been customary for several years, after its inauguration by the late Col. W. H. Hall, president of the association for several years, for each head of cattle paraded before the grandstand the owner was given $1. Many fine specimens were in line.

Race track thrills were not lacking and here the big crowd found plenty of excitement. The 2.09 pace, purse of $1,000, and the 2.14 trot and 2.15 pace, each with a purse of $500, were run off. Between the races stage attractions claimed the attention of the grandstand audience, the De Perron Trio and others coming up to the expectations of a friendly audience.

Eral, Jr., familiarly known as the "guideless wonder," was perhaps the best feature in the unusual attractions of the fair. Eral, Jr., is 18 years old and runs the mile without a driver or pacemaker in time averaging from 2.08 1-2 to 2.10 3-4. Speeding down the last stretch, the horse woke cheer after cheer in the grandstand. Eral, Jr., has a record of 2.01 1-2.

A feature which is new this year is the poultry show, the entries attracted by this department have made perhaps one of the most successful single departments ever included in the fair's general exhibitions. Game birds and domestic birds, all choice specimens, were brought out for the exhibition from many breeders in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and other states, and over 1,200 of them are on exhibition near the main hall. A finer show of poultry has not been seen at any New England fair this season, in the opinion of the management. Albert Mowll of Hartford has charge of the department.

CAUGHT TEN RATTLESNAKES AT EAST GLASTONBURY

Much interest is being shown in the ten rattlesnakes caught by a Rockville man, Vincent Finley of the Skunkamonk Rattle Snake Club, Sunday. Mr. Finley, who was formerly assistant chief of the Rockville fire department went with Arthur West to Dark Hollow in East Glastonbury and caught ten rattle snakes, making fifteen which he has in his possession at present. The largest was about four and one-half feet long while the smallest one is but 19 inches in length. The men first went to Bolton and then set out for Glastonbury where they found the rattlesnakes under big stones. The snakes are fed on mice, rats and birds and Finley expects to offer them to the Bronx zoo in New York. Several of the snakes which have been kept by Mr. Finley are over four feet long and have not taken any food since caught, some six months ago.

Mechanical Barroom Attracts Attention.

In the window of Fagan's Smokeshop is a display that is attracting much attention from passersby. It is a miniature barroom scene. There is the bar with the old time rail, the bartender and a customer. As one watches, the bartender places a glass and a bottle on the bar. The customer pours out a drink for himself and the bartender takes the bottle away, while the customer empties the glass. A window slowly rises in the rear of the saloon and a policeman cautiously slips his arm in, takes a glass set on the window sill, glances around and then takes two good drinks, after which the window closes.

The mechanical barroom is the invention of Clarence T. Hunt, 34 years old, of New Haven. His name is becoming well known as his invention is being displayed in a number of cities.

STATE POLICE MADE 333 SEPTEMBER ARRESTS

A total of 333 arrests were made by the state police during September, according to the monthly report prepared at headquarters at Hartford Wednesday. Of these 230 were for violations of the motor vehicle laws, 38 for liquor law irregularities and the rest for various offenses. Reckless driving caused the arrest of 114 persons.

Stolen property valued at $1,250 was recovered and returned to its owners and nearly $11,000 worth of liquor was confiscated. The state troopers patrolled 92,694 miles in all during the month using 3,357 gallons of gasoline. In addition to their routine work state policemen were in attendance at all the 33 agricultural fairs held in the state.

Traffic on the state roads during the middle and latter part of September was unprecedented in volume but according to Superintendent Robert T. Hurley there were few accidents.

30,000 PEOPLE SAW HEALTH EXHIBITS AT FAIRS

Every county in the state has received the benefit of the health exhibit which has been shown at 12 fairs since September 1st. At each fair mothers have been eager to learn about the care of their children and have carried away a complete set of health leaflets available.

At five of these fairs daylight moving pictures have furnished a delightful educational entertainment. The films have been shown 75 times to 3500 people. Among the health films being shown are six of the Science of Life series produced in the Bray studios and sponsored by the U. S. public health service. These are are available to any group who may make request for them.

A total of about 30,000 people have visited the health exhibits in the state during September.

During this week the exhibit will be shown at Stafford Springs fair Oct. 9-12 and at Riverton fair, Oct. 12.

Gym Leaders Met

The Y. M. C. A. leaders club met at the association Tuesday night for their bi-monthly supper, prepared by the clubs "fat men" Pineault and Tempesta. In addition to the usual weekly training class work, business matters were discussed, and plans made to have their club include a division of swimming leaders. The members of the swimming division will meet at regular times for special training in swimming and life saving, and will assist in the department in supervising groups and teaching swimming.

Surprise Birthday Party.

A surprise birthday party in honor of Mrs. Charles Santo of Plain Hill was held Saturday evening at her home in Plain hill. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Smith and son, Carleton, Jr., of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neil and daughter Loretta, Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy and son Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Santo and daughter Natalie, of Norwich Town, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Kyle and children, Richard and Arlene of Norwich, Robert Stott Jr. of Plain Hill, the Misses Ora Laporte and Olianna Laporte of Plain Hill, Walter Charron of Baltic, Almede DesChamp of Baltic.

A birthday cake with the word "Mother" on it was a pretty feature of the evening. A carpet sweeper, and presents of cut glass and silver were presented to Mrs. Santo. Dancing and games were enjoyed and supper was served.

NEAR EAST WORKERS ARE CONQUERING TYPHUS

Rev. Christopher G. Thurber, who graduated at Norwich Free Academy and Trinity college, and Dr. Wilfred W. Post, a graduate of Princeton, and of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, N. Y., who is in charge of medical work for the Near East Relief in Constantinople, are leaders in the protective measures against the deadly typhus, which is carried by lice.

Dr. Post has invented an anti-typhus armor designed to protect workers in the refugee camps of the latter city against the deadly typhus-carrying lice. Prior to the development of this costume a number of American Near East Relief Workers fell victims to the disease while caring for Greek and Amermenians exiles from Turkey. Among whom was Mr. Thurber, who is immune to the bugs because he has once had typhus. He was in charge of the refugee camps at Selemnie Barracks, Constantinople, prior to the recent evacuation of their inhabitants to Greece. It was in these camps that typhus took its heaviest toll before Near East Relief workers conquered it.

SIX UNCONTESTED CASES FOR DIVORCE HEARINGS

Six divorce suits are on the uncontested list for hearings before the superior court at New London on Friday as follows:

Annie Gross Stevens of New London vs Benjamin Stevens of Rockland, Me., cruelty.

Arthur Nadolny of Norwich vs Winifred Merkley Nadolny of St. Johnsville, N. Y., desertion.

Mary Vine Wynne of New London vs Herbert R. Wynne, now of parts unknown, infidelity.

Eugene Leonard of Westfield Mass., vs Florence Hurd Leonard of Old Lyme, desertion.

Edward G. Gibson of Griswold vs Mary Keeney Gibson of Groton, desertion.

Louise Haker Newcomb of East Lyme vs Charles E. Newcomb of New York city, desertion.

Orchestra Planning State Tour.

The Blue Ribbon orchestra of eight members, of which Michael D'Atri is manager, is planning for a tour of engagements in this state and already has several dates booked.

RECOVERS FROM CROUP

"My boy had a very bad attack of croup. Tried everything but nothing did him much good. Then I used Foley's Honey and Tar, and he not only recovered quickly but he has had no trouble since," writes Mrs. William Sims, Burlington, Wyoming. Coughs, colds and croup quickly relieved with Foley's Honey and Tar, the largest selling cough medicine in the world. Free from opiates—ingredients printed on the wrapper. Lee & Osgood Co.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY

New York, Oct. 11.—Stock prices displayed a reactionary tone during the greater part of today's session in response to further attacks by bear traders and extensive liquidation of a number of low priced shares due, in part, to the calling of bank loans against which these issues were pledged as collateral. Short covering operations designed to even up commitments over the holiday brought about a moderate rally in some of the leaders just before the close.

Acute weakness again developed in the copper stocks on publication of a report that September shipments, foreign and domestic, by American producers approximated 160,000,000 pounds as compared with 205,000,000 in August and 167,500,000 in July. Stocks of copper metal increased about 40,000,000 pounds during the month. Anaconda broke below 35 to a new low for the year and Utah and Calumet & Hecla each dropped more than a point, Magma also touched a new bottom at 25¾.

United States Steel dropped to 86 within ⅛ point of the year's low out closed unchanged at 86⅝. Crucible Steel common and preferred each advanced about a point. Baldwin and Studebaker showed slight fractional recessions while American Can improved slightly.

Heavy liquidation of Producers & Refiners, which dropped 3 points, was attributed to the breaking up of a pool in that stock, following the calling of loans. Heaviness of Famous Players, which dropped as low as 68¼ also was ascribed to necessitous selling.

While the weakness of Producers & Refiners caused some sympathetic selling of other oil shares, the group as a whole held relatively firm. Another reduction in crude production was regarded as constructive but this was offset, in part, by reports that several companies will need new financing to carry stocks in storage over the winter.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol moved up a point on announcement of an increase of two cents a gallon in alcohol price but it forfeited part of its gain before the close. Bosch Magneto improved slightly on reports of several large orders for next year. Continental Can made a feeble response to the report showing net profits equal to $7.20 a share after preferred dividends for the first eight months of this year.

Southern Railway was run up above 35 on the possibility of a resumption of dividends on the common stock but when the directors adjourned without taking any action the stock fell back to 32⅝ for a net loss of 1⅝. Coalers were heavy, Reading, Lackawanna and Delawafe & Hudson each dropping about a point while Jersey Central broke 19 points to 200.

Call money opened at 5 per cent but eased to 4½ before the close. Time money transactions continued small with no change in rates plenty of western money being reported on the market.

French and Belgian francs showed moderate improvement but trading in the other foreign currencies was sluggish. German marks dropped to a new low at 2 cents a hundred million.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Persistent selling ascribed largely to absence of important new bullish developments had a depressing effect today on wheat values. Evening up, however, for the holiday tomorrow, led to something of a rally at the last Prices closed unsettled, ⅜c to ⅝c a ⅝c net lower, December 1.09⅛ to 109¼ and May 1.13⅛ to 1.13⅝. Corn finished ⅜c a ¼ to 1¼c net lower, oats ⅜c to ⅝c a ⅞c down, and provisions varying from 7c decline to an advance of 2c.

Although at first a little upturn in the price of wheat resulted from notice of proposed plans for taxing wheat next year to offset any export loss this year, the market soon showed that buying power had weaned, and was insufficient to absorb current offerings, especially the sales from holders who were in a position to realize profits. Reports of increased economic and political stress in Germany counted somewhat as a bearish factor, but aside from this the market acted as though strained by the recent continued upturns in price.

Talk of unseasonable cold in Argentina endangering the wheat crop there failed to exert any noticeable influence on the Chicago market, and served only to emphasize statements that Canada could ship plenty of wheat to fill European orders to come. Something of an offset, though, was late word from Winnipeg that some United States vessels handling Canadian grain were to withdraw all deliveries of corn, including the cash article, sold today at a new high price record for the season, with number two yellow up four cents at $1.14. Favorable weather, however, for cutting and husking the new crop led to a subsequent downturn, oats following corn.

Provisions were dull, and without significant change.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 11.—Today's bond market was a dull affair with slight recessions predominating in the general list. Bankers and investment houses, however, reported sales to investors as holding up well.

Some buying of United States government treasury 4¼s was noted, the bonds moving up 7-32 of a point. Most of the other active U. S. government issues held relatively steady.

French issues were inclined to slip downward but probably reflected the cautious pre-holiday trading, rather than selling pressure. For the most part trading in the foreign group was at a standstill.

Numerous second grade railroad mortgages fell off in slow trading. Fractional gains were recorded by a few railroad issues, notably Texas & Pacific first 5's, Burlington refunding 5's and Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 4½'s.

Declines in the industrial group extended to the tobaccos common some of the rubbers and utilities. Some of the sugar company liens and steel issues moved forward.

CURB MARKETT

New York, Oct. 11.—Selling orders predominated in today's extremely dull curb market. Oil shares failed to respond to the reports of another reduction in crude production most of the active issues closing at slight fractional recessions.

Speculative interest in the industrial list centered in Durant Motors of Delaware which dropped 3 points to 23, a new low for the year, and then snapped back to 25?. Other motors yielded in sympathy. Glen Alden Coal gained nearly a point on a resumption of work by striking Scranton miners.

Shell Union Oil rights were traded in for the first time, jumping from 66 to 80 cents. Blyn Shoes, also making its first appearance on the tape sold between 10 and 10¼. Gulf States Oil & Refining, another new comer, fluctuated between 5⅞ and 6⅛.

Only nominal changes took place in the mining group.

METAL MARKET

New York, Oct. 11.—Copper easy, electrolytic spot and futures 13¾ a 13. Tin easier, spot and nearby 41-62; futures 41.12. Iron steady, prices unchanged. Lead steady, spot 6.85 a 7.00. Zinc quiet, East St. Louis spot and nearby 6.20 a 6.25. Antimony, spot, 7.45 a 7.55.

MONEY

New York, Oct. 11.—Call money firm; high 5; low 4½; ruling rate 5; closing bid 4½; offered at 4¾; last loan 4½; call loans against acceptances 4½; time loans firm.

COTTON

New York, Oct. 11.—Spot cotton quiet, middling 29.00.

STATE'S COTTON MILLS PROMINENT AT EXPOSITION

The State of Connecticut, long among the leaders in the cotton industry, will be well represented at the International Textil Exposition to be held in Boston from Oct. 29 to Nov. 3, a feature of which will be an exhibit made by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, which has many members with a number of mills in Connecticut. The exhibit will be presented in an adequate manner, and will be put on in connection with the Fall meeting of the association, which will be in session on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

A display of modern cottons to be assembled will embody, it is hoped, many suggestions as to manufacting possibilities. A feature of the exhibit which will occupy a prominent space at the exposition, will be a display showing the history of cotton and illustrating in detail the relationship design has played in establishing cotton as one of the world's greatest art products. On the walls will be arranged historic scenes showing the development of cotton from the first discovery of the spinning qualities of the fibre to the beginning of mechanical production in America.

Such incidents as Columbus finding cotton in the New World, the presentation of a cotton robe to Charlemagne by the Moorish ruler of Cordova in the tenth century, and the great inventions of the 18th century in England and America, will be among the wall decorations. The exhibit will also include a very carefully selected collection of historic cottons, fabrics from prehistoric Peru, dating before the Christian era, Java, China and 15th century Sicily.

Another feature of the exhibit will be a series of costume dolls which will show the history of cotton in New England, starting with the Slater mill. This will reveal the charming vagaries in women's costumes over a long period of time. This work is now being designed and executed by one of America's leading dressmakers.

NEW STATE POLICEMEN TRAINING AT GROTON

Eight new state policemen, whose appointment is announced by Capt. Robert T. Hurley, have been assigned to the Groton barracks for a period of instruction. The new appointees received their commissions at the last meeting of the state police commission. They are: Clarence E. Martin, New London; Joseph Kameski, New Britain; George L. Gardner, Central Village; James M. Ennis, Jr., Derby; Frank F. Schweikert, Bridgepot; William E. Nelson, Meriden; Eugene R. Burns, Collinsville; Leon A. Schoffer, Meriden.

The men are of varied experience. Martin is 23 years old, married and has been a bookkeeper and stenographer. Kameski is 24 years old and married. He is a veteran of 16 years' service in the U. S. marine corps. Gardner is 37 years old and married. He has been postmaster of Central Village for several years. Ennis is 25 years old, unmarried and his experience has been that of a railroad clerk. Schweikert is 37 years old and married. Nelson is 21 years old and is single. Burns, 29 years old, has served in the navy for six years. He is unmarried. Schoffen, 33 years old is married and is a stone engraver and glass cutter.

Military Head At Fiume

General Giardino, third in command of the Italian Army, who has been appointed Military Governor by Premier Mussolini of Italy, following the resignation of the Governament of the Independent State of Fiume. Feeling regarding the settlement with Jugo-Slavia is steadily rising throughout Italy and Jugo-Slavia's ruler waits on the League of Nations' delegate before replying to Italy.

SHIPPING BOARD APPROVES $165,000 GROTON SALE

The United States shipping board voted approved at a meeting in Washington Tuesday to the sale of the Groton park real estate which was sold at auction last week for a total of $165,000.

Notice of the approval has been sent to J. J. Collins of New London, the local superintendent. Frank Kenna of New Haven, a real estate operator was, the largest individual buyer, bidding in property amounting to $128,000.

THREE DEATHS IN BOILER EXPLOSION ON STEAMER

Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—Three members of the crew of the British steamer Dashiell were killed and several others were injured in the explosion of a boiler while the ship was proceeding down the Delaware River today bound from this city to Sydney, N. S. in ballast. The dead were firemen. The steamer was returning to Philadelphia tonight under one boiler.

The accident became known ashore when Captain McJhail sent a radio message to the agents of the ship here. The identity of the dead and injured and the cause of the explosion were not given in the message.

INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS IN NEW ENGLAND ARE GOOD

Boston, Oct. 11.—Generally good industrial and employment conditions throughout the New England states were reported today by the New England district employment service, United States Department of Labor, in an analysis of conditions for the month ending September 30. An improvement in the textile industry and a general increased activity in the woolen trade were indicated. Considerable activity in building was noted with a general shortage of houses throughout the district.

In Connecticut practically all plants are running, but some are on part time basis and show decreased employment. Woolen industry and metal trades on overtime basis in certain sections. Ship and engine plan working day and night shifts. Increased maritime activity at the state pier noted during the month. Slight seasonal slackening in the hat factories reported. Considerable building under way providing work for many tradesmen. Shortage of skilled and unskilled workers reported in some sections. Housing conditions as a whole are satisfactory throughout the state.

OBITUARY

Daniel N. Gage

Hartford, Oct. 11.—Daniel N. Gage, vice president of the Aetna Life and affiliated companies and one of the most widely known insurance men in the United States, died here today following an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Gage had enjoyed a meteoric rise in the insurance world. Born in Massachusetts August 13, 1882, he was educated at Andover Academy and at Dartmouth College. Shortly after his graduation, he entered a Boston insurance office where he gained considerable knowledge of his chosen work before going to New York to become associated with the Aetna Indemnity Company of New York city as manager of the surety department, later becoming vice president.

In 1911 Mr. Gage entered the service of the Aetna Casualty and Surety Company of Hartford.

He is survived by his widow and children.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Encountering The Giant Again.

"If you would have what you would wish,
You must obey each rule,
No matter whether in your home
Or in your Grammer School."
sang a little yellow bird as Little Jack Rabbit stared in wonder at the little gray squirrel I told you about in the story before this.

"Oh, dear me!" said the bunny boy. "Where is Dapple Gray?"

And the little squirrel answered:

"I was your little pony,
And my name was Dapple Gray.
But now I am a squirrel,
Because you did not say:
'Rose red, rose white,
I will try to do what's right.'"

Then, of course, the little rabbit remembered what the little fairy had told him to say when he made his wish. Dear me! How sad he felt! But it was too late and pretty soon the little squirrel ran away, and he was left alone in the big Wishing Stone Chair.

"Oh, dear me!" he sighed. "What shall I do?"

But nobody answered him. Not even the little yellow bird, so jumping down, he started off through the woods and by and by, after a while, but never a smile, he heard somebody laughing. My, but it was a great big, tremendous hearty laugh; it made all the leaves tremble and the dry twigs fall to the ground.

All of a sudden, a giant walked by, carrying on his big finger the prettiest little yellow bird you ever saw.

"Why, bless my leather belt!" he exclaimed. "It's Little Jack Rabbit.

"Oh, Mr. Merry Laugh," said the bunny boy. "I've disobeyed the Fairy Queen and lost my pony Dapple Gray."

"Bless my big hob-nailed club," answered Mr. Merry Laugh, "how did you come to do that?"

So Little Jack Rabbit told him how he had met the Fairy Queen who had directed him to the Wishing Stone and that he had forgotten to say what he made his wish:

"Rose red, rose white,
I will try to do what's right."

"Well, I'll give you another chance," said the big, kind giant. "Now, let me see," and taking off his big leather cap, he scratched his head and then whispered something to the little yellow bird. But his whisper was so loud that of course Little Jack Rabbit heard it, for when a giant whispers, it sounds like a man shouting so I've been told.

"Come with me."

"Come with me," said the giant, after the little yellow bird had nodded her head and pretty soon, not so very long they come to his castle where the giant made the bunny boy very comfortable in a little chair which belonged to his son.

"Now you rest here, while I go out on the porch and get my big gold book," said Mr. Merry Laugh. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

WESTMINSTER

Canterbury has gone republican for years, and that party won again this year. On the amendment to the state constitution, most failed to vote, apparently not sure of the nature of the proposed amendment; 27 voted for it and 39 against. The vote was passed authorizing the town to accept state money to the amount of $30,000, of which the town is to raise one-eighth for a state road, the state road commissioners to decide where the road shall be placed. The road from Little River camp to the Koch place was declared discontinued, while it was voted to continue the road from the Robbins place to the Vitlax (former Rosenzweig) place. The town hall was filled at the meeting, fully half being women, in whose respect most of the men refrained from smoking. The usual yearly appropriations were voted for town expenses.

In the list of teachers of the town recently given, Packer school was accidentally omitted. Miss McGovern, last year's teacher, is again there, making six of the nine teachers retained. Miss Ruth Davis is assistant to Mrs. Lowell in her large school.

Miss Julia Green spent several days visiting friends in Hanover recently.

Frank Koch and his bride (Miss Loretta Clarke) are spending their honeymoon at his parents' home here.

Mrs. C. H. Wood and little daughter Elaine are visiting others of their family in New York and New Rochelle.

Those interested in the recent Old Home Patriotic day were glad to see Mrs. Henry Dorrance's fine historic paper in Saturday's Bulletin. In connection with that day, when bills were paid, aside, of course, from the expense of the markers for the 25 graves of which Mrs. Dorrance wrote, setting the same and providing flags for them, paid by Mr. Nutting, the donor, it was found that the cost incident to the day exceeded the offering of the morning by exactly $6.

The October meeting of the Buell union, Canterbury's W. C. T. U., is to be held with Mrs. Charles Barstow Wednesday, Oct. 10, at 2.30 p. m.

The six church fellowship of the North Windham association is to be held in the Line church, Ekonk, next Tuesday, Oct. 9, at 10.45 a. m.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

He—I dreamed last night that you promised to marry me.
She—Pity, isn't it, how dreams go?—Buffalo Commercial.

"Who's your cook now?"
"Della."
"Della who?"
"Della Katessen."—Boston Transcript.

"Why does the boss get down so early in the morning?"
"I think he enjoys seeing us come in late."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Marie—I despise him. I wish I knew how I could make him suffer!
Henry—That's easy. Marry him.—Let Petit Parisien.

"You don't love me any more; you don't even tell me that I make you sick."—Paris Journal Amusant.

We like the cockney version better; "You dahn't knock me abaht."—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Niblick—You think so much of your old golf you don't even remember the day we were married.
Niblick—Sure I do, it was the day after I sank the thirty-foot putt.

The Doctor—I'm afraid you have a case of housemaid's knee.
Mrs. Newgilt—And I never did any menial work in my life. I must have caught it from one of my housemaids.—Detroit News.

Collector—Here's a snuffbox I treasure very highly. I picked it up in Paris.
Miss Green (examining it)—How interesting! And this dent I suppose it got when the owner dropped it.—Boston Transcript.

"Yes, indeed," said De Boast; "my hearing is extraordinarily acute."
"You don't say!" put in Von Broke. "Can you hear my watch ticking from where you stand?"
"Easily."
"Well, you are a wonder. It's at the pawnbroker's ten blocks away."—Everybody's Magazine.

Seaweed from which high-class food gelatine is made is now gathered along the lower California coast under from one to ten fathoms of water by deep-sea divers equipped with improved diving apparatus.

Christopher Saadvig, of Canton, S. D., who, with his wife and sons, spent his vacation at Lake Campbell, reports the novelty of seeing a rabbit swim across the lake. Members of the party were near the lake when they saw a young rabbit jump in and without hesitation swim across.

A childbodo penny savings bank helped to finance the honeymoon of Beatrice Kelly, sixteen, and Ralph Brill, eighteen, of Peoria, Ill. Escaped the watchful eyes of her parents, the young couple pooled their finances, Brill's $35 a week pay and Miss Kelly's $25 penny savings, and flivvered to Joliet, Ill., where the knot was tied. The marriage certificate contains a big ink blot which got there when the groom tried to keep the justice from kissing the bride.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CLIMBS TO TOP OF HINCKLEY HILL

Thursday morning at 2.22 o'clock the fire department responded to a telephone call for a blaze in the house owned and occupied by Cecelia Tewlin, No. 153 Hinckley street, at the top of Hinckley hill. The house is difficult to reach owing to the very steep hill and poor road but by hard work Squad A and Deputy Chief H. R. Taft succeeded in making the climb.

The fire started in a closet and the owner sent a neighbor to send in a telephone call to the department. Mr. Tewlin succeeded in extinguishing the bad blaze by throwing can after can of water on it pumped from the well in the yard. The damage is estimated at $300 partially covered by insurance.

BELT COMPANY EXPRESSES GRATITUDE WITH CHECK

Chief Howard L. Stanton of the local fire department has received a check for $100 from the Norwich Belt Mfg. Company in appreciation of the work done by the firemen at the Tuesday evening blaze in the hair room of the company's plant. H. H. Gallup stated in his letter that the department's work was so efficient that the company is able to continue operations without interruption. Had it not been for their good work the building probably would have been destroyed.

The check has been turned over to the city treasurer to be added to the firemen's pension fund.

Mrs. Henry Fournier entertained Sunday at her home on Railroad street, Baltic, twelve friends at a dinner in honor of her husband and daughter, Lillian's birthday.

CHIEF STANTON TELLS WHAT IS FIRST AID EQUIPMENT AGAINST FIRES

A paper prepared by Fire Chief Howard L. Stanton upon the subject of First Aid Equipment as related to what can be provided in homes, stores or industries for emergency use when fires are first discovered was read Thursday at the Fire Prevention Congress in New York city.

In the long list of speakers at the congress, Chief Stanton and Chief John Kenlon of New York city were the only fire chiefs asked to present papers.

Chief Stanton treated the subject as follows:

First aid equipment is a very broad subject, and could be made an address of very great length and then not cover all phases of the subject. What would be considered first aid in a home might not be considered first aid in a store or certain types of industries. Yet taken in time the same method employed would result equally as well in one as the other.

Naturally I would say, call the fire department in every instance prior to attempting to extinguish a fire with first aid equipment. Yet under certain conditions where a fire alarm box is located a great distance from the fire, and a telephone is not available, some attempt should be made to extinguish the fire with the expectation that some one would call the fire department.

Any person who reads the causes of fires for twelve months in any city of the country can readily see that not less than 80 per cent. of the fires result from carelessness and are preventable. But the fire having occurred first aid must be applied. The careless handling of matches in the home is responsible for many fires and in many cases the loss of life to children is from that cause. I believe that first aid in this case as in most preventable fires is to remove the cause, and if the householders of this country would provide a proper receptacle to hold matches, similar to a small butter crock and keep it on the shelf of kitchen ranges, matches would at least be safe from children as they would not climb on a hot stove to get at them. We read of the safety match, also strike on box type of match. The safety of a match occurs after the match is extinguished without damage to life and property.

The people of this country must have matches, but will they ever get to the point of being more careful in the handling of matches. All the carelessness is not from children but from the thoughtless smoker and the indifferent public.

Notwithstanding all the publicity given the public on what to do in case of fire and what to do to avoid the loss by fire continues to mount. Last year it was upwards of $525,000,000, with a toll of upwards of 15,000 lives, with as many more injured by fire. In addition to the enormous propery loss from fire must be added the cost of maintaining fire departments including the amount invested in property, equipment and upkeep which will amount to $500,000,000 more.

It is safe to assume that most industries have first aid equipment, also hotels, hospitals, theatres and many of the larger types of buildings where large numbers of people are cohgregated or employed. In the above mentioned types of buildings it is also safe to assume that many are equipped with automatic sprinklers and stand pipes in addition to fire extinguishers of various types and sizes.

First aid equipment in an industry should consist of [illegible] extinguishers, either or all of the three types known as 2½ gallon soda and acid type, fire foam and carbon tetrachloride type, backed up with automatic sprinklers and stand pipes with fire hose attached.

In the home fire extinguishers of an approved type are considered an effective first aid, and in homes with water under pressure, 50 feet of garden hose has been found very effective in holding a good sized fire until the arrival of the fire department. A piece of garden hose attached to a faucet in cellars has been the means of extinguishing many fires around heating systems when discovered by the owners before the arrival of the fire department.

Just as long as the people of this country continue to be indifferent and careless about fire and the causes leading to fires and in some cases actual conflagrations, just so long will the fire loss increase and the loss of life increase also.

In the case of forest fires which appear to have been on the increase the past few years, brought about largely by the careless use of matches and dropping of lighted cigarettes, the only aid at these fires is usually first and only aid. Ordinary house brooms, wire brooms, fire extinguishers and five gallon water tanks with single acting pump have been used to good effect where there was no fire department to respond. Fire wardens, assisted by Boy Scouts have used the above mentioned equipment with success in ordinary forest fires. Fighting forest fires is most unsatisfactory to fire department on acount of lack of water, and I know of no harder work for any person than beating out forest fires with the few available first aid tools and equipment ordinarily used to fight brush and forest fires.

First aid equipment in cities in which the fourth day of July is celebrated in the old-fashioned way by firing fire crackers, rockets, candles, etc., can consider first aid during the celebration of the Fourth of July or any similar celebration by closing all cellar windows, area ways, etc., where crackers, sparklers, rockets, etc., may be thrown or lodge in a place to start a fire. Of all days in the year owners and occupants of property should be on the alert on the fourth day of July and have all first aid equipment, such as garden hose attached to faucets, fire extinguishers in proper condition, and above all, know the location of the nearest fire alarm box and learn how to send in an alarm. Also do not forget to have the telephone number of the nearest fire station to your property on a card near your telephone at all times.

This address on first aid equipment is largely for the benefit of the householder, small shop keeper, and those interested in certain type of industries not considered extra hazardous. In these days of automatic sprinklers, automatic alarms, stand pipes, fire extinguishers and even to mention fire pails it would appear to most people that the owner would see the value of providing every known safeguard service to protect life and property from fire in all large buildings of the type already mentioned.

We have lost, to some extent, the old hazard of gasoline stoves and lace curtains in gas flames, also the dropping of lamps and the explosion of oil heaters and kerosene lamps. All of the above have been largely displaced by the electric light and gas cooking ranges which are considered safe if properly installed. With fires caused from lamps dropping and similar fires the old first aid of a rug thrown on the blaze has been the means used to extinguish many fires. I do not know of anything more effectual for first aid for these fires than to smother them with a rug.

Many fires might be called seasonable fires for the want of a better name all of which can be extinguished with first aid equipment and I quote a few. Fire officials look for certain types of fires according to the calendar and if a little attention is paid to the following you will not be called upon to use first aid or other aid.

It is now October, so do not burn paper and rubbish on windy days.

During November do not neglect your heater pipes, make them safe.

During December do not fail to watch Christmas decorations.

During January do not place hot ashes in wooden receptacles.

During February do not thaw water pipes with a plumber's torch.

During March do not throw waste paper and light material in open fire places.

During April do not allow your cellar and attic to be filled with rubbish.

During May do not hang towels over gas or other ranges.

During June do not allow gasoline in open receptacles.

During July do not leave your electric flat with the current on.

During August do not leave the dirt in vacuum cleaner bags.

During September do not forget to clean chimneys, flues and stove pipes.

All of these causes of fires with many others are preventable by a little care and attention. As fires are bound to occur even with all the attention given to prevent them, I recommend that the fire department be notified instantly as the first line of defense. Always remember there is a short interval of seconds and perhaps three minutes before the arrival of the fire department in which you may, perhaps, extinguish the fire with any first aid equipment you may possess before the arrival of the fire department.

CAUGHT PHEASANT THAT FLEW INTO BROADWAY

A handsome cock pheasant that had evidently been chased out of the woods by hunters flew down Broadway Thursday afternoon and tried to light on a third story window sill, but failing in that flew down between the Del-Hoff and the adjoining building. Here it was caught by John Jencks, the well known hunter, who was offered $5 for the bird. He declined the money and took the pheasant to Mohegan park where he released it and saw it fly away unharmed.

CONCERT GIVEN BY FLORIDA INSTITUTE SINGERS

A good sized audience heard with pleasure a concert given Thursday evening in the Community house on Church street by a quintette of colored men from the Florida Normal and Industrial Institute at St. Augustine, Florida.

They gave a program of the old plantations songs and negro spirituals, with humorous readings by one of their number. A collection was taken for the benefit of the institute which is located on an old slave plantation and is providing education for 200 negro boys and girls. It is about to erect a $75,000 main building towards which the Rockefeller foundation has promised $10,000 provided the school raises a like amount. Rev. Dixon Brown of the McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion church spoke in endorsement of the school.

Th quintette comprised William Sexton, first tenor; Leslie Henderson, second tenor; W. L. Thompson, baritone and reader; H. Hamilton Harper, bass; George D. Hernandes, soloist and director.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Dixon A. Brown, pastor of the McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion church, accompanied by that church choir, is to have charge of the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms.

Rev. and Mrs. Bailey of Saybrook were recent callers on their cousin, Miss Mary Witter, of the Johnson home.

Those from the Norwich Town Congregational church who attended the October meeting of the Eastren Conpecticut branch of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, held Thursday at Bozrah Congregational church, with Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro of Madura, India, speaker, were Mrs. George R. Hyde, Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, Mrs. Fanny Abel, Miss Louise Hyde, Miss J. G. Bonnye, Miss Jessie E. Hyde, Miss Louise Hopping and Mrs. Orrin F. Merry. In all there was an attendance of about 65. The afternoon meeting was held out of doors, on the church steps.

Rev. and Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey recently had as guests at the Congregational parsonage the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Marquardt, and daughter, Miss Madeline Marquardt, of Groton. Rev. and Mrs. Bailey had as callers Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merwin and daughter, Miss Pauline Merwin, of Westbrook, and their guest, Miss Lila DeWolfe, of Omaha, Neb., a former resident of Westbrook.

A little girl five years old had a narrow escape from being run over by an automobile Thursday afternoon when crossing the road on her way home from school. In a certain location in Norwich Town there are 40 small children within a distance of one-eighth of a mile. Many of these children when attending school are obliged to cross the road once, and a few twice, in going to and from their homes. Motor vehicle drivers as a general thing are careful in guarding the children, yet in some cases of accident it is not always the fault of the driver. A day recently while driving through Town street, the Town street school having just been dismissed, a local resident was obliged to stop his car on a down grade when suddenly a small boy darted out in the highway and, looking up defiantly made a chalk mark on the ground right in the path of the approaching automobile.

Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters met for work Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Jennie L. Congdon. Plans are well under way for a sale in the interest of the worthy work carried on by members of this circle each year.

TAFTVILLE

Wilfred Linderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson of North Third avenue was injured Wednesday while on his way to the Norwich Free Academy on the trolley. His leg became caught under an overturned seat, and a badly wrenched knee resulted. He was brought to his home and is under care of a physician.

Miss Fawn Jewett of Clarks Corners has been a recent guests of Miss Ella E. Adams of North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Duffy Fortier of New York, who have been touring New England are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. George P. Kean of South Second avenue.

Mrs. Arthur E. Aitken of South Second avenue is the guest of relatives in New York.

The Thursday evening Bunkotry Class met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah Block.

Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Foresters of America met Thursday evening in their rooms in St. Louis Hall on Dion street. Chief Ranger William Smith presided.

The rumbling of the earth Wednesday evening was heard by many residents of the village who are still unable to explain the cause.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock when Isabel, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hargraves of Occum, was united in marriage with Charles Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Oldham of Plainfield. Rev. Chauncey Ruoff officiated. The bride entered with her father to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin. She was becomingly gowned in white embroidered canton crepe and her veil was of coronet effect, caught up with orange blossoms.

They were attended by Miss Lily Hargraves, Miss Doris Oldham, Frank Hargraves and Hugh L. Oldham, brothers and sisters of the bride and groom. The bridesmaids wore gowns of coral Spanish lace and pink canton crepe. The bride's mother was gowned in black satin with Spanish lace and the groom's mother wore gray canton crepe with beaded trimmings. The ushers were Fred Laycock and Harry Hood. The gift of the bride to the groom was a smoking cabinet and the gift of the groom to his bride was a pearl necklace. The bride presented her maids with silk umbrellas and handbags and the gifts to the groom's attendants were gold cuff links. The bride received numerous gifts, including silver, linen and cut glass.

After the ceremony a supper was served to 70 guests in the basement of the church under the direction of Mrs. Maine, assisted by the Misses Helen Powers, Maybelle Powers, Alice Boutilier, Ethel Brichard, Edna Weeks and Ruth Allen.

The bridal couple left on the night boat for a two weeks' stay in New York and upon their return will reside with the bride's mother in Occum. Guests were present from Norwich, Plainfield, Taftville and Versailles.

STENGEL'S BAT AGAIN BRINGS BITTER DEFEAT TO YANKEES

"Casey's" Homer in Seventh Breaks Up Pitching Duel, Giving Giants the Game, 1 to 0—"Sad Sam" Jones Outpitches Nehf—Pipp Injures Ankle in Sliding to Second—Ruth May Finish Series at First—Attendance Breaks All Previous Records.

New York, Oct. 13 (By the A. P.)—Cast permanently, it would seem, in heroic mold, Casey Stengel—"Casey, the Immortal"—smashed the New York Giants to victory with a home run drive this afternoon for the second time in three days of record-breaking world's series strife with the Yankees.

Lashed into the right field bleachers of the Yankee stadium in the seventh inning, Stengel's blow broke up a tense, thrilling hurling duel between Art Nehf, southpaw star of the Giants, and "Sad Sam" Jones of the Yankees, and gave the world's champions their solitary but sufficient margin in a brilliant 1 to 0 triumph.

Record Attendance.

The greatest throng that ever paid its way into a baseball arena, 65,000 frenzied fans, who were massed in the gigantic enclosure, while 30,000 more swirled about the entrances outside, saw Stengel deliver the climatic blow that gave John McGraw and his warriors a 2 to 1 advantage in the most stirring baseball drama of all time.

All world's series records for attendance and gate receipts were shattered by that vast gathering in baseball's greatest amphitheatre. The actual paid attendance was 62,430, besides 3,000 more who did not go through the turnstiles, while the total receipts were $201,073, putting the three-game figures beyond $500,000 and practically assuring for 1923 the first million dollar championship in history.

The paid attendance broke the former record of 60,331, established during a double header at the stadium late in the regular season, while the gathering as a whole has but one superior in size, that of approximately 70,000 that witnessed the dedication of the big structure last spring.

Stengel Rises to High Pinnacle

For the day, Stengel had stepped out of the limelight while Babe Ruth rose to the pinnacle of fame with two circuit clouts that swept the Yankees to victory in the second game of the third successive title struggle between these Gotham rivals. But today "Old Casey," bow-legged but lion-hearted, knew again the call to glory that was his when his ninth inning home run gave the Giants their first triumph—and again he answered its summons.

Perhaps the setting today was not as dramatic as in the first game but that mattered not to Casey, for the result was just as effective and gave to the veteran a record that has no equal in world's series annals—the feat of winning two games with home runs in a single championship. Its nearest approach is the mark of "Home Run" Baker, who won two games for the old Athletics with circuit blows, but in separate series—1911 and 1913.

And so, stripping to its essentials the classic of 1923 in which the home run punch so far has played a monumental role, the score stands: Stengel two victories, Ruth one.

Heart-Breaking Game to Jones.

It was a hear-breaking setback for Jones, melancholy moundsman of the Yankees, who pitched even more brilliantly than did his southpaw rival, Nehf, in triumph, and too, it was doubly disastrous for the Yankee machine, for with defeat they lost, at least temporarily, the services of their star first baseman, Wally Pipp, who wrenched again his weakened right ankle in sliding to second in the seventh inning, and was forced to leave the game.

Just how serious is Pipp's injury could not be determined tonight, but general belief prevailed that it might cost the Yankees his services for the remainder of the series and thereby jeopardize the chances of the American league champions. His ankle swathed in bandages, Pipp was able to hobble about after the game. He declared that he would be ready to go back into the lineup tomorrow, but Miller Huggins, mite manager of the club, shook his head pessimistically.

Ruth May Play First Base.

"I can't tell until tomorrow whether Pipp will be able to go back into the game or not," declared Huggins. "His ankle is swollen and giving him much pain, of course, but it may be possible to work it around into condition tomorrow. In event he is unable to go in, I will switch Ruth to first, where he finished today's game, and prob-

COOPERS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF A. F. OF L.

Portland Ore. Oct. 12.—(By the A. P.)—Samuel Gompers, re-elected unanimously as president of the American Federation of Labor, just before adjournment of the forty-third annual convention here today, declared in his closing address, that the gathering had given notice that a cleavage had been made between those loyal to organized labor and those who, boring from within, had sought to stab the labor movement in the back.

"The results of this convention," he said, "will make for solidarity in the ranks of labor."

The convention came to an exciting close in a sharp contest for the next convention in which El Paso, Texas, won from Detroit, 1,585 to 13,884. El Paso claims were urged by George L. Berry, of New York, president of the pressmen's union, who declared that by meeting at El Paso the American Federation of Labor would be of great help to organized labor in Mexico.

Officers of the federation were retained.

The former stand for modification of the Volstead act to permit the people to have light wines and beers was reaffirmed.

NEW HAVEN WOMAN SWINDLED OUT OF $468

New Haven, Oct. 13.—The sum of $468, which she had saved so that her invalid son could be sent to California for the benefit of his health, was lost to two swindlers here today, by Mrs. Annie Allen, a women dependent upon her weekly earnings.

When on her way to work this morning, it was learned tonight in a report to the police, Mrs. Allen was stopped by a young man who said he had walked from Hartford and asked for some money. During their conversation another youth joined them, saying he had just picked up $2,000 and suggested that they divide it among themselves. She was shown the money in bills of large denomination. Upon being asked as to what she had, Mrs. Allen produced the $468. One of the men took her money and when he did not return the other said he would seek him. Mrs. Allen said she waited but the pair failed to return.

GOV. WALTON OF OKLAHOMA REMOVES BANK COMMISSIONER

Oklahoma City, Oct. 13.—(By the A. P.)—Aldridge Blake, the executive counsellor and Dr. E. T. Bynum, state bank commissioner, were removed from office tonight by Governor J. C. Walton.

Dr. Bynum's administration has been "entirely unsatisfactory," the executive declare din a communication to the bank commissioner.

No explanation was given for Blake's removal.

It as understood, however, that the executive counsellor had broken with Governor Walton over the latter's recent policies, particularly with regard to his military activities against the Ku Klux Klan.

CABINET NOT TO AWAIT SANCTION OF REICHSTAG

Berlin, Oct. 13.—(By the A. P.)—The cabinet has decided not to await sanction by the Reichstag of the special measures authorizing dictatorial powers for the government in economic matters, and hence a decree issued today, signed by President Ebert, Chancellor Stresemann and Finance Minister Luther, providing that hence forth all taxes shall be paid according to the gold standard, instead of paper marks.

Other decrees looking to the rehabilitation of the country's finances will be issued regardless of whether the authorization law is passed by the Reichstag tomorrow or not.

TYPOTHETAE TO FIGHT ORDER OF FEDERAL TRADE COMMIN

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(By the A. P.)—A petition to set aside the recent order of the Federal Trade Commission directing the United Typothetae of America to cease using its standard cost system was filed in the United States circuit court of appeals today. The fate of cost finding methods of scores of trade associations was said to be involved.

In explaining its suit, the Typothetae through its attorney, Chester Arthur Less, issued the following statement:

"The Typothetae seeks a decision from the court as to whether the Federal Trade Commission can place the collection and dissemination of cost statistics by trade associations in the same category as the interchange of selling prices which the supreme court in the Hardwood Lumber and Linseed Oil cases has held illegal.

"On hte court's decision hangs the fate of the cost finding methods in their respective industries, undertaken during and after the war largely upon the recommendation of the Federal Trade Commission."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TRAIN BANDITS STILL AT LIBERTY

Yreka, Calif., Oct. 12.—Bandits who yesterday killed four trainmen in the hold-up of Southern Pacific train number 13 in tunnel 13, seventeen miles south of Ashland, Ore., still were at liberty tonight, having succeeded for more than thirty hours in dodging California and Oregon posses in the wooded fastness of the Siskiyous.

Bloodhounds today failed to pick up the trail of the robbers.

Contrary to first belief, the bandits did not flee empty-handed, it was said today by W. G. Chandler, special agent of the Southern Pacific company for this division. He said they undoubtedly obtained some loot from the mail car before it was burned.

FLIGHT OF NAVY DIRIGIBLE SHENANDOAH NEXT FRIDAY

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 12.—The giant navy dirigible Shenandoah will fly here from the Lakehurst air station next Friday, for the dedication at the New Jersey college for women, of "Antilles athletic field," named in memory of the first American transport to be sunk in the World War. Flowers will be dropped in tribute to the 67 members of the crew who perished when the vessel went down in October, 1917. Rear Admiral Charles B. Plunkett, commander of the Brooklyn navy yard, will present the field to the school on behalf of Secretary Denby.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT AND KILLED BY SCHOOLMATE

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 13.—Leon E. Marcotte a schoolboy, was accidentally shot and killed late today by a schoolmate, Harry Ell. Marcotte, Ell and a third boy, had been out pheasant hunting and on their return to Ell's home engaged in target practice in the back yard. As Ell picked up his rifle from the ground it was discharged and the bullet struck Marcotte who was standing about twenty feet away from the tree that served as target.

$305,379 IN UNCOLLECTED PERSONAL TAXES IN STATE

Hartford, Oct. 12.—Bridgeport and New Haven were responsible for over half a total of $305,379 in uncollected personal taxes reported to the state tax department for the past year, based on the enrollment of 1921, according to tables compiled at the tax department Thursday for inclusion in the annual publication on the assessment and collection of taxes in the state.

Planning Relief for Distress in the Ruhr

In the British Occupied Territory Many Stores Have Been Pillaged by the Unemployed.

Duesseldorf, Oct. 13.—The French authorities conferred today with the German officials and representatives of the employers and unemployed regarding plans for relieving the distress of the people here. After obtaining approval from Berlin the city agreed to increase the amount of relief for the unemployed to three hundred fifty million marks each day, with an additional fifty million to heads of families, but as even this is admittedly inadequate the city officials are trying to induce the Berlin government to augment it. Free soup kitchens are being considered.

The French cavalry today was patrolling the streets and the population was forbidden to move about after ten o'clock at night.

MATTERS TO BE PLACED BEFORE GOVERNORS

Washington, Oct. 12.—President Coolidge together with representatives of the treasury, justice and labor departments will address the governors of the several states a week from tomorrow, when the state executives gather at the White House to discuss law enforcement.

The sole purpose of the conference as contemplated by the president, is to obtain better enforcement of laws, particularly the statutes pertaining to immigration and the sale of narcotics and alcoholic liquors.

Representatives of the three departments concerned who will address the conference have not been determined definitely, but it has been indicated that the treasury probably will be represented by Assistant Secretary Moss, who is in chage of enforcement of the prohibition laws; the department of justice by Attorney General Daugherty, and labor department by Assistant Secretary Henings. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and L. C. Nutt, the latter in charge of narcotic drug enforcement, also are expected to speak.

COLUMBUS DAY CONFERENCE OF PAN-AMERICAN WOMEN

Washington, Oct. 12.—Relations between the United States and its sister republics to the south were never more "satisfactory or carried better promise of mutual good will" Secretary Hughes said here tonight speaking at the Columbus Day conference of the Pan American International Women's Committee.

"I say this," he said, "after taking into account the complaining utterances that find place from time to time in the press and the criticism of those mentors and publicists who supply the tang which gives relish to our intellectual repasts. The millenium itself would turn out to be a tame affair if no fault could be found with it."

Mr. Hughes said he was happy to say that there are no controversies with any of our sister republics which have not been settled or are not in process of adjustment." He called attention to the resumption of diplomatic relations with Mexico, the establishment recently of "an accord with Colombia" and added:

"We are entering upon a period in our relations with Latin-American states notable for the absence of serious grievances."

SKULL WAS CRUSHED WHILE PLAYING GOLF

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 13.—Charles Reed, president of the New Brunswick Republican Club and connected with a New York banking firm, died in the Somerset hospital tonight after being struck on the head by a golf club.

Mr. Reed was playing in a foursome. He was standing near Howard Stahlin when the latter swung for a midiron shot. The iron hit him on the side of the head, crushing in the skull just abov the left ear.

He died soon after reaching the hospital

SHOT HIMSELF IN FOOT WHILE HUNTING SQUIRRELS

Avon, Conn., Oct. 13.—After accidentally shooting himself in the right foot this afternoon while attempting to climb a stump to get a better shot at a squirrel while hunting alone near here Henry W. Wilcox, 16 years old, crawled on his hands and knees for more than a quarter of a mile before help was secured. He was taken to Mount Sinai hospital.

Officials Figure in Volstead Act Scandal

Bench Warrants May Be Asked for Men Found During Raid in the Southington Inn

Hartford, Oct. 12.—Bench warrants may be asked of the superior court by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn for the arrest of Joseph W. Mills, federal enforcement agent; State Senator Richard J. Covert, and Alderman Cornelius J. Dehm president pro tem of the city council, all of New Britain, it was stated by the state's attorney this afternoon, but he declined to say how soon action, if any, would be taken. The three men were found in a rear room when federal and county agents raided the Southington Inn on Tuesday night.

Mr. Alcorn said he had action under consideration and that he might move at any time. He said that if a bench warrant was asked for against Mills it would be on the charge of "receiving something to influence his conduct in office" while charges against State Senator Covert and Alderman Dehm would be those of "aiding and abetting in the commission of a crime." The state's attorney would not disclose the nature of the evidence which he claimed to have.

The difficulties of the three men arise from the arrest on a bench warrant yesterday of Charles T. Lynch, proprietor of the inn.

Mr. Alcorn aid that the case of Mills was somewhat similar to that brought against McAuliffe, a former federal revenue agent in which it was alleged that he accepted money from Detective Sergeant Richardson of New Britain for protection to rum runners. McAuliffe died before his case was tried and Richardson served a sentence in state prison.

AGRARIANS DISCARD MARK AND RESORT TO BARTER

Berlin, Oct. 12.—Agrarian contempt for the paper mark has compelled the league of German municipalities to enter into an agreement with the nitrogen syndicate, whereby the latter agrees to supply potato growers with nitrate fertilizers in return for regular potato shipments to metropolitan centers.

The fertilizers will be paid for by the municipalities, which have been forced to take recourse to this barter arrangement by the refusal of Agrarians to accept paper marks in payment for contracted shipments. Numerous cities throughout Germany are experiencing an acute shortage in tubers because of the Agrarians.

MILTON A. MAAS WILL RECOVER FROM WOUNDS

Greenwich, Oct. 12.—Milton A. Maas, wealthy vice president of a chemical corporation and resident of Ashbury Park, N. J., who was the victim of a mysterious shooting last night at the Sound Beach (Conn.) home of Mrs. Ida M. Leslie, a widow and former actress, was reported to be in a satisfactory condition tonight in the Stamford hospital. Despite the serious nature of wounds in his stomach, it was said Maas would recover.

Discovery this afternoon of an abandoned automobile bearing a Massachusetts license was a development in the police investigation. The machine, which the police believe transported the three assailants of Maas and Mrs. Leslie to the vicinity of the woman's home, was found on Havemeyer lane at the Greenwich-Stamford line.

OBITUARY

Albert P. Bradstreet.

Thomaston, Conn., Oct. 12.—Albert P. Bradstreet, dean of practicing lawyers at the Connecticut Bar, noted as a leader before juries, and public defender, for a number of years in the district court of Waterbury, died at his home this afternoon after an illness of 11 days. He was 77 years old, a member of a family long notable in the state, and is survived by his wife.

Mr. Bradstreet was graduated from Yale college 55 years ago last June. He served in both branches of the assembly and when in the senate for two terms he was chairman of the committee on the judiciary. He had been judge and deputy judge of the district court of Waterbury.

He recently appeared as public defender in several cases in the district court and after the last one, went to his home feeling ill. He went to bed, became unconscious, and gradually weakened until death came.

Mr. Bradstreet appeared in many cases as senior counsel and usually made the closing plea to the jury.

WEEKS DECLARES FORD IS RECKLESS IN STATEMENTS

Secretary of War Replies to Attack on Him by Henry Ford Concerning Sale of the Gorgas Plant—Resents Charge That Political Influences Prevented Ford From Obtaining Muscle Shoals—If Necessary Will Place All Facts Before the Proper Tribunal—Mr. Weeks Issued Statement After Having Twice Discussed the Situation With President Coolidge.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Secretary Weeks in replying today to an attack on him by Henry Ford, concerning the sale of the Gorgas Steam Plant of the Muscle Shoals project, said the Detroit manufacturer's statement was "filled with reckless assertions."

The Secretary of War issued his statement late in the day after conferences at the White House. It was brought out by Mr. Ford's assertions in Detroit last night in which Mr. Weeks' actions and motives were placed under fire.

Mr. Weeks' statement said it was possible that Mr. Ford, "relying as he does upon other persons in the conduct of many enterprises," was not himself possessed "of the full facts," as to the sale of the Gorgas plant.

"I do not propose," he said, "to continue a newspaper discussion of this ubject, but if necessary shall place all facts before a proper tribunal."

Although Mr. Weeks would not comment upon Mr. Ford's statement beyond issuing his own formal reply, there was every indication that he felt strongly on the charges that political influences working through him had prevented the Detroit manufacturer from obtaining Muscle Shoals. During the day he twice discussed the situation with President Coolidge, the last time, after he had prepared his answer which he carried with him to the White House.

The full text of Secretary Weeks' statement follows:

"Mr. Ford this morning delivered a personal attack upon me in connection with the conduct of the administration in relation to Muscle Shoals. His statement is filled with reckless assertions.

"It may be that Mr. Ford, relying as he does upon other persons in the conduct of many enterprises, probably is not himself possessed of the full facts of the situation. For the benefit of those who do not fully understand the problems involved, I shall briefly review the subject.

"Muscle Shoals was a development for nitrate purposes in the war, which included the construction of a large dam on the Tennessee River, and the construction of air-fixing nitrate plants, with large quarries and as an adjunct to these plants in order to supply power pending the completion of the waterpower plant a steam plant was erected 90 miles away on the Warrior River, known as the Gorgas plant.

"The total expenditure of these properties was about $102,000,000, of which less than $5,000,000 was spent upon the isolated and temporary steam plant. The steam plant was erected on the property of the Alabama Power Company, which reserved title to the land on agreed conditions with the Wilson administration, for which this administration is not responsible, and which gave to them the right to purchase the Gorgas steam plant.

"The proposal made by Mr. Ford for the purchase of this entire equipment involved the payment by him of $5,000,000 for the entire plant, including the above isolated and temporary steam plant. They also involved many other conditions with regard to the completion of the waterpower, etc. No disposal of government property can rightfully be made by any administrative officer without the approval of congress and I, as the responsible official in this matter, referred Mr. Ford's offer to congress, which has so far not acted upon it.

"In the meantime, the Alabama Power Company, under their rights in the old contract, notified the government that the lands must be vacated on or before October 15, this year. They offered to pay $3,500,000 for this comparatively small item of the whole equipment.

"The government had an option to accept this offer, which was the highest made, or to salvage this plant as second-hand machinery and from which they could not have realized more than $1,000,000. On the other hand, it must be borne in mind that for this single item in the entire equipment the government has secured $3,500,000 as against the $5,000,000 offered by Mr. Ford for the entire plant and equipment.

"At the time of the sale, in a desire not to disturb the status quo, the administration stated to Mr. Ford that this amount could be credited on his original offer of $5,000,000 if it was so wished. Mr. Ford's declared purpose in purchasing the Muscle Shoals is the manufacture of nitrates for fertilization purposes. I have the keenest interest in the development of air-fixation of nitrates in assistance of the American farmer and in the adaptability of Muscle Shoals for the purpose. As evidence of the government's desire to promote this end it is carrying forward today the construction of hydraulic works on the Tennessee River with a view to making that great waterpower available for the purpose.

"I have never opposed Mr. Ford's securing the use of this waterpower or any other equipment we have, provided he is able to give such assurance of its being devoted to this particular purpose as will satisfy congress and properly protect the public interest that he could have economically made nitrates by the use of steam power is denied by every expert adviser.

"The fact that he says his offer is still open would seem to indicate that he does not regard the Gorgas steam plant as necessary to him in the carrying out of his plan to purchase and develop Muscle Shoals waterpower.

"I do not propose to continue a newspaper discussion of this subject, but if necessary shall place all facts before a proper tribunal."

INQUIRIES ORDERED BY OKLAHOMA LEGISLATURE

Oklahoma City, Oct. 12.—(By the A. P.)—The state legislature, its plans virtually complete for a thorough investigation not only of impeachment charges against Governor J. C. Walton, but the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma, as well, recessed today until Monday. When the lower house closed its session, two anti-Klan bills lay on the clerk's desk. The first measure introduced in the extraordinary session which convened yesterday. They were submitted by representatives W. B. Thornsbrough, of Coal county, and John Garner, of Johnson county, and each directed mainly at the wearing of masks.

A house committee of 23 members was named today to conduct the inquiry into the records of state officers. The committee to consider the activities of the Klan probably will be named Monday.

The former committee, the report of which will provide the basis for possible impeachment actions, probably will be divided into a number of sub-committees to facilitate the thorough investigation promised by the legislators. It was indicated that most of the testimony adduced by the committee will be taken publicly before the entire membership of the house, according to tentative plans.

The committee to investigate the Klan will have at its command all records of the military courts throughout the state submitted to the legislature by Governor J. C. Walton, and will be empowered to summon before it for hearings any state or county official in Oklahoma accused of having connection with, or being under the influence of the organization.

The house also voted to investigate its own members who may have been accused of trafficking in pardons and paroles or of having unlawful interests in state contracts. A committee to conduct this inquiry probably will be named Monday.

AN AIRPLANE PARACHUTE RACE WITH 4,500 FEET DROP

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Oct. 12.—By holding his parachute closed longer than any other three contestants in the first airplane-parachute race to be held in this country, Staff Sergeant Theodore Schemling, of Brooklyn, today landed first after a drop of 4,500 feet from an airplane. All four contestants "stepped off" simultaneously at the same altitude.

As the men shot like plummets earthward, about 1,000 spectators were thrilled. Dangerously near the ground, one by one the parachutes billowed, slackening the downward travel. The man with the most nerve, holding his parachute closed longest, and thus getting nearer the ground in the fastest time, won.

All contestants landed within five hundred feet of each other and at 30 second intervals. The other participants were First Lieutenant Newton Longfellow, Sergeant Randle Rose and Staff Sergeant John Meeks.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT TO GIRL BRIDAL ATTENDANT

Ridley Park, Pa., Oct. 12.—Death stalked a wedding party near here today, and claimed Miss Marion Robertson, of Charleston, S. C., as the result of an automobile accident. Miss Elizabeth Thompson, of Greenwich, Conn., a bridesmaid at the marriage of Miss Winifred Morris Sloan, Ridley Park, to James W. Lukens, former player on the Lafayette college team, was seriously injured having received a fractured skull. Four others in the party, including Miss Marion M. Sloan, maid of honor and sister of the bride and Edward Wheelar, former University of Pennsylvania oarsman, were injured.

The wedding took place at Ridley Park, and some of the guests escorted the bridal pair by automobile as far as Wilmington, Del. Returning from Wilmington through Leiperville, Pa., with Henry Sloan, brother of the bride, at the wheel, the machine fell in behind a roadster. According to Sloan, the small car suddenly turned into a side road and before he could turn out his car crashed into the roadster.

The impact overturned Sloan's car and hurled its occupants to the ground. Miss Robertson was caught beneath the machine. Cries of the injured brought neighbors who, with the aid of jacks, lifted the motor car from the unconscious girl. She was brought to a hospital here and died soon afterward.

Others injured were Miss Elizabeth Bus, of Ridley Park, and Philip Mowry Sweeney of Chester, Pa.

Sloan and Henry Townsend, of Leiperville, the driver of the roadster, were held by the authorities pending an investigation.

CREW DRIFTED THREE DAYS BEFORE BEING PICKED UP

NUew York, Oct. 12.—Lashed to ring bolts in the deck of the dismasted barkentine John S. Emery of Boston, Captain E. M. Davis and his crew of nine drifted for three days through pounding seas before being picked up by the liner Samland which made port today.

For the last twelve hours on board the barkentine the crew was out of food as every wave passed over the stripped deck. When the storm subsided somewhat for a brief spell the men distilled some water in an old copper kettle, lighting a fire with an emery wheel, cotton waste and gunpowder from a cartridge. When picked up the crew had almost no clothing left.

DIED IN HOSPITAL AFTER BEATING UNCLE TO DEATH

Dedwood City, Calif., Oct. 12—James Moore, who shot himself yesterday after beating to death his uncle, James M. Doolittle, wealthy retired hotel man, in an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Doolittle home, died in a hospital today.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office

The young people of the Jewish faith in Willimantic and surrounding towns have been invited by Elias Haim to meet at the synagogue on Bank street Sunday at 3 o'clock to discuss the matter of organizing a Young Men's and Women's Hebrew association. The purpose of the association is to instruct members in Jewish religion and in the Hebrew language. For the past 15 years the instruction has been by different Jewish and Hebrew teachers. Mr. Haim is a graduate from a Jewish teachers' seminary in Germany and has been in this country since August, 1914.

At the October business meeting of the Windham Girls' club various classes were planned. Margaret Ronan is in charge of the millinery, Florence Coutu of basketry, Mrs. Evelyn Farrell of dressmaking and Ethel Connor of luster painting.

Margaret Ryan and Margaret Ronan were selected delegates to attend the state convention to be held at Meriden Oct. 20-21. Alternates are Helen Hallahan and Teresa Shea. Twenty of the girls have planned to attend the convention, in addition to the delegates. The club voted to give $25 to the Visiting Nurses' association to help carry on its good work.

The members voted to accept an invitation from the Rockville Girls' club to be their guests at a three-county party Oct. 25. The Ds, with Mrs. William P. Dineen as chairman, furnished the entertainment for the evening. The affair was in the form of a shower for Alice Johnson, one of the officers, in honor of her approaching marriage with John Ryan. Miss Johnson was presented a Martha Washington sewing cabinet. At the next meeting the Fs and Gs will entertain. They are Mary Flaherty, Elizabeth Flynn, Mrs. J. B. Fullerton, Mrs. Evelyn Farrell, Sadie Fitzgerald, Mrs. Frank H. Foss, Mary Fracchia, Bernice Fiske, Margaret Freeman, Mrs. C. H. French, Mrs. Dora Grady, Mrs. Harry Grimley, Mrs. Hattie Gates, Mrs. Lester French and Mary and Rose Giguere.

In connection with Stafford fair, complaints were made that a number of local automobile owners were violating the law by carrying passengers without having the required state licenses. The matter was brought to the attention of the state police and as a result two arrests had been made up to Friday. The violators were summoned to appear in the Stafford borough court this (Saturday) morning.

Hundreds of Thread Cityites attended Stafford fair this season, and all agreed that it surpassed any of its predecessors in the line of attractions and horse racing. Special attention was made of the latter feature, which was the best witnessed in many months in this section.

Elaborate preparations are being completed for the observance of the 85th anniversary of the First Methodist Episcopal church in Willimantic. The services will begin Oct. 21st and end on the 28th. Notable speakers have been secured. High class music, both orchestral and vocal, will also contribute to the success of the celebration. All the Protestant churches of Windham county have been invited to send delegates on separate evenings.

At the business meeting of the W. B. A. of the Maccabees held in the Woman's club rooms recently it was voted to hold a Hallowe'en party at the next meeting. Mrs. Agnes Vegiard was elected to represent the order at the meeting of the Visiting Nurses' association rooms on the ways and means committee. Mrs. Vegiard was also chosen chairman of the W. B. A. for members in need of the visiting nurses' aid.

The Chapman Continental Fife and Drum corps, numbering 16 men will attend the annual parade and field day contests of Torrington Fife, Drum and Bugle corps in that city today (Saturday). The Willimantic boys left in the early hours of the morning on the trip. Frank Fancher and Joe Nolan of the local corps will enter the snare and bass drumming contests respectively. The local corps is in the ancient class.

Officer Edward Leahy of the Willimantic police department is one of the predominant figures in the moving pictures of the big parade and sidelights on the centennial at Manchester last week Friday. The pictures are now being shown in the movie circuits. The local six-foot policeman marched at the head of the parade with the Manchester police department.

Diedore Delage, Lee and Valmore Monast and Mrs. Palmyer Monast have just returned from a three weeks' automobile trip to Canada. They covered over 2,500 miles, visiting Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa.

Mrs. Margaret St. Pierre entertained the Basket Sewing club recently at the home of her mother, Mrs. Catherine Bedford. Luncheon was served. The next meeting will be with Miss Arline Millerd.

Supt. Henry W. Chamberlain of Windham town farm has on exhibition in one of the show windows of a local automobile agency a number of choice vegetables raised on the farm. The exhibit includes pumpkins, potatoes and a giant squash.

Friday, Columbus day, Willimantic factories were in operation as usual and the retail stores were open. The only places which observed Columbus day and closed Friday were the three banking institutions and the various schools. The offices in the town building were also closed during the day.

George Haddad, one of two local men apprehended by the Stafford Springs police Thursday, while soliciting passengers for his public service car, was summoned to appear in the Stafford borough court today (Saturday).

Agents of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, Willimantic branch, held a special meeting here Friday in charge of Manager R. A. Robinson. Agents present came from Stafford Springs, Colchester, Putnam, Danielson, Waureagan, Jewett City and Willimantic.

Mrs. John Killourey, who has undergone a serious operation at St. Joseph's hospital, and was critically ill for some time, is greatly improved and it is thought she will be able to leave the institution in ten days.

Among visitors at Stafford fair were Dr. and Mrs. Fred M. Smith, Mrs. Arthur Seeley, Robert Mitchell, Clarence Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Killourey and daughter, Eleanor, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lariviere, Miss Jane Ashton, Edward Trudeau, George Brousseau, Aime Coutu, James Rowan, John Moran, John Killourey, Edward Leahy and William Hurley.

Miss Eunice Camp and Miss Mary Gibson, teachers at Natchaug grammar school, spent the Columbus day recess at their respective homes in Waterbury and Meriden.

Miss Jessie Baldwin of Forest Hills, L. I., is a guest at her home here over the week end.

Mrs. Charles F. Riesdorf has returned from a visit in Middletown.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Graves and Mrs. Robert G. Remington were in Pomfret Friday. Mrs. Remington and Mrs. Graves played golf at the Pomfret club.

Miss Jean Howie and her classmate, Miss Dorothy Worth, of Waterbury, are at the former's home on Prospect street over the week end.

Peter Morin, formerly of this city, now of Holyoke, Mass., is visiting Willimantic friends for the week end.

Francis Martin of Foxboro, Mass., is spending the week end with his parents on Carey street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Jordan have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. George F. Graham of Boston.

Patricia Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don H. Curtis, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Johnson, of Holyoke, Mass.

Mrs. Frank Larrabee, regent, and Mrs. Herbert R. Chappell, past regent, of the D. A. R., attended a state meeting of the D. A. R. in Cheshire Friday and a banquet in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Case left Friday by automobile to be the guests of Mrs. Case's mother, Mrs. S. L. Furinton, of East Orange, N. J.

Miss Dorothy Gorton of Wallingford is with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Gorton, for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Newton have as guests Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Newton and daughter Helen of Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Yake and family of Springfield are spending the week end at the Allen B. Lincoln summer home in Westford.

Many a young man who imagines that he is love-sick is merely bilious.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

Giving due consideration to the general desire for Packard ownership, there is still another factor in the whole-hearted and enthusiastic favor with which the Single-Six is being received.

Purely on a fixed charge and operating cost basis the Single-Six has demonstrated, by the testimony of thousands of owners, that good business judgment does not justify the purchase of anything less than a Packard.

That testimony, for instance, shows that you can count on from 16 to 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline and 20,000 miles to a set of tires.

And when all fixed charges, including interest, insurance, garage expense and depreciation, are correctly figured and spread over the long life of a Packard, the Single-Six costs astonishingly little to operate.

In short, if the reckoning is complete, it costs you less, mile for mile, to drive the Single-Six than cars selling for approximately one thousand dollars less.

These are facts that compel careful consideration. They prove you can gratify your desire for Packard ownership and yet make the soundest possible investment.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Film-fiam operators who gave Danielson the once-over Thursday evening did not profit much from their activities. Several stores and the restaurants were visited and the old game of asking for change and then move change and then other change tried but without success although in one place the crooks seemed to be in a way to get a $5 bill when their game was discovered. A threat that the police would be called helped straighten out this affair for one of the crooks "happened" to find the missing money lying nearby and pointed it out.

At one drug store where the young men operated, their game was promptly discovered and they were let out by telling them that the store was short of change.

Crudity in operating helped the local men who had dealings with them and quickly checking up the fact that the men were short-change artists, so their labors here netted them very little, if anything. They flashed out of town in a car, when their operations were made known to the police.

Another accident was added to the long list that have occurred during the past year on the state road to Providence, when a car bearing a Massachusetts registration, skidded and turned over on the hill at Little Rest just inside the Connecticut line, Friday morning. Although the machine was badly damaged, the seven people in it escaped without any injury of consequence. The wrecked machine was towed to a garage here for repairs.

What probably will be the first radio religious service arranged by any church hereabouts will be held Sunday evening at the Congregational church in South Killingly. The service will open at 6.30 and will be conducted by Rev. Walter B. Williams, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church. This service will be followed by the radio service, which will be broadcasted from a station in New York state. Incident to this first radio church service in this vicinity, it is of interest to note the number hereabouts who own radio sets regularly pick up Sunday evening services and enjoy the sermon and music.

Norman S. Buckingham of Milford, division commander, was the guest Friday evening at a meeting of Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Veterans. Members of the G. A. R. were also in attendance. In addition to the program of the evening, there was a supper, served at the close of the exercises.

Friday marked the opening of the dancing season at the state armory with a large attendance to hear the music by Paul Whiteman's Palais Royal orchestra. The affair was arranged by the Service Battery, 192nd Field Artillery, and drew attendance from all parts of eastern Connecticut.

An automobile fire truck soon is to be put into service at Central Village, which community is enabled to have such a piece of apparatus through the generosity of Charles Bargg, who donated the car, which has been in Providence recently being equipped with a body and fire fighting apparatus. When placed in service at Central Village the machine will be kept in the garage of the Central Worsted company.

Progress is expected to be made next Wednesday evening with the plan for the better lighting of the business section when the warden and court of burgesses held a special meeting to discuss the project with representatives of the chamber of commerce. The suggestion has been made and will be considered at the meeting that 16 400 candlepower lights be installed in Main street, between Water street and Davis park.

Once more, as darkness comes on in the early evening, motorists are complaining that some pedestrians continue to walk along state highways at places where the roads are bordered by good sidewalks. While many do this extraordinary thing and no one can explain the reason therefore, motorists, with plenty of driving cares to occupy them, are put in danger of hitting some one and become involved in an unfortunate accident. Motorists would appreciate some means or method of requiring walkers to travel on the sidewalks instead of in the roadway when sidewalks are available. Whether deliberately or by accident,

PUTNAM

Sought by his bondsman, F. O. Marion of Providence street, for the past several weeks, the search leading to Rhode Island cities, George Briccault who formerly ran a pool and lunch room on Providence street, wanted in the superior court for Windham county to answer to a charge of violating the liquor law, was arrested at the home of his father in Woonsocket, Thursday night, by Patrolman Ernest Chandler, of the Putnam, police force and Constable Peter A. Gardner, of Putnam. Briccault was brought to Putnam and locked in a cell at police headquarters and Friday afternoon was taken to the county jail in Brooklyn.

Briccault has been in the limelight off and on for years as a defendant in the city court for various misdemeanors. For several years he disappeared from front stage and did not again enter the spotlight until the advent of prohibition. Since that time his home and pool room have been raided for liquor several times, but without success. Once he was arrested and charged with selling, but after a trial in the city court was acquitted.

A few months ago two young men were arrested for fighting. During their trials in the city court they testified that the trouble started over a game of crap at Briccault's place. With this evidence in hand, the prosecutor issued a warrant for Briccault's arrest. He was tried on a charge of maintaining a place where gambling is allowed, was found guilty and sentenced to 60 days in jail.

From the court's decision Briccault took an appeal. He was ordered to furnish a bond of $500 for his appearance in the superior court and F. O. Marion, a north end business man, went surety on his bond.

It was while this case was pending that bench warrants were issued by the superior court for twelve men, on complaints charging a violation of the liquor law. Among the warrants was one for Briccault. The men were arrested in the afternoon and taken to Willimantic, where court was in session. All were ordered held for trial in bonds of $1,000. So as not to have the men kept in jail they were brought back to Putnam and were allowed opportunity to get bondsmen. Briccault was among the number allowed to go in search of a surety. He never returned. Marion, bondsman in the gambling case, stood to lose $500 so went in search of Briccault.

Briccault's story is to the effect that when he left the court room he scoured the north end of Putnam in an effort to get a bondsman but was unsuccessful. He then drove to Woodstock to see a friend. When this friend failed him, he says he became discouraged. It then came to him that if he left the state the officers would probably not look for him "for," said Briccault, "I thought they would be glad to be rid of me." So he went to the home of his father in Woonsocket and from there to Manville where he got a job as a painter.

A few days ago, Briccault says he began to think that he had played a mean trick on his friend Marion and decided he would come back. He telephoned Mrs. Briccault and told her to tell Mr. Marion to come to Rhode Island and get him. Briccault gave the impression during the interview through the bars that he had intended to come to Putnam voluntarily.

According to the officers they doubt if it was his intent to return to Putnam. When Mr. Marion got the message to come to Rhode Island to make arrangement about being cleared of the bond he decided that the best thing to do was to take some officers along and make sure that Briccault did come back. He went to the police station and found Patrolman Ernest Chandler. Constable Peter A. Gardner was also in the station. The officers agreed to go to Woonsocket to get Briccault if he could be located, several previous trips by officers to the Rubber city having proved fruitless.

Marion, accompanied by Mrs. Marion and Mrs. Briccault, went to Woonsocket Thursday evening. When they reached the home of Briccault's father they were told that Briccault was in Manville. To Manville they went and there found their man and brought him back to Woonsocket.

It was shortly after their arrival in Woonsocket that Officers Chandler and Gardner, accompanied by Woonsocket police, arrived at the Briccault home. Briccault was not in sight. When the officers asked for him they were told he was not there. They insisted that he was and a door was opened into an adjoining room and Marion, his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Briccault were inside.

Up to this time, it is said, Briccault had not mentioned returning to Putnam. It was his purpose, the officers understood, to square himself with his bondsman and remain away. Mr. Marion did not want this, he wanted Briccault. The result was that Briccault agreed to return and did. He expresses himself as sorry that he ran away, for, had he remained in Putnam, in all probability he would have been treated as were the other men, served his fifteen days and been out again. Now two cases are pending against him.

Putnam police were engaged Friday in investigating a shooting affair that occurred in the north end of the city, Thursday night. Euclid Trahan, whose home is at 44 Main street, complained to the officers that someone had fired a shot from a revolver and the bullet whistled alarmingly near him.

Trahan was passing by a dark place in the rear of some houses at the north end of Main street. It was early in the evening and he was on his way home. He heard a shot and heard the bullet's whistle. Following this a man accosted him, saying: "Now I have got you!" Trahan says he asked the man what the trouble was. The man got a good look at Trahan and said: "Excuse me! I have got the wrong man." With that he made off in the darkness.

Trahan thought he recognized his assailant and informed the police. This man was taken to the police station by Officers Sponcey, Gibney and Ryan and closely questioned. He denied all knowledge of the shooting. When he confronted the man Trahan was unable to identify him and the man was allowed his liberty.

The police reason it out that some man has a grudge against another and is seeking revenge and will do grave bodily harm to some person if not apprehended. The officers have little to work on except the description given by Trahan who was badly frightened at the time and thought he recognized the man as someone whom he knew.

There was no meeting of the Putnam Medical Association this month, Dr. S. B. Overlock, E. F. Perry, J. B. Kent, M. J. Bullard and R. M. Paine, of the local society, attending a meeting of the Danielson society at the home of Dr. George M. Burroughs, on Thursday evening.

The Grove Street Magazine club has elected the following officers: President, Elbert C. Kinney, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. William H. Mansfield. It was voted to continue the same publications as last year.

Women members of Putnam Country club were in Pomfret Friday afternoon to play in the open county handicap match for women. The prize is a silver cup.

Mrs. Ellen and Mary Wheelock and Mr. and Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock motored to Uxbridge, Mass., Friday afternoon to attend the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Root.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Vaughn and son George Jr., of Thompson, Miss Wilhelmina Frost and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Whipple of this city, were in Boston, Friday to witness the launching of the Whitney.

Harry Tourtellotte, who has been the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Tourtellotte, has returned to his home in Limona, Fla.

Mrs. Augustus I. Morse left Friday with a party of friends from Pawtucket, R. I., for ten days' sta in Washington, D. C.

Members of Cargill Council, K. of C., anticipated Columbus Day by an entertainment, supper and dance, on Thursday evening. The program was for the most part by professional entertainers of Worcester and Cartwright's orchestra furnished music for dancing. The entertainment and dance was held in Union hall while the supper was served in the council's rooms on the opposite side of Union street. The affair was for members of the council and guests. Many pretty gowns were displayed.

Windham County Medical Association is to hold its next meeting at the Chelsea Inn, Hampton, Friday, Oct. 19. Dinner will be served at 12.30 o'clock. The morning session will be opened for business with Dr. Arthur D. Marsh, of Hampton, the president, presiding. Reports will be read and all business cleared up so that the afternoon session may be devoted to addresses. Pneumothrorox in Tuberculosis will be the subject discussed by Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich. Dr. Frank P. Todd of Danielson will address the members on the care of pneumonia coincident with pregnancy. A method of sterilization in woman, will be discussed by Dr. S. B. Overlock, of Pomfret.

JEWETT CITY

Thursday evening in the Legion rooms, Very Rev. Michael McCabe Council, No. 2364, K. of C., held a smoker and social hour, it being the eve of Columbus Day. Visiting brothers were present from Willimantic, Moosup and Plainfield councils.

The main address of the evening was by Attorney Harry Gaucher, of Willimantic. Rev. Oscar Normand of Moosup, District Deputy T. Frank Cunningham of Willimantic, and the grand knight of the Willimantic council made brief addresses. Rev. J. J. McCabe, chaplain of the local council, eulogized State Deputy John F. Callahan of Hartford, under whom the local council was organized. A committee of resolutions was appointed and at the funeral of Brother Callahan Friday, Rev. J. J. Tyler represented the local council.

Entertainment for the evening was furnished by Past Grand Knight Albert De Forge, Ernest LeBlanc of Moosup, William Driscoll and Charles Harrington of the local council. Frank Driscoll was accompanist for the evening.

The Bay State Four, after their performance at Finn's theatre, entertained with an exhibition of clog dancing, several quartette selections and a tenor solo by John Conroy of Roxbury, Mass., council.

The affair was conducted by the lecturer of the local council, Rev. James J. Tyler, and its success was due entirely to his efforts. The meeting adjourned after a unanimous vote that the evening was a great success.

The marriage of Robert McRae and Miss Margaret Vallance, daughter of Mrs. Mary Vallance took place in the Baptist church parlor at half past six on Friday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the church. Miss Ellen Prior played the march from Lohengrin, preceding the ceremony and Mendelssohn's wedding march at the close. The bride wore an exquisite imported lace-draped gown over cream satin, with bead trimmings. Her veil of tulle was caught with orange blooms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses, white carnations and lilies of the valley. She wore a necklace of pearls, the gift of her mother. Her bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Catherine Vallance. She wore white beaded canton crepe and carried pink roses and carnations. The best man was Alex Power of Jewett City. A reception was held at the bride's home. Mrs. Vallance receiving with Mr. and Mrs. McRae. Her gown was beaded black gabardine. The bride's gift from the groom was a china dinner set which he brought from Scotland. Her gift to him was a watch and chain. The bridesmaid received a gold bangle bracelet and the best man a scarf pin.

Supper was served the guests under the direction of Mrs. Frances Campbell. The dining room was decorated with pink and white festoons and fall flowers from Mrs. E. M. Swift's garden beautified the church and house. Presents of all descriptions, including money, linen, cut glass, silver and furnishings were received as wedding gifts, also from a shower to the bride and to the groom from his friends in the packing room at Aspinook bleachery. Mr. and Mrs. McRae went to Schenectady to visit the bride's sister, Mrs. William Barney. They will reside in Jewett City. The bride's traveling suit was taupe flamingo with fur trimming. With it she wore a hat of gray and silver. Both Mr. and Mrs. McRae are members of Ruthie Rebekah lodge and Mr. McRae is a member of a Scottish Masonic lodge of Reliance lodge, No. 29, I. O. O. F.

E Broadmeadow, Surfmen Fletcher and Vennard of the Watch Hill Coast Guard station met him and carried the medical officer to Fishers Island. The condition of the injured man was such that he was brought back on a mattress Thursday to Watch Hill, where he was placed in the ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps and accompanied by Dr. Lewis was carried to the hospital in Providence. A telephone message from the hospital Friday reported the injured man still in a critical condition with little change noted. It is thought that if no improvement is noted it will be necessary for him to undergo an operation.

The resignation of Joseph S. Grills as a member of the republican town committee of Westerly was made in a letter received by Chairman John M. O'Connell under date of Oct. 11th as follows:

"I want to notify you that I am no longer a member of the republican town committee from today. I resign from the republican town committee."

Mrs. Fayette E. Freeman returned to Westerly Thursday evening, after several weeks' visit to Gardiner, Me.

The local Taxi Co. has torn out all the old wooden flooring in the building on Railroad avenue, formerly occupied by the Roy Rawlings Co., as a grain store, so that all but the office end has been lowered to the ground level. A new cement floor is to be laid and the building will be available for a storage garage.

Frank E. Collins, cashier at the Mystic station of the New Haven railroad, had the Columbus half holiday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lena Collins, on the West Side.

Louis L. Mathews has returned to Westerly after a visit in Boston.

The Westerly highway department, having filled in the holes on Chestnut street, that street has now been resurfaced.

BACKUS HOSPITAL COMMUNITY APPEAL.

Norwich has not always had the benefit of hospital service. Let a community like this be faced with the possibility of such an institution as the Backus hospital be abandoned and there would be an immediate, town-wide howl of protest.

Norwich has found that it cannot get along without a hospital, and in that same way it must realize that it cannot expect to get from an institution that is financially and structurally handicapped the service that a community of 30,000 people, to say nothing of the large outlying territory requires. What was endowed to meet economic conditions of bygone days only half meets the demands of the present time. Increased demands on its facilities find the institution cramped for adequate room to properly serve the public and it is the hospital upon which greater and greater dependence is being placed every day.

In the appeal soon to be launched for a fund of $250,000 or more to provide a nurses' home for the institution and add to the endowment fund, the interest of the community is at stake. For a period longer than it has been able, and keep the funds of the hospital intact, the institution has been admirably serving the people of this vicinity. It now places the cards face up on the table and discloses the fact that what is for the public should have public support.

In eight years the number of patients has nearly doubled, the cost of the care of patients has gone from about $50,000 to over $85,000 in that time, and yet for the past year there was a difference on the wrong side between the cost for the care of patients and that received from patients of $37,555.

When the revenue of such an institution from its endowment, the patients and in fact all sources is inadequate to meet the expenses it must mean either a curtailment of service, a large boost in rates or the provision of the revenue necessary to keep it a progressive, up to date institution for the care of the sick.

Public pride in such an asset cannot be lacking. There's a part which each and everyone should be anxious to do to keep up the efficiency of this most necessary institution. With all doing their part there'll be no question of the result. "Over the top" should be the slogan.

MORE AND CHEAPER POWER.

Today there is to be a meeting in New York of the heads of public utilities commissions for the purpose of considering the problem of increasing the production of power at a lower cost for the northeastern states. This conference is called by Secretary Hoover with the approval of the president and it will be evident that it deals with a matter which is of vital concern to this part of the country.

Its importance has been increased by the fuel situation. If the opportunity is open for the development of a greater amount of power at a lower cost through a change in the present methods of power development it is certainly worth thinking about.

Such an idea is not a new one. It has been considered for some time that a power system might be established among the North Atlantic states that would overcome much of the existing expense, eliminate waste and produce better results. This would be possible through a huge power system to which steam plants located near the mines and water power plants elsewhere would contribute and the distribution would take place over a large area.

It is thoroughly understood that New England abounds in unused water privileges where hydro-electric current could be developed and devoted to the use of manufacturers who need it, whether they happened to be nearly or a considerable distance away. As it is now just because there is no demand for the power that is going to waste it is not harnessed, although there are plenty who would like to get the benefit of it. On the other hand there is no good reason why such waste should not be eliminated and turned to the general good.

What the conference may result in is problematical but if it results in further developing the waterpower that is going to waste and distributing it to points where it can be used it will be of great advantage to those sections where hydro-electric development is possible and those where more and cheaper power is desired.

TRADE TREATIES.

When this country undertakes the negotiation of a large number of new trade treaties with countries of Europe, some of which have discriminated against American trade, some complications may be encountered but it is nevertheless an effort in the right direction. There is much in it of value for other countries as well as this.

A study of conditions in European countries will show how tariffs of other countries discriminate against the manufactured goods of the United States. It will show that countries seeking and desiring our goods have surrounded themselves with systems that make it next to impossible for us to supply them. They have established certain channels which shut us out. France is perhaps the leader among the old countries with Czechoslovakia, Finland and Hungary among the new. They stand in a position of wanting something which they have made it impossible to get because trade, according to the arrangements, must be turned in certain directions. They have prevented themselves from going elsewhere and trade between this country and that group is thereby restricted.

This country has recognized the need of making a move to end this situation. It is suggesting the negotiation of trade treaties and it is not likely that it will restrict its efforts to the four that have been mentioned. That other countries should have tariffs is not surprising. This country is strongly committed to such a policy but it doesn't say that imports must all come from a certain country or a certain group of countries, or make it possible by such restrictions to be applied. Its tariffs apply to all and that is what would be advantageous to a better world trade and understanding if such a policy prevailed among the European countries.

Whether the state department will be able to bring about such treaties no one knows, and no one will ever know without trying. A move is being made in the right direction.

PRODUCING TIMBER.

From time to time additions are being made to our state parks, and in a small way reforestation work is being encouraged in this state, but the opportunity for putting to use land which is now utilized for no purpose is readily noted on going through the country in most any direction.

In the state of New York the work of reforestation is making good progress. Many are interested in it. During the few years it has been in progress there have been established nearly 10,000 plantations and more than 80,000,000 young trees have been set out. The work is carried on by corporations as well as individuals and gets no little encouragement from the state conservation commission.

Connecticut is one of the states where much more might be done in the way of developing timberland. No where near does the state come to meeting its timber needs. Its freight charges for lumber brought into the state runs way up into the millions and yet there is land admirably suited for the growth of timber and which use would turn much waste land into profitable use.

The example of New York state is one that may well get serious consideration. The timber crop is not a quick grower, but taking into consideration that it requires slight attention after started and the fact that it can be grown on land not suitable for other use it offers a great opportunity for increasing the production of thousands of Connecticut acres.

DIGGING UP GRAVEYARDS.

When opposition arises to the removal of the bones of those who have long lain in foreign soil, it can cause no surprise. There was much feeling manifested over the sorting over of the bones of many in the English graveyard in order to find what were thought to be those of Pocahontas, and for the same reason the opening of the grave of General Sir James Oglethorpe and his wife that what remains may be brought to this country.

The south has reason to revere the memory of General Oglethorpe for the high service that he rendered in colonization and guiding that part of the country which is now divided into the states of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, but there is no justification for the transfer of these coffins and their contents which have rested in English soil for more than a century and a third.

The protest that was forwarded by the officials of the Society of Colonial Wars in Georgia to the British government asking that the grave be not disturbed undoubtedly represents widespread sentiment.

The practice of disturbing burying grounds to get the bones of those who have been buried in England following distinguished service in this country is to be deplored. Let all possible honor be given to such individuals through monuments, or otherwise, but let their bones rest in peace without being toted from continent to continent. There are other ways of preventing their burial places from being neglected.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

When one considers the hardships and struggles in the lives of many great men he cannot escape the question: "Did it pay?" It is surely true that some great characters paid every penny that their greatness was worth. And those who struggled and suffered merely for worldly honors were badly beaten at the game. The world is pitiless toward those who have garnished it, as it were, by their life's blood. Take the case of Franz Schubert, "creator of song in its highest expression", what did his own day and generation do for him? Exactly what an earlier Vienna had done for the mighty Mozart! Exactly what an earlier Greece had done for the greatest of her poets and one of the greatest of all history, Homer. Think of any city letting the man who composed "The Serenade" and "The Erl King" go about its streets as shabby as a beggar; to suffer so much from lack of nourishing food that he died at the early age of 31! Did it pay?

That introspection has its uses no intelligent person will deny. It is especially helpful to the egotistical and boastful. It also has a place in the lives of those who are careless and indifferent. And most assuredly is it to be recommended to those who are aware that they are going to the bad. But is it to be prescribed for those who put a good deal of conscience into their thoughts, words and deeds? The natural effect is likely to have on such persons is to make them morose, fretful and unhappy. One is surprised to learn that such a sane man as Dr. William P. Merrill of New York, in a series of lectures recently given at Hartford seminary on The Holy Spirit, should recommend frequent introspection of the spiritual life to see if one is growing in grace or in the other direction. Is it possible for the average Christian, or any Christian for that matter, to tell whether he is better or worse than he was six weeks before?

It is possible for anyone to know positively just what the "tongues of fire" were that appeared at the Day of Pentecost" and sat on each of them? The writer believes that it is wholly beyond our knowledge, and at the same time believes that we know why they were sent. They were the outward, visible symbol that the spirit of God had come into the hearts of these plain, ordinary men that transformed them into preachers of righteousness. It was power manifested as a flame that gave to its possessor an irresistible impulse to do something for the Master. With that burning zeal taking absolute possession of them, these plain, ordinary men were able to change the moral map of the world. It took place in Jerusalem when the city was filled with strangers so as to preclude all possibility of faking. Is it strange that when these men went out to speak that "the multitude were dumfounded" at what they saw and heard?

The writer is one of those who believes that Pentecost is a present opportunity, and that faith is needed to make it a present reality. If we believe there is something important to be done and that we can do it, the zeal that is in our hearts urging us to make the trial will make that door of opportunity swing back on its rusty hinges and let in the light of success. That we have faith in ourselves is a religious duty, and that we can do something for God and humanity is equally a religious duty. When that faith is touched by the higher spirit nothing can prevent our success. Seeing our duty clearly and having faith in our ability to carry it out under God's direction will put us into the white light of the kingdom. It may not bring us into any conspicuous notice world wise, but God has His own standard by which He estimates the value of jewels.

Enthusiasm is something like gunpowder, of no duty when it is in the right hands. When a bigot gets enthusiastic he will chop off the other fellow's head who disagrees with him, if he can get hold of an axe. The enthusiasm of a fool dissipates in hot air which lasts for a brief season only. But in the hands of sane capable people it is the thing that has the "go" in it; it has the same relation to us and our projects that yeast has in the measure of meal. Without it we are like a pan of dough that fails to rise. Did you ever attend a church prayer meeting in the eastern part of Maine, or a political caucus or a social function nearer home that reminded you of a lot of dough? All dead, nothing doing, nobody rising to the occasion. The explanation is found in that word, enthusiasm. Without enthusiasm no project will command that amount of labor that is necessary to make it successful.

Is there not a call today for making ventures in new and unknown paths? A boldness to break away from the conventional that has become outworn and useless. We want men and women who will be bold enough to trample on conservatism that has become unprogressive. We need those who are strong enough to turn down radicalism that does not appeal to one's reason. We want the daring spirit to do the new thing if it seems the right thing to do, no matter what the majority thinks. It was a daring thing to hold up a new gospel in the Roman world that did not want it, but when it challenged them to blaze a new pathway in the wilderness of humanity they simply did it because they were bold men. Thank God somebody was bold enough to replace the stage coach with the steam engine 100 years ago! The trolley car, the automobile, the electric light, the telegraph, the telephone, the airship and radio are ours because some men dared to knock and knock loudly at nature's closed doors and they swung wide open.

The man today who is capturing headline space in our great newspapers is David Lloyd George and it would be hard to name another foreigner who is more worthy of it. One cannot run on the main trend of events in Europe since 1914 without admiration for the acute and agile little Welshman who piloted the British nation through obstacles—within and without—with amazing dexterity. I can think of no prime minister since Gladstone that has done more constructive work. Gladstone's Irish bill is perhaps a greater individual work than any single thing that Lloyd George has done. But the Great Commoner was never called upon to meet such a complexity of tough propositions as this Welshman. He was worthy of the series of ovations that New York gave him, and we think all the more of New York for its keen sense of appreciation.

October 12, Columbus day. Well may this day be celebrated, both in relation to what Columbus was and what he did. It is fully as important to know what men are as what they do. If we know that a man is great it is easy to understand why he should do great things. It is also true that every man is greater than the things he does. The steam engine is a wonderful machine, but the brain that conceived it and the hands that made it are vastly more wonderful. There are many elements that enter into the makeup of a man like Columbus, but to my mind the most conspicuous feature was his daring spirit. He dared to clash with the conservatism of his day in regard to the earth's geography. He faced a great king who did not smile upon the project, which, however, was saved by the intuition of the queen. He dared to blaze a new pathway over the surface of a new and unknown ocean, and his discovery was the greatest material find that ever came to humanity.

WARSHIPS ARE DESTINED FOR JUNK HEAP.

Interesting demonstrations of the methods of ship breaking have just been made at the New York navy yard in connection with the scrapping of vessels of war under the naval treaty. These were made on the great hulls of the battleships Indiana and South Dakota, on which work was stopped when the ships were about 38 per cent completed.

Capt. Edmund W. Bonnaffon, one of the best known officers of the United States Navy Supply Corps, in his capacity as officer in charge of the sale of navy vessels, has charge of this, the largest sale of war vessels ever conducted in the country. Capt. Bonnaffon, in discussing the sale and in telling how these ships will finally be disposed of, said:

"The five great naval powers, the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, agreed, in the conference at Washington, which was one of the most notable assemblages of President Harding's administration, that the size of capital ships and the tonnage of navies should be limited, ending the race in warship building.

Ratio for World Navies.

"That conference provided that the United States and Great Britain should maintain navies of practically the same size and that the ratio of size of the three leading navies, those of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, should be 5—5—3, the latter figure being Japan's. It was agreed that the vessels under construction exceeding 35,000 tons were not to be completed and that enough of the older battleships should be eliminated to reduce the total tonnage to the amount each country would be allowed to maintain. That treaty, limiting naval armament, was finally ratified on August 17, and the United States navy immediately took steps to carry out its provisions so far as this country is concerned. Two of the older battleships which were to be eliminated were turned over to the army for bombing purposes, and you read in the newspapers a week or ten days ago how they were bombed and sunk by aeroplanes off the North Carolina coast. Two others have been retained by the navy for target practice and experimental purposes.

Will Go to Useful Purposes.

"But the navy department, in disposing of the remaining vessels which are to be scrapped, determined to dispose of them so that the steel and other materials in them should be turned back to useful purposes, to be utilized in trade and industry. So it was decided to offer them for sale, by sealed bids, the vessels to be scrapped by the purchasers, so that all the steel, copper, brass and other metals they contain, their engines, machinery and equipment will be turned to the uses of peace.

"These ships will be sold in four great sales. The first, on October 25, will be of vessels under construction at navy yards, which will be sold in their present state of completion. These vessels, had they been completed, would have been the largest and most powerful war vessels in existence.

"The battleships like the Indiana and the South Dakota at the New York navy yard, the North Carolina at Norfolk and the Montana at Mare Island, Calif., were designed to be 684 feet long and of 43,200 tons displacement. The battle cruisers Constitution and United States at the Philadelphia navy yard, which are also to be disposed of in this sale, are even larger, 874 feet long, and would have been the swiftest of all capital ships.

New Vessels Also to Go

"When we recall that the Pennsylvania, which was the flagship of the fleet in the world war, is 31,400 tons, and the Connecticut, which was the flagship of "Fighting Bob" Evans in the voyage of the fleet around the world" in 1907, is only 16,000 tons, you can gain some idea of the size of these huge vessels. The other ships under construction at private yards, the Iowa at Newport News, the Massachusetts at Fore River, Mass., and the battle cruisers Ranger and Constellation at Newport News, are to be sold on November 8.

"Five of the older battleships which are to be scrapped will be sold on November 1—the New Hampshire, Louisiana, Georgia, Rhode Island and Connecticut; and the six others to be disposed of will be sold on November 26—the Michigan, Minnesota, Kansas, Vermont, Nebraska and Delaware. Three of these are of 14,948 tons, the remainder of 16,000 tons except the Delaware which is 20,000 tons.

"Under the terms of the treaty these cannot be sold or given to any other nation; they cannot be used as merchant ships, so that they must be scrapped. And that means the biggest scrapping job of the kind ever done in this country. Under the terms of sale they must be scrapped within 18 months after the date of ratification of the treaty which went into effect August 17.

Task Not Difficult One

"While this will be the biggest scrapping job on war vessels ever undertaken in this country, with modern methods and appartus, it can easily be accomplished with the oxy-acetylene torch. Ship plates beams and even the heaviest armor can be cut into convenient sizes so that they can be utilized or remelted.

"Vessels like this will of course be scrapped on the ways as they are. In the case of the battleships afloat, completed vessels, the processes of cutting and scrapping are much the same though the procedure is varied to suit conditions. First of course, the machinery and equipment that can be hoisted is removed. Then work begins on the hull. This is the method pursued by one successful shipbreaker. First he removes the side armor plate from the inside shell of teak into sections weighing from 25 to 40 tons. These are swung to upright positions and cut with acetylene torches into pieces two feet by six feet, of convenient size for feeding into the charging boxes of open hearth furnaces where they are melted later to be reforged. After the armor plate is removed the gun turret machinery, ammunition hoists and refrigerator systems are broken up by workmen and reduced to small scrap by pile drivers or other breaking apparatus. Then the plates are cut up and removed. Every part of it is utilized, all of which cannot be sold in existing shape being converted into scrap to be remelted for commercial gifts."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

A native of Seneca, Ont., Sir Edmund Walker, who celebrates his seventy-fifth birthday tomorrow, is president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and one of the outstanding figures in Canada's financial circles. Entering the employ of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in 1866 as a discount clerk, he advanced step by step, until he reached the highest rung of the financial ladder. Sir Edmund is regarded as one of the keenest bankers and is one of the most congenial men of the Dominion. During the war period he gave valuable aid in the raising of war loans in Canada. He has acted for many years as chairman of the board of governors of the University of Carnada, and has been a liberal benefactor of the Royal Ontario Museum and other educational and philanthropic institutions in his home city of Toronto. He has traveled widely, having in recent years made lengthy tours in the Orient and South America.

Stories That Recall Others

Diamond Cuts Diamond.

Outwardly they were the best of friends, but in each heart there was hatred. Mrs. A had called on Mrs. B and was about to take her departure.

"Well," she said, "I really must go. I promised to call in and see mother this afternoon."

This was Mrs. B's chance.

"Really," she remarked, "you don't mean to say you have a mother living?"

"Oh, yes," replied Mrs. A, "and believe me, she doesn't look a day older than you do!"

Page Bryan!

The teacher had explained the meaning of the word "descenrants" as "coming down from" to the fourth grade. She then asked members of the class to use it in a sentence. Little Tommy's hand went up.

"Our arms and legs are the descendants from our bodies," he said.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

REGNANT FORCES.

Our age is one of great commercial enterprise, but for that reason we are not to conclude that the kingdom of God cannot be advanced as rapidly as commerce. It is a day when the struggle for material acquisition is intense and dominant, but even this should not lead us to feel that the desire for spiritual experiences and the actual purposes of Christly loyalty have ceased as regnant forces in Christian hearts.

The tides of self gratification and earthly pleasure seem to sweep the great multitudes away from the reverence and devotion of our forefathers but let us not think that there are not great under-currents of sacrificing consecration and loving service for the betterment of broken and sorrowing humanity. We hear so much from every side about the lack of faith, of the indifference of Christians and of discouragements to religious progress, but on this account we are not to suppose that the great hosts of God on earth have ceased to believe in the great realities of life and destiny or that the church of Christ is not making real progress and pushing its conquests along all avenues of life.

The place of the preacher, teacher and Christian worker in our age is that of the prophet and forerunner of a victorious Christ. With a gospel so full of power and optimism and a commission that contains no note of failure, less should be said of materialism and more of spiritual realities; less about the failures and indifference of the church and more about the dominant purpose to be realized through the church.

A high standard in word and deed is an irresistible appeal to others to struggle in that direction. As Lowell says:

"So noble and the nobleness which lies in other men sleeping, but never dead, will rise in majesty to meet thine own."

U. S. TO IGNORE LLOYD GEORGE'S SUGGESTION

Washington, Oct. 12.—The American government will take no cognizance officially of Premier Lloyd George's suggestion that the United States and Great Britain arrive at an unwritten understanding designed to prevent war.

Although recognizing Mr. Lloyd George as a former premier and still the mouthpiece of a considerable portion of the British people, President Coolidge feels that such a suggestion could not properly come to the official cognizance of the American government unless made by the British government, or one of its active representatives.

Mr. Lloyd George's suggestion was made yesterday in a discussion with newspapermen at Niagara Falls, Ont., during the course of his Canadian tour.

ELEVEN KILLED IN BRITISH TERRITORY

Duesseldorf, Oct. 12.—(By the A. P.)—The disorders which began last evening at Solingen, in British occupied territory, continued today, the casualty list now totalling eleven dead, including the commissary of police, and thirty five wounded. Many stores have been pillaged, the British troops have not yet interfered. Other unemployed men are marching from Grafrath to help their comrades.

At Hoecht, where 5,000 unemployed besieged the city hall, the German police fired on the crowd, killing one and wounding ten others.

The pillaging also continued today at Cologne, and the police fired when the crowd stoned them.

CHILDREN PLAYING IN YARD SHOWERED WITH BIRDSHOT

Meriden, Oct. 12.—While playing in the front yard of their home in the outskirts here late today, five children were showered with stray bird shot fired from the gun of a hunter in nearby woods.

While three of the children, all of whom were wounded about the face and head were being taken to the hospital, police scoured the woods in vain for the hunters. The children were returned to their homes after an examination which showed the injuries not serious.

Six leading citizens of Pana, Ill., are dead and three are in a critical condition as a result of drinking alleged poisonous whiskey.

BACK ACHED TERRIBLY

Mrs. Robinson Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Amarillo, Tex.—"My back was my greatest trouble. It would ache so that it would almost kill me and I would have cramps. I suffered in this way about three years; then a lady friend suggested that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had better health since, keep house and am able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends as it has certainly given me great relief."—Mrs. C. B. ROBINSON, 608 N. Lincoln St., Amarillo, Texas.

The Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for women. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as backache, painful times, irregularity, tired and worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. Robinson writes as well as by one woman telling another. These women know what it did for them. It is surely worth your trial.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so ill that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

OBITUARY.

Miss Ellen Frances Buell.

Miss Ellen Frances Buell, daughter of the late Elihu Porter and Lucy (Kellogg) Buell, who was born at Hebron May 7, 1835, died there Oct. 10, 1923, after a short illness. Miss Buell has been unusually active up to within a few weeks of her death, keeping all her faculties to a remarkable degree, and was able to attend to her household duties. She was a faithful member of the First Congregational church and was a regular attendant at the services as long as she was able to be about.

As a member of the community she will be greatly missed, as her home was always open to her friends. She took a personal interest in everyone, down to the youngest, and her ready wit, good nature and kindliness were unusually developed.

PALACE THEATRE COMPLETED FOR OPENING DATE NEXT MONDAY

The new Palace theater, completely modern in all its appointments, will be formally opened and dedicated next Monday evening, Oct. 15, with the box office open at 6.30. The addition of such a modern playhouse for the entertainment requirements of Norwich has been made possible through the organization of the Norwich Palace Theater Corporation by A. A. Spitz of Providence which has aimed to give the city a playhouse that should meet every demand that the public of this part of the state could call for.

Mr. Spitz, who has had an experience as a theater builder, operator and owner, has for years contemplated the erection of a modern theatre in this city but bided his time until he secured a location that met his ideas of accessibility and convenience. He has long been familiar with Norwich and has every reason to give to Norwich the best service that can possibly be given. Norwich was the home of his wife and before his marriage and since he has been a frequent visitor here. In fact, although he maintains a home in Providence and offices in the Caesar Misch building in that city, he can be said almost to be a Norwich man.

The site of the new Palace Theatre first acquired by Mr. Spitz and Charles H. Stedman, now deceased, is perhaps the most centrally located tract of real estate under one management and control as there is in this city. The tract covers approximately 16,000 square feet of land, is surrounded on all sides by open ways and extends from Rose place to Ferry street. One needs but to contrast this parcel of land now with what it was when Messrs. Spitz and Stedman last October acquired it to realise the amount of thought and effort that has been expended in the transformation of this section of the city. Mr. Spitz last January gave everybody who so desired the opportunity of becoming interested in a project of this kind and issued a general invitation to the people of Norwich to help in the execution of this project. As the president and general manager of the corporation he has now for a period of seven months, in cooperation with the other officers and directors of the corporation in which many Norwich people are interested, given much of his time in planning and supervising the construction and completion in all its detail of the striking building now about to be dedicated to the amusement-loving public of this section of the state. A comparison of the Palace theatre with other theatres in much larger cities and even in the metropolis leaves nothing to be desired. In its arrangements, construction and equipment Mr. Spitz has had always in mind the safety and comfort of the patrons although in the accomplishment of those highly desirable features which Mr. Spitz regards as paramount, artistic effects have not been sacrificed. One rarely sees anywhere a more harmonious composite than the Palace theatre furnishes today with nothing to annoy the taste of the most exacting and critical.

At the organization of the corporation with Mr. Spitz its president and general manager, Edwin W. Higgins of this city became and is its secretary and attorney and Charles H. Stedman was its treasurer. Mr. Stedman died in June of last year and Herbert M. Lerou of this city succeeded him as the treasurer of the corporation.

Work on the new theatre was commenced by The H. Wales Lines company of Meriden upon plans of Cudworth & Thompson, architects, early in January of this year. There has been a succession of other contractors and sub contractors actively engaged in the erection and completion of the house since operations were commenced by the general contractors up to this day when on Monday the new house will be formally opened.

Entrance on Rose Place

The main entrance to the theatre is on Rose place with eight exits, either leading directly on to a highway or to an open space that will be always unincumbered. The new concrete roadway built by the city on Rose Place, with the ten feet wide concrete sidewalk as an approach to the theater together with the new concrete sidewalk now being built on the west side of Rose place, insures an ease of entrance rarely found in any city to a building of this kind. The management intends so far as it is able for the convenience of the patrons coming to the house in automobiles to keep the fourteen feet right of way from Rose Place to Ferry street open and in fact has concreted this entire way in the hope that automobilists will approach this way from Rose place and after discharging their passengers will proceed only in an easterly direction to Ferry street and some suitable parking place, leaving this fourteen foot concreted way open only for traffic going toward the entrance of the theatre. If automobilists will observe this rule some confusion will be avoided.

The front elevation of the building is of buff tapestry brick with limestone trimmings and ornate gargoyles. There is a large marquee bordered with electric lights on which appears the name of the theatre. The name is also set out in much larger letters of electric light on the tower of the building which is surmounted by a flag pole. Over the marquee covering nearly the entire front of the theatre exclusive of the store is a beautiful cathedral leaded glass window. The lobby is generous in its proportions with a floor of white ceramic tile with a border of colored tile and a marble wainscoting entirely covering the walls up to the point where highly decorative frames announce the attractions offered and to be offered in the play house. Two ticket windows are on either side of the entrance. The lobby is brilliantly lighted with a circle of electric lights and a vaulted ceiling artistically decorated. Ornamental plaster cornice adds to the beauty of the lobby.

The lobby opens directly into the main auditorium which has capacity of about 1400. Back of the chairs is a large area for standing room which is one of the elements of safety and comfort that Mr. Spitz has from the beginning been very insistent about.

Chief Stanton's Opinion.

No higher authority exists in Norwich than the chief of the local fire department as to building construction and fire hazards. After an inspection of all the features of this building, Chief Stanton wrote Mr. Spitz as president of the corporation the following letter which in itself is a sufficient comment upon the entire structure.

Mr. A. A. Spitz,
President and General Manager,
The Norwich Palace Theatre Corp.,
Norwich.

Dear Sir: As work has progressed on the Palace theatre I have followed the construction and equipment from time to time. This theatre from the standpoint of safety and as a fire hazard can hardly be improved upon. The construction materials, the heating plant, the picture machine booth, electric wiring, number and location of exits, width of aisles meet every requirement of safety.

This building is satisfactory to me as meeting every essential of a structure of this kind from the standpoint of safety.

Very truly yours,
HOWARD L. STANTON,
Chief of the Fire Department and Fire Marshall.

The floor of the auditorium is of concrete having a pitch of eight feet from the rear to the stage. The floor coverings are of light gray with a blue border. The tapestries, draperies and other hangings are of peacock blue which with the burnt old ivory chandeliers and lighting fixtures make a pleasing color scheme. The lighting effects are of the most improved combination type. There are seven drop chandeliers as well as clusters of wall fixtures all in old ivory finish. These combination fixtures are so made that either electricity or gas can be used for illumination.

Seats

The seats are of the latest design with tan morocco upholstery with a 20-inch back. The entire house is seated the same and all on the ground or first floor.

Ventilation

The ventilation system is of the most approved type insuring the patrons pure air all of the time. There are ventilators in the roof with many air ducts in the walls. These with the electric fans in the roof and on either side of the walls with the large door about six feet in width opening out on the north side gives the assurance of pure air always. In the rear of the theatre are panelled draught screens.

Ladies' Room.

The ladies' rest and retiring room is located on the same floor as the main auditorium to the left as you enter. This ladies' room is attractively furnished with plate glass mirrors, lavatories, handsome wicker furniture attractively upholstered, rugs and draperies to correspond with the general color scheme. There are three windows opening direct on the fourteen foot right of way. This windows are paned with ground glass of a pleasing design. The ladies' room with its fireplace, mantels, alcoves and retiring rooms is second to none in the state both in its convenience and in comfort, safety and artistic appointments.

Men's Room.

The men's room is on the floor below the main auditorium and is fully furnished, artistically arranged and complete in its detail.

Picture Machine and Heating Plant.

The picture booth is built over the entrance and is fireproof. The latest models of projecting machines are now installed in this booth which insures a perfect picture, flickering being eliminated. The heating plant is not located in the theatre building at all, being installed in what is now known as the Spitz building, another point of safety. The two boilers are adapted for both coal and oil as fuel.

Stage.

The stage in its size, lighting effects, dressing rooms and curtains is capable of staging any production that plays the larger cities or will come to Norwich. The proscenium arch is about 40 feet, the drops are motor driven and the stage hangings fit in harmoniously with the general color scheme of the theatre. The stage hangings fit in harmoniously with the general color scheme of the theatre. The stage is 27 feet in depth, equipped with a large metallic asbestos curtain that can be raised or dropped instantly.

Music.

The orchestra pit is of generous proportions with a retiring room for the orchestra under stage. In the pit is the console of the organ and a concert grand piano but with these there is ample room to provide for a large orchestra in addition. The organ pipes are placed in alcoves on either side of the stage which alcoves are covered by a gilt grill.

Description of Organ.

The new organ was built by M. P. Moller of Hagerstown, Maryland, whose factory is the largest in the world, and who has already built over thirty-eight hundred organs.

The specifications are special, having been made after a careful study of the theatre, in order to secure the very best for the particular purpose; consequently this instrument cannot be compared with the ordinary stock organ, such as is generally used, as it contains many special features.

The action is electric throughout, the only connection between the keys and the wind chests in the organ chambers being electric wiring, but in design it is a model of simplicity and reliability, and a worthy example of the later and most modern of the organ builder's art.

Resident Manager Harding.

William H. Harding is the local resident manager of the theatre. Mr. Harding has had a wide experience in the direction and management of places of amusement of this character and will reside in this city with his family. He is surrounded with a corps of experienced and efficient employes whose duty it will be to render service to the patrons of the house at all times. Service first will be the watchword of Mr. Harding and his force.

RELIEF CORPS CHARTER DRAPED IN MEMORIAM

With a large attendance Sedwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16 held a regular business meeting Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Buckingham Memorial with the president, Jayne E. Seed, in the chair. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard and accepted and one application for membership was received. Department General Order No. 4, was read, calling attention to the annual visiting day at Noroton Thursday of next week.

The corps charter has ben draped in memory of Mrs. Charlotte E. Wright, of New Haven, past national secretary and treasurer and also a past department president. Mrs. Wright died August 17th. The chairman of the executive committee made a report on the recent whist and supper at which a good sized sum was realized. A contribution for the Civil war army nurse fund was voted as was also a contribution for the Backus hospital fund. The meeting closed in the usual form.

"LITTLE JIMMIE" SEEN ON GARDNER LAKE ROAD

James Perelli, known as "Little Jimmie" the middle-aged Italian, who disappeared from his home at 184 North Main street on Wednesday morning was seen Thursday morning by R. F. D. Carrier John F. Casey on what is called the old road to Gardner Lake. Perelli was lying by the side of the road in a very weakened condition, but refused to let the carrier do anything for him or take him anywhere. Perelli was carrying the bag which he customarily had with him and had a chicken in the bag.

Carrier Casey notified the police Friday and went out on the road Friday night with members of the Perelli family to look for the man but without finding him.

COLUMBUS DAY PARADE WITH BAND CONCERT

Columbus day was celebrated Friday by the Italian societies of the city with a parade in the afternoon and a fine band concert on Union square in the evening by the Columbus band under Director Pasquale Puca. The parade moved over the line of march at 2 o'clock with 100 men in line led by the band of 25 pieces.

Raised $46.86 for Florida Institute.

At the jubilee meeting held Thursday evening by the colored people of Norwich $46.86 was raised for the benefit of the Florida Normal Industrial Institute. # ACADEMY ELEVEN OVERWHELMED BY WESTERLY HIGH IN ONE-SIDED GAME

Special to the Bulletin

Westerly, R. I., Oct. 13—After leading at the first half of Saturday's game by a score of 7-6 with Westerly, the Academy team "blew up" in the second section of the game and let Westerly trample all over them to a final victory by a score of 31-7. During the first half the play was good football and both teams were on their toes every minute. Westerly's first score came in the second quarter.

The Rhode Island team had worked the ball down to 13 yard line in the previous quarter on line plays and end runs. At the beginning of the second quarter a line play put the ball on the 3 yard line. Smith then took it over on a line plunge, but failed to kick the goal. Norwich's first and last score came in this period when Scott recovered a fumbled punt. Phil MacNamara and Covey then pulled off some neat runs and Covey took the ball over on a line play. Also kicking the goal. The half ended a few minutes later with the ball in Westerly's possession in mid-field.

In the last quarter Westerly played rings around the locals although Westerly also had one of the breaks. Meikle heaved a 35 yard pass to Grills in this period and Grills was lucky enough to catch it on the goal line in spite of the fact that several Norwich players tried to block it. Westerly's other scores came in the last quarter line plunges and an intercepted pass with which Cuffee ran 35 yards for a touchdown.

For Norwich Scott was one of the chief performers, while Steinman also played a good game. Capt. Phil MacNamara and Covey also played good ball, sharing equally the amount of ground gained. One of the chief faults on the part of the Academy was the failure of the ends to get down on punts. Westerly gained a great many yards on account of this one fault.

Capt. Meikle and Smith were the stars for Westerly and both were big assets to their team.

WINDHAM BEATS HEAVY KILLINGLY ELEVEN

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 13 — Windham High's aerial attack completely baffled the heavy Killingly High machine in this city Friday afternoon and Coach Callahan's charges were returned the winners in the opening game of the home season by a score of 30 to 0. Williams was the whole works for the invaders. Windham scored its first touchdown in the opening period as the result of a criss-cross forward pass which planted the ball on Killingly's three-yard line. Ivor Prater was on the receiving end. The second touchdown of the game came in the second quarter when "Tommy" Meikle caught a forward pass and raced over the goal line.

Windham concluded her scoring activities in the closing period by rushing the pigskin over. The lineup and summaries:

FABER HURLS WHITE SOX TO FIRST SERIES VICTORY

Chicago, Oct. 13—Urban Faber, star spitball pitcher and hero of the 1917 world's series, hurled the American League team to its first victory over the National leaguers in the city series today. Faber downed the Cubs, 4 to 2, being afforded fine support and displaying the old cuming which marked him as the leading pitcher of the league in former years. Score by innings:

MANY INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS ON YESTERDAY'S BATTLE

New York, Oct. 13—(By the A. P.)—Umpire Bob Hart of the National League staff who officiated today at first base, made one of the most unusual decisions an umpire ever is called upon to make. He decided not by what he saw but by what he heard.

It was in the Yankee half of the eighth inning with one down. Witt got his only hit of the game, a hot single through the box. Hart took a position on the baseline between first and second, too close to the base line. On the next play Dugan grounded to Groh, who made a sensational stop and threw out Witt at second. Frisch, who took the throw, whipped the ball to first for a fast double play.

To avoid being struck, Hart dropped on his face like a doughboy when a shell was bursting. He had an excellent line on old Mother Earth but not on the play. He heard Dugan's hoof strike the first bag before the ball resounded in Kelly's glove and called the runner safe, and there was no dispute.

Most of the fans didn't understand why Manager Miller Huggins and his team kicked so strenuously when Umpire R. H. Nallin called out Ward on a third strike in the last half of the ninth. Nehf pitched eleven balls to him with almost perfect control and Ward had a "good eye", letting those go that nipped around the corners and nicking the curves that came within his distance. He fouled six balls.

The last pitch Ward let go by, but whether it would have been a ball or a strike did not matter. Nallin saw a movement of the second baseman's bat and called him out. Ward claimed that Snyder "tipped" the bat with his glove and the Giant catcher denied it.

Never was the fickleness of the baseball fan so evident as in the first inning.

Babe Ruth, having won yesterday's game with two home runs, the margin of the Yankee tallies, was applauded uproariously when he came to the batting cage for practice and when he strode to the plate, the third man up in the first, the din was terrific.

He let two bad ones go by, then swung with all his ponderous shoulders and almost fell from the motion of missing. There was a sweep of tittering over the stands. The mighty maular had whiffed. He bit on the second curve and missed it widely. This time there was no tittering, but loud guffawing and a chorus of "boos."

Babe hit the next ball for a clean single and the cheers drowned out the tick of the telegraph instruments in the press stand.

HUTCHISON WINS WESTERN OPEN GOLF TITLE

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 12—"Jock" Hutchison, of Chicago, won the Western open golf championship, today, with a score of 281 for the 72 hole tournament for the title played over the links of the Colonial Country club, here.

Hutchison made the final round today in 73-74—67, equalling the course record for the second time.

Par is 70.

Wilfred Reid, of Detroit, made the first "hole in one" in the tournament today when he holed out his mashie shot on the 130 yard number three.

Leo Diegel, of Washington, Walter Hagen, New York and Bobby Cruickshank, of Westfield, N. J. tied for runner-up honors with 287 each.

HOME RUN HITTING BIG FACTOR IN PRESENT SERIES

New York, Oct. 12—(By the A. P.)—The 1923 world's series already has established almost an entirely new record for home-run hitting in the classics.

Casey Stengel's circuit clout today made him the first man to win two games in one world's series with home runs. J. Franklin Baker, when with the Philadelphia Athletics won two games with homers, but not in the same series.

Babe Ruth's two drives yesterday were the first a world's series batter ever made in successive trips to the plate.

If either Ruth or Stengel gets another four-bagger he will have established a mark for the most home runs by a player in one series, whichever does, it will have made his team the maker of the most home runs in a series, as both teams already have three, Emil Meusel making the third for the Giants, and Aaron Ward for the Yankees.

Ruth has equalled the record for home runs in a game also held by Benny Kauff, Jerry Hooper and Pat Dougherty.

SCOTT AND SHAWKEY ARE PROBABLE PITCHERS FOR TODAY

New York, Oct. 13—(By the A. P.)—Jack Scott and Bob Shawkey are expected to take the mound in alternate half innings tomorrow, when the Giants and Yankees meet in the fourth game of the world's series at the Polo Grounds.

Scott, who was turned loose by Cincinnati an dthen granted another chance in big league play by Manager McGraw of the Giants featured the 1922 world's series by shutting out the Yankees in the third game.

Shawkey is the veteran of the Yankee pitching staff and the only member of that staff who was not imported from the old Boston Red Sox.

In the event McGraw finds Scott unready, Rosey Ryan appears the likely substitute. Waite Hoyt, who has batted out of the box in the first game, will be ready to serve them up should Shawkey fail Manager Huggins' expectations.

WORLD'S SERIES RESULTS PLAY BY PLAY WILL BE MEGAPHONED AT BULLETIN OFFICE

As customary as every World's Series rolls around the results of the games that will be played will be megaphoned from the Bulletin Office window every afternoon. The Associated Press has a direct wire to the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium that is connected with the Bulletin Office and Norwich fans will get the plays of the game almost the same instant that they take place on the playing field.

The results will start to come in at 2 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) and will continue until the game is over. Stephen P. Coffee, official announcer, will be at the small end of the megaphone for the 15th consecutive year having never missed announcing at a series during that time. The Bulletin will gladly answer all calls for the score;

All persons are kindly requested to refrain from seeking admittance to the editorial rooms during the game.

Salient Points of the World's Series of 1923

Teams—New York Giants of the National League; New York Yankees of the American League.

Places of Games—First game in Yankee Stadium, second in Polo Grounds, alternating each day until six games have been played. Place of seventh game, if necessary, to be decided by toss of coin.

Time of Games—Two o'clock, eastern standard time.

Umpires—Evans and Nallin for American League; Hart and O'Day for National League.

SUNDAY'S GAME WILL BE GIVEN THE FANS ON THE BOARD IN THE BULLETIN OFFICE WIN DOW.

SEVERAL INTERSECTIONAL FOOTBALL GAMES ARE SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

New York, Oct. 12—(By the A. P.)—More than a score of gridiron scraps will occupy the attention of eastern college football enthusiasts tomorrow, chief among which will be the annual classic between the West Point Cadets and the Notre Dame warriors from South Band, Ind. The game will be played in Brooklyn.

From all indications this game will be a test between the army's consistent method of line bucking and smashing and Coach Knute Rockne's more modern style of open play. Both teams have come out victorious in the minor games have played thus far this year, and tomorrow's game will be the first real test either has faced.

In "big three" circles the backers of Harvard, Yale and Princeton seem little worried. Harvard will take on the Middlebury team which last week played a tie game with Union. Yale probably will face stiffer opposition from the University of Georgia and considerable interest has been aroused in this intersectional contest. Georgia scored a 20 to 6 victory over Oglethorpe last week while Yale swamped the University of North Carolina, 53 to 0. The Tiger squad goes into action against Georgetown.

Two eastern colleges will invade middle western territory. Carnegie Tech will play the University of Chicago, which brought victory from further west last week when Colorado was defeated 16 to 0. Colgate will meet Ohio State in Columbus where considerable of a struggle is expected. The upstate eleven piled up 55 points against Niagara's zero last week. While the Columbus aggregation took 24 while Ohio Wesleyan was making 7.

Coach Percy Haughton's Columbia team will furnish further entertainment in New York by playing Wesleyan at Baker Field. Columbia was unable to score against Amherst last week, and it was reported today that "Dutch" Pease, star quarterback, had been injured. Consequently Columbia backers were a bit worried at the prospects of facing the strong Wesleyan team.

Syracuse should see an interesting intersectional game when the University of Alabama lines up on the upstate field. Syracuse defeated William and Mary by the overwhelming score of 61 to 3, last week, while the southern eleven piled up 56 against their neighbors in Mississippi, who didn't score.

While the army is playing Notre Dame their service mates in Annapolis will meet the West Virginia Wesleyan team. It is generally conceded that Navy will have little difficulty in winning although the West Virginia Methodists gave Alleghany quite a beating last week when the score stood 34 to 0.

Aside from the Harvard-Middlebury game at Cambridge New Englanders will see several of their other teams in action against each other. Dartmouth meets Boston University, Providence plays Holy Cross, Trinity and Lowell Tech will play, and Tufts will face Bates.

Upstate games include Cornell vs. Williams, St. Lawrence vs. Hobart and Union vs. Amherst at Schenectady.

Several good games also are scheduled in Pennsylvania, including Swarthmore vs. Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Lafayette vs. Franklin & Marshall at Boston; Pittsburgh vs. West Virginia at Pittsburgh and Washington & Jefferson vs. Brown at Washington, Pa.

NUMBER FOUR

ably use Harvey Hendrick or Elmer Smith in right. Or I may send in 'Hinky Haines,' who took the Babe's regular post for the last few innings this afternoon."

A Battle of Pitchers.

For eight innings, Jones, hero of a no-hit performance this season, baffled the Giants, save Stengel, with a marvelous change of pace and superb control, yielding but four scattered hits, while Nehf was being found for six. Except for Stengel, but one Giant got as far as second base, but that mighty wallop of Casey's wrecked the Yankee twirler's masterpiece just when it seemed close to completion. Coming back in the eighth inning after that crushing blow, Jones displayed his metal by striking out Bancroft and Groh in succession, but he was withdrawn in favor of a pinch hitter in the Yankee half of that inning when Huggins directed his last desperate but futile attack. Joe Bush, victim of Stengel's homer in the first game, held the Giants hitless in the ninth.

Facing the first real crisis of the series, John McGraw played his ace, Nehf, and the nervy little southpaw came through with flying colors. His work was but slightly less effective than that of Jones. Three times he faced serious threats by the Yankees and on each occasion he rose to the emergency and turned back his foe. In only one inning, the fifth, did the Yankees gather more than one hit off Nehf. He issued three passes, two of them purposely to Babe Ruth, and each time the strategy, unpopular though it was to the crowd that wanted to see the Babe "bust 'em," was vindicated.

For today, the elemental encounter between "brute force" and the "master mind"—typified by Babe Ruth and McGraw—was in the background. It was McGraw's turn to apply the punch again with Stengel to decide a pulse-throbbing duel, but the Babe, hero of yesterday, was largely eliminated from the picture, though not of his own choosing. Ruth was ready to carry on where he left off in the second game, but he was given scant poportunity.

Ruth is Purposely Passed.

Such of McGraw's strategy as came to the surface today was designed to eliminate Ruth from the danger zone and it was done by Nehf with neatness and despatch. Twice the Babe came to the bat with prospective runs on the bases, once in the fourth when Joe Dugan started the inning with a double and again in the eighth with Dugan again on base. But knowing what one devastating clout might do to a game such as Nehf and Jones were twirling, McGraw ordered the Babe passed intentionally, and both times Bob Meusel fell down miserably in the emergency.

In the fourth Meusel drove into a double play, eliminating Ruth and himself while advancing Dugan to third, but Pipp was an easy victim for Frisch and Kelly for the third out.

Again in the eighth, with two out and Dugan on first by virtue of a force-out of Whitey Witt, Ruth was walked, and again, with two men on base, Meusel failed. This time he flied out to Stengel to end the inning.

The Fateful Seventh.

The inning before, the seventh, saw the most dangerous rally of the Yankees, a sortie that was checked by a sparkling play by Heinie Groh, the most brilliant bit of defensive work of the game. With Meusel out, Pipp walked, but on Ward's shot to Bancroft the first sacker was forced at second, the play in which he twisted the ankle which had kept him out of the game for ten days prior to the series. After a delay in which the ankle was bandaged and he limped from the field, Schang sent Ward to second with a sharp single to left.

Scott caught one of Nehf's curves for a wicked smash down the third base line. Groh dived, somehow clutched the ball, and then lunged forward. Fielder and runner reached the bag simultaneously, it seemed, but Groh was there first by just the fraction of a second necessary to make the put out and end the inning.

Ruth's only hit, a single to center, went to waste in the first inning, while two bingles by the Yankees counted for naught in the fifth. Ward opened the latter inning with a hit to left. He was forced by Schang, who advanced a bag on Scott's infield single, but a Giant double play again nipped the rally, Jones hitting to Frisch, who completed the two-play killing by way of Bancroft and Kelly.

Except for these few spurts, the Yankees were helpless before Nehf's sweeping curves. Four were retired on strikes, Jones and Witt fanning in succession in the third, Ruth letting a third strike out in sharply on his in the sixth, while Ward was whiffed in the ninth.

The story of the Giant attack is the story of Stengel's home run. But two hits were garnered off Jones in the first six innings; but five got to first altogether. Bancroft walked and Frisch singled in the sixth, but the rally was short-lived.

No one was prepared for Stengel's mighty stroke in the seventh, except perhaps Casey himself. Fans seemed to have forgotten his feat of two days before, while to Jones and Yankees he was just another Giant to mow down. But Jones took one chance too many and when he shot an in-curve down Stengel's groove, there was a crack, a roar, and Casey, in his uncontrollable glee, danced rather than trotted about the bases with the run that won the game. Where he had won a race with throwing arm and ball in his first great victory, he had a triumphal procession today.

The score:

BACKUS HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS ARE MOVED

The Backus hospital financial campaign headquarters will move this (Saturday) morning to a new location, No. 84 Shetucket street, the Thames Loan and Trust building, where the headquarters will be located from now until the close of the drive. When the headquarters opened in the two stores in the old Disco building they were given the space without charge by the Mohican company with the understanding that they would not be disturbed unless the stores were rented.

Thursday evening they were notified that the stores have been rented. Those in charge of the campaign have been the used of the new headquarters without charge. The telephone numbers will remain unchanged, 2368 and 2369.

GIVES WARNING AGAINST HAZARDS WITH ELECTRICITY

The story of electricity as an ancient, faithful servant and as a terrible merciless master was told to an appreciative audience of about one hundred at the Y. M. C. A., Friday evening, by Thomas Henry Day, secretary of the National Electrical Inspector's Association, electrical inspector of the Hartford County Board of Fire Underwriters and an associate member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Mr. Day came here under the auspices of the gas and electrical department of the city of Norwich. He illustrated his talk with over 100 stereopticon slides.

The chairman of the evening was James L. Case, one of the gas and electrical commissioners, who in opening the meeting spoke of the enormous loss, $621,000,000, caused each year by fires in this country, and of the large cost of maintaining modern fire departments to fight these fires, many of which are unnecessary. Mr. Case presented to the gathering Chief Howard L. Stanton of the local fire prevention lines. During the course of his instructive talk Chief Stanton said that now is the time to clean out and repair chimneys. The chief also impressed on his audience the necessity of giving the exact locations of fires when using the telephone to summon the department. He advocated the turning in of box alarms for fires as the bell system prevents confusion of locations and streets that frequently occur over the 'phone.

Mr. Day started his talk with a description of various kinds of lightning, showing a number of pictures taken of lightning flashes and spoke in a brief way of the laboratory experiments made with artificial lightning by electrical experts. Then he went on to describe and illustrate old time methods of transportation as compared with the modern steam engine and mammoth electrical engines that draw long express trains today. He traced the rapid development of the use of electricity from the earliest electrical generators, motors, etc., to the present day of trolley cars, telephones, electric railroads and the thousands of electrical appliances and conveniences in use today.

Mr. Day, in recognition of fire prevention week, pointed out the danger of electricity through improper installation and use as the cause of many disastrous fires. Faulty connections, bare wires and bad locations of electrical appliances should be avoided.

Carelessness is the principal cause of fires caused by electrical apparatus. A flat iron left with the current turned on, and under certain conditions, will start a fire in a few minutes. Plate warmers, carelessly handled, have been known to burn down palatial residences.

One point which the speaker especially stressed was that a person should never grasp a light fixture and a faucet or metal pipe of any kind at the same time and that a person should never grasp a light fixture while in a bath tub or while standing on a wet floor. Such action has been known to result in fatal shocks.

In closing his address Mr. Day illustrated on the screen how many fires are caused through rubbish piles and by the careless use of electrical appliances.

CORONER EXONERATES GILMAN FOR AUTOMOBILE FATALITY

Coroner J. J. Desmond of this city has exonerated John N. Gilman of 284 Prospect street, Willimantic, who has been under $2,500 bonds since his automobile struck and killed 10-year-old Anna Tiesrajer of Yantic, about a week ago. The child died in the Backus hospital five hours after she had been hit by the automobile.

Coroner Desmond's finding was that the accident was unavoidable and that Gilman was driving his car at a moderate rate of speed. Witnesses testified that the child ran from behind a loaded lumber wagon directly in front of the automobile. The state police and members of the Norwich police department who investigated the accident reached the same conclusion.

In the city court Friday morning Mr. Gilman was released and was informed that his operator's license, which has been suspended by the state motor vehicle department since the accident, will be returned to him.

FIVE DIVORCES GRANTED, DESERTION CHIEF CAUSE

In the superior court at New London Friday, Judge Isaac Wolfe granted five divorces to mismated couples.

Edward G. Gibson of Griswold was granted a decree from Mary E. Gibson of Groton on the grounds of desertion from April 15, 1905. The couple were married May 20, 1883 and the plaintiff's maiden name was Mary E. Keeney.

Annie E. Dawes of Montville was divorced from Frederick L. Dawes of parts unknown on the grounds of desertion since Sept. 1, 1916. Mrs. Dawes who was married Jan. 9, 1913 was allowed to resume her maiden name of Annie E. Cuddy.

Eugene Leonard of Westfield, Mass., was divorced from Florence M. Leonard of Old Lyme on the grounds of desertion. The couple were married Oct. 12, 1917 and the desertion occurred Feb. 13, 1920.

Mary Vine Wynne of New London was divorced from Herbert H. Wynne, of parts unknown, on the grounds of infidelity, alleged to have occurred with Emma Greene of New York and Chicago between Jan. 1 and Nov. 1, 1922. The plaintiff was given the custody of two minor children.

Anna Gross Stevens of New London, was granted a decree from Benjamin Stevens of Rockland, Me., on the grounds of cruelty. The couple were married June 1, 1902, and cruelty was alleged from Jan. 1, 1917. The plaintiff was given the custody of one minor child.

BAPTIST WOMAN'S LEAGUE HELD INDOOR PICNIC

The Woman's league of the Central Baptist church held an indoor picnic Friday afternoon, beginning at 6 o'clock. Members of the World Wide Guild were present as guests, there being in all 105 present. After a supper the members of the World Wide Guild entertained with songs, etc. and there was a devotional period followed by a business meeting, at which Mrs. David A. Pitt presided. Reports of the World Wide Guild meeting in Westerly last week were given by six members and an address on Italian work was given by Miss Bertha Bridgman of Hartford who has been engaged in Italian mission work in Connecticut and Massachusetts for seven years.

Only the successful man is in a position to value the world's praise at its true worth.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

THE ART OF PLEASING IS THE ART OF RAISING IN THE WORLD.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.

The Empty Nest.

Today I found a little empty nest,
Fashioned with rarest and most patient skill;
A few soft, tiny feathers lingered still
Where once reposed the loving mother's breast.
But she will come no more from weary quest
With food for every tender, open bill;
No more her care their every want can fill—
They wander far, who once found here their nest.

Ah me, my nest is empty, too, today
The birdlings whom I loved and reared have flown;
The words now left unsaid I cannot say,
The lessons still unlearned will ne'er be known;
Once on each heart I wrote whate'er I willed,
But ere I knew, the snowy leaves were filled.

—Ninette M. Lowater.

An Old House Speaks.

"I am an old, old house; they say
That I was raised in seventeen twenty-five;
It seems a long time since that day—
Long, lonely years that I have been alive.
Especially these years I'm left alone;
It saddens me, now all the family's gone.

"They say an old house rambles; well,
Maybe 'tis so; the dear-remembered past
I can call mine, and who can tell
How many future years my soul may last?

"Throughout the sunny stretch of day
I feel quite dead, as if my silent heart
Had left me and gone far away;
But with the fading twilight shadows start
Pale spirit-memories that fill each room
Whose jealous walls forbid the world to come.

"Dim slave-forms glide across the floor—
Dinah and Binah and old Uncle Ned;
They seem to seek that long-since unused door
That passageward to draughty shed rooms led.

"Once, in a southeast upper room,
Salt-swept by breath of marsh and white-capped sea,
Was born a babe—destined in years to come—
A great and mighty advocate to be.
Gladly I thrilled, that from my humble frame
One should spring forth to win such honored fame.

"In later years, small, childish feet
To attic room ran up my creaking stair,
And where broad roof and great, square chimney meet
Oft days of northeast storm played gaily there.
Most oft when sadly drips the Autumn rain
I wish that little child might come again!

"But I grow older with each year;
My roof will sag, my timbers rot away;
How long before I'll surely disappear
Into my own loved past? Ah, who can say!"

—Agnes Choate Wonson, in Boston Globe.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES.

HELIOTROPE: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

GETTING RIGHT WITH THE CORNER.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: For the past two or more weeks I have been ashamed of so few letters in the page The Bulletin has so kindly given to us. Why not do less talking about the advertisements and get a pen or pencil and go to it and write? I hear some one say, "Well Calla Lily hasn't written for a long time." Yes I have, but on sending in a notice of our fall meeting, our editor informed me that my letter never reached his desk and that when one does not appear to call up and ask if it was received, or write another, and if No. 1 turns up it will be combined with the other and published, as he says the letters are too few to find the pigeonhole or go to the waste basket.

I don't know what is the matter with our mails, but a receipt for a coal bill mailed to me has never been received, but as it was paid by check I have never bothered about it. So if that happens why wouldn't our letters for the Corner go astray? So sisters, if you don't see your letter don't get peeved over trifles. There are larger troubles to fret and scold about. I find it pays to forget, look happy and not grow old.

Well, Scottie, you asked how I liked my new home. We are all pleased with it and we will always feel so. It seems good not to have the landlord drop in every month and say your rent is raised, as he did twice from December to June 1st. I got a raise of $20 besides four previous raises in rent and no extra improvements to warrant it.

Delish Desh: It was very good of you to send me the little gift. I will surely add to it as fast as I can, but I can never replace my big register of Social Corner names. Who ever has my book surely knows it's not their property. My conscience would bother me if I kept it and so many knew it was lost.

Hiawatha and I certainly had a great time demonstrating Sheik coffee at the fair, and met so many Social Corner sisters there. W. H. is perfectly wild over the Corner sisters and enjoyed their visit at his booth.

I want to thank all those who so promptly responded as hostess and donors for our next meeting the first Wednesday of November at the Buckingham Memorial.

During the summer I have sent out quite a few sunshine flowers to those sick, also flowers to the funerals of Mandy (Mrs. Laura Coit) and Stillwater (Mrs. Charles Spalding.) They will both be missed in the Corner where they were such a help and in their lodges especially the Pythian Sisters. Our sympathy is extended to their dear ones left to mourn them.

Great Grandma: Your rugs were lovely. Was pleased to meet your dear daughter.

Well, I've done my bit if it isn't of much interest. Now all you writers, go thou and do likewise and let's make that old page look like our own. Best wishes to every writer.

CALLA LILY (Nov. 25.)

HAVE YOUR OWN DRY SHAMPOO

Dear Social Corner Friends: It has been a long time since I have written. Have had neuritis for nearly eight weeks in my right arm and could do nothing for weeks. Cannot comb my hair yet. Anne D and Maria have done it for weeks. I am so thankful to be gaining every day, and hope that I can work as usual soon.

I went up street and had a dry shampoon—and paid one dollar for it. I think it is much cheaper to do as I usually do—sift one cup of granulated white meal and warm it in the oven. Don't get it hot enough to brown for it doesn't smell good. Then rub it into your hair and then fasten your hair up and leave it half or three quarters of an hour. I tie an old veil over it to keep the meal in. After that, brush and shake the hair and rub it good, to get the meal off. You will find your hair clean and the meal black. Warming the meal does it better than using it cold for it soaks the oil up better. I always do mine this way in the winter.

Papa's Boy: Here is a Harrison cake that my mother used to make. I hope it is what you want: One cup of sugar, 1 cup of butter, 1 cup of molasses, 3 eggs, 1 cup of milk, 3 cups of flour, 1 teaspoonful of soda, 1 teaspoonful of cloves, 1 teaspoonful of cinnamon, a little nutmeg, a little salt, 2 cups of chopped dates.

My mother never used so much spice just a little of each.

My arm tells me I must stop so I will.

RECIPES FROM PAULA.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am sending a few recipes.

Take one quart fresh sweet cider, one cup sugar and boil together. Then peel eight sweet apples and let them remain whole. Drop them into the boiling syrup till they are tender when they will turn pink. Put them in crock or jars and pour rest of the boiling syrup over apples. Apples must be hard sweet apples.

Sweet Cider Jelly: Take to every pint sweet cider one to two cups sugar, boil till thickens, pour it into tumblers or jelly glasses.

Cheese Puffs: Soak one cup of dry bread crumbs in two cups of milk, add the well beaten yolks of three eggs ((tablespoon of melted butter and pepper and salt, the beaten whites of the eggs and one cup of dry grated cheese. Pour into a pudding dish, cover with dry bread crumbs and bake in a quick oven until brown. Serve at once.

Bread Date Pudding: Soak in one cup of milk one cup of stale bread crumbs, add two well beaten eggs, two tablespoons of finely chopped suet, one-half cup of light brown sugar, a pinch each of salt, cinnamon and nutmeg and one cup of chopped dates. Dredge in flour, beat hard and pour into a buttered mold. Steam for about three hours. Melt half glass grape jelly and serve as sauce with the pudding.

Tomato Jelie: Scald tomatoes, take off skin, cook tomatoes with sugar and lemons, take two tablespoons of gelatine, soak for one hour, then pour warm water, about half cup, with tomatoes, sugar, lemon and boil all together till it thickens. Use as much sugar as you want to sweeten.

Many thanks to editor for yellow slip.

PAULA.

HAVE TO WORK FOR THE GOOD THINGS.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I ought to have written last month, it being my birthday month, but somehow did not get to it.

I think September is a very busy month, especially for the sisters that live out in the country, with so much canning and pickling to be done. It's hard and slow work, but then we have a lot of nice good things to eat, which come in very handy during the long winter months. It's all over with now, so will take a couple days' vacation in a little trip to good old Norwich, and visit with some of the good old Norwich Corner sisters. This summer I was lucky enough to attend two of the picnics, Student's, at Versailles, which was just fine and Sis Hopkins', a short distance from my home. Everything was just lovely, a lovely day, lovely place, and a lovely hostess. Everybody seemed to enjoy it so much.

Little Sister: How have you been this summer? Hope to meet you again this coming winter.

Mary France: Very soon you may expect Betsy Bray to spend the day with you. She is looking forward to it with great pleasure.

Scottie: Am glad you had so happy a birthday.

Delight: Haven't seen a letter from you for a long, long while. Hope you're not working too hard.

Best regards to all sisters.

MARIGOLD.

OUR FAULTS.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I have often wondered why the editor presents a sentiment, as a headline on the Social Corner page, and whatever the intent and purpose may be, the recognition or responses are few. If given as a suggestion, or a topic for the writers, there is always good food for thought to be expressed. In last week's issue the subject is ample for all contributors. I believe human nature is largely endowed with faults. It seems almost impossible to find any character, which does not possess, at least, some trifling fault or defect in disposition. It is apparently so easy to see the faults, or mistakes in others, than to realise our own failures. To admit we have made a mistake, that we made an error, either accidently, or intentionally, means humility of spirit. In other words, a fault confessed is half redeemed, and generally respected with charity of thought by the opposing party. Many a person has been blamed for some fault, which did not belong to them, and the burden has been heavy while the guilty party upheld pride, rather than submit to confession.

It certainly requires much patience to master our faults, or defects, and just as much charity towards others, to overlook theirs.

Kind regards to all.

JENNIE.

KNOW WINTER IS COMING.

Dear Friends of the Corner: There were fifteen letters on the Corner page last Saturday an increase of six, I think.

I am rather late extending my thanks to Sis Hopkins and Alfara for the good times they both gave us. They certainly couldn't do enough for us.

These frosty morning make one realise that winter is approaching. It seems as if we haven't had a summer it has been so cool. If the Cloud Digger's predictions are correct, we may expect a severe winter. No less than thirty snow storms are in store for us. But with a bin full of hard coal and a shed full of oak wood I think we can weather through. But I think of those with only a little fuel on hand or perhaps none at all.

Elisa Jane: The soup was delicious. I had five quart jars and some for supper. The pickles also were fine. Haven't tried the marmalade yet. Did you have a good time at the centennial?

Nema: How close we came to missing the bus the day we were at your home? Saw Mary France in town yesterday also Neighbor Everready who lives beyond your place.

Thanks so all who remembered me on my birthday.

With best wishes to the editor and the Corner.

WILTWICK.

GLAD WHEN CANNING IS OVER.

Dear Corner Members: Like many of the rest I am sorry to see the letters filling so little space and will try to help a bit.

Was pleased to read that Lavender had such a delightful birthday party. In our vicinity we have been observing birthdays more than usual this year. I think it is a very nice custom.

The canning season is about over and I am glad to have it and, as it certainly interferes with one's enjoyment of the fall. Some think it is too much bother but surely nothing can be bought that is equally good as what is canned at home.

Probably everyone is busy getting ready for winter just now. A little later, when we have not so many plans and it is not so pleasant to be traveling about, let us hope to see more letters on our page.

HEPATICA.

GREETINGS FROM DON PEDRO.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I was treated to a great surprise when I saw the yellow slip and wish to thank the editor for it. They don't come my way very often, consequently are all the more welcome.

Golden Glow: I was so sorry to miss the picnic at Lebanon church. You know I asked you about it when I was up there around the Fourth of July, but it did not materialize.

Peggy Anne: I saw by your letter you were planning of come to New London some time in October. Why can't you give me a call? I should be very glad to see you. I expect to have another outing at Thanksgiving time, going to pick ducks' feathers and bones up to Norwich.

Betty Brown: I am sure that bug must have got you, for you promised to come and see me this last summer, and you never came. I should like to kill that bug.

If you feel you need a change,
Here is a simple thing to do:
Just shut your eyes, then open them
And take a different point of view.

Count your blessings, dear sisters, and be thankful you have some to count.

DOM PEDRO.

IN A LIGHTER VEIN.

Dear Social Corner Friends: After baking many pies, cakes and cookies from the good Corner recipes and sitting down to rest, how would a few jokes do at this time? I will send in some from an automobile insurance company's pamphlet:

She learned that speed and health
don't mix,
While resting now in Ward A-6.

Let your lights so shine before men
That they may see to drive again

He drove with his arm around her neck,
But it was not his mother's.
So hug your girl before you start
And save the necks of others.

Why are there so many children in heaven,
Where the gates have such good
latches?
An elder bowed and then replied:
"Automobile and matches!"

Here lies the body of William Blake;
Tread softly all who pass.
He thought his foot was on the brake
But it was on the gas.

Bill Jones always took a chance—
A lad both brave and bold;
So now he with the angels chants
Good David's psalms of old.

Seth Brown thought his boy was exceeding bright,
Lets him drive just as soon as the cop's out of sight;
But alas! and alack! he soon learned what he did
Killed a boy much brighter than his stupid kid.

The Corner page will soon have to put in an adv., "Wanted, more writers, young or old." Vacations are over, fairs all closed, and a thing of the past, but the Social Corner must move on, and let us hope the page will be well filled with letters in the future.

With best wishes to all, from

RURAL DELIVERY.

PICNICS AT ALFARA'S AND TUNY ANN'S.

Dear Corner Members: Alfara resides at Sunshine farms, and while the sun did not shine outside, we found it was a home where they made their own sunshine. We were first attracted by the porch, gay with yellow streamers and pumpkins. As fate decreed we should not picnic outside, on entering it sounded like bees humming about, and Sunshine farm was rightly named.

Alfara and her able assistants were able to seat all inside for dinner, and such a spread!

Chicken pie, mashed potatoes, succotash, pickles, sandwiches, salads, corn, doughnuts, cakes of all kinds, pie, canteloupe and ice cream, and coffee.

During dinner Amy announced the illness of our dear sister White January in Ward 8, Hartford hospital.

At the close of dinner every sister was presented a sample of coffee and the donor's letter to the Social Corner.

Just as is always necessary after such a dinner, stunts were performed. There was a tug of war with Captains Sis Hopkins and Neighbor Everready, the latter's team being the winner of a box of chocolates.

Then came the blindfolded contest for securing a bag of peanuts. This was won by a Social Corner sister's husband.

Music was furnished by Sis Hopkins, and her husband rendered violin selections.

A Sure Cure for Blues by Ruthertion.

Intermission? Oh, no! Watermelon was served, and then a social hour followed until we had to depart amidst rousing cheers, three times three, and long flourish the owners of Sunshine farm!

Had hoped to report, this the night of picnic but after tug of war attempted no other stunts, and of course thought the next Saturday would find this in sure, but here it is, and I hope our shut-in sisters will enjoy it, even though it is a bit late.

Probably The Corner will bring an account from a less busy sister's pen, but as it's started here goes, with greetings to one and all.

Did you every hear of North Windham and some of our Cornerites over there?

Well now, you just listen. We've been to Sunshine farm and now we've been to the hall and ably entertained by Tuney Ann and her assistants. The day was ideal in every way. Our dinner consisted of baked beans, pickles, salads, sandwiches, pies, cake and dainty pastries, also fruit, and the famous Sheik coffee.

The entire day was given over largely to sociability.

The future meeting place was discussed and will be announced at a later date.

"Our Neighbors" and "Getting on With Myself" were read by Little Me. Two valuable lunch cloths were shown by one of our Lebanon sisters, who was the maker.

I wish to thank all the sisters who brought the honey.

Attendance 42 and appetites prevailed, food was excellent by way it disappeared.

Everyone was "as young as they used to be."

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

WANTS TO KNOW WHERE STERLING HILL IS.

Dear Social Corner Editor: There are two questions I would like to ask in regard to two interesting items in last week's Corner, and so appeal to you to help me with them. Will Pices tell me where Sterling Hill is and how to get there? Would like to see that scenery.

The recipe for pepper relish sent to Thames View is mixed up in my copy of The Bulletin, but think I have it all except knowing what the writer means by "heat two quarters of vinegar." This is under the heading Club No. 2's First Meeting.

Having read the Corner page for some time would like to say I find it the most interesting page of the paper and have saved many valuable and interesting items from it. Would like to save these too, with your help. Having lived in Norwich some years ago so many of the places mentioned from time to time are familiar to me.

Would like to join the Corner if there is room. Would like to use the pen name Heliotrope if no one else uses it.

HELIOTROPE.

(In the pepper relish recipe sent in last week by Celia Louis whose name was unintentionally omitted the reference to "two quarters of vinegar" was a typographical error. It should have been "two quarts of vinegar."—S. C. Editor.)

CORN TOAST

Dear Editor and Cornerites: I am on a knockout trip this time. First it is advs and later on the fill up. I like the others have some Sunday callers to lunch and at the evening meal, instead of the regular roast, vegetables, etc., I had cold meat, salad of tomatoes, cut fine without seeds, green pepper shredded and both put together with salt, sugar and vinegar, and to finish we had slices of toasted bread, buttered on top of which had been put green corn, which had been scored and scraped, cooked six minutes and wet with top milk, butter and salt.

Some looked at it inquiringly but it vanished and one said corn toast. All said put it in the Social Corner, so here you have it.

Hubby toasted herring and some pilot bread which was very good.

Let's get out doors this kind of weather and with ozone fresh and free air what dirt and dust we inhale will put sand in our crop. As ever,

J. E. T.

REAL GENUINELY SOCIAL PEOPLE AT CORNER GATHERINGS

Dear Friends All: I made my first visit to the Social Corner entertainments last Wednesday at the Buckingham and I want to tell you all how pleased and delighted I was as I had but a little idea of the splendid company of real and genuinely social people who gather at the hoppy meetings.

All come with smiling faces and I found many old friends and acquaintances, some of whom I had not met for many years and had supposed had long since passed away, and it gave me a new lease of life to find that I am not quite the only one left on earth that I knew in days of old, and how glad I was to meet them once more.

The company consisted of sisters of all ages and sizes, there being one dear little angel just five weeks old and it was a real angel although I did not catch the given name—and let us all pray that he may get through this world of sin and strife and keep as sweet and lovely as now.

The dinner was a blooming success. No end of good things to eat and lots left, and when it was all over there was dancing and recitations and our dear Joan played for us and gave us the old tunes so dear to our hearts and so seldom heard in the days of trots and bunnyhugs. It surely was a treat to listen to the Irish Washerwoman, White Cockade, Fishers Hornpipe, The Tempest, Money Musk, and Highland Fling—and I felt just like stepping them all out as of old, but alas! I have not the necessary feet in these days. Really Joan is a rare Cornerite and long may she be with us.

I think I am a little late in thanking the editor for the yellow slip but I thank him just the same and must excuse myself by saying that it's better never late, although better late than never—and sometime I may tell you how rich I am going to get with that slip for capital.

Now I am going to put in my O A R —by asking you all why you do not stop pickling long enough to write a letter for the editor to put into the Corner page. When we stop to think of the grand times we have had and are to have we most certainly ought to fill at least one page of our appreciations of the splendid Social Corner. Now suppose you all skip a jar of your nice pickles or preserves and write a letter for the Corner. It won't take near as long and will be better for your digestion.

I am going on my annual visit to the mountains and hope to see them in all the glory of fall and if the cars keep right side up and nothing else ocurs to extinguish my light, I hope to write you while there, and in the meantime I will advance the wish for a nice fat turkey for Thanksgiving, a merry Christmas and lots of happy New Years, for you all.

JERUSHY SPICE.

AUTUMN WALKING.

Dear Sisters: I am writing a few lines once more and trying hard to keep up the Corner. Glad to see a few more letters. Hope to see many more this week. We are having some beautiful fall days now. Let's all get out and enjoy them as much as we can. Went for a walk yesterday afternoon with a friend. We went down through a strip of woods. It as just lovely, such a nice afternoon. I love to take a walk this time of year when the leaves are so pretty in their different colors. Did not get down to the Social Corner meeting. I looked on the Corner page and didn't notice it elsewhere in the paper but will try to go for the next one. Am nearly through canning which is some job but nice to have. Let us try to get a little more time to write to the Corner remembering to Merrytie Merrily work with a will.

With good Luck to all

RURAL AUNTY.

RECIPES BY WEE WEE

Dear Corner Sisters and Editor: As Oct. 10 was the last picnic of the season I am glad so many went to make it a day to be remembered.

We certainly had a fine time September 20. It was a wonderful day and a day that Lavendar will never forget. We wish her many more.

I will send a good recipe for tomato soup.

Tomato Soup. One-half bushel ripe tomatoes, 2 medium onions, 10 sprays parsley, 8 bay leaves, 12 whole cloves, 1 bunch celery, strain through sieve. Add 1¾ cups sugar, 1 teaspoon pepper, 9 teaspoons salt, ½ lb. butter, 1½ cup flour. Cook ½ hour. Can hot.

Grapenut Bread: Two cups sour milk 1 cup grapenuts, soaked in milk 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 4 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder. It is good with sweet milk and not so much soda.

Ginger Bread: One cup sour cream, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup raisins, 1¼ teaspoon soda, 2¼ cups flour, 1 egg. Ginger, cinnamon and salt.

WEE WEE.

HARRISON CAKE.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Seeing a request from Papa's Boy for a recipe for Harrison cake am sending one I have.

Harrison Cake: One cup of brown sugar, two cups of molasses, one cup of shortening, one cup of sour milk, two even teaspoons of saleratus, one teaspoon of ground cloves, one cup of raisins, one cup of currants, salt to suit taste.

You see there are no eggs. Use your own judgment about the amount of flour—the batter should be quite stiff. This will make two loaves.

It is many years since I have made it so do not remember the quantity of flour. Hope you will have good luck.

JOAN.

Sometimes I think that I'll write an advertisement for Jordan that will run without change for ten years.

Here it is:—

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week J. Lloyd Greene was chosen president of the then recently organized Norwich Trotting association. The association was at that time planning for its first annual meeting which was set for October 22nd and 23rd, 1873. As a whole the week was an eventful one in Norwich. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of that week are as follows:

Monday, Oct. 6, 1873—Friday evening $1500 were guaranteed, in less than an hour, in an effort to raise $2,500, to be trotted for in various purses at the first fall meeting of an association of Norwich gentlemen, which is as yet without a name. The meeting will occur shortly after that at New Haven.

The Good Intent Hose company of Brookline, Mass., reached this city on the 5:35 o'clock train Saturday morning. They were met at the depot by Chief Engineer Carrier and a delegation from the Wauregan steamer company whose guests they became during their short stay here. It was the universal testimony that a better behaved company of firmen have never been entertained in this city. The Wauregans especially felt proud of their guests o fwhom they speak in very complimentary terms.

The new billiard rooms of Melvin Foster will be formally opened to the public on Wednesday evening. Garnier, Cyrille Dion, Daley and other celebrities will be present.

Tuesday, Oct. 7, 1873—At a regular meeting of the Niagara Hose company last evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: John Blackburn, formen; Robert H. Nelson, first amsitant; Henry H. Leavitt, 2d ass'stant; Daniel Lee, secretary; Wm. Hall, treasurer.

One of Bailey's six mule teams got fast in the new earth of the sewer excavation on Broadway, near Slater avenue, Monday afternoon.

Sections of woods of various sorts from the lands of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad company passed through Norwich yesterday on their way to the Danbury fair.

Wednesday, Oct. 8, 1873—The reading room is frequented by ladies daily. It is very nicely kept, the finest order is observed and we should not in the least be surprised if, in a short time, the feminine patronage was the largest.

The largest piece of celery in town, was shown at Wm. Pool's on Franklin street, Saturday evening. It was sixty-eight inches long and was well bleached for two feet. Ellis Taylor of Greeneville raised it.

Capt. Henry Palmer of Montville, the loss of whose vessel by ice crushing, was reported by tielgraph some time ago, returned in the Tigress, one of the vessels of the Polaris expedition. He arrived in this city Tuesday. He reports that the cargo and stores of the vessel were safely landed in the Arctic regions. Capt. Palmer is a brother of Wm. S. Palmer of this city.

Thursday, Oct. 9, 1873—Fort Point as a port of entry is now fully established, a schooner load of lumber from Maine having been discharged at its docks last week. Several cargoads of brick and lumber have also been landed there and two houses are in course of construction on the main road a short distance north of the school house. This new settlement is destined to be an interest of no little importance in the future.

Norwich has the champion pig pen of New England. It stands near the propellor dock and has ample accommodations for several thousand pigs. It is usually well filled with well known English, Welch and American varieties and occasionally a few are in the enclosure from Norway and Sweden.

A large audience at Trinity church yesterday noon witnessed the marriage of our esteemed townsman, Austin B. Nash.

Friday, Oct. 10, 1873—The first annual meeting of the recently organized Norwich Trotting association will occur on the 22d and 23d inst. The association has chosen J. Lloyd Greene, president, Dr. W. H. Mason, vice president, William A. Buckingham 2d, secretary, and has provided purses to be trotted for.

While the Norwich Hose company were running down Boswell avenue last evening in response to an alarm, a man named William Murphy fell from the pole of the carriage and was run over. Most of the ribs on one side were broken and also wrenched from the spine. Dr. Cassidy was at once in attendance and did everything in his power for the injured man, but his recovery is considered doubtful.

The new dam of the Falls company at the worsted mill is finished. The work is spoken of as being very strongly and substantially built.

Saturday, Oct. 11, 1873—The subscription for the purchase of new books for the Otis library is not yet large enough to make the effort a success, although the responses received have been very liberal.

Forty-three cattle, three carloads, came in town from Albany yesterday, for various Norwich butchers.

The laying of the Nicholson pavement on the more western of the West Side bridges was completed yesterday and a good start made on the bridge near the city elevator.

Rev. John V. Lewis, formerly rector of Trinity church in this city, and more lately a resident of Washington, D. C., is to be rector of Grace church in Newark, N. J.

NOTABLE SPEAKER FOR SUNDAY Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Every man in Norwich who enjoys listening to a virile, stirring message by a remarkable speaker, is invited to attend a mass meeting for men at the Norwich Young Men's Christian Association on the coming Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, when Rev. John L. Davis, of New Britain, the "Men's Man," of Connecticut will deliver one of his ringing messages that is calculated to strongly grip the men who are fortunate enough to hear it.

Mr. Davis hails from Oklahoma, where his father was a railroad contractor. He graduated from Oklahoma City college and Drew Theological seminary, New Jersey, and was a fellow in the United Free Church college, Glasgow, Scotland. During the World war, Mr. Davis received a commission as captain in the construction division of the United States army and spoke to thousands of civilian workmen in army camps from New York to Texas. This assignment was occasioned by his popular fame as an effective and satisfying speaker to men. His address finely blend truth with humor and his messages are as breezy as his jovial disposition and seem to reflect the long vision of the prairies from whence he came. Mr. Davis is pastor of the Methodist church of New Britain, and is the leader of the famous "Everyman's Bible class" which has an enrollment of over 1500 men and which has been called "the most dramatic movement of the decade in New England. Mr. Davis is chaplain of the 76th Division, officers reserve corps, and a director in the New Britain chamber of commerce. He gives addresses this fall at the State Sunday school conventions in Maine, Vermont and Connecticut.

Gloria Swanson Has Great Role in New Photoplay at the Broadway Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Gloria Swanson's latest Paramount picture, produced by Sam Wood, is a picturization of Charlton Andrew's adaptation of Alfred Savoir's celebrated French farce, "Bluebeard's Wife." It is said to afford Miss Swanson one of the strongest roles of her screen career, and, what her women admirers will relish most perhaps, provides her with ample opportunities for the display of amazing gowns.

The story is that of a beautiful daughter of French nobility whose father is impoverished and wishes to marry her off to a man of wealth. His wish becomes reality when a rich American meets and falls in love with her. She also loves him.

Then it is learned that the American is a "youthful Bluebeard" and has been married seven times. One wife, it is learned died. The other six he divorced. Miss Swanson as the 8th wife is shocked by the cold-blooded business arrangement made of her marriage and determines she will not be like the other wives, divorced.

Miss Swanson's leading man in "Bluebeard's 8th wife," which will be shown at the Broadway theatre Sunday is Huntley Gordan, a popular player. Paul Weigel, Frank R. Butler, Robert Agnew and Irene Dalton are in the cast.

Will Rogers appears in his three reel comedy of domestic life entitled Fruits of Faith. A news weekly will be the short subjects.

Strand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

A very good program of B. F. Keith vaudeville is scheduled for the Strand theatre for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Savoy and Williams offer A Few Different Things, consisting of comedy characterization, songs, music, comedy and dance.

Malino & Correll are hirthful masters, who follow.

Mabel Harper & Co., in The Funbeam of Vaudeville, is assisted by the talented pianist, Ethel Fitzpatrick.

The Elwell Sisters, the syncopated misses, appear in a very novel offering.

Never in the history of motion pictures has a photoplay depicted with such accuracy the passions of youth as shown in Daniel Carson Goodman's dramatic masterpece, The Daring Years, shown at the Strand theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The Daring Years" is a story of young love. Youth dares everything for love, contends Daniel Carson Goodman, author and producer of this unusual play.

The story deals with the love life of a young college man, who, blinded by passion, plunges deep into the mire of Broadway's mud. He falls deeper and deeper into the abyss, lured on by the sparkling eyes and mocking lips of a blase cabaret beauty, until through circumstances over which he has no control, he is accused of murder. His mother and former sweet heart, who both adore him save him at the last minute from the electric chair, to which he has been condemned through the testimony of the shameless dancer.

Under the masterly guidance of Mr. Goodman, the story reaches a stupendous climax and the denouement of the play is thrilling and unusual to the nth degree.

The cast boasts the finest stars in filmdom—Mildred Harris is the beautiful dancer, wickedly bewitching dancer; Tyrone Power enacts the role of her father; Mary Carr is the mother of the boy, sweet and motherly and appealing as player; Clara Bow the adoring sweetheart; while Charles Emmett Mack enacts the role of the boy with unusual understanding and restraint.

Slater Hall, Musical Course

For the musical season of 1923-24 the following famous artists have been engaged to appear in the Slater hall musical course.

On Friday evening Nov. 2nd, Jeanne Gordon, the leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company will appear.

No more sensational rise to fame in the artistic world has ever been recorded than that of Jeanne Gordon, who has scored a triumph with every appearance in the Metropolitan Opera Co.

Her voice is one of the most remarkable organs heard in years, a voice of extraordinary range, uniformity of timbre, of ample power, warm, rich and fine in texture.

Last season the demand for her concert appearances far exceeded the limited time given her away from the Metropolitan Opera Co., but at each concert, she sang to capacity houses.

On Friday evening, Jan 11th, Percy Grainger, the famous Australian pianist and composer will appear.

For the past two seasons, he has been the musical sensation. Grainger's place is among the greatest of the great. As a composer he must be classed amongst the outstanding of the younger Anglo-Saxon.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 6th Olive Marshall, a leading orateric soprano, of New York will appear with Jean Bedetta, 'cellist of the Boston Symphony orchestra.

To attempt with Olive Marshall has been to succeed. Endowed with a voice of great natural beauty this young singer by her artistic interpretations has attracted the serious attention of the public and critics wherever she has appeared. Her voice has been likened to that of Ilma Nordica.

Jean Bedetti, the distinguished 'cellist has been acclaimed as a leading 'cellist both in recital and as soloist with the Boston Symphony orchestra.

On Friday evening, March 7th, Erna Rubinstein, the great violinist will appear. Erna Rubinstein, who made her unheralded entree to the American concert stage late last season is one of the most sensational additions to the musical elect of recent years.

When a musician like William Mengelberg says that Erna Rubinstein is to me the ideal of what a violinist should be and the foremost critics of New York compare this young artist to Kreisler and Reiffits, then it is small wonder that critics and audiences all over America are deeply interested in this young genius of the violin.

The coming season, Erna Rubinstein will appear in practically all the leading cities.

Musical patrons, who have not already given in their names as subscribers to this course are requested to either place their names on the subscription list at the Cranston Co. or mail their order for tickets to Grace Benjamin, 110 Washington St., Norwich, Conn.

Course tickets $6 (four concerts) tax exempt.

At the New Palace Theatre

In selecting an attraction to open the new fireproof Palace theatre, the management spent considerable time and thought before making this selection. In offering Norma Talmadge in Ashes of Vengeance to the theatre going public of Norwich they feel that their efforts to please the most discriminating will be fully realized.

"A mountain among the myriad molehills of the screen" Thus did the critic of the New York World characterize Joseph M. Schenck's magnificent production, "Ashes of Vengeance," a First National picture starring Norma Talmadge which the Palace theatre will present for three days, commencing Monday. In his quest for material with which to add another brilliant chapter to the notable achievements of his great star, Mr. Schenck had his attention called to H. B. Somerville's novel, "Ashes of Vengeance," while in England a year ago. He read the novel and immediately acquired the screen rights. And he determined that the work would be filmed in strict adherence to the narrative and to historical accuracy.

Thus it is that "Ashes of Vengeance" is an entrancing romance with rich historical background, dealing with a dramatic period in the annals of France which offers richer opportunities for gorgeousness of costume and setting, and for stirring deeds of valor, perhaps than any period in any other country's history.

To insure accuracy in production, Mr. Schenck delegated the writing of the continuity to Frank Lloyd, who had been selected as director, and the art direction to Stephen Goosson, of l'Ecole des Beaux Arts of Paris. An immense amount of research was undertaken by these directors.

The ranks of motion picture talent were combed for types as true as possible to the historic personages who move across the screen in the majestic sequences of this stirring picture, among them Catherine de Medici, Charles the Ninth, and three of the Guises. Among the distinguished artists selected, Norma Talmadge, are Conway Tearle, Wallace Beery, Courtenay Foote, Josephine Crowell, Betty Francisco, Claire McDowell, Andre de Beranger, Murdick MacQuarrie, Boyd Irwin, Carmen Phillips, Winter Hill, William Clifford, Hector V. Sarno, Earl Schenck, Jimmie Cooley, Lucy Beaumont, Forrest Robinson, Mary McAllister, Kenneth Gibson, Howard Truesdell, Frank Leigh and little Jeanne Carpenter.

As an added attraction the management will offer what they term surprise concert vaudeville's offerings, also Will Rogers in a most hilarious laugh producer, "Jus' Passin' Thru", a current news weekly will complete what is considered one of the best balanced entertainments ever offered in Norwich.

City Motor Traffic Getting Out of Bounds.

Ten fundamental facts will make the movement of traffic impossible in the business sections of fifty American cities within five years' time, unless these facts are immediately recognized.

Here arey are, according to Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company:

1. Four million automobiles, added to ten million in use one year ago, will be augmented by the production of more than four million in 1924.

2. Retail merchants will soon wake up to the fact that their front doors are barricaded by six or eight automobiles, the property of six or eight owners, while sixty or seventy customers are crowding around the streets looking for a place to park.

3. Every old fashioned bulky car owned and driven by father, will be replaced by at least three motor cars, adding two for mother and the children.

4. No policeman, effort or money, will be able to handle the traffic that is coming. Only millions and millions of feet of new street floor space can possibly take care of the congestion that is impending.

5. No workhouse sentences nor reduction of speed will solve the problem. More floor space and higher speed for automobiles is absolutely necessary.

6. Street cars and crowded streets are now obsolete except as incubators for automobile prospects. They are turning them out of the shell at the rate of ten thousand Ford owners every day.

7. The question of the saturation point in motor cars can only be answered in three words—"They won't walk."

8. Tax payers will wake up to the fact that the cost of parking spaces outside of the congested area, and wider streets, will double, then triple, then quadruple, as the real estate owners discover the necessity for providing more floor space. Millions can be saved by any city that takes the first step.

9. No motor cars will be parked at the curb. Most streets will be one way streets. Taxi cabs will be as thick as mosquitos on a July night.

10. The growth of population and the volume of business in any city will be in direct ratio to the amount of space provided for the movement of transportation.

Comparison of Dodge Cars.

The Jordan Auto Company, Dodge Brothers dealers, have on display in their show windows one of the first Dodge Brothers cars built. This car of 1915 production is over nine years old and is displayed alongside one of the latest models and represents quite a contrast in appearance. The 1915 model still has the original finish on the body, hood and fenders, never having been varnished in spite of its 85,000 miles of service, thus illustrating the quality of the baked enamel finish used on Dodge Brothers cars.

Between the two cars is an interesting chart illustrating the automobile purchasing value of a dollar in 1915 compared with that in 1923 as against the comparative purchasing value of a dollar for other commodities in 1915 and 1923. This chart illustrates beyond a question of a doubt that a certain sum of money will buy a greater automobile value today than in 1915 while the same amount of money spent for most other commodities today will buy only half what it did in 1915.

In view of these facts, Mr. Jordan asks: "Why shouldn't the public buy Dodge Brothers automobiles today."

The Eternal Struggle at the Bread.

Reginald Barker's genius for staging spectacular and thrilling screen epics has found a new outlet in his recently completed massive production of Metro's The Eternal Struggle, which is coming to the Bread theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The Eternal Struggle is a picturization of G. B. Lancaster's widely read novel, The Law-Bringers. Many of the scenes were filmed in the Canadian northland. Mr. Barker transported his entire cast to Canada, where for months they endured severe hardships while scenes of great beauty were filmed.

Through the co-operation of the Canadian government, Mr. Barker was enabled to explore and make use of many out of the way places of Canada for exceptional shots.

Among the other thrills which The Eternal Struggle includes an ice-jam in the New river that had to be photographed from a steel cage suspended above the treacherous river by a slender cable a dog team race in the shadow of Mt. Robson, and a host of other equally dangerous and thrilling episodes with the flaming beauty of the snow country as a background.

The cast includes Barie Williams, Renee Adoree, Barbara La Marr, Pat O'Malley, Wallace Beery, Josef Swickard, Pat Harmon, George Kuwa, Ed J. Brady, Robert Anderson and Andre Randolf.

Renee Adoree, young and beautiful wife of Tom Moore, who attains fame in The Eternal Struggle, is Mr. Barker's find. West coast reviewers, upon seeing The Eternal Struggle, hailed Miss Adoree as one of the greatest actresses of the cinema.

Topics of the Day and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Today's bill consists of James Whitcomb Riley's An Old Sweetheart of Mine: Ruth Roland in Haunted Valley, the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy. Continuous show today from 1.30 to 10.15 p. m.

FRED L. POST, OF NEW LONDON, DENIES MURDER OF MAINE WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 18.—Morris Kozlosky must answer to the police court Monday for being caught with intoxicating liquor in his pockets—two bottles of it—and the only plausible reason for his having it is that he intended to sell it. After he was nabbed an inspection of his home revealed a considerable number of bottles of Hunter rye and Scotch whiskey, besides cans of alcohol and the apparatus for transferring the stuff from one receptacle to another by the syphon route. Morris said that he came from New York with the liquor and that he brought it through the streets from the boat in a bundle. He was not molested and deposited the stuff in the Hempstead premises. There also were found hundreds of boxes of alleged cigarettes which are prohibited from sale miscellaneously in the market. Sergeant Hick and Patrolman Philopena made the arrest and secured the evidence which will be presented against Morris. He used an auto in his business and the officers say he has been under suspicion as a bootlegger a long time. The police claim they were satisfied that he was in the bootlegging business but they were not able to catch him in a sale. He is a familiar figure about the lower part of Bank street and Howard streets. He was held in $1,000 bonds.

A special to The Bulletin from Rockland, Me., says: Fred L. Post, 45, of New London, Conn., marine engineer, who is held in jail here without bail on the charge of murder, in connection with the death of Mrs. Sybil Hamilton, 33, of Rockland, in a statement today denied that a cross word had passed between Mrs. Hamilton and himself in the thirty years of their acquaintance. The woman was shot and killed on a lonely stretch of road in North Waldoboro, Wednesday, while driving Post from Rockland to China in her automobile.

The police said that Post shot the woman because she refused to marry him.

"She asked me two or three times if I would marry her and I said no," Post declared in his statement today. He denied statements made in New London that his first wife, Cassie Jameson, of Rockland, from whom he was divorced eighteen years ago, was a sister of Mrs. Hamilton, and that he had been married four times. He said he had been married only twice: his present wife, now in New London, having been Margaret Young, of Harrington, Me.

Post declared that he had not owned a revolver since he sold his, four months ago. The weapon with which Mrs. Hamilton was shot has not been found. He said that a Rockland man, whom he did not name, "would know about the shooting."

Post said that he had lived in New London 19 years. He was formerly a policeman here.

Fishers Island is sending fourteen pupils to the New London schools every day, the girls and boys coming over on the morning boat and returning at 4.20 in the afternoon.

Thomas R. Dick, who was in the drug business in New London a long time, is now in a pharmacy at Norwich.

The Mariners' Savings bank is to display a large sign on the top of a building at Bank and Truman street. The frame work for the sign is in place.

The police say that New London has not been so free from bootlegging since the prohibition amendment. They declare that the lower part of the city and the section about Water, John and Douglass and North Bank street has been practically cleaned up and, that other sections are now to receive attention not received heretofore. The police do not pretend that all the places where liquor is sold are closed nor that all who traffic in it have been apprehended, but fear has struck them and they are not doing the business they once carried on rather openly.

New London theatres are more prosperous than they have been since war days when there was a tremendously large floating population in this city.

A meeting is to be held to make arrangements for the observance of Armistice day in New London. It is proposed to have an observance that will do honor to such an important event in the history of the nation.

The meeting was attended by about 20 persons and was quite enthusiastic. Many organizations of the city were represented. The fire department and the labor organizations are largely represented in the American Legion, which order is moving for the observance at the day and these members will be in the ranks of the legion during the time the procession is moving rather than in the civic bodies. The school children and the Boy Scouts will be invited to parade as will the various civic orders and societies. That they will accept the invitation is reasonably certain. There will be some 1000 in line, it is expected and arrangements will be made for feeding that number at Odd Fellows' hall, the K. of C. home, the Masonic buildings and the Elks' home. Women representing various organizations gave assurance of whatever aid they could render at the tables.

Bank street is receiving the attention of the highway department for the paving on that section of the street between Pearl and State street.

An arc light has been placed on Montauk avenue at Blindenburg makes a decided improvement in the light along the avenue, there has been only one light on the west side of the former avenue, between Bank street and Perry street, a distance of more than a mile.

Miss Gladys Barton of Groton, Joseph Sauffe, Westerly; O. Clyde Fowler, Groton, and Mrs. Joseph Lyon of Reed street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Columbus day was observed in New London today by the suspension of business by banks the entire day and the municipal buildings for a half day, other city building suspending business at noon.

John P. Dorl, formerly of New London, now located in New York, spent today renewing acquaintances in this city. Mr. Dorl will leave tomorrow for a visit in Waterbury and Meriden before returning to his home.

Michael DiBiasi of Noank and Miss Philomena Gentile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gentile of Groton, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, by Rev. William C. Fox pastor of the church. Louis DiBiasi of Noank, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Rose Frascione of Brooklyn, N. Y., attended the bride. A breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank DiBiasi of Noank and this evening a dance was held at the DiBiasi residence. Mr. and Mrs. DiBiasi left this evening on a wedding trip and upon their return will reside in Noank. Mr. DiBiasi is a New London merchant.

The funeral of Thomas F. Robertson was held this evening at 3 o'clock at the rooms of New London lodge of Elks, Washington street, the mourners including members of the Elks, Fraternal Order of Eagles and Mohegan lodge, I. O. O. F., also a large delegation of barbers with whom Mr. Robertson had been association. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Tomorrow morning the body will be forwarded to Springfield, Mass., where it will be cremated. The ashes will be sent to Minersville, Pa., at the request of Mr. Robertson.

After having operated motor buses between New London, Groton, Noank and Mystic since last April, the Groton & Stonington Street Railway company has announced that beginning Monday the entire bus system will be discontinued and in their places trolley cars will be used.

Lawrence Donohue, employed in Boston, was a visitor in New London with his sisters, the Misses Donohue of Ocean Beach, yesterday, being enroute to New York to witness the remaining games of the World series.

Miss Ella Howard, daughter of Police Sergeant and Mrs. Frank T. Howard, and employed as stenographer by the Robert Gair company, Montville, has received the appointment as secretary to City Manager William A. Holt and will assume her new duties on the 22nd, taking the place made vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Helen Keeney Floyd.

Charles H. Smith of the Smithsonian Bureau of Investigation at Boston, has made inquiry of the New London police as to the present address of Thomas C. West, a former resident of New London. Mr. West was a contractor who moved from New London about four years ago. Nothing is known here as to where Mr. West is now residing.

Charles Shuman, 11 Fremont street, complained to the police this afternoon that the basement of his home had been entered and that a letter cap of his Nash automobile had been stolen.

W. Potter Brown, at one time a well known orchestra director of musical comedies, particularly being identified with the productions starring Anna Held, and who until several years ago, was employed by the James Hislop & Co., is seriously ill at his home at Ocean Beach.

The automobile owned and operated by Lloyd G. Potter, 105 Green street, was damaged this afternoon when Potter was driving through the entrance to Cedar Grove cemetery and the car struck one of the granite posts.

Complaint was made to the police this afternoon by Frederick W. Mercer, president of Lawrence hospital, that boys had smashed several windows in the dormitory of the nurses connected with the institution and located at 105 Riverview avenue.

Miss Helen Dwyer is entertaining Miss Frances Hearne of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., where Miss Hearne is a teacher at the high school.

At the organization meeting of the board of education, P. Leroy Harwood and Frederick W. Edgerton, president and secretary, respectively, were re-elected. The salary of the latter, $750 per year, was continued. The New London Teachers' league submitted a communication calling attention of the board to the number of New London teachers who have left the city to teach in other towns because of the small salaries paid here. The communication did not contain a request for an increase in salaries for the local instructors. The board took no action on the matter.

Funeral services for Michael J. Miner of New London and of late years an inmate at the Spicer home, Groton, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street. Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in Starr cemetery, Groton.

The automobile owned and operated by William J. Reardon, 893 Bank street, was struck by a New London-Norwich trolley car, corner of State and Main streets, this evening, the automobile being damaged considerably.

PLAINFIELD

Charles A. Jerome received word Friday from Mrs. Jerome that her father Matthew Waldron of Newburg, N. Y., who recently suffered a shock, died Wednesday night. Mr. Jerome and his daughter Louise left Friday evening on the boat train for New York to attend the funeral.

Miss Joan Kirby is away for ten days' vacation and will visit Washington during her absence.

Mrs. Harold Lawton has further improved her beautiful grounds by having a cement walk built from the house to the street on the north side, by John Newton.

The Girls' Friendly society is losing its faithful leader, Mrs. David Combs for whom the members held a farewell party at the Community house Monday evening. On behalf of the society, Miss Dora Baxter presented Mrs. Combs a silk umbrella. Refreshments were served, Miss Baxter being hostess.

The High school ball team is doing good work. The last game played was with the Academy team in Norwich which was a splendid victory for the home team. Behind the new ball team is the athletic association recently formed, made up of the following officers: President, Ralph West; vice president, Stewart Williams; secretary, Emily Hopkins; treasurer, Earl Mott; cheer leader Mildred Leach. The teachers of the high school are backing up the athletics and good delegations are attending the games, especially large was the number from Plainfield attending the Norwich game.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Matheweon, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Matthewson, Mrs. Sidney Matheweon, Morgan Matheweon, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Frink attended Stafford fair Thursday. Others attending the fair were, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Phillips and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis.

MYSTIC

At the recent flower show, J. B. Stinson showed a pin cushion dahlia, Corola, and from all information that he has been able to obtain, his is the only dahlia of this variety in New England and among the only three known in the United States, one being owned in North Tonowanda, N. Y., and the other by a grower in Pennsylvania.

The body of Mozart Gallup, who died at his home in Sandusky, Ohio, has been brought to Mystic and placed in the family plot at Elm Grove cemetery. Services were conducted by Dr. Clarence M. Gallp of Providence, formerly of Norwich.

STONINGTON

Charles R. States has one of the few maps still in existence, published in 1851, that shows the boundaries of the borough, its streets and the residences that were here at that time.

In the year in which this map was drawn there were only six houses on Elm street above the railroad track, where it is now thickly populated. This map has in the lower left hand corner a picture of the John Trumbull factory on Lower Water street, which at that period was looked upon as a building of some magnitude. This building, now greatly enlarged, is occupied by the Atwood schine Co. There is also printed on the map a list of the subscribers with the occupations in which some of them were engaged.

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helplessness, revolting at nauseating drugs, threats of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and surely without any change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly, and quickly reaching their ideal of figure, with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a case, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4113 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Wishes of Jack and the Giant.

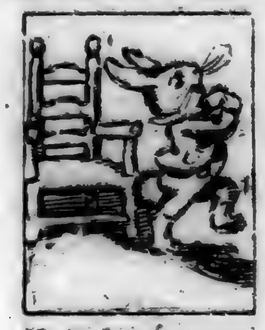
Mr. Merry Laugh, the giant,
Had a big Gold Book,
Bound with leather hinges
And a big brass hook.

"Now, let me see," said the good kind giant, turning over the pages with his big immense thumb. "Ah, here it is!" and putting on his spectacles which were as big as automobile lamps he wiped them carefully on his red silk handkerchief, which was bigger than a sheet.



"I am, I am," shouted the little bunny boy

Whoever disobeys the Queen
Can for his guilt atone
By making a little whistle
Out of a turkey's bone."

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed the giant till the crystal chandelier tinkled like a million little bells and the portrait of his mother-in-law fell off the wall with a dreadful crash.

"I never heard anything so funny before," he said, picking up the portrait and laughing again, only this time louder than before, because his mother-in-law's picture was all smashed to smithereens. Wasn't that too bad?

"Well, that's easy," he said after wiping his eyes. "Tomorrow will be my birthday and you shall dine with me. After dinner I'll give you a magic knife and if you can't make a whistle out of the turkey's wishbone I'll have another portrait made of my mother-in-law."

"That's very good of you," said Little Jack Rabbin.

"Don't mention it," laughed the giant. "I have a book that belonged to my boy when he was a little fellow. It's called Little Jack Rabbit, and you look so like the picture on the cover that I almost believe you are he."

"I am, I am!" shouted the bunny boy, jumping out of his chair. "And that's the reason I wanted to make a wish in the big Stone Wishing Chair. I was going to wish I was with my mother."

"You do say so!" exclaimed Mr. Merry Laugh. "Well, well, well, it takes me back to the time when my boy was a little fellow and sat on my knee. How time flies," and taking his pocket handkerchief out again, he wiped his blue eyes and then went over to the piano.

"Had I my little boy again,
How happy I should be.
I'd piggy back him all around
And trundle him on my knee.

"But, O dear me, it's so long ago,
And he's been away so long,
That all I can do is to wish and wish
That he could hear this song."

"Dear me," said the little rabbit when the giant had finished. "You want your boy and I want my mother. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

POETRY

MUSIC OF THE NIGHT.

There are hours that complain to the presence of night,
To the presence of night alone—
As a near and unchangeable tone—
Like winds, full of sound, that go whispering by,
As if some immortal had stooped from the sky,
And breathed out a blessing—and flown!

Yes! hours that complain to the breezes of night,
To the breezes of night alone;
Growing fainter and fainter, as ruddy and bright
The sun rolls aloft in his drapery of light,
Like a conqueror, shaking his brilliant hair
And flourishing robe, on the edge of the air!
Burning crimson and gold
On the clouds that unfold,
Breaking onward in flame, while an ocean divided
On his right and his left, lo the Thunderer rides
When he cuts a bright path through the heaving tides,
Rolling on, and erect, in a charioting throne!

Yes! strings that lie still in the gushing of day,
That awaked, all alive, to the breezes of night,
There are heartboys and flutes, too, forever at play
When the evening is near, and the sun is away,
Breathing but the still hymn of delight
These strings by invisible fingers are played—
By spirits unseen and unknown
But thick as the stars, all this music is made:
And these flutes, silent,
In one sweet, dreamy tune,
Are ever blown,
Forever and forever.
The live-long night ye hear the sound
Like distant waters flowing round
In ringing caves, while heaven is sweet
With crowding tunes, like bains
Where fountain-music falls,
And rival minstrels meet.
—John Neal, in Indianapolis News.

A VOICE AT MORNING.

Beyond the great frontiers of dawn
I heard the singing of a bird.
O fluted eloquence! O word
That from the harps of heaven was drawn!

What rapture to the gates of light
You brought when the last stars grew pale.
Were you a lonely nightingale,
Blown down the windy wastes of white?

Or were you some ecstatic dream
A child had dreamed and cast astray?
You floated on the ether's tide,
As bubbles float upon a stream.

You reached my heart at last. You bore
A message from the distant spheres;
You were a silver sound, fire tear-
Shed by the saints, or sad Lazars.

You were the gospel of the day.
The frozen wonder of the dawn.
O lonely bird, sing on, sing on!
Alas! all beauty fades away.
—Charles Hanson Towne.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Charity begins at home," said Uncle Eben, "but it doesn't amount to much if it stays too weak to travel."—Washington Star.

Caller—"Is Mrs. Brown at home?" Bridget—"She is, but she isn't in a fit state to see anybody—she's just been givin' me notice."—Boston Transcript.

"Do you need anything, Betty?"
"Not a thing!"
"Neither do I. Let's go shopping!"—Judge.

Diner—"Waiter, are these sandwiches fresh?"
Truthful Waiter—"Don't know, sir, I've only been here two weeks."—Boys' Life.

"Before I consent to marry you, Jack, I must tell you that people say I have a temper."
"I don't mind that. All you need is to take care of it—don't lose it, that's all."—Boston Transcript.

"How's the new minister getting along?"
"All right so far. You see he hasn't been here long enough yet for us to decide which faction is going to be for him and which against him."—Detroit Free Press.

Binks—What's the big idea of having the chimneys on hinges?
Hinks—At night you can lay them down on the roof so the airplanes won't knock them over.—Detroit News.

Mrs. Brown was pleased. Her eyes sparkled as she leked down at her hand.
"How extravagant of you, dear," she said, "to pay $50 for this ring."
Her husband smiled quietly.
"Not at all, darling," he replied. "Just think what I shall save on your glove bills."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

"You don't make any such speeches as Daniel Webster made."
"I wouldn't try!" replied Senator Sorghum. "If I tried to put up an oration with big sentiment and fine language at a caucus out home the boys would merely laugh." Washington Star.

AN OPEN LETTER

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT AND FIRE MARSHAL, CITY OF NORWICH, CONNECTICUT
Norwich, Connecticut, October eighth, 1923.

MR. A. A. SPITZ, President and General Manager
The Norwich Palace Theatre Corporation, Norwich

Dear Sir:—

As work has progressed on the Palace Theatre, I have followed the construction and equipment from time to time. This theatre from the standpoint of safety and as a fire hazard can hardly be improved upon. The construction materials, the heating plant, the picture machine booth, electric wiring, number and location of exits, width of aisles, meet every requirement of safety.

This building is satisfactory to me as meeting every essential of a structure of this kind from the standpoint of safety.

Very truly yours,
HOWARD L. STANTON,
Chief of the Fire Department and Fire Marshal.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

EASTERN STAR.

Preceding the regular meeting of Sachem chapter, No. 57, Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows' hall, a delightful supper was served at 5.30 o'clock by the Sewing circle to about 250 members and guests. The menu was as follows:

Baked Beans.
Cabbage and Potato Salads.
Cold Ham. Corned Beef.
Grape Jelly. Pickles.
Rolls. Cake.
Coffee. Tea.

The committee in charge of the supper was headed by the folowing chairmen: General chairman, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury; assistant general chairman, Mrs. Emily Dolbeare; tickets, Mrs. Florence Ford; sale of tickets, Mrs. Sarah Wilson; serving committee, Mrs. Mary Wright, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Jennie Manning, Mrs. Grace Fillmore, Mrs. Ella Barber, Mrs. Minnie Dunstan, Mrs. Mary Carpenter, Mrs. Mollie G. Tracy, Mrs. Emma Breed, Mrs. Lila J. Saunders, Mrs. Georgia Ferguson and Mrs. Lois Durie.

The regular business meeting was held at 7.45 o'clock with the worthy matron, Mrs. Frances A. Geer, in the chair. Visitors were present from Owaneco chapter of Uncasville, which has been newly established.

At the meeting on Oct. 24th Sachem chapter will celebrate the 20th anniversary of its institution and guests will be present from all cities of the state. The members of Charity chapter of Mystic will be guests of the chapter at this time.

MANCHESTER UNITY.

H. H. Osgood lodge, No. 6920, has completed plans for the church parade to be held Sunday morning, at which time the members of the lodge will attend the service at St. Andrew's church, Greeneville. The members have been requested to meet at 10.15 o'clock at the guild rooms of St. Andrew's church.

MOOSEHEART LEGION.

Norwich lodge, No. 124, held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the Moose home with the senior regent, Mrs. Rose Carter, in the chair. Routine business was transacted. The next meeting will be held Oct. 25th. Following the business meeting a Hallowe'en social will be held for the members and their guests.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

A very successful whist was held Thursday evening by the Ladies' auxiliary, Division 54, A. O. H., in their hall at 99 Main street. Twenty-five tables were played. The prizes were awarded as follows:

Ladies — First, Mrs. Rosamond Jacques; second, Mrs. Christopher Barry; consolation, Mrs. Charles O'Neil.

Gentlemen—First, Patrick Barry; second, H. Furlong; consolation, M. Shugrue.

The scorers were Mrs. Nellie Moore, Mrs. Mary Cox, Miss Nellie McCarthy and Miss Mary Fallon. The committee in charge comprised Miss Anna Connell, chairman, Mrs. Julia Brock, Miss Margaret Caples, Miss Annie Bellows, Miss Nellie McCarthy, Miss Catherine Coughlin, Mrs. Nellie O'Brien and Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald. Refreshments were served at the close of the playing.

EAGLES.

The entertainment committee of Norwich aerie, No. 367, which has in charge the plans for the class initiation Sunday met Thursday evening at the Eagles' club rooms to make final arrangements for the big time promised all who attend. Among the speakers will be James Tevlin of New York, an official of the organization department of the order, and William Culley of Naugatuck, state president. A communication was received from Putnam aerie notifying the local aerie that Putnam aerie will send a large delegation to the initiation.

Before the initiation, which will begin at 5 o'clock, there will be a meeting of the state officers and the officers of Norwich aerie to discuss whether the state convention for 1924 will be held in Norwich. All past worthy presidents of Norwich aerie have been invited to attend this meeting, which will be held at 3 p. m.

MOOSE.

The members of Norwich lodge, No. 950, held their regular business meeting Friday evening at the Moose home on Laurel Hill with Dictator George J. Goepfert in the chair. The usual reports were heard and accepted and routine business in general transacted.

At a meeting last Sunday a class of 11 candidates was initiated. Other class initiations are soon to follow.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

Mrs. Anna Eirmann, Mrs. Margaret Dutton, Miss Agnes White, Miss Rosanna Peloquin and Miss Nellie Hayes left Norwich Friday to attend the convention of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus to be held today (Saturday) in Danbury.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Uncas lodge, No. 11, was held Monday night at Odd Fellows' hall, Main street, with Noble Grand Leslie W. Fowler in the chair. Regular routine business was transacted after which a smoker was enjoyed.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham Council, No. 14, took a large class of candidates to Westerly Wednesday evening, where the degrees of Virtue, Liberty and Patriotism were put on by the degree team of Commodore Perry Lodge of Wakefield, R. I. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all who made the trip.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

The New London County Pomona Grange, No. 6, P. of H., meets with Ledyard Grange, No. 167, Thursday Oct. 18, 1923. After the forenoon session with business and degree work dinner will be furnished by Ledyard Grange. In the afternoon session for the lecturer's hour the programme will be as follows: The Sewing Society of Pachaug Grange, farce, presented by Pachaug Grange; address, Seven Windows of the Grange, Mr. A. P. Hitchcock, "The Farmer" of Norwich Bulletin; gleanings from lecturers' conference, Sister Ruth Krug, lecturer of Pachaug Grange.

FAMILY MARKET

There are liberal supplies of apples, sweet potatoes and Maine potatoes on the markets at present. There is an active demand now for cooking apples, native potatoes, Conn. eggs and for onions. Native potatoes are freely offered and at present are selling well. Conn. eggs are still scarce on the markets and very high in price. The cooler weather has helped to stimulate a better demand for cabbage, onions, potatoes and for apples. Turnips, squashes and pickling onions are now appearing on most markets. Demands are about equal with the supply.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Rosalie Tetreault, 72, wife of Joseph Tetreault, of Providence street, died Friday morning after a long illness resulting from a slight shock and nervous breakdown. She was born in St. Pie, Canada, but had resided in Taftville for a long time. She is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. Folidor LaPointe of St. Hyacinthe, Cadana, Mrs. Napoleon Breault, Mrs. Alice Morin, Mrs. John Lafleur, Miss Antoinette Tetreault and Oscar Tetreault of Taftville, Alfred of Willimantic and Eugene of New Haven. There are also several grandchildren and two sisters in Canada. Mrs. Tetreault was a devout member of the Sacred Heart church and held membership in the Ladies of St. Anne and the Third Order of St. Francis.

Lewis A. Tillinghast of North Third avenue has returned from a few days' stay with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Courtland Tillinghast, of Nyack, N. Y.

Mrs. Edmund Hindle and son Edmund of North Third avenue are spending the week end with friends in Providence, R. I.

Miss Flossie M. Meyer and George W. Meyer of Lisbon have returned from a week's stay with friends in New Bedford, Mass.

Edwin Pollard of Boston and Miss Ruth Pollard of New Bedford, Mass., are at the home of their father, William Pollard, of South Second avenue.

The local schools held no sessions Friday, it being Columbus day.

Recovering From Injury.

Henry Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook of Bean Hill, had his hand painfully injured on Sept. 28. He was riding on a dump cart loaded with gravel when the driver asked the little boy to block the wheel. In doing so the team backed up, crushing his hand badly. Young Cook was immediately taken to the Backus hospital where he is recovering from the injury. The driver was a young man from Norwich Town.

RECOVERS FROM CROUP

"My boy had a very bad attack of croup. Tried everything but nothing did him much good. Then I used Foley's Honey and Tar, and he not only recovered quickly but he has had no trouble since," writes Mrs. William Sims, Burlington, Wyoming. Coughs, colds and croup quickly relieved with Foley's Honey and Tar, the largest selling cough medicine in the world. Free from opiates —ingredients printed on the wrapper. Lee & Osgood Co.

CRASHES INTO CURB AND POLE AT CORNER AT NORWICH TOWN GREEN

Apparently making high speed at the corner at the northerly end of the Norwich Town green about 7 o'clock Friday night, the Essex coach owned and driven by Michale Falcone of 165 Talman street was unable to make the turn toward Norwich Town, upsetting and crashing into the telegraph pole on the lawn of the Congregational church.

Falcone was arrested after the crash by Constable Lucius Fenton, charged with reckless driving and driving while under the influence of liquor, but the latter charge was withdrawn when a doctor examined Falcone at police headquarters and gave his opinion that the man was not under the influence of liquor. A bottle with a very small quantity of liquor in it was found in the automobile and is held by the police.

Falcone gave bonds in $800 on the charge of reckless driving. He received minor cuts and bruises on the face as did a young man who was riding with him.

When the machine tried to make the corner it shot into the heavy stone curb at the front of the lawn, fell over on its right side and landed headon against the telegraph pole fifteen feet or more from where it hit the curb.

A piece of the curbing was cracked off and driven back into the bank while the pole was moved about two inches by the force of the blow.

The machine had the spokes broken out of both wheels on the right side, a front spring bent and twisted, glass in the windshield and left door broken. It was taken to a garage later in the evening when two new wheels had been put on it.

"AMERICAN INDIAN" TOPIC FOR MISSIONARY MEETING

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the First Baptist church met Tuesday with Mrs. A. F. Howard on Lincoln avenue. The devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. L. A. Hurlburt, who read the third chapter of Malachi and offered prayer. After singing "Throwing Out the Lifeline" general routine business was transacted and very gratifying reports given by Mrs. George Rathbun, the treasurer, and Mrs. William Koons on the thank offering.

The topic for the afternoon was "The American Indian" in charge of Mrs. E. C. Dunbar who gave a very interesting account of the beginning of mission work among the Indians by the Baptists. Mrs. Hurlburt talked on the subject of he "Needs of the Indians on the Mission Field" Mrs. F. L. Lathrop "The Crow Indians," Mrs. Herbert Willey, "Rainy Mountain Missions; Mrs. D. L. Brownink, "Bacone College." After the several papers, questions were given and answered on the subjects read. During the meeting Miss Lucille Howard delighted with two Indian songs and an Indian Love song was heard on the victrola. Mrs. Frank Tyler dismissed the meeting with prayer.

SHOWER IS GIVEN FOR NEWLY MARRIED COUPLE

On Thursday evening Miss Cynthia Crary gave a party and shower at her home in Preston City for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pendleton, who were married on Saturday evening. Miss Crary proved a most delightful hostess keeping the many friends present in a very happy frame of mind throughout the evening. Games, contests, music and songs were enjoyed during the evening, after which light refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cake, coffee and fruit were served. The climax of enjoyment was reached when the bride, formerly Miss Grace Zabriskie, and groom were asked into the spacious dining room, where two chairs were placed before a large basket filled to overflowing with presents for the bride and groom. They were asked to open and display them so that all might see. Walter McClimon, Jr., acted as master of ceremonies and assisted them in their pleasant task, his ready wit and humor adding much to the enjoyment of all. The presents included china ware, silver money, aluminum and linen. The groom in brief but well chosen words, thanked the many friends for the many useful gifts.

CONNECTICUT CATTLE WIN TOP PLACES AT SYRACUSE

Information received at Storrs from the World's Dairy Congress in session at Syracuse, N. Y., indicates sweeping victories for Connecticut dairy cattle in the show ring and of boys from Connecticut farms in the judging contests.

In both Holstein and Jersey state herd competition, Connecticut's representatives won first place in national contests and second place in the world contest, being defeated in both instances by herds from Canada. State herd is composed in each case of seven female and three male animals and must be owned by not less than five separate exhibitors. The Connecticut Holstein herd won first place at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield in September, but the Jersey herd had never shown as a group previous to the show at Syracuse.

In the cattle judging contests open to boys and girls from the agricultural clubs, the Connecticut team scored the highest number of points. John Visney of Bethel had the highest individual score in competition open to the world. Other members of the winning team were Frank Hopkins of Hawleyville and Chester Woodford of Hartford county. These three boys won the right to represent Connecticut at Syracuse by taking first place at the Connecticut fair at Hartford.

The cattle judging team from Connecticut Agricultural College, which won first place at Eastern States Exposition recently, dropped to fourteenth place out of a field of twenty-nine college teams at the Syracuse show. Competition was very keen and the scores close.

The winning herd of Holstein cattle was selected by A. R. Merrill of Storrs, extension dairy specialist, and the winning Jersey herd by Prof. G. C. White of Storrs and Mr. Merrill. Connecticut dairymen who had animals in the composite herds are:

Holsteins: State reformatory, Cheshire; Gardner Hall, Jr., South Willington; C. P. Farrand, Washington; Angus P. Thorne, Bridgeport; Bridgeport City Farm; Frederick M. Peasley, Cheshire and as alternates, Amos D. Bridges Sons, Hazardville and Waldo S. Kellog, Derby.

Jerseys: C. C. Chamberlain, Derby; Pinnacleroz Farm, Plainfield; P. E. Duffy, West Hartford; C. C. Ellsworth, Simsbury; Col. A. T. Barnes, New Canaan and John Kingsbury, Coventry.

PARK CHURCH MISSIONS DEPARTMENT'S FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the season of the Mission department of Park Congregational church was held Friday afternoon in the parlors of the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial.

Mrs. Allan Latham presided and the devotional exercises were led by Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn. Mrs. Henry T. Arnold, president of the Women's Federation, made several announcements concerning future activities, especially mentioning the thank offering meeting in November.

Letters were read from Rev. J. E. Esch for whom money had been raised for a stereopticon to be used in Home Missionary work.

Miss Alice Coggswell, who attended the missionary conferences held during the summer in Northfield, Mass., gave intepesting reports from the sessions devoted to the study of both home and foreign missions.

Miss Matilda Butts reported from the eastern district meeting of the Connecticut Home Missionary Union which was recently held in New London, and Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn mentioned interesting features of the meeting of the Eastern Connecticut branche, W. B. F. M., which was held in Bozrah on Thursday.

A large number of the holiday calendar which had been filled with coins, were returned to meet the apportionment due before the middle of October.

WOMAN'S GUILD BEGINS SEASON OF MEETINGS

The first regular fall meeting of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church was held Friday aftrenoon at 3 o'clock at the Community house, Church street with a large attendance and with the president, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, presiding. The members made donations of cakes, jellies, old linen and magazines to the Backus hospital and also voted a sum of money towards the Backus hospital financial drive, which is soon to start.

Treadwell Cleveland, campaign organizer, and James L. Case, campaign chairman, gave short talks on the plans for the coming drive, after which there was a social hour with refreshments.

FIELD IN PENITENTIARY FOR BROKERAGE FRAUD

Leon A. Field was sentenced to the penitentiary in New York this week for from six months to three years by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions for grand larceny, while in the stock brokerage business under the name of Field Bros. at 50 Broad street and with branch offices in Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The Field concern had an office in this city on Shetucket street where at least one Norwich man had an experience similar to that which brought the conviction of Field. This Norwich man turned over some stock to the Field concern with which to make an investment. He was given encouraging promises as often as he called to inquire about the transaction, but the office here closed before he got his money back.

Formerly a member of the Consolidated Exchange, Field pleaded guilty to attempted larceny. He had conducted a brokerage business for eight months prior to April 24, 1922, and failed with $268,000 liabilities, and almost no assets. Frank H. Simonds of 390 School avenue, New Haven, complained that he gave Field $244.30 to buy stock and that Field pocketed the money. On this complaint he was indicted.

While Field was being investigated Anastasio Hall & Co., was mentioned as connected with Field's enterprise, and indictments were voted against this firm.

Receivership Time Extended.

Robert W. Perkins, receiver of Shore Line Electric Railway company, was authorized to continue operation of the road for four months from Oct. 17 by an order passed by Judge Isaac Wolfe at the short calendar session of the superior court in New London Friday morning. The issuing of the order was a pro forma matter, similar orders having been issued every four months since the receivership of the road.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION FOR BACKUS HOSPITAL WEEK

Mayor Waters issued a proclamation Friday setting aside the week of the Backus Hospital Appeal as Hospital Week, and called upon the citizens during this time "to respond in fullest measure."

"This is our largest community undertaking," said the mayor. "Let us make it our greatest."

The proclamation is as follows:

"Whereas, Every citizen of Norwich is deeply indebted for the service which Backus Hospital has given our community, ever since its founding, through the generous gifts of others; and

"Whereas, Our people, during almost thirty years, have benefited from the service given by our hospital without having had to help maintain that service; and

"Whereas, The endowment income of the hospital is no longer sufficient to make up the loss incurred by giving free and partly free service to those who rightly expect that service; and

"Whereas, The benefits of hospital care must be provided as a first call upon the community, and the hospital must be enlarged so as to continue its humanitarian work; and

"Whereas, There is no way in which our hospital can respond to our needs and grow with our growth unless we ourselves come, individually and collectively, to its support

"Now I, therefore, as Mayor of the City of Norwich, do hereby set aside the period from Oct. 15 to Oct. 29 as a period to be devoted to community effort in support of the hospital appeal for the funds indispensable to its work, and I call upon all citizens during this time to realize as never before the value of the service which our hospital has given, and to respond in fullest measure to this appeal, which is an appeal to our civic pride as well as to our personal and private interests.

"This is our largest community undertaking. Let us make it our greatest.

"Mayor of the City of Norwich."

BUSH HOLDS GIANTS TO THREE HITS AS YANKS WIN FIFTH GAME

Yankees Pound Four Giant Hurlers for Fifteen Hits and Eight Runs While Giants Score One Lone Tally—Dugan is Star of the Game—Nehf is McGraw's Last Hope to Beat Yankee Sluggers—Another Record Crowd Sees Game.

New York, Oct. 14—(By the A. P.)—Sweeping forward with irresistible power on the high tide of triumph, the New York Yankees battered the world's champion Giants into subjection today for the second successive time and took a formidable lead of three games to two in the 1923 struggle for diamond supremacy.

Baffled at every turn by the marvelous, almost flawless mound work of "Bullet Joe" Bush, reeling under the terrific force of the Yankee bombardment, the Giants were submerged by a score of 8 to 1, put to a rout as complete as it was devastating.

Bush, he of the red flannel shirt and puzzling fork-ball, held the Giants at bay with three hits, all of which were made by "Irish Meusel" whose triple in the second inning led to his team's only score. Except for this brief flurry, Bush was invincible, dominating the game with his masterful hurling while the Yankees, swinging their big guns into action without delay, won the battle with a barrage of seven runs in the first two innings. Two of McGraw's aces, Jack Bentley and Jack Scott, were shelled into retirement in less than three innings and two others were called into the fray before the echoes of the last fusillade died away.

Another Record Crowd

Another record crowd, a mighty gathering of 66,000 that filled the Yankee stadium to overflowing while 50,000 more fought in vain to gain entrance, witnessed the Giant debacle and the Yankee star at its greatest point of ascendency. The paid attendance of 62,817 eclipsed by nearly 400 the previous record, set in the third game of the series at the stadium two days ago, while the receipts passing the $200,000 mark for the second time, brought the total "gate" of the series to within $75,000 of the million dollar mark.

Realizing that their first world's title is within their grasp, the Yankees played like champions and as though inspired to wipe out the memory of two bitter defeats at the hands of the Giants. Behind the wonderful boxwork of Bush, the team displayed all the dash and power of attack that carried it to record-breaking victory in the American League.

"Brute Force" Beats "Master Mind"

For two days, John McGraw, silent, gray leader of the Giants, has thrown in reinforcements without avail. Five of his moundsmen were bombarded yesterday and four were rushed in without effect today. He has found that brilliant strategy, the generalship of the "master mind" cannot withstand, without effective pitching, the onslaughts of "brute force," fortified, on the other hand, by sterling sharp-shooting. Today's triumph must be set down to the credit of "brute force," but even so the theory that this monumental classic of 1923 is a struggle between power and tactics alone must now be cast aside, shattered by the remorseless facts of the last two days of Yankee triumph.

For today, the clan of Miller Huggins not only applied sufficient "brute force" to beat down the Giants but outplayed and outgeneralled the champions at their own game. The "smartest team in baseball" was outsmarted, outplayed in the field and outhought in the pinches. The mental lapses and mechanical defects of the Giant machine today played almost as great a part in its downfall as the utter collapse of its twirling staff.

Nehf Only Hope for Giants

Tonight, only the slight, yet formidable figure of Arthur Nehf, southpaw ace of McGraw's club, stands in the way of a smashing victory for the Yankees, unless all the signs and portends of the diamond are at fault. Nehf, who shut out the Yankees 1 to 0 in the third game of the series, is the only regular among the Giant boxmen who has not been pounded into submission. Alone he stands out as the last hope of the champions and McGraw will send him to the ramparts tomorrow in a desperate effort to stem the tide of the remorseless Yankee machine.

But even if Nehf is returned victorious in his second appearance, the Odds will be all in favor of the American league champions. McGraw will have no resources left, granting he wins with his ace, while Huggins is strongly entrenched with Sam Jones, who lost to Nehf although he outpitched his rival; Herb Pennock, southpaw star who won the second game and saved yesterday's when Shawkey weakened; and Waite Hoyt, victim of the Giants in the first game who is confident he can come back and win.

Bush's performance today stood out

ISRAEL ZANGWILL ADDRESSED THE JEWISH CONGRESS

New York, Oct. 14.—The forces of Israel must mobilize against another war, and rather than "throw a match into such a powder factory as the above has become," forego their political hopes in Palestine, it was declared tonight by Israel Zangwill, Jewish author and publicist, who spoke before the American Jewish Congress in Carnegie Hall. He arrived from England recently.

"There was a moment when a Jewish state might have arisen in Palestine," he said, "but the hour of destiny has passed."

Arraigning what he termed the "political mishandling of Palestine," by England, Mr. Zangwill asserted that the recent Carlsbad congress had been too late with its protests against the fact that not even 'state lands and waste lands' had been allotted to the Zionists and that the Jews were not to be given the right to control their own immigration in Palestine.

"Politics is the realm of might," he said, "but Zionism can only rely upon as much of England's might as suits the policy of England, and since the Zionists are ready to accept any conditions, however humiliating, however impractical. It is clear that only a minimum of might will be at the disposal of the Jewish national home and that mainly in the British interest."

Mr. Zangwill declared he believed Lord Balfour was sincere when he proposed that Palestine be given to the Jews, even though his declaration had been "reduced to a scrap of white paper."

AMBASSADOR CHILD HAS ARRIVED IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 14.—Richard Washburn Child, American ambassador to Italy, arrive dtoday on the Conte Verde, accompanied by Mrs. Child.

Mr. Child, commenting on the report that he had offered his resignation and would leave his post as quickly as asuccessor could be named, said:

"I told President Harding that I would like to retire for personal reasons when the time was opportune, and I have had correspondence with President Coolidge since he came into office. But when I left Italy on this trip I had no intention of not returning and so far as I know that is the complete status."

He said he was merely on leave at this time and expected to stay in this country about two months.

Mr. Child declined to comment on the Fascisti movement, saying his opinions had already been published. Premier Mussolini told him recently, he declared, that he had the utmost admiration for the United States and expected the people of this country to understand his purposes.

ONCE AN OFFICE BOY, NOW RAILROAD PRESIDENT

New York, Oct. 14.—George Le Boutillier, once an office boy in the office of the late Ralph Peters, will succeed Mr. Peters as president of the Long Island railroad, it became known today through an announcement that the directors will meet soon to confirm the appointment.

Mr. Le Boutillier, now vice-president and director of the road, was born in Cincinnati. Although only 47, he has long been prominent in railroad circles as an officer of the Pennsylvania railroad system, and has been acting head of the Long Island railroad during Mr. Peters' long illness. He entered the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad in 1895 as a rodman on the lines west of Pittsburgh. Two years earlier, however, during his college vacation, he had served in the Cincinnati office of Mr. Peters, then division superintendent of the Pennsylvania.

BUSINESS ENCOURAGED BY FIRMNESS IN GRAIN

New York, Oct. 14.—(By the A. P.)—Considerable encouragement was found in business circles during the past week in the continued firmness in the grain markets.

Corn remained the center of interest, new high prices for the last three years being realized despite the fact that the department of agriculture predicted a crop of 3,021,000,000 bushels. Such a large yield, and at prices considered remarkably good, should, it was thought, improve the position of the farm considerably.

Wheat prices also held close to the season's high, while the department of agriculture announced that the prices which farmers are now receiving for their principal crops were 27 per cent. above those of a year ago.

Cotton prices also continued to hold up well, although additional curtailments were reported in certain of the New England textile mills. Mills in the south were stated, however, to be operating at about ninety per cent. of capacity and the government consumption report, which was published on Saturday, was rather better than had bee nexpected.

FRED R. POST ABLE TO BE ABOUT HIS CELL

Rockland, Me., Oct. 14.—Fred R. Post, a New London, Conn., marine engineer who is being held in the Knox county jail charged with the murder of Mrs. Clinton J. Hamilton of Rockland in Jefferson last Tuesday, today rallied from a threatened attack of pneumonia and was able to be about his cell. Last night the jail physician reported that because of a week heart, the prisoner's condition was critical.

The prisoner's wife who came here from New London yesterday, determined to help and comfort her husband, was the only person permitted to see him today.

The police allege that Mrs. Hamilton was killed by Post while she was driving him from Rockland to China in her automobile. They declare that he was a disappointed suitor. Post declared that the woman was killed by shots fired from the woods that lined the lonely stretch of woods in North Waldoboro.

GOOD SHOWING MADE IN BOND MARKET LAST WEEK

New York, Oct. 14.—(By the A. P.)—The bond market more than held its own during the past week, price movements on listed securities displaying considerable firmness and the volume of new offerings keeping abreast of the previous week.

In addition investment houses stated investment buying by the public had increased and numerous new bond issues are being negotiated for early offerings.

Among these is talk of a loan to the government of Finland for some amount between $10,000,000 and $30,000,000 and an offering of approximately $50,000,000 federal land bank bond. American bankers are anxious to obtain the Finnish loan because the proceeds, it is said, would largely be spent in this country if the loan is made here.

FOUR MEN WENT DOWN WITH GASOLINE CRUISER

New Orleans, Oct. 14.—News of the sinking of the gasoline cruiser Fidget, of New Orleans and the death of four members of the crew of five off the north shore of Breton Island in the Gulf of Mexico, on October 7, was brought to the quarantine station at the mouth of the Mississippi River today by the lone survivor, Rengard Johan Olsen Rydsmingon, of Hangsund, Norway.

Pinchot Says Politics Preys on Prohibition

Declares No One Less Than the President Can Effect Enforcement of the Prohibition Law.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The prohibition law, measured by the respect accorded it, has failed, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania told the citizenship conference here today, because "no sincere, intelligent and concerted nationwide effort had been made to enforce it," because federal agents have collected bribes and because politics is at the root of the evil.

No one less than the president of the United States himself, Governor Pinchot declared, could meet the present emergency because the president alone can bring all government forces into a concerted attack on violators.

"The thing that has protected the liquor criminal from the law," said Governor Pinchot, "is politics. Politics first, law enforcement a poor second, has been the order. Bad whiskey with beer to help has supplied the sinews of war for bad politics and politics has returned the favor."

Taking Pennsylvania for an example, Governor Pinchot declared that the present federal prohibition director in that state was the first to whom the state might look for real results.

Honest prohibition enforcement agents, the governor charged, were handicapped "because the most elementary principles of good business management have been disregarded in the organization of the government to renforcement work."

Assailing the manner of organization by which authority descends from the president to the secretary of the treasury and thence to the commissioner of internal revenue and thence to the commissioner, Pinchot declared:

"What is needed is an organization in which responsibility is definitely centered; one in which the buck cannot be passed and over which the chief executive of the nation can exercise immediate direction and control. Such an arrangement should be only temporary for the president already is heavily burdened and nothing should be added to his load without reason.

"But the fact is that the attack on the constitution and laws of our country is one of the most serious in our history. Disregard for the law is more effectively spread by the failure of the enforcement service than in any other way. All these facts taken together furnish abundant reason for the treating this matter as of sufficient importance to enlist the active direction of the president himself. He alone, in my opinion, can meet the emergency.

"There is another reason why the president should take personal charge. Not only has the political hamstring of the federal enforcement service had its seat in Washington, but it is notorious that disobedience to the eighteenth amendment has been flagrant in the capital city. Stories are innumerable of the active practice and encouragement of law-breaking by officials high in the government of the United States. We cannot expect other communities to respect and obey the law if the capital of the nation itself is a leader among the law-breakers.

"It is foolish to expect the state and municiple police powers to cope with floods of illegal liquor let loose by the failure of the federal agents to dam the flood at its source. Federal permission is required to export whiskey which is smuggled back into the country for sale. It is breweries operating under federal permits that are flooding the country with high power beer. The whole system of permits as well as the regulations governing business under them should be revised and brought down to date in the light of the last three years' experience.

"We must insist on the complete separation of politics from the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. The issue is clear before us and the outcome is assured. No band of criminals ever has or ever will defeat our government and our people."

W. J. BRYAN WOULD TRADE DEMOCRATS FOR REPUBLICANS

Washington, Oct. 14.—Referring to efforts of Governor Pinchot to "clean up" Pennsylvania, William Jennings Bryan told the citizenship conference on prohibition here tonight that he would like "to trade a democratic governor of New York for a republican governor of Pennsylvania."

"And I would like," he added, "to throw in a few more democratic officers to boot."

TWO CIVIL WAR VETS FOUND DEAD IN HUT

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 14.—Two Cleveland Civil War veterans, Samuel Harvey, 76, and Horace W. Upson, 77, were found dead in a hut near the Ohio soldiers and sailors home, at Sandusky today. They had been dead since last Monday or Tuesday, according to Dr. S. J. Leblicq, coroner of Erie county.

Mystery surrounds the death of the veterans, according to word received here. Erie county authorities pointed out that death might have resulted from strangulation, asphyxiation or poison.

Coroner Leblicq, after a preliminary examination, advanced these four theories:

That the pair were murdered by attendants with robbery as the motive. Of $73 pension money drawn by Harvey and $50 drawn by Upson about ten days ago only about $11 was found between them today.

That one killed the other and then committed suicide after a quarrel over a game of cards. A cribbage board and cards were strewn about the room.

That they might have been poisoned. A small quantity of what the coroner believes is liquor, was found in the shack, and has been taken for analysis.

That they might have been overcome from fumes of a coal stove, the damper of which was shut off.

The bodies were discovered by Neal Douglass, another inmate of the home, and a close friend of Harvey.

The hut is located at Homeville, a settlement near the home composed largely of small shacks and shanties used by some of the inmates as sleeping quarters.

Public offering will be made today of a new issue of $47,000,000 ten-thirty-year federal land bank 4 3-4 per cent. bonds at par.

Chicago Baseball Stadium Dynamited

Police Attribute the Act to Members of Unions Which Judge Landis Opposed in Stand Erection.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Damage in excess of $5,000 was caused by the explosion of a dynamite time bomb at the entrance of the Cubs' baseball stadium here early today. Police attributed the act to members of unions alleged to be opposed to the Landis labor award under which the stadium was erected last year.

Four ticket booths were wrecked and houses a block away were rocked and damaged. Many families were routed from their beds and sent scurrying into the streets. Telephone lines in the vicinity were put out of commission. A small blaze started by the blast was extinguished by firemen before it could do much damage.

Police are searching for three men who were seen near the stadium entrance and who made off in an automobile about ten minutes before the explosion.

ATTEMPT TO KILL FORMER NEW YORK PATROLMAN

New York, Oct. 14.—Police today were trying to solve the mystery surrounding an attempt last night to kill former Patrolman Robert McAllister, known, because of his athletic prowess, as "The flying cop." McAllister, who was suspended from the police force pending investigation of a charge of perjury in connection with alleged police graft, now drives a municipal bus. One of his attackers was killed by a patrolman who accompanied McAllister and the other one captured.

McAllister was driving his bus when three men he had ejected for failure to pay their fares threatened to kill him before morning. The former patrolman reported the threat to the police and Detectives Keating and Roewer were assigned to ride with him.

An hour later two men entered the bus, one of them drawing a pistol and commanding the occupants to throw up their hands. Detective Keating drew his pistol and one of the attackers opened fire, which Keating returned, wounding one of them. The two fled, the wounded one entering a taxicab. The second man was caught. He said he was Thomas Klein.

Shortly afterward the body of a man, later recognized as Detective Keating's victim, was found lying in East Twentieth street. He was identified as Charles Mudock.

McAllister had a notable athletic record, his greatest fame having been won in the 100 yard dash.

He was charged with perjury in connection with a liquor raid upon the basement of a house in which C. F. Zittell, theatrical publisher lived. A woman keeper of the Seaman's Boarding House also charged McAllister with bribery after a liquor raid upon her home and later Commissioner Enright ordered "the flying cop" suspended.

Police doubted that the men who tried to shoot McAllister last night had robbery as their motive. They believed he was slated as the victim of an East Side "gang" but were at a loss to understand the reason.

FIRE BADLY DAMAGES THE HISTORIC TALLMADGE HOUSE

Litchfield, Conn., Oct. 14.—The historic Tallmadge house, built here in 1775, and in which George Washington stopped more than a century ago, was almost totally destroyed by fire early this morning. Mrs. Emily Vanderpoel, 70 years old, who has for many years occupied the mansion, was carried from the building, overcome by smoke. Valuable antique furniture and paintings were saved.

The Tallmadge house is the second oldest building in the borough of Litchfield, and has long been associated in history. It was originally the home of Colonel Benjamin Tallmadge who was a noted cavalry officer in the Revolution. It was afterwards made into an inn, and it was during this period that Washington slept under its roof while on a tour through New England. Mrs. Vanderpoel is now the owner of the house. The fire was discovered by her son Floyd, who lives nearby. Servants aided in giving the alarm. The loss is conservatively estimated at $5,000.

EUGENE O'NEIL'S PLAYS THE RAGE IN BERLIN

Berlin, Oct. 14.—Eugene O'Neill's plays are epidemic in Berlin these days and threaten to rival those of George Bernard Shaw and Oscar Wilde in the favor of Germans who yearn for modern plays. "Anna Christie" has opened with success at the Deutsches theatre and companies are rehearsing "Emperor Jones," "the Hairy Ape" and plays of the sea, which are intended for early production.

Jackie Coogan has also won great favor among the Berlin movie fans, "My Boy" the only film of the American child actor, which has been shown here, promises to run all winter.

HELD UP IN BALTIMORE HOTEL, KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 14.—Six bandits held up the Baltimore hotel, here early today and escaped in two automobiles with loot estimated at between $2,000 and $3,000.

The house detective for the hotel, and three clerks were near the cashier's window when the bandits entered. The four men were held up at the point of revolvers while the bandits scooped up all the cash available and made their escape.

MANY LIVES SNUFFED OUT IN WEEK-END AUTO ACCIDENTS

Nine Persons Were Killed Outright and One Seriously Injured When Train Struck an Automobile at a Crossing Near Fairland, Ind.—Nineteen Persons Were Injured, Two Seriously at a Grade Crossing Near Highspire, Pa.—Men in Stolen Auto Crashed Into a Tree in an Effort to Evade Police.

Fairland, Ind., Oct. 14.—Nine persons were killed and one seriously injured when a Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad passenger train struck an automobile at a crossing near here at 11 o'clock this morning. The train was bound from Cincinnati to Chicago.

The dead are:

J. W. Means, 70; Mrs. J. W. Means, 65; Mrs. Roy Britton, 30; Byron Britton, 9; Jessie McGuire, 35; Muy Britton, 11; Jessie Gother, 35; Goldie Gather, 30; Pearl Britton, 7, all of London, Indiana.

The only person in the car to escape was Roy Britton, who jumped before the train struck the machine. He suffered severe injuries as a result of the leap.

According to reports to railroad officials, the occupants of the machine apparently failed to hear the train approaching and were driving slowly across the tracks when the car was hit.

19 PERSONS INJURED IN COLLISION OF TRAIN AND AUTO

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—Nineteen persons were injured, two seriously, when an extra express train on the Pennsylvania lines collided with the rear end of a passenger train near Highspire, seven miles south of here, early today. Inability to see the signals due to a dense fog is ascribed as the reason for the collision.

Miss Edna Stafford, Leetsdale, who suffered a chest injury and J. E. Hourke, Philadelphia, Pullman conductor, who was said to be badly hurt, were taken to a local hospital, the others were attended by physicians and nurses, sent from this city.

Four cars of the passenger train which was proceeding slowly on account of fog were damaged as were four cars of the express train, whose engine was derailed.

CRASHED INTO TREE IN ATTEMPT TO EVADE POLICE

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 14.—Four men are in the custody of the police here, one in a serious condition in a hospital, facing charges of stealing an automobile from New York City this morning. Attempting to evade two policemen, who stepped out into the roadway here to warn them of a traffic violation, the driver of the car swerved into the officers, knocking them down. The car then crashed into a tree and three of the men escaped.

Edwin Smith of 1274 Bath (late avenue, New York City, who was injured was removed to the hospital.

Wallace Stroh of 2627 Gebler avenue, and James Gillen, of 662 West Thirty-fourth street, both of New York, were arrested later, and the other man, Edward Faucett, also of New York, was apprehended in Larchmont, N. Y. All are being held for the New York police.

The car in which the men were riding was said to be owned by Ira L. Warren, of New York.

THREE AUTOMOBILES INVOLVED IN COLLISION

Thornton Ferry, N. H., Oct. 14.—Six persons are in a hospital in Nashua tonight, one probably fatally hurt, as the result of a collision involving three automobiles which blocked traffic for a distance of nearly three miles on the Daniel Webster highway here today. Mrs. Kate Maguire of Boston was reported to be dying.

An automobile driven by William Jones of Concord locked wheels with a south-bound car and the two machines were flung directly in the path of a machine driven by Captain Fred C. Linesey of Portsmouth.

WOMAN FATALLY INJURED BY AUTO IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Oct. 14.—Hurled to the ground, face downward, when she was struck by an automobile here late tonight, Mrs. Rose Mulligan, 50 years old, of this city, was dead when persons in the vicinity reached the spot. Harold Garceau, 20, of West Haven, was the driver of the car, which is owned by his brother. Witnesses were ordered to appear before Coroner Eli Mix tomorrow afternoon. Garceau was held in bonds of $1,000 on a charge of reckless driving.

BRITISH GOVT ACCEPTS BELGIAN REPARATION PLEA

Paris, Oct. 14—(By the A. P.)—The British government's acceptance of the suggestion of the Belgian foreign office for a reference of the Belgian reparation plan to the interallied reparation commission as the basis of a concrete plan in the impending negotiations for a settlement of the question of German reparations, was received at the foreign office today.

This completes the general accord by all the allies and the reparation commission will proceed officially to study the Belgian plan with a view to ascertaining whether it can be used as the basis for a solution of the problems of reparations when the negotiations concerning them are resumed.

The Belgian document, an outgrowth of many months of investigation by Belgian technical and financial experts in Germany, has been unofficially before the reparation commission for some weeks. But there has been no official discussion or exchange of views o nit.

The broad outline of the plan for a minimum of 50,000,000,000 gold marks as Germany's indemnity, to which is added 82,000,000,000 marks in "C" bonds.

The plan gives 3,000,000,000 gold marks as the amount in yearly payments Germany can make. It gives the figures as arrived at, together with all technical documents. By reorganization of the German railroads along the lines elaborated, according to the plan they could be made to yield one billion gold marks alone, while other monopolies, such as tobacco, wine, beer, mineral waters, sugar, salt, matches and coal, if managed as the experts advise, would provide an additional 1,500,000,000 gold marks. To these figures, the plan asserts, may be added 500,000,000 gold marks as the fruits of eventual participation by the allies in German industrial enterprises.

The Belgian government further suggests that as soon as the reparation commission has taken full official cognizance of its plan, a conference of the heads of the allied governments be called.

French official circles deprecate the suggestion that Belgium's latest reparation move is not meeting with favor at the French foreign office. It was stated here today that the Belgian proposal meets with the full and complete assent of the French government, which was the first of the allies to send an affirmative reply to Brussels.

NEEDS OF DESTITUTE REFUGEES IN GREECE

Washington, Oct. 14.—A cablegram from Queen Elizabeth of Greece, announcing that unless relief is forthcoming thousands of destitute refugees from Asia Minor, will died this winter in Greece, was read today before the American Friends of Greece meeting here. Professor Edward Capps of Princeton University, former United States minister to Athens, declared that Greece's stand with the allies during the war entitled her to the right of appeal for relief in her hour of need.

GERMAN CABINET APPROVES EIGHT HOUR WORK DAY

London, Oct. 14.—It is officially announced that the German cabinet has approved the draft of a bill concerning hours of labor, which under normal conditions will be eight hours and in exceptional cases ten hours, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Berlin.

MILLERAND FOR REVISION OF FRENCH CONSTITUTION

Evereaux, France, Oct. 14.—(By the A. P.)—President Millerand in a speech here today proclaimed a policy of better relations with the nation and for more births, less expenses and lots of common sense. The address was delivered at the dedication of a bridge.

Taxes, the president said, had risen from 460 gold francs per capita prior to the war to 2,460 francs last year. France, nevertheless, must brace herself for drastic economy and wholesale overhauling in the public administration. This, the president declared, implied well disciplined obedience. He took occasion to serve notice on public employes that no class could dominate—that all must work for the public good.

A higher birth rate, said the president, must be reached, for the question had become "almost tragic in its gravity and urgency," for "it means for France either to be or not to be."

President Millerand declared that the French constitution must be revised to make the government more stable.

The president also spoke at Louviers, dealing with France's policy in terms M. Poincare might have used had the premier not taken a rest this Sunday. M. Millerand declared it was not France's fault that peace had not yet been won, as France had never put forward unacceptable claims. Her successive governments had done everything possible to reach a solution of the situation, based on a humane, just and definite peace, but this had been impossible.

TWO DEATHS RESULT FROM FOREST FIRES IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Oct. 14.—Two dead, scores slightly injured and property loss estimated at over $1,000,000 resulted from the brush fires which yesterday swept over ridges and canyons near the suburbs of Montrose, Eagle Rock and Glendale, north of here, and which late today were believed to have been brought under control.

Bodies of two victims whose charred remains were found half way up a blackened ridge, fingers driven deep into the earth, were brought to Glendale this afternoon. A report that two other bodies had been found by deputy sheriffs could not be verified.

One of the victims was identified as Joseph McGahan, a plumber. He was believed to have lost his life while assisting the firefighters.

Lack of roads and of information as to the location of homes situated in the burned zone—an area estimated at 15 square miles—made an accurate check of property loss almost impossible. Reports from firefighters told of a dozen houses and cabins burned, of the loss of automobiles, of household effects and personal belongings abandoned by residents in their fight.

Tonight, the flames appeared vanquished, smouldering embers alone remained to confront the firefighters, and most of the approximately 3,000 men who battled the blaze last night had returned to their homes.

DIED SUDDENLY WHILE WALKING IN THE STREET

New York, Oct. 14.—Samuel Broom, president of the United Shirt Manufacturers' Association and a director of the National Wholesale Drygoods Association, died suddenly today while walking in Fifth avenue. Mr. Broom was sixty-two years old, and the president of Broom & Newman, shirt manufacturers of New York. He was prominent in Jewish relief movements.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office

Peter Driscoll of Yantic and Marcel Fontaine of 80 South street, this city, were notified to appear in Willimantic police court this (Monday) morning to answer to the charge of reckless driving. The notices were served on the two men by Chief of Police Allen MacArthur when they could not come to an agreement as to who was to blame for a collision between machines owned by them at the junction of Main and Bridge streets, at 4.45 o'clock, Sunday afternoon.

Driscoll was driving east on Main street in a Chalmers touring car and he claimed that Fontaine cut in ahead of him from a westerly direction, to turn down Bridge street. Driscoll attempted to avoid a collision, but in doing so he ran his car into the silent policeman and was struck by Fontaine who drove a Chevrolet touring car.

The Driscoll car had to be raised on jacks, before the silent cop could be released from beneath it. Both cars suffered bent fenders and running boards. The passengers escaped without injury.

Lee Ohmen, of South Coventry, drove his Ford runabout into a telephone in front of the Jordan Buick Company garage, 873-880 Main street, about 3 o'clock Sunday morning and as a result was arrested by Officer Roderick Lariviere on the charge of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Ohmen was later released under bonds for his appearance in the police court this (Monday) morning. Ohmen has been employed in New Jersey and recently came to stay with his mother in South Coventry.

Catherine Helen Robinson, 19, colored, was arrested in the vicinity of her home in the Stone Row section, at 1.45 o'clock Sunday morning, when found in the company of several young men. Lieutenant Frank McLean and Officer Nicholas Orlando made the arrest. Miss Robinson will be charged with being in manifest danger of falling into habits of vice, at the session of police court this (Monday) morning. Of late several complaints against the girl's conduct have been registered at the police headquarters, through Miss Anderson, of the welfare bureau, and the officers have been instructed to watch the young woman's movements.

The fund for the Visiting Nurse association to enable the nurses to carry on their good work in this city and vicinity, has been started with three $50 donations from the American Thread Company Athletic association, the Catholic Women's Welfare Council and the Windham Girls' club respectively. A strong appeal for assistance, financial and moral, has been issued by the Visiting Nurse association and practically every organization in this city has either already responded or has stated an intention of voting donations to the fund. The appeal also calls on the generosity of the individual who is interested in any way in the care of the sick and poor in Willimantic.

A number of Willimantic hunters are in line for appearance before the police court for violation of the law by discharging firearms within the city limits and amusing themselves by taking chance shots at domestic animals. Just such a violation was reported to Chief Allan MacArthur on Saturday morning, by Fred H. Deppler, owner of Eagle's Nest, at the crest of the hill on Mountain street.

Deppler is the owner of a poultry ranch and has a number of prize turkeys. Up to Friday night the stock included two Bourbon Red tom turkeys of pedigreed stock, secured from Michigan about a year ago. The strain was the only kind in this section of the state and considered very valuable.

Mr. Deppler heard a great deal of shooting in that section of Hosmer Mountain Friday and when he investigated he found one of the Bourbon Red gobblers lying on the ground with a shattered leg, from a rifle shot. Much to the owner's grief, the turkey was killed. When dressed it weighed 31 pounds. Mr. Deppler said that he had had a similar experience last year and was much incensed over this poor display of sportsmanship. His opinion is also shared by several other property owners. A resident of Jordan road recently complained that his favorite shepherd dog had been shot twice by hunters and a chicken owner in the west end of the city found two of his hens shot dead by hunters.

The police department advises all hunters to take notice where the city limits end and avoid a great deal of trouble. The city limits include the wooded section at the west end of the city, the region of Quarry street, Mansfield avenue, the woods running east along the boundary line of the city, with that of the town of Mansfield to the Park spring, on Jackson street, and the wooded section from the city line on the Windham road in a westerly direction inside of the Lebanon town line, to Ayer's cove, on Willimantic river.

Captain Russo of the Sioux and Captain Redman of the Iroquis were tied for first place in the twenty-yard potato race, at the opening of the athletic contests for members of the boys' department at the Y. M. C. A., Saturday morning. Their time was 4 2-5 seconds. Captain Simon of the Mohicans, Hourigan and Kelleher were tied when they finished in 4 3-5 seconds. The team ranked in the contest as follows: Mohicans 24; Sioux 24 1-5, and Iroquis and Algonquins 24 3-5. The team standing Mohicans 12, Sioux 10, Iroquis 7 1-2; Algonquins 7 1-2. Williams is captain of the Algonquins. A standing broad jump will be a feature next week.

The Willimantic W. C. T. U. held its meeting recently in the Y. M. C. A., the president, Mrs. Nellie A. Gager presiding and Mrs. William C. Card of South Windham at the piano. Miss Bowen, the evangelistic superintendent led the devotional exercises. All the Way My Saviour Leads Me, was sung. The president surprised the members when she read an extract from the history of the organization taken from the Union Signal, stating that the Meriden Conn., W. C. T. U., was organized April 14, 1874, before the national was organized and that Mrs. Caroline Brown was the first secretary of that union. Prayer, Faith and Personal Effort was the slogan of this first union and it still lives and thrives and grows. Miss Vesta Stone was unanimously elected corresponding secretary.

It was voted to pledge a sum of money for the Visiting Nurses' association. Mrs. Mary L. Stearns gave interesting Reminiscences of Vacation. Mrs Davoll was selected as superintendent of the state and national pational papers and she received several subscriptions.

At a session of the Columbia town court Saturday morning three cases of reckless driving were heard. The arests were made Friday, Oct. 5. Thomas Wiley, a driver of one of the cars of the Willimantic-Hartford Blue Line was granted a continuance of his case until Saturday morning, Oct. 20. Charles P. Cahill, an officer of the association, sought power of attorney for Wiley, which was opposed by State Policeman Fred T. Caron, who made the arrest. Cahill's petition was overruled by Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins. Carl Ellison and Florid Farqualin of Baltic both pleaded guilty to reckless driving and were fined $25 and costs, amounting to $27.07 in each case. They paid the assessment. The three arrests were made by Officer Caron Friday, the big day of the Manchester centennial celebration.

St. Anne's Charitable Society of St. Joseph's church is planning to hold a rummage sale for the benefit of the poor.

Marvin P. Coleman, 68, of South Coventry, died at his home there early Saturday morning after an illness of several months. Mr. Coleman represented Coventry in the state legislature several years ago and was active in community affairs. He has held several town offices. He was born, in Coventry, July 20, 1855, a son of Ephraim and Eunice C. Peck Coleman. He leaves his wife, two daughters, Edith Coleman and Mrs. Dorothy Crickmore of South Coventry; two sisters, Mariah Coleman of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Lucy Boynton of Branford, also a brother George Coleman of Windham.

Funeral services for Miss Ellen F. Buell were held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at her home in Hebron. Rev. J. Vernon Lytle officiated. Burial was in Hebron cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

The funeral of Alfred Nelson Manning was held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at his home in South Windham. Mrs. Louise Phillips of North Windham conducted the services. Burial was in Windham Center cemetery. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Just Harry, owned by Harry Seamen, of Manchester, won in three straight heats over Famous Nutwood, owned by Fred Burnham, in a special matinee race at Recreation Park here Saturday. The two-horse contest was witnessed by a large crowd the assemblage being thickly sprinkled with Just Harry backers. The race was for fifty bushels of oats and was the culmination of a friendly argument between the owners of the horses, Burnham charging that his horse could outstep Just Harry in a fast race.

Mrs. Bella Powell of Hartford, worthy grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star of Connecticut, and her associated grand officers, made their official visit to Radiant chapter, No. 11, O. E. S., recently. The work was exemplified on several candidates. Over two hundred were present.

A Fox touring car owned by Fred Connarty, was damaged considerably about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon when it figured in a collision with a car driven by George Mohed at the corner of Jackson and Union streets. The matter was reported to Chief Allan MacArthur and a mutual agreement was reached by the men.

Charles N. C. Wheeler, leader of the Willimantic B. P. O. E. band, has received a highly complimentary letter from Charles P. Hatch of Hartford on the band's playing at the Manchester Centennial parade, Oct. 5.

A concert at Mansfield Center Congregational church Friday evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society was largely attended. The Imperial quartet of this city gave the concert. The quartet includes Miss Ruth Herrick, soprano; Miss Ruth Nye, alto; Edwin F. Cross, baritone; Arthur L. Clark, tenor. Mrs. Charles H. Beebe accompanied at the piano. Miss Bronson of Storrs gave several readings.

Due to the lack of convicting evidence George Haddad of Willimantic, who was arrested in Stafford Thursday afternoon on the charge of soliciting individual fares for his public service car in competition with an established jitney line, was not required to appear before the Stafford borough court Saturday morning, as scheduled. Attorney M. D. O'Connell no session of the court was held.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Y. M. C. A. Course of Entertainments.

The local Y. M. C. A. management has arranged an unusually strong course of entertainments for the fall and winter season to open on Monday, Oct. 22nd with the superb entertainers, The Russian Cathedral Sextette. Each member of the sextette was presented with a medal by Tzar Nicholas in recognition of their musical accomplishments.

On Wednesday, Nov. 14th, the noted Henry company in magic, mystery and bewildering illusion will entertain. Henry is positively a leader in his line.

On Wednesday, January 9th, the Harmony Entertainers, consisting of three wholesome, vivacious, clean cut American girls will delight the audience. Each is a real artist. In addition to the trio of young ladies, Andrew Wescott, one of the best accordian players in the country will furnish part of the program.

The talent for this course will cost the committee, by far more than any previous course, the idea being to present to the friends of the Y. M. C. A. a course of quality rather than quantity.

The course tickets are priced at $2. The Russian Sextette is alone worth the price of the course, the bureau states that it is the finest musical company they ever booked. Tickets may be secured at the offices of the Y. M. C. A. or of Smith's Shoe Store on Broadway.

Those who have already ordered tickets will please secure them as soon as convenient either at the Y. M. C. A. or Smith's shoe store on Broadway.

Notable Cast in The Eternal Struggle, Now Playing at the Breed.

A brilliant cast including Renee Adoree, Barbara La Marr, Earle Williams, Pat O'Malley, Wallace Beery, Josef Swickard and Pat Harmon, figures brilliantly through Metro's The Eternal Struggle, the feature attraction at the Breed theatre today and Tuesday.

The Eternal Struggle is literally packed with spectacular thrills, most of which were filmed in far Canada where the story is centered. Aside from the tense drama of The Eternal Struggle, the production has the marvelous beauty of the frozen north as a natural setting and it is beautifully photographed.

The Eternal Struggle is a notable achievement and ranks easily among the great pictures of the screen. It was adapted by J. G. Hawks and Monte M. Katterjohn from the famous novel by G. B. Lancaster. The Lawbringers, and was photographed by Percy Hilburn. It is a Reginald Barker production for the Metro-Louis B. Mayer forces.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe News and an Educational comedy.

New Swanson Picture at the Broadway Theatre Today.

Gloria Swanson's Paramount picturization of Alfred Savoir's French comedy, Bluebeard's Eighth Wife, was shown with flattering results at the Broadway theatre last evening. Miss Swanson is supported by Huntley Gordon, in the leading man's role; Charles Greene, Paul Weigel, Robert Agnew and other artists of note.

This story affords Miss Swanson a role quite the opposite of that she played in her recent success, Prodigal Daughters. To those who admire Miss Swanson's sartorial achievements, this picture might well be dedicated. It is a veritable fashion show of gorgeous gowns and wraps; the story calling for the ultimate in daring gowns in the Egyptian scene of the opening of the much-advertised King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, a scene upon which hinges the outcome of the production.

The "Gloria's bob," newest fad in feminine hair-dress is here. Gloria Swanson, who has probably introduced more new hair fashions than any other person, is again responsible for a novelty that threatens to spread over the country even faster than bobbed hair.

"Miss Swanson has a perfectly shaped head," declared Miss Talbourne, "which greatly enhances the beauty of her new style hair dress. But a badly shaped head need not cause girls who desire the new style any misapprehensions, because the hair can be cut and shingled into the desired shape."

Other subjects included the latest three-reel Will Rogers comedy entitled Fruits of Faith.

A news weekly completed the programme. This is one program you should not miss. Ask your friends about it.

Keith Vaudeville at Strand Theatre

The following list of Keith vaudeville acts are scheduled for a showing at the Strand theatre the first half of this week:

Savoy and Williams open the bill with A Few Different Things.

Following comes Malino and Correll in The Mirthful Funsters.

Mabel Harper and company in third spot after The Funhouse of Vaudeville and is assisted by Ethel Fitzpatrick.

The Elwell Sisters close the bill with a syncopation act.

Daniel Carson Goodman, master author and producer of such well known pictures, as What's Wrong With the Women? and Has the World Gone Mad? believes in securing the finest talent obtainable for his productions.

In his third picture, entitled The Daring Years, which opens at the Strand theatre yesterday, Goodman has assembled the finest cast ever seen in any of his productions.

Charles Emmett Mack (loaned to Mr. Goodman through the courtesy of D. W. Grimth, with whom he is under contract) enacts the role of the boy with subtle restraint and understanding; Mildred Harris is the dancer who lures the boy to destruction by her seductive form, bewitching eyes and mocking lips; Mary Carr enacts the greatest role of her screen career as the broken-hearted mother of the boy; Tyrone Power, long famous on stage and screen, is the father of the dancer; and Clara Bow is the sweet, adoring little sweetheart to whom the boy turns in his hour of need.

The story deals with the life of a young college student—a dreamer rather than a doer, who, through no fault of his own, but rather as a victim of circumstances, is doomed to the electric chair. How he is saved at the last moment from a ghastly death is told by Goodman in his usual masterly, dramatic way.

SOCIAL WORKERS COUNCIL WILL HEAR MISS ROCKWELL

The Social Workers Council of New London and Windham counties will hold its next meeting in Norwich at the United Workers House, Washington street, Wednesday, Oct. 17, at 2.30. Miss Edith Moran, secretary of the council and family welfare worker of the Norwich United Workers is to be the hostess. At this time it is hoped there will be a larger group than at previous meetings, since invitations have been sent out to prospective members. Miss Olive Rockwell, social worker of the state division of mental hygiene, will speak on her work for the purpose of showing those of the various communities where her activities link up with the other social agencies. Dr. Kathryn Bryon of the Norwich State Hospital is the president of the council and will preside at this meeting.

Minstrels at Jewett City.

Another fine minstrel show is booked for Finn's Jewett City tonight. The noon parade will have bicycle stunts and other features in addition to a fine band. There is an outdoor concert at night. Jewett City theatre world is looking up and is appreciated.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES.

Learnin'.

I'm learnin' how to whistle.
I've only got one tune,
Daddy says it sounds like
Sheep howlin' at the moon.

Sis says it makes her nervous,
Mother says 'mercy on my ears,'
But I think myself it ain't so bad
For one of seven years.

I'm seven my last birthday,
That's mighty near a man,
Grandpa says, and he knows,
Dispute him, if you can.

Of course, I've got to whistle,
Why make such a fuss?
Dad makes lots more racket,
When he starts in to cuss.

Sis plays on the planner,
Gee! if is an awful noise,
Then I just sneak out and play
Circus with the boys.

Mother's takin' lessons,
Vocal singin', so she said,
It sounds like one in agony,
Or spirits from the dead.

But Grandpa never fusses,
He says 'You're just a kid.
And must learn to whistle,
Like all us Daddies did.'

Says if I'm a good boy
I might be president,
That's nothin' near so hard
As to whistle when you can't.

—Mabel Watters, in Brooklyn Eagle.

To a Puppy.

So you're the culprit that broke down my phlox,
And trampled thee, as dirt, beneath your feet!
With all the land about, still must your walks
Be in my garden on its blossoms sweet?

And, too, you dug a great, deep hole, you did,
Right in the very midst of my rose bed,
And then you ran away so fast, and hid—
You looked ashamed when you came to be fed.

I heard about another of your kind
That chewed a pair of shoes, a cake of soap,
And almost anything that he could find.
You are not going ot be like him, I hope.

I'm cross! Who wouldn't be, I'd like to know?
And, yet, somehow I'm fond of you, at that—
Why, where are you? Now see the rascal go.
Just like a streak, chasing a poor, stray cat!

—Gertrude Louise Small, in Boston Globe.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO 'WIDE-AWAKES.

According to the letters that have been written, there are many Wide-awakes who have dogs and cats for pets. They like to care for them, they enjoy playing with them, and they make in some cases close companions for them.

Dogs know a great deal. They understand, appreciate kindness and often take the place of a playmate, and yet none of the Wideawakes would think of considering them the equal of human beings, however much they think of them as dogs. But there are countries where dogs are considered an equal. In Scotland shepherd dogs often accompany their masters to church on Sundays. In old parish churches there may still be seen pews which were reserved for the dogs of the lord of the manor in former years. They were usually well behaved, it is said, but sometimes they would get to fighting, and then services would be interrupted. It was even necessary at times to turn the dogs out of the edifice before the service could be continued.

In Belgium, with the government owning the railroads, dogs are rated higher than children on trains. That is, if a dog has a ticket, he is entitled to a whole seat, just as a grown person is, but a child is only allowed half a seat, if under 12 years. If other passengers board a train and there are no vacant seats, and a dog holds a seat, the dog does not have to give up the seat, even though the people may have to remain behind.

These instances show how highly dogs are regarded by their human masters, for the most part. But dogs are not people, and it is not reasonable to put human beings to a disadvantage for their sake. As in everything else, some people carry their affection for animals to an absurd extent. We must always show kindness to inferior creatures. We should refrain from ill-treating them, see that they are properly cared for and fed, but we should not make other people uncomfortable in order to show our fondness for cats and dogs.

WINNERS OF PRIZE BOOKS.

Emma Dugas of Jewett City: I could not express my surprise when I received your book. I find it very interesting, and when my fellow mates saw it they all begged to take it, but in vain. I cannot express my thanks and gratitude.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.

The Message to Garcia.

Dear Uncle Jed: Twenty-four years ago a man named Rowan delivered a message to Garcia. He has lately received a service cross.

April, 1898, when Rowan was on duty he received a telegram stating that someone had to deliver a message to Garcia and that he had been chosen. He was to take the quickest available transportation to Jamaica and wait there until he received a cablegram to continue his journey. He was not carry more papers than necessary.

On April 23 he received the cablegram and, dressed as an English hunter, he set out in a small sailboat with a few other men for Cuba.

The next morning he continued his journey, and about noon he reached Bayama where Garcia was.

Rowan delivered his message. But it was not as important as the message he carried back, which was concerning what the Spanish were doing.

Rowan and Garcia held a conference and decided that the safest way to carry the message was to take the men who had the knowledge in their heads. So Rowan accordingly took three men of the Cuban army with him.

In going to the Cuban coast they followed the seventy-seventh meridian, reaching the coast May 6.

By daylight May 8, they were out of the sight of the Spanish, on their way to Key West, still following the seventy-seventh meridian.

They arrived safely at Washington and Rowan was made a captain and sent to the Philippines, where he won honor, and then he was forgotten.

After twenty-four years of oblivion, Rowan was asked if he felt neglected. He answered that he had done nothing but his duty.

Elbert Hubbard compares carrying the message to Garcia with our every day life. The world wants people like Rowan, who, when told to do something, do not ask useless questions, but think for themselves, and act what they think.

Horatius.

Dear Uncle Jed: Horatius was a Roman. He lived in Rome. Lars Porsena of Clusaim was mad at Rome. He got an army and went against Rome. There was a bridge over the Tiber river. It was the only entrance to Rome. Lars Porsena's army came toward the bridge. Horatius was captain of the gate. When he saw the enemy he said to the consul (the rulers of Rome): "Hew down the bridge and I with two more to help me will keep the foes at bay." He then said: "Now who will help me?" Out spoke Spirus Lartius (of Titan blood was he): "I will stand at thy right hand and keep the bridge with thee." Then out spoke Herminius: "Lo, I will stand at thy right hand and keep the bridge with thee." Astor was a good swordsman. Lars Porsena said: "Will ye dare to follow if Astor clears the way?" Horatius threw him from his horse and killed him. The two crossed to the other side when the consul called them. The bridge fell. Horatius plunged into the stream. Sextus said: "Will not the villain drown?" Lars Porsena said: "Heaven help him and bring him safe to shore." They (the Romans) made a statue of him.

My Trip to Groton Long Point.

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would send in a letter telling all about my trip to Groton. My sister and I went to our summer home in Groton for our vacation. We had a most wonderful time. We went in bathing. I found some very nice flowers near the water. We had many other good times at Groton. After our wonderful three weeks' vacation we were ready for our home in Storrs.

I hope all your little Wideawakes had as fine a vacation as I had. I enjoy telling my playmates of my good time down in Groton Long Point. I'm now in the seventh grade.

DOROTHY WHEELER, Age 12.

My Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed: A friend of mine gave me a little kitten, which was very young. It was black and white and had lovely big eyes.

I kept my kitten and fed it well, and at the end of the first year it had grown very large and beautiful.

I had grown to love my cat and my father had also. He liked it because it would catch a lot of rats and mice, but the sadness came, when one day an automobile ran over it. I felt very sorry, because I loved my cat.

Vacation Days.

Dear Uncle Jed: I spent most of my vacation at my grandmother's. I had lots of fun there. I made a swing with strong rope and I had lots of fun on it. I swung up in the air so cool. I would like to have as much fun next vacation. I hope the Wide-Awakes will like my letter.

Yours truly,

The Magic Ring.

Dear Uncle Jed: There was once a poor girl named Annie. She had neither father nor mother, but lived with her aunt and uncle, who were very mean to her. One day Annie was walking down a dirty street in her neighborhood, when she suddenly came upon an old lady whom she knew very well. She called this old lady "Granny," because she had no granny of her own, and oftimes wished she had one. She greeted the old lady by saying: "Good morning, Granny; but you are out very early this morning!" The old lady replied (with a smile, which she had always greeted Annie with): "Yes, my dear child. I am going to give anybody my magic ring who will find for me my four four pieces of foreign money which I have lost. My mother gave it to me when she died and I cherish it greatly."

At once a thought came to Annie. "I wish I could only find it and have some real good luck."

The old lady said: "The magic ring will give anyone anything they wish." The next instant the old lady disappeared. Then Annie strolled home very slowly and seriously thinking and when she arrived home her aunt scolded her for not coming home earlier.

The next morning Annie was sent to the grocer for a few things, for which she handed the man a dollar bill. He gave her the change and at once she saw they were the foreign coins the old lady desired. She immediately ran to the old lady's house and handed them to her and in exchange she gave Annie the magic ring and she said: "Rub three times and make your wish." Annie thanked the old lady and ran home. When she arrived she was scolded, and she told them of her good luck. Her first wish was to be made comfortable and have plenty to eat and new clothing, and so her wish was granted. From that time on her aunt and uncle were always good and kind to Annie and she lived happily ever after with them and had everything she wished for.

LILLIAN HOLLANDER, Age 13.

Windham County

Dear Uncle Jed: Windham county was first started in 1726. It was the fifth county to organize. It is situated in the northeastern part of Connecticut, bordering Worcester county on the north, Providence and Kent counties on the east, New London on the south and Tolland of the west. The area is 620 square miles and a population of about 52,815. There are 15 towns and 23 communities.

The surface is rugged and broken, although there are some level strips in the central part of Plainfield and southern part of Canterbury. In this way "Plainfield" got its name.

The largest river of the county is the Quinebaug. It rises in Worcester county and flows south through Windham into the Shetucket river in New London county. It forms the boundary of Killingly, eastern boundary of Brooklyn and the partial boundaries of Plainfield, Canterbury, Pomfret and Putnam. The most important of its tributaries are Muddy brook, Assawaga or Five Mile river, the Mashawoguiet, Blackwell brook and the Moosup river. The western part of the county is drained by the Natchaug river, which receives the waters of several smaller rivers.

Windham county has extensive manufactures of cotton, woolen, silk and linen. There are 288 establishments engaged in this industry. The number employed in these mills is 4,739 men, 3,295 women and 1,643 children under 16 years of age. The principal manufacturing villages are Willimantic, Danielson and Putnam. The village of Moosup, Central Village, Waurogan, Dayville and North Grosvenordale are also prospering under this industry.

The Appearance of a Frank.

Dear Uncle Jed: The Frank seemed to be a powerful and well built man and was of the ancient Gothic cast of form. On the removal of his helmet his light brown hair would curl thick and profusely over his head. The part of his neck that was not exposed to view was a white stripe. His features were of a hue of brown. He had a mustache which was the color of his hair and it also shaded his upper lip. His chin was carefully diverted of a beard according to the Norman fashion.

His nose was Grecian and well formed, his mouth was rather large in proportion and was set in with beautiful white teeth; his head set upon his neck with much grace; his form was tall, powerful and athletic, his hands, when he withdrew his mailed gloves were well proportioned, his wrist bones were peculiarly large and very wide, his arms were remarkably well shaped and brawny.

My Trip in An Airplane

Dear Uncle Jed: One day as I was walking through a field on a hike I heard a great noise up in the sky. Upon looking up I saw a large airplane. I could see the aviator waving to me. He shouted and I understood him to say that he was going to land. He soon had the airplane landed and was walking toward me. He asked me where he could get some gas. I told him and after getting the tank filled he asked me if I would like to go for a ride. I said I would so he strapped me in and away we went. We went higher and higher until I could just see the earth and as he did the loop to loop something broke and down we went. My strap broke and down I fell I could feel the air rushing by and just then I saw the earth and I knew I was going to get hurt, perhaps killed. I landed with a bang and awoke to find that I had just fell out of bed.

Yours truly,
CLARENCE G. YOUNG, Aged 6.
Danielson.

When the Leaves Fall

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to let you know that when the leaves begin to come tumbling down the first thing I begin to think about is getting some warm bedding for my brother Myron's chickens this winter. So I get right after the rake and then go for the leaves, put all I can in the barn before the snow flies. I put a few leaves in the hen house and my how the chickens go for them to warm their feet on. I love to watch them, then at night when I go to feed them what do you think, Uncle Jed, I find a nice egg for my breakfast, so you see I'm well paid for my hard raking of leaves. Will close with best wishes to all your little Wide-Awakes.

HOMER JACOB, Age 7.
Hanks Hill.

My First Swim in the Quinebaug

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my first day in the Quinebaug river I went to visit my friend who was staying in Packer, Conn. My sister and brother, friend and I went swimming one afternoon. It was a very pleasant day in August. While we were in the water we heard an awful noise far away. It came nearer and nearer. We all looked up and saw a lot of airplanes. We counted 14 in all. They were going very fast. I never say so many airplanes at one time before. They made a terrible noise, ad went right over our heads. We had a very pleasant afternoon and I shall never forget my first swim in the Quinebaug river, hoping I will receive one of your lovely books.

I remain yours truly,
EDITH McNERNEST, Age 14.
Plainfield.

My Pet Cats

Dear Uncle Jed: I have three cats. Their names are Tommy, Tabby and Lucy. Lucy is the mother cat. She is four years old. She catches rats in my father's chicken coop. Sometimes my brother and I go fishing and she follows us way down to the river and waits till we catch a fish and give it to her. She hates dogs. Every time a dog comes near the house she makes her tail big and jumps in his face and scares him away. She loves her little kittens. Every morning she washes them nice and clean and then she brings them upstairs and my mamma gives them their breakfast

DANIELSON

An unusual sight even for those who have lived in and about East Killingly for many years is the series of lakes and ponds at the present extremely low level. Old Killingly pond, most beautiful of all the sheets of water in that section of the town is several feet below its normal level. A veritable ring of rocks surround the entire pond, which has shrunk to far less than its normal proportions. Fishing opportunities are being improved by numbers, more especially, however, in ponds other than Old Killingly. Eadie Pray reservoir, at the northerly end of the chain of lakes and ponds is reduced to a brook flowing through a section of what is normally the reservoir area.

Not in many years have the waters about East Killingly been so low and they are dropping daily as what is left of the supply is drawn off for the needs of the factories in the village.

Saturday morning Rev. J. J. Elty of Trinity church, Pomfret, was celebrant of a high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church in Dayville for Miss Margaret Cannon, whose death occurred last Wednesday. Relatives and many friends attended the services. The bearers were Michael Cotter, T. Cotter, Thomas Hanley, Michael Greeley, William Hanley and Matthew Murray. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Fans congregated here Sunday afternoon to listen to the wireless returns from the world's series games in New York. The radio has brought the games here practically play by play from New York and the crowds are moved to enthusiasm over the manner in which the information is being wirelessed to them as over the games. Note has been made by many of the splendid manner in which the radio has been developed during the past year. Workers who were engaged on Winter street one afternoon last week tell of being able to hear the announcer say "strike" and "ball" through the loud speaker that has been in use throughout the series on School street.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) afternoon members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., are to meet with Mrs. Albert S. Field in Brooklyn. The members are to make the trip in a motor bus. In conection with the meeting it is announced that the board of management is to hold a meeting at the Public library here, before proceeding to Brooklyn.

Several sites are under consideration for the new arena to be built for roller skating, dancing and other athletic events. It was stated Sunday that no decision has been arrived at yet as to just which of the available sites will be selected. Getting a site as centrally located as possible is the main object in view.

Only minor accidents were reported from the motorists riding through this territory over the week end up to late Sunday afternoon. For a fall day the traffic was very heavy, however, due to the wonderful weather and the desire to see the foliage now a riot of color and really gorgeous all through this section of the state.

Sunday morning, Mrs. Mary Taylor, Misses Margaret Sullivan, Jennie Williams, Mary Weaver, Margaret McBride and Mae Dunn left on a motor trip that will take them through the Berkshires to Albany, thence along the Hudson river to New York, where they will spend a day, then back through Connecticut to their home town.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Bassett and son, Earl, have returned from a motor trip of 1,500 miles—through the White Mountains, thence to Montreal and then back into New York state, through to Rochester, Buffalo, and Niagara Falls, returning here at the week end.

Such success was achieved with the Barney Rapp orchestra at the state armory at Friday evening's dance that it is likely Danielson will hear a number of othen high class orchestras during the fall and winter season. Some are already booked and the patronage warranting others will be brought here to meet the demand of those who love dancing.

Large numbers received communion at St. James' church, Sunday morning, incident to the close of the mission for the French-speaking women of the parish. Their mission came to a close in the afternoon and was followed by the opening in the evening of the mission for the French speaking men. The mission will continue through the present week.

This (Monday) evening the Teachers' Training class of the Methodist church is to hold a meeting. Tuesday evening the Men's club is to meet with A. P. Burns.

Mrs. Harold Greene of Maple street will have the members of the Fortnightly club at her home for a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

John C. Benton of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week end.

Max Bretschneider, student at Northwestern university, Boston, returned to his studies Sunday afternoon after visiting here with his parents.

Under the auspices of Killingly grange a dance was held in Pellett's hall Saturday evening.

What amounted almost to a skirmish line of hunters scoured the woods all through this territory Saturday afternoon—a half-holiday for many—and quantities of game fell before the guns. The complaint continues to be heard that there are too many leaves for good hunting, but that birds are plentiful this year, more so, many think, than in any hunting season in many years.

Some time during the early hours of Sunday morning an attempt was made to burglarize the store of M. Goldwater in the Davis building. Several holes were bored in the back door, which was securely barred, but, it appears, the burglars were frightened away before they could gain any entrance. This is the first attempt at such a burglary here since the Church Company store was cleaned of about $6,000 worth of high grade clothing a year ago.

Summer cottages closed some time ago for the season were in many instannces reopened the past week end, which was remarkable for its beautiful weathmer and unusually high temperature for this time of year.

J. Carl Witter is to leave today for Brattleboro to sell with another well known engineer at a sale of registered stock assembled from some of the finest stock farms in New England.

The assessors of the town of Killingly are receiving lists of taxable property in the town. All of these lists must be filled by November 1, if one would avoid having the assessors add an extra ten per cent. as they are required to do by law.

PUTNAM

A campaign of thrift in the schools of Putnam has been inaugurated. It is called the Educational Thrift Service and is functioning in the high school, Israel Putnam and Smith Street schools. Under the plan adopted, the pupil brings his savings of the week to school on Tuesday and he is given credit for it on his bank book.

The interest is not in the amount saved, but is systematic saving and the object is to get as many pupils to begin saving as possible. On the opening day last week 63 per cent. of the pupils had opened accounts.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph C. Jenkins has received the following commendatory letter for the success of the plan from the start, from the president of the Educational Thrift Service:

"My Dear Mr. Jenkins: We are pleased to note the report of Mr. Blanchet of our installation staff that sixty-three per cent. of the pupils enrolled in the schools of Putnam opened banking accounts in the school banking system on the first day. The average of Educational Thrift Service on the first day is fifty-two per cent. Putnam's is a remarkable achievement and one that your schools have a right to be proud of.

"We have installed this system in over 300 towns and cities, and are well aware that sixty-three per cent. on the first bank day can be the result of only one thing, an unusually efficient and effective organization in the schools. We do believe that Educational Thrift Service deserves to be considered as having contributed its small share to this achievement, but we are well aware that the persons who deserve congratulation are yourself, your principals and teachers.

Very sincerely yours,
"J. ROBERT STOURT,
"President."

Real estate transfers continue at the most active rate ever known in this city. Among the recent deals is the sale by Mrs. John F. Spencer of her bungalow just off Woodstock avenue not far from Anderson's corner. The buyer is Mermon Johnson, carrier at the Putnam post office.

Miss Mary Wheaton has sold a house on Fremont street, now occupied by W. S. Walker and family, soon to remove from this city to Lowell, to Mrs. T. H. Chandler of Providence. Mrs. Chandler, who formerly lived in Putnam, is to remove here again.

W. S. Johnson has sold a parcel of land on the west side of Woodstock avenue, near the Baptist church, to Armand Bibeault. There are four building lots on this plot and Mr. Bibeault intends to erect dwelling houses.

Mr. Johnson has also disposed of a storehouse and a parcel of land on Truesdell street to Arthur Pepin. This land, containing two buildings adjoins the old Johnson shoe shop.

Miss Marjorie Bradford, assistant clerk of the Windham County superior court, spent the week end in Reading, Mass., guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Martin, formerly of Putnam.

After investigating the shooting in the north end of the city, last Thursday night, the police have satisfied themselves that there was no attempt at murder, no desperate character at large, nor is anyone in danger of bodily harm. The matter has been closed, as far as the police are concerned.

Mrs. Augusta Cutler and children motored to South Manchester, Saturday, and spent the day with Walter Brrett and family, formerly of Putnam.

Alexander Gilman, former postmaster of Putnam, is developing a plot of land which he bought yearsr ago on Ravine street. He has recently opened a street through the property that has been named Gilman street.

Charles K. Peal of Abington is at the Day Kimball hospital with a broken leg. He was leading a cow through a pasture when it became frightened and in trying to hold the animal he was thrown and injured.

Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's church, Dayville, Saturday morning, Rev. J. J. Elty singing requiem high mass, for Miss Margaret Gannon, 53, for the last 35 years employed at the Ben Grosvenor inn in Pomfret. Miss Gannon died Wednesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Kate Reilley, at Pomfret Center, after an illness of nine weeks with heart trouble.

Miss Gannon was born in the neighboring town of Hampton, moving to Pomfret when a child.

Swamps, brooks and small ponds in the outlying places are in many places bone dry. Farmers are praying for rain. On many farms wells have run entirely dry, while on others they are so low that the water is only being used for household drinking purposes. In order to water the cattle water is drawn from distant lakes and ponds or streams. Sometimes the trip to the water supply and back is a distance of four to five miles.

The Quinebaug river is very low and the mills are obliged to rely in part on reserve power of electricity or steam. Unless rain comes soon, a serious situation will have to be faced.

Miss Josie Brooks of Wellesley, Mass., is visiting friends in Putnam. Miss Brooks' father, the late Rev. Charles S. Brooks, was for a number of years pastor of Putnam Congregational church. The family moved from Putnam some thirty years ago.

Rt. Rev. E. C. Acheson, suffragan bishop of the dioces of Connecticut, visited St. Philip's Episcopal church Sunday at the evening service at 7.30 o'clock. There was a special musical programme. A large congregation was present at the service and listened to a sermon by the distinguished visitor.

The public is reminded weekly that, from the employes' point of view, a strike still exists at the Manhasset mill. The reminder takes the form of a parade of the former employes each week. A. J. Gaucher, president of the Connecticut council, who has been in charge of the strike since its inception last May, has gone to Maine to engage in a speaking tour urging his audiences to vote for the eight hour referendum measure now pending before the Maine legislature. He is working under the auspices of the American Federation of Textile operatives.

GALES FERRY

Miss M. E. Dakin, nutrition specialist of Connecticut Agricultural college, gave a demonstration on preparation of supper dishes at the Country club house Wednesday afternoon. Miss Dakin interestingly demonstrated the making of vegetable salads, salad dressings, both French and mayonnaise omelets and mock meringue pie.

Those from here attending the Loretta Higgins concert in Slater hall, Norwich, Tuesday, included Nathan A. Gibbs, Miss Natalie King Gibbs, Miss Laura Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Mrs. Delphine Fish, Miss Grace E. Povey and D. E. Povey.

A business meeting of the Village Improvement association was held Monday evening in the Country club house. The president, D. R. Povey, presided. Secretary Nelson Parker read the report of the last meeting. Miss Grace E. Povey, chairman of the entertainments committee, gave a schedule of the proposed activities for the next three months. Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, chairman of the educational department, reported on the adjustment of the looms for weaving. Mrs. Buckingham also asked that Secretary Parker be asked to write the New Haven railroad company at New Haven requesting train No. 745, leaving Norwich at 11.03 a. m., to make a stop at the Gales Ferry station, as has been the regular schedule until Oct. 1st. Mrs. Buckingham also recommended two additional street lights. Progress was reported on the stencils for lettering the street guides.

A fine field of potatoes has been recently dug on the farm of Monett A. Lawson at Long Cove. The potatoes were of the Early Rose variety and grew to immense size. One specimen, a single potato, weighed three pounds.

The replanking of the overhead railroad bridge in the village began the past week under the direction of J. Edmund Norman, selectman of Ledyard. The new law of the state obliges towns to attend to the upkeep of the surface wear, while the railroad company attends to the care of the under structure. A top covering of sand and tarva will cover the planking.

The work of painting the Yale quarters and all the buildings connected therewith was begun the past week by men from New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Williams and Mrs. Littlefield of Waterford motored here Tuesday and were callers at Rose Lawn farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Latham E. Smith.

WESTERLY

The adjourned caucus of the republicans party of Westerly will be held this (Monday) afternoon, in Westerly town hall when ballots will be cast for the republican nominee in the contested position of third councilman, between George B. Utter and George A. Dolan; fifth councilman, Charles S. Fowler and Edwin L. Sawyer; sixth councilman, John D. Nichols and Capt. Beppo Boumenot, and highway commissioner for six years, Louis Leone and Elihu H. Chesebro. The caucus balloting will probably end at 9 p. m. and the result will not be known until 10.30 o'clock. There are some fifty-five or sixty signers to the nomination paper of Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, who ran against the republican caucus nominee a year ago who are not eligible under the Caucus Act to participate in a republican caucus for thirteen months.

The democratic caucus of the town of Westerly, held in the council chambers of the Westerly town hall Saturday evening, was called to order by Chairman Thomas V. B. Clancy, who named Frank G. Booth clerk pro tem in the absence of the regular clerk, Cornelius J. Murphy. Clerk Booth read the call and the chairman asked for nominations for first councilman. Wilbert A. Clarke asked for a report of any slate made up by the town's committee but he was ruled out of order by Chairman Clancy.

The nominations were as follows: First councilman, Frank G. Booth; second, Thomas V. B. Clancy; third, Frederick H. E. Simons, Bradford; fourth, Bernard B. Welch, White Rock; fifth (Bernard J. Christy, declined), Frank Barrone, Bradford; sixth, Wilbert A. Clarke; seventh, William J. Keenan; highway commissioner, Luigi Leone; assessor of taxes, William H. Ledward; moderator, Eugene B. Pendleton; town clerk, Everett E. Whipple; school committee, Dr. J. Harold Doyle, Fayette F. Freeman.

B. J. Christy stated that he did not want a compromise ticket with the republican party. Wilbert A. Clarke said that the republican * * * (Ruled out of order by Chairman Clancy). The democratic town committee was given power to fill vacancies. The attendance was about twenty and the caucus adjourned at 8.30 o'clock.

Australian "Pearl Farm."

A curious farm is that situated in Torres straits, at the most northern point of Australia. It is known as a "pearl farm" and covers about 6,000 square miles. As a matter of fact this farm is a plateau covered with shallow water, and there are about twenty boats (200 persons) irregularly employed in gathering oysters from which pearls are taken. These pearls are sold in London, Paris and Amsterdam.

GOVERNMENT EXPENDITURES.

When the budget system was adopted it came as the result of demands for the putting of the government on a better business basis. There had been too little regard for what there was available in the making of appropriations. Money was voted recklessly, whether the revenue would be made to equal outgo or not. There was need of cutting the garment according to the cloth and with some regard for the existing conditions.

The budget system has been followed with most commendable results. Under the most capable handling of the treasury department and with the aid of the budget system there has also been a cutting of the federal taxes. The cut has not been as deep as those paying them would like, but it is the gradual and safe rather than the rash and unreasonable that keeps an even keel.

Government expenditures have been kept down, and it is now indicated by experts of the treasury department that the budget director will trim the estimates for the various departments so that it will recommend less than three billion dollars for the next fiscal year. That means refraining from extravagance. It means following the same policy that has prevailed for the past few years which has left such a favorable financial situation.

The director of the budget makes his recommendations for the guidance of congress. He is dealing with the department estimates in a businesslike manner. He isn't playing to the galleries and he isn't encouraging a needless expenditure of money. He is at work for the best interests of the country and the pocketbook of the taxpayer.

What is congress going to do about it? Is it going to heed the budget report, or is it going to tear down the dam erected against extravagance and let the good results of economy and efficiency be swept away in a tidal wave of spending? The budget system is deserving of strong support.

THE PRICE OF CARELESSNESS.

Transportation of passengers by automobiles is bound to experience the same restrictive regulations that have been imposed on the trolley companies. The protection of the public is bound to be demanded whatever the vehicle that is carrying them.

Electric cars may not be operated with the same degree of recklessness that some automobiles are, but they are required in states which look after the safety of passengers as this state does to bring the cars to a full stop, throw a signal or have one of the crew stand on guard when a car goes over a railroad track at grade. It is for the purpose of protecting the lives of those in the electric car.

Last week had that course been followed by auto buses in Ohio and Pennsylvania, whose routes made the crossing of a railroad track necessary, 14 persons who were killed would have been living today. Whether the drivers had underestimated the danger or had grown careless because they crossed so many times a day, isn't indicated in the reports. Sufficient is it to know that 14 persons, more than half of whom were children, paid for the negligence with their lives. The public utilities commission in Ohio finds the accident occurred at a "dangerous crossing" but it apparently required eight deaths for them to find it out. The fact of the matter is that the danger at the crossing is no greater now than ever. Had there been a willingness to stop and make sure that danger in the shape of a locomotive was not in sight that large loss of life would not have occurred.

Hasten the day when the grade crossings will be eliminated and such fatalities will be prevented except in those cases where auto drivers insist upon getting onto the railroad tracks, but hasten the day when greater respect is shown for the known danger at crossings and the list of deaths at such places will show a remarkable decline. It isn't possible to be reckless and still be safe.

HAVE BOOMERANG EFFECT.

Not what can be regarded even as a display of good political judgment was that which was shown by Henry Ford when he made his attack upon Secretary Weeks regarding Muscle Shoals. In it Mr. Ford tried to make a grandstand play before the farmers by telling about what would have happened had he gotten the plant, but it was all talk. There was no reason to expect that it will be a howling economic success any more than his expensive peace ship, or his assurance that he would have the boys out of the trenches before a certain Christmas, which of course didn't happen.

Mr. Ford has indulged in claims at various times which have failed to impress. When he undertakes to build up the claim that he has been discriminated against, and uses the situation for the purpose of making a political appeal, he isn't going to get far. There are others who have made wild assertions only to find that they were barking up the wrong tree and their claims came back at them like a boomerang.

The automobile manufacturer should be enough of a man of affairs to know that when the government is under contract to dispose of the Gorgas plant to the power company on whose land it was erected, if it desired it, the government should respect it. That contract was not made by Secretary Weeks or the present administration. It was a holdover from the Wilson administration but it nevertheless bound the government.

And even though this steam plant has been sold it doesn't block Mr. Ford's plan for a fertilizer plant. He can still obtain the big water privilege and it is within his means to erect an auxiliary steam plant of as great capacity as he desires.

The fact is that he would have the greatest reason for attacking the secretary of the war department had he failed to live up to the contract and turned it down for the bid of the man who is making money at the rate of two and a half million a month and making reckless statements.

THE SEASON'S DANGER.

News from Pasadena to the effect that 2000 were fighting forest fires in order to prevent the city from becoming food for the flames emphasizes the danger that exists at this season of the year.

When the leaves have fallen in the autumn, or in the spring before vegetation has put forth, especially if it happens to be a dry season there is a long list of forest fires which cause great loss of timber, frequently destroying homes and barns and as in the case of Berkeley wiping out part of a city or threatening it with destruction as now revealed in the case of Pasadena.

Not all first fires are caused by carelessness. Whether that entered into the explosion of the oil stove that started the fire in California is not disclosed, but too many are the instances where those going through the woods, those even driving through in automobiles, hunters and campers cast aside or leave a fire brand which coming in contact with the dry leaves and other tinder like material quickly kindles a serious fire.

From such a small beginning great havoc has been wrought, and there is need of recognizing that it is the avoidance of just such instances that means the prevention of great waste of property and in some cases lives. Some in Pasadena are having this truth brought home to them. Others may well profit thereby. There's no telling what carelessness will do or where its effects are going to crop out. If everyone made it a point to see that he was not responsible for any such condition many of the deplorable things that happen would never be heard of.

TOO MUCH LENIENCY.

It is interesting to observe that the feeling that there has been leniency enough relative to the enforcement of the dry law is spreading. In Boston a barber has been sent to jail for nine months and fined $100 on each of two counts. This was a first offense, according to court records, and because of that there was some surprise at the severity of the sentence, but it was perfectly evident to the judge that it was a deliberate violation of the law, that the idea of being lenient with such first offenders had given encouragement to a long list of violations and that there was no extenuating circumstances and no reason for overlooking such a deliberate act.

Throughout this state it has been recognized that the first offense does not constitute a sufficient ground for leniency. That conclusion has been reached after there has been a long, and in the opinion of many a too long, display of leniency for such offenders. Because the practice of imposing fines and suspending sentences has simply served to increase the number of persons going into the business of making, distributing and selling liquor, instead of decreasing it, the imposition of jail sentences on the first offense has been resorted to. It has been felt that it is time to cease making a joke of the law through leniency and what has been done in Connecticut will have its good effects if extended to other states.

There is such a thing as abusing leniency till it brings disrespect for all law. Before conditions get to that point it is time to call a halt.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

October isn't turning any thoughts to the sleds and skates.

These are the days when the countrysides are one great riot of color.

With bogus $50 bills in circulation more will be interested than in the days before the war.

Many people think they are right. But they are not all like Columbus in being able to prove it.

That which goes up must come down, but there's no insurance that it'll come down safely.

Some consumers are wondering if there is such a thing as a "last jump" in the price of anthracite.

The man on the corner says: Nature is giving the wooden hillsides and valleys their coats of many colors.

With more than the usual number of fires during Fire Prevention Week increased emphasis is placed on the need of being careful.

Germany has promised to pay $10,000,000 of American war claims. Germany also promised to carry out the reparation agreement.

Burglars may be doing a thriving business in New York but it will be impossible to get the championship pennant away from New York this year.

The district attorney at Brooklyn says that the shortweight coal pirates are in a powerful ring. That should be sufficient reason for letting them entirely alone.

With poison liquor taking a toll of 3000 lives in nine months of this year a desperate effort is being made to reach the death list credit to the careless auto driver.

It is well that special notice should be given to that Maryland man who has not missed a session of Sunday school in 25 years. There are very few of them these days.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Clean the frames of your wall pictures with a flannel wet in alcohol.

Dried peas require long slow cooking, but when fresh picked they cook very quickly.

If alcohol is spilled on varnish, wash with water immediately or pour on oil.

After you wash the windows, wash the sash with borax water and dry quickly with a soft, thick cloth.

Remove fly specks and dirt from mirrors with whiting mixed to a cream in alcohol.

To keep steel from rusting cover with sweet oil or mutton tallow and wrap in soft paper.

To clean decanter what are not finely cut drop half a dozen buckshot inside with half a pint of warm soda water and shake vigorously.

If you keep paper towels in your kitchen and use them instead of your linens, you will save laundry bills as well as linen.

To bring the best flavor out of vegetables, they must be cooked in salt water.

Before papering or whitewashing a room, examine the walls and ceiling and see if there are any dark spots if so, cover them with a coat of shellac.

Before you start to bake a cake or pie, get all your ingredients together in one place, so that you will have no running to do during the actual preparation of the food.

Potatoes, cut into balls the size of a marble with a special cutter are decorative as well as delicious when served surrounding the roast or dressed with oil and vinegar and served cold boiled as a salad.

To clean pillows, whether of down or feathers, empty the contents of the tick into a bag of cheesecloth or mosquito netting, tie it up tightly and wash in a tub of white soapsuds to which a little ammonia has been added.

TO REMOVE STAINS

Stubborn white stains on polished wood, caused by hot dishes, may be removed by applying to the spots a feather dipped in sweet spirits of nitre, but this must be used sparingly and the place must be rubbed well directly after with a cloth dipped in sweet oil. When the stain is completely removed polish well with beeswax and turpentine.

TO GET RID OF PESTS

To keep mice away scatter small pieces of camphor in your cupboards and drawers. They greatly dislike the smell of camphor and will go far away from it.

Cockroaches dislike turpentine, so sprinkle it freely where they congregate and they will soon disappear.

BEST FOR CAKES

For the best results in baking cake you should use a medium acting powder—that is, one which requires a moderate oven, and you can always rest assured your cake will be a success. You don't have to worry if you are called away from your baking a few minutes.

Be careful with your measurements follow your recipe closely and remember one level teaspoon of baking powder to every cup of flour.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Use rock ammonia for softening the washing-up water if soda makes the hands hard and rough.

Try to keep several pairs of shoes on hand and alternate in wearing them. Wear fresh stockings each day. The change will prove restful.

The shape of the nails has an enormous amount to do with the appearance of the hands. The nails grow with amazing rapidity and really should be reshaped every day to keep them looking well.

When your feet are tired at the end of the day a good footbath in warm soapsuds, followed by a rinse in clear water with a little table salt sprinkled in will rest not only your feet but your whole body and will help to smooth out tired lines from your face.

Here is an exercise for the woman who has weakened her arches by wearing ill-fitting shoes. This exercise will strengthen not only arches but your ankles as well, and if persisted in vigorously every day should reduce the size of your ankles.

Stand erect, with your neck and back straight and your arms straight at your sides. Rise on your toes. Now shift your weight to the outside of your feet and rise on your heels. Return to first position. Repeat this exercise ten times or more.

FOR REAL REST.

What a wonderful relaxation it is to rest one's tired feet upon a luxuriously soft ribbon footstool! One that is the very essence of daintiness is covered all over the top with a profusion of ribbon flower petals in a galaxy of exquisite pastel shades. These petals are sewed to a piece of silk cut to fit the top of the footstool, which is in turn secured to the footstool by glue—a very useful medium in such a case. Glue bands of ribbon around the sides of the stool and the effect is delightful. Rich tapestry ribbon, applied with the use of glue in a similar manner, will make a good looking stool for the library.

CUPBOARD OF CEDAR.

A long step in advance of the old-fashioned cedar chest is a cupboard of the same wood with a steel rod for clothes hangers, and a patent arrangement on the inside of the door for trousers. The advantage of keeping one's clothes hanging up and away from the moths at the same time is apparent at a glance.

FILL JARS FULL.

In preserving string beans, if water boils away, fill jars up again with boiling water from kettle. When jars are filled see that they are filled even with the top of jar. There must be no air bubbles on top. Cover jars tight and turn bottles upside down to see that they do not leak. Always use new rubbers on jars.

REMOVE FROM A TIN.

Never leave anything, milk, fruit, vegetables or meat, standing in the can after the can has been opened and the air allowed to strike the contents. It is not only liable to cause the goods to taste of the tin but is very dangerous as well. Always remove what is left to either a china or glass dish and keep in a cool place.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Tan, rust, green and gray are the colors featured in the fashionable sport tops for fall.

Coats of quilted satin are banded with very fluffy fox furs.

Changeable velvets are new this season and are particularly liked for wraps.

Very wide tulle skirts are worn over very narrow foundations of satin or metal cloth—for evening, of course.

Royal purple is featured in fall fashions, particularly with gold of with a certain shade of red that neutralizes it.

Turbans are built rather higher than they have been, and a little wider at the sides to give a Russian effect.

Salient points of the mode can now be summed up with a certain degree of assurance that the clothes we buy now will be in style for at least six months—and what more can one desire?

There is, for instance, the question of skirts. These for day and street wear are fairly tight and therefore of necessity somewhat short. Evening frocks, if of the period type with wide, full skirts, are ankle length. If slim and straight, they are not quite so long.

The long sleeve for day frocks is almost the rule, and while in many instances it is tight there seems to be a rapidly increasing tendency to feature the bell sleeve with an undersleeve of lingerie, lace or silk.

Blouses are loose, with a rather casual line, which ends somewhere from a few inches below the waistline to a point about at the knees.

The wide expanse of neck that has been such a dominant feature of the modes of the summer season has disappeared. Many women who go in for the most extreme styles have taken to high collars, but the general choice inclines toward the Chinese neck, with its straight, upstanding collar. It is extremely smart, but not always becoming.

The new three-quarter length coats have been enthusiastically received.

SAFETY-PIN BOWS.

A well cared for baby simply cannot have too many dainty little ribbon bows in its diminutive wardrobe. Fastened to a safety pin, they are quite essential to baby's toilet. A mother will find that two dozen such pins are none too many to keep no hand, and they are simply made. Ten inches of ribbon three-quarters of an inch wide are enough for each pin, and two inches of ribbon one-quarter of an inch wide will make a cunning little bud for the center.

LONG COAT SMART.

Whatever else we go without this winter, it will not be a long coat, for so distinctive, so luxurious and so smart are the new models that it is quite impossible to resist them.

Made of the most beautiful materials, richly trimmed with fur and embellished with embroidery as exquisite in design as it is artistic in harmony of colors, these coats are the most satisfactory answer to a demand for a model that is smart enough for almost any occasion and, at the same time, is practical.

Almost without exception, the new coats are slender and straight of line, although occasionally there is a clever arranged flounce or a simulated godet to add to its interest.

One or two models are quite frankly Chinese in character, with wide square sleeves, straight little collars and colorful embroidery.

Beautiful woolen fabrics, as well as velvet and velveteen, are employed in their fashioning and even when comparatively inexpensive furs are used they are treated and finished so that they are really charming.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

Baskets used in the laundry should have adjustable muslin linings. The linings may be easily washed and keep soil from the basket from getting on the clean clothes.

A small watering pot such as you use for the garden is a good device for sprinkling clothes.

Clean soiled coat collars with turpentine. Sometimes it is necessary to make several applications if the collar is very dirty.

Be sure your flatirons have a smooth base, as irregularities catch the goods and frequently injure silks and wools.

TO BRIGHTEN BEDROOM.

A new accessory here and there will accomplish a great deal toward making a room more attractive, especially at this time of year. A: artistic boudoir screen is easily made at home with a tube of glue and some material. Cover the back of the screen with plain linen and the front with violet colored taffeta silk. Put both of these materials on with the best quality of liquid glue, as it will hold them more smoothly than tacks. Spread the glue smoothly and let it "set" a little. All around the edges of the frame glue three-inch pleated taffeta ribbon in apricot color.

Curtains and a few sofa pillows to match this screen will transform an ordinary bedroom into a distinctive one. Any other color scheme may be used with good results.

TRANSFORMING CANDLESTICKS.

Ordinary wooden or glass candlesticks may be transformed from somberness to vividness by a little artistic treatment, carefully applied. Glue gaily covered cretonne to the holders, being careful to use only the best quality of glue. Then glue picoted ribbon a half inch wide, gathered in the center, all around the edges.

ALPACA IS REVIVED.

It is curious how every so often fashion reverts and brings into the limelight a material of other days. For years alpaca and mohair simply did not exist so far as fashion was concerned. In fact, one never saw them even on the shelves in the departments where fabrics were sold. They perhaps had a use in the shape of office coats for men, but the feminine portion of society steered clear of anything so out of date as alpaca.

Therefore the surprise of the general public was great when one of the most famous houses in Paris brought out a little trotteur frock of alpaca. It was ingenuously simple, it was appealingly youthful, and it was indescribed chic. These three qualities were enough to insure its success. Later other models also of alpaca and mohair were designed and several of these were brought to America, where they served as an inspiration for frocks that are quite as individual as they are chic.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

The freedom of the city of Glasgow is to be bestowed on Princess Mary when she visits that place next summer to open the new municipal buildings.

As director of the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor, Miss Mary Anderson plays a dominant part in the working and living conditions surrounding some 8,000,000 women workers.

An amateur theatrical club composed of factory and shop girls from the East End of London recently presented "Macbeth" and other plays in the Shakespeare Memorial theatre at Stratford-on-Avon.

History verifies the fact that the practice of starching, which came into fashion in England in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, was invented by a Spanish woman about the middle of the fifteenth century. She wished to hide a blemish on her neck with an enormous ruff.

CLEAN COMBS.

Wash combs in borax or ammonia water and rinse in cold water and wipe dry. They should not be soaked or left wet.

CLEAN FURNITURE.

In cleaning all kinds of furniture remember the very first thing to do is to wipe away every particle of loose dust.

RECIPES.

Pears and Rice: Wash six ounces of rice and put it into a double boiler. Add one quart of milk and water mixed and two ounces of sugar and simmer until the rice is soft and has absorbed the milk. Press it into a mold rinsed in cold water. Peel six good cooking pears, cut them in halves and remove the cores. Put them into a pan with three pints of water and four ounces of sugar, bring to the boil and simmer gently until the pears are tender. Remove from the syrup and boil the syrup until it thickens. Cover the pears over into a compote dish, arrange the pears round, leaning up against the rice, color the syrup with a little cochineal and pour it over the rice.

Dish of Red Cabbage: Wash and trim one red cabbage and slice thin. Peel and slice three large potatoes. Melt one ounce of fat in a pan, stir in the cabbage and fry without browning. Add the potatoes and some salt and pepper and enough water to cover, a dessertspoon of vinegar, and two ounces of brown sugar. Cover and simmer for four hours. Drain and serve hot or cold.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Princess Maud, London's royal bride of today, is the second daughter of the Princess Royal and the late Duke of Fife, and a niece of King George, with whom she is a great favorite. The Princess is thirty years old and has spent most of her life quietly with her mother, widow of the Duke of Fife, who lost his life as a consequence of a shipwreck off the coast of Morocco some years ago. Like her mother she is an expert angler and in this aspect has spent many happy hours with King George on the Deeside. She holds a record of having caught the biggest salmon ever taken on the Dee. She is a very strong swimmer and delights in open-air life. Lord Carnegie, whose bride Princess Maud will become at the ceremony in the Guards' Chapel in London today, is the eldest son and heir of the Earl of Southesk. The marriage will unite the royal family of England with a family which centuries ago had its estates forfeited because of rebellion against the Crown.

Today's Birthdays

Crown Prince Carol, heir to the throne of Roumania, born at the royal chateau of Sinaia, 30 years ago today.

Hon. Martin Burrell, librarian of the Dominion parliament, born in England, 65 years ago today.

Hon. Walter Cameron Nichol, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, born at Goderich, Ont., 67 years ago today.

Gen. Robert Nivelle, a famous French commander in the World War, born at Tulle, 66 years ago today.

Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., retired, born at Ottawa, Ont., 66 years ago today.

Helen Ware, popular favorite of the stage and screen, born in San Francisco, 46 years ago today.

Today's Anniversaries

1661—King Charles II. of England, following his defeat at Worcester, made his escape to France.

1795—Frederick William IV., king of Prussia during the revolution of 1848, born. Died at Potsdam, Jan. 2, 1861.

1833—John Clarke, a lieutenant in the Continental army at the age of 16, and afterward governor of Georgia, died. Born in North Carolina in 1766.

1878—Russia annexed a part of Khiva, in Turkestan.

1889—First State legislature of South Dakota, convened at Pierre.

1901—Prince and Princess of Wales (King George and Queen Mary) were welcomed at Kingston, Ont.

1905—Swedish parliament passed a measure repealing the act of union with Norway.

1921—Gen. Leonard Wood was sworn in as Governor-General of the Philippines.

1923—Coronation of the King and Queen of Roumania.

Several killed in riots between police and Communists in Berlin.

Stories That Recall Others

The Feminine Angle.

Jean, six years old, was saying her prayers one night not long ago. After completing them, she looked up and inquired of her mother, "Why do I always have to say 'Amen'? Why can't I say 'a girl' to stop it?"

One More Cat.

The head of one family dislikes feline pets, but his little boy, protected by his mother, has a cat with five kittens. One evening the youngster was awakened by a "meouwing" sound. Running to the window, thinking that someone was stealing one of his kittens, he said in tones meant to be impressive:

"Drop that cat!"

The next morning the boy's father found another cat huddled against the door.

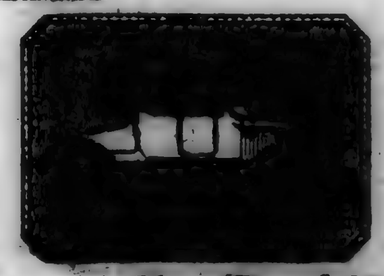
THE UNIVERSAL CAR



New Roadster

Business men with whom the roadster has always been very popular—are well pleased with the changes embodied in this model.

Always rugged, the car has been made decidedly roomier and more comfortable.

This result is obtained by raising the radiator and enlarging the cowl, making a decided improvement in looks and providing more leg room.

A well designed top and closing windshield do their share toward adding a finished, closed car appearance.

Make it a point to see the other new models also on display in our show room.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

"A Common Cold Deserves Your Prompt Attention"

TAKE FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

"A common cold deserves your immediate and serious attention" — So writes a well-known physician, in pointing out the danger of neglecting a cold. "Early treatment of a cold will spare you days of suffering and danger," he says. Doctors will tell you that colds are very likely to develop into serious and even fatal diseases if they are neglected. Many doctors prescribe Father John's Medicine because they know it has had over 60 years of success for colds and coughs. It builds new strength to throw off the cold and prevents its development into more serious trouble. No drugs—all pure food.

SAYS WE SHOULD MAKE CHURCH TO FIT THE BOY

Make the church fit the boy and not the boy fit the church, said Rev. John L. Davis of New Britain, leader of the largest Men's Bible class in New England, in his sermon Sunday at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. There was a large attendance at the service, those present including a large delegation from the Men's Bible class of the Central Baptist church. The scripture lesson was Psalm 8. After the offertory The Ninety and Nine was sung by a men's chorus and the hymn was illustrated by colored stereopticon slides. Prayer was offered by Rev. William H. Bath, district superintendent. Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of the church, introduced Rev. Mr. Davis, who spoke on The Church of God.

Some think of the church as a mediæval institution, said the preacher. Others think of the church as a sort of club run by a few and for a few. The church is an organization of men and women whose purpose is to put into society and industry the methods and teachings of Jesus Christ. Rev. Mr. Davis then went on to tell of a few reasons why many people do not go to church. The things that used to draw people to church in the old days tend to keep them away from church today, he said. The church is not as closely related to the life of the people, socially and businesswise, as it should be. We want the Message of the Cross, but we want it in twentieth century language. We want to preach to people in a language and words that they can easily understand.

Christianity is not passing. It will never pass. When Jesus Christ comes again will He find faith on the earth? I say yes! I say yes because men can't help but believe. There will always be a Christian church. Men want a new idea of God, and the preachers are giving it to them. Make the church fit the boy and not the boy fit the church.

Robert E. Montgomery.

In the death by drowning of Robert Eldredge Montgomery which occurred Sept. 10th, there passed from this life one who had held a large place in a large circle of friends—friends at school in the Academy, in church life, in young peoples' associations, in vacation days, in the home life which was brightened by a nature full of charm, a sense of humor, always dutiful showing the spirit of the Master whom he served.

Robert Montgomery was born April 14, 1907, and was a member of the class of '24 at the Academy. He had been patrol leader of the Boy Scouts, an ardent lover of the Y. M. C. A. and interested in its every department, a tent leader at Camp Hazen this last summer, secretary of the United Church Sunday School, vice-president of the Epworth association, and interested in every form of athletics. Since his passing many helpful deeds of kindness have been mentioned by neighbors and by others whom he met by chance. Rarely in one of his years has been shown such understanding of the meaning of service and of the real qualities of an upright character.

James M. Fuller.

After a short illness James M. Fuller died Friday at his home in Weehawken, N. J., where he has resided for the past 18 years. He was born in Hampton, Conn., over 50 years ago the son of the late George W. Fuller and Eunice Hammond Fuller. After his boyhood days he moved from Hampton and lived in several cities before going to Weehawken.

He was married and besides his wife he is survived by four brothers and four sisters, Ray Fuller of Hampton, George Fuller of Norwich, Alfred Fuller of Abington, Harry H. Fuller of Boston, Mass., Mrs. Dwight M. Lewis of New Haven, Mrs. Priscilla A. Snow of Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. George L. Ingalls of Norwich and Miss Millicent B. Fuller of Alabama.

The body is to be brought to the home of Ray Fuller at Hampton for burial.

THREE INJURED WHEN LIGHT COUPE IS UPSET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Oct. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold H. Burdick, of Westerly, and sister, Miss Jessie E. Burdick, of Quonochontaug were injured in an automobile accident Sunday afternoon about 1.30 o'clock, just below the Joseph Hoxie place on the Post road. When near the Hoxie place in their Ford coupe an automobile traveling at a high rate of speed overtook them. Mr. Burdick drove well over to the right for the car to pass and in so doing this car is thought to have struck the coupe, throwing it across the road, overturning it. Without stopping, the other automobile, said to have a Connecticut registry, but with a dirty number plate, the figures on which could not be read, continued on at a high rate of speed, followed by other machines.

Mrs. Burdick and Miss Burdick were thrown forward onto Mr. Burdick. A blow on the side of the head rendered Miss Burdick unconscious and she also suffered injuries to her chest. Miss Burdick was badly cut on the head, both legs, and had numerous cuts on her shoulders. Mr. Burdick received bruises on his shoulders and neck.

Passing autoists lifted the injured through the side of the machine which had the windshield broken and a door torn off, besides other damages. Dr. John Champlin, Jr., who was passing gave first aid and the injured were taken to the residence of Willard Hoxie where Dr. John Champlin Sr., attended them. Miss Burdick was then taken to Quonochontaug, and Mr. and Mrs. Burdick to their home in Westerly. The damaged automobile was brought to Westerly.

At the time of the collision another automobile ran way off the road to avoid the mishap and had to be towed back onto the road before it could proceed. The accident was reported to the Westerly police who are investigating.

Sunday afternoon about 4.30 in Setuconville, between Westerly and Wequetequock, just as the Nash touring car, No. 118191 Conn., of Miss Vincent Tusconi of 390 Thames street, Groton, pulled away from the side of the road where it had stopped it was crowded over by the touring car No. 421443 Mass., of Mary Donelly of Mattapan, Mass. The Massachusetts auto was said to be traveling at a fast rate and swung out to pass between the Tusconi auto and another automobile stopped on the opposite side of the road. The Tusconi machine received a smashed front left fender and broken running board. No one was injured. Patrolman Francis McMahon of the Pawcatuck police force investigated the accident.

"LITTLE JIMMIE" FOUND WANDERING IN COLCHESTER

James Perelli, 67, of 124 North Main street, known as "Little Jimmie," who had been missing from his home since last Wednesday morning was found Sunday afternoon on a road in Colchester. He was unable to tell where he had been, except to say that he had kept on walking with the idea of getting home.

Sam Sisco of 436 Main street and Dan Chilovitch of Copper street, who had been scouring the roads to the west of this city and towards Gardner lake with an automobile for two days since John F. Casey, a rural free delivery carrier, reported seeing "Little Jimmie" on a road towards Gardner Lake Thursday, had their search rewarded with success Sunday afternoon when they came upon "Jimmie's" bag in the Colchester road and some time afterwards found "Jimmie" himself. They brought him home. He claimed he had had nothing to eat since he left home, but said a woman gave him a cup of coffee on Sunday morning.

WESTERLY RAID BRINGS SEIZURE OF LIQUOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Oct. 14.—The house of Louis Garlotta, 56 Cross street, was raided at about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, armed with a search warrant, assisted by Sergt. Donald Ferguson and Patrolman George Champlin. In the cellar were found nine cases of home brewed beer and a full half barrel contained the same kind of liquor. In the house was also found a pint bottle half full of moonshine and a pint bottle of gin. The booze was taken to the police station on Union street where it awaits the disposition of the court.

FUNERALS.

John G. Shea.

The funeral of John G. Shea was held Saturday morning at 8.15 o'clock from his home, No. 104 Asylum street with a very large attendance of relatives and friends. At 9 o'clock a requiem mass was held at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin celebrant. Prof. Frank L. Farrell was at the organ and Mrs. Farrell sang Pie Jesu at the offertory. Edward T. Connelly rendered Pace to Face at the close of the mass.

The bearers were Nicholas J. Spellman, Michael Shea, James A. Quinn, Michael Connell, Joseph Cox and Thaddeus Leahy. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery, Rev. M. H. May rector of St. Patrick's church conducting a committal service at the grave. There were many beautiful floral forms. Relatives were present from New York, Elmhurst, L. I., Boston and other cities.

William A. Frazier.

Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the funeral of William A. Frazier was held from his home, No. 15 McKinley avenue with a large attendance of relatives and friends. There were many beautiful floral remembrances. Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, conducted the service.

The bearers were George A. Ashbey, Albert A. Clark, Judge Arthur L. Libbey and Edwin Hill and burial took place in the family plot in Yantic cemetery. Rev. Dr. Pitt conducted a committal service at the grave.

The Henry Allen & Sons company had charge of the funeral arrangements.

GIVEN SURPRISE ON 19TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Henchel of 330 Main street, were given a surprise party at their home Friday evening, in celebration of their 19th wedding anniversary. The house was beautifully decorated by their friends unbeknown by Mr. and Mrs. Henchel, and everything was planned while they were away; when they arrived home they were greeted with congratulations. A buffet lunch was served and a musical program was arranged for the evening. Mrs. Esther Trachtenberg was heard in vocal selections with A. Silverberg at the piano.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Henchel was presented a beautiful tea wagon. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. David Trachtenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Trachtenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Silverberg, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Salomon, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Bruckner, Mr. and Mrs. William Trachtenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Harman A. Bruckner.

JUDGMENTS FOR PLAINTIFFS IN COMMON PLEAS

Judge Charles B. Waller gave judgment for the plaintiff for $173.95 in the case of Adams & Hillyer, Inc., against the Parmelee Taxi company, both of New London, in the court of common pleas Saturday morning. The amount was a balance on an open book account for automobile repairs.

He also handed down a judgment for the plaintiff in the case of S. Rotlinsky against Isaac Merion, both of New London, for $239.50 for an endorsement on a note.

"BAMBINO" RUTH HAS EDGE ON HIS RIVAL, CASEY STENGEL, IN FIFTH GAME

New York, Oct. 14.—(By The A. P.)—His Majesty, Babe Ruth, today had it all over his Nibs, Casey Stengel, in the fifth game of the world's series at the Yankee Stadium which the Yankees won, 4 to 3.

Casey failed to get a hit in three times, going out to the infield twice and flying out to the outfield once. He was partly responsible, however, for the one Giant run, knocking a puzzling bounder to Pipp in the third on which he went out, but which enabled Meusel, who had tripled to score.

In the five trips to the plate Ruth got one hit, scored two runs, was instrumental in knocking in a third, walked once, got on once on an error, struck out once and filed out to the outfield once. He made four putouts without a slip and Stengel accounted for three Yankees.

Stengel hit zero for the day; Ruth batted .250.

Stengel:

1—Second inning: After Young went out Meusel tripled and Stengel brought him home with a hard bounder to Kelly which the first baseman tossed to Bush putting out the Giant batters. There was one strike on Casey when he hit.

2—Fourth inning: There were two out and men on first and second, Young having walked and Emil Meusel having singled. Casey took a strike and then hit lightly to Bush, who tossed him out ending the inning.

3—Seventh inning. After Young went out, Emil Meusel got his third consecutive hit and the last of the trio made off Bush today. Casey drove a long fly to Witt after he had taken one ball.

Ruth:

1—First inning: After Witt fouled out, Dugan singled to right and Ruth forced him to second when he was walked. Both scored on Bob Meusel's triple.

2—Second inning: The Yankees had scored three runs on a single. Walk and home run, and one was out when Babe came up with the bases empty. Ruth fouled once and then took two balls before hitting to Kelly, who fumbled and the Babe was safe. Bentley was taken from the box. Bob Meusel sent Babe to third with a single and the Bambino scored when Frisch threw wildly to the plate on Pipp's grounder.

3—Fourth inning: None was out and Dugan was on first when Babe went to the plate. He took two balls and then hit a clean single to right. He overran the base and started back when Young threw to Kelly, but he fell flat a few feet from the bag and was touched out. Later Dugan scored.

4—Fifth inning: There were two out when Witt and Dugan singled and Ruth came to bat. Strike one, called, ball one; Ruth swung and missed; the third strike was called, ending the inning.

5—Eighth inning: Ruth, first up, was the initial target of Jonnard's speed. Babe took one ball, swung and missed twice, fouled the fourth delivery, took ball three and then sent a long fly to Stengel.

YANKS POUND FIVE GIANT PITCHERS IN FOURTH GAME

New York, Oct. 14.—The Yankee battleship cleared its decks for action Saturday, unloosed the devastating fire of its broadsides and sank the Giant cruiser in the latter's own harbor, the Polo grounds, in the fourth and most sanguinary engagement of the epoch-making 1923 world's series struggle.

Another record gathering, a crowd of 46,000, that set a new high mark for the National league park, saw the Yankee gunners, aroused to their keenest fighting pitch, smash out an 8 to 4 victory over the world's champions and once more square the series score.

Each club now has two victories in this record-shattering duel for the highest stakes baseball has ever known.

The heavy artillery of the Yankees —"murderers' row" in all its primitive glory—clinched the game with a bombardment in the second inning that netted six runs and drove two of John McGraw's sharpshooters, Jack Scott and Rosy Ryan, to cover. Two more runs were hammered in before the momentum of this attack was spent, but the Giants saved themselves from complete rout with a last desperate stand that resulted in four runs in the last two innings and for a time threatened to assume menacing proportions.

For seven innings, Bob Shawkey, "Sailor Bob" of the red flannel shirt, held the Giants at bay, baffled them at every turn with the aid of a brilliant supporting cast in which "Jumping Joe" Dugan was the star of stars. But just when it seemed that Bob was to come into the greatest of world's series glory, he weakened.

NUMBER FOUR

in high relief against the ineffectiveness of McGraw's twirlers, who were bombarded from the hill almost as quickly as they went in, "Bullet Joe" had everything, blinding speed, deceptive curves and marvelous control of his fork-ball, only 33 men faced him and except Meusel, none got the semblance of a hit. He walked two, struck out three and turned back his opposition in rapid-fire order in six of the nine innings.

Meusel's triple and Casey Stengel's out combned to give the Giants their only run in the second inning. In the fourth, Young walked and Meusel got his second hit, a double, with two out, but Stengel was easy for Bush and Pipp. Meusel singled for his third straight safe blow in the seventh and got to second when Kelly walked, but Gowdy hit weakly to Ward and Kelly was forced at second for the third out. Those few sorties tell the story of the completeness with which the Giants were held in check.

Bush seemed to grow stronger as the game progressed, or perhaps it was that the Giants lost heart and in the eighth "Bullet Joe" received an ovation when he struck out Jimmy O'Connell, $75,000 beauty, and Dave Bancroft in succession.

Led by "Jumping Joe" Dugan, who added batting glory to his already marvelous fielding record for the series, and "Bob Meusel", the Yankees concentrated their attack in the first two innings. Thereafter, with a formidable lead behind Bush, they let down in their offensive.

Dugan gathered four hits, including a home run inside the park in the second inning, and scored three runs, while Meusel slugged out three safe blows, including a triple. Fourteen safe hits in all were collected off the Giant moundsmen and every player except Pipp added to his batting record.

Jack Bentley, $45,000 southpaw, started the game for the Giants but was driven to cover under a fusillade in the second inning. Jack Scott, who had been knocked out in less than two innings yesterday, attempted a comeback but lasted only until the fourth, when he was replaced by Virgil Barnes. Barnes stopped further scoring but was relieved for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Claude Jonnard retired the Yankees in order in their last time at bat.

Two hits, a base on balls and a sacrifice fly gave the Yankees their initial trio of runs. With Witt out, Dugan singled to right and Ruth was walked. This strategy, which failed yesterday, went awry again today, for Meusel clubbed out a three-bagger to left-center, tallying Dugan and Ruth. Pipp drove a liner toward the right-field bleachers that Young caught with a jumping one-hand stab after a hard run, but Meusel trotted home after the catch. Young's brilliant play however, prevented possibly further damage, for Ward singled and stole second, but was stranded when Schang struck out.

Three hits, another walk and two errors gave the Yankees four more runs in the second. Bush singled, with one out. Witt walked and both scored on Dugan's home run, a drive that bounded between Stengel and Young. Bentley was waving distress signals but he was kept in until Ruth, hit a sharp grounder to Kelly that the first baseman failed to handle. The babe got to first on the error and Bentley was derricked. Meusel greeted Scott's first pitch with a wallop to right, Ruth sprinted to third in the hit and scored when Frisch threw wildly to the plate on Pipp's blow. Ward lined to Bancroft, who tossed to Frisch, forcing Meusel to complete a double play and end the inning.

Successive hits by Dugan, Ruth and Meusel resulted in the eighth run in the fourth inning and when Scott walked Pipp he was taken out in favor of Barnes, who quickly stopped the rally.

A FEW THINGS THAT THE A. P. MAN SAW

New York, Oct. 14—(By the A. P.)—If the New York Nationals win tomorrow and throw the world's series into a deadlock for the third time, the seventh game will be played at the Yankee stadium on Tuesday. Yankee officials won the toss of a coin flipped in their office after today's game when the site of the deciding contest was determined. Commissioner Landis, with half a sandwich in his mouth, presided.

All the Yankee guns weren't on the playing field.

Immediately after the game half a dozen uniformed men with grim faces and automatic pistols, lifted large satchels to their shoulders and carried away the day's receipts.

They carried the spoils from the grandstand down a private stairway to an exit where a large crowd was awaiting the conclusion of the play-ers in civilian garb. The money carriers deposited their heavy burden in an armored car.

"Jumping" Joe Dugan, the Yankee third baseman who was the only one of his teammates not to get a hit in Saturday's game—though he made the fielding feature—was the batting sensation today.

Dugan got four hits today in four consecutive trips to the plate and on his first three voyages he circled the bases. Whether this is a record the books do not disclose, but it is probably is. It surpassed at least, anything in the present series. His first hit was a single that started the first Yank rally, his second a home run that added unto for three tallies, the third stratted another rally and the fourth, though it advanced a runner, was wasted. He was the last man to face Virgil Barnes and went out, Bancroft to Frisch.

Only thirty-two batters faced "Bullet" Joe Bush. The first five in the Giant batting order came to the plate four times each and the others three times, two of these walked and accordingly the Giants were credited with only thirty "times at bat."

In six innings, the first, third, fifth sixth, eighth and ninth the Giants went out one-two-three. Only one man in addition to Emil Meusel got beyond second base. Young getting to third in the fourth when Meusel doubled. The only other time a Giant got to second was when Kelly was walked in the seventh forcing to second, Meusel, who had singled.

In six innings the Giants failed to hit. All three of the teams hits were made by "Irish" Meusel and he scored their only run.

Thirteen of the Giants went out on infield taps, ten went out on long flies, one fouled out, and three were struck out.

Jimmy O'Connell, the outfielder for whom the Giants paid $75,000 to a Pacific coast club, showed up as poorly today as he did yesterday when called upon for a pinch-hit. Today he was as bad as Jack Bentley, for whom the Giants handed out $65,000 to the Baltimore Orioles.

He was so nervous and frightened today that he was white as he stepped to the plate and struck out on four pitched balls. Yesterday he was lucky enough to get hit by a slow ball.

Aaron Ward took advantage of Old Hank Gowdy's arm and stole the only base that was pilfered in the game. It was of no avail, however, as Schang struck out for the third out.

NEHF AND JONES TO CLASH IN TODAY'S GAME

New York, Oct. 14—(By the A. P.)—Art Nehf, who pitched shut out ball against the Yankees in the third game of the current world's series, and "Sad Sam" Jones, who lost that shutout game through Casey Stengel's home run, are expected to clash once more when the rival New York teams take the field for the sixth game of the series, tomorrow afternoon.

Nehf is the lone Giants twirler who has been able to travel the full nine innings for the National League champions, and is generally regarded as the only flinger McGraw can rely upon to carry the series to a seventh game. Only six hits were made off his delivery in last Friday's engagement, and these were well scattered.

Many thought Jones deserving of a better fate than that which met his brilliant exhibition against the Giant southpaw, and are counting upon him to square accounts in tomorrow's game, on Friday. Jones allowed the Giants only four hits, but unfortunately for Jones, one of the four was Stengel's circuit smash.

WHITE SOX EVEN UP CITY SERIES WITH CUBS

Chicago, Oct. 14—More than 45,000 fans, the greatest crowd that ever attended a Chicago City series, saw the White Sox beat the Cubs, 5 to 2, in the fourth game of the series today. The victory evened the series at two wins each.

A home run by Earl Sheely with Hooper on first base broke up the game in the ninth inning. Score by innings:

WORLD'S SERIES RESULTS PLAY BY PLAY WILL BE MEGAPHONED AT BULLETIN OFFICE

As customary as every World's Series rolls around the results of the games that will be played will be megaphoned from the Bulletin Office window every afternoon. The Associated Press has a direct wire to the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium that is connected with the Bulletin Office and Norwich fans will get the plays of the game almost the same instant that they take place on the playing field.

The results will start to come in at 2 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) and will continue until the game is over. Stephen P. Coffee, official announcer, will be at the small end of the megaphone for the 15th consecutive year having never missed announcing at a series during that time. The Bulletin will gladly answer all calls for the score.

All persons are kindly requested to refrain from seeking admittance to the editorial rooms during the game.

ZINN PITCHES ONE-HIT, ONE-RUN GAME AGAINST ORIOLES IN JUNIOR SERIES

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 14 (By the A. P.).—Jimmy Zinn pitched a one-hit, one-run game here today against Baltimore, while the Kansas City Blues, champions of the American association, touched Parnham and Thomas, Oriole pitchers, for 10 hits to win, 7 to 1. The victory gives Kansas City a one-game lead in the series with the International league champions, the count now standing 2 to 1 in favor of Kansas City.

The game was played before what probably was the largest crowd that ever witnessed a minor league game. Club officials estimated that about 28,000 persons were in the stands.

Zinn faced just 28 batters in the nine innings he worked. He probably would have scored a shutout if he had not allowed the only hit of the game, a double by Porter in the second inning, with a wild pitch.

The third game of the series, postponed Saturday because of a soggy diamond, will be played tomorrow. Schupp, who beat Baltimore in the first game, is scheduled to work for Kansas City, while Groves, who held Kansas City to four hits in the second game, will probably work for Baltimore. Chief Bender is the Orioles' alternate choice. The score:

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Baltimore | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | —1 |
| Kansas City | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 5 | 0 | 0 | 1 | * | —7 |

BAD WEATHER PREDICTED FOR TODAY'S GAME

New York, Oct. 14.—(By The A. P.)—Mother Nature who for five days has performed her prettiest for world's series fandom, is due to frown upon the sixth game of the Yankees-Giants title clash tomorrow, according to the forecast of the local weather bureau.

"Cloudy and cooler, with fresh southerly winds," was the prediction.

McGRAW IS UP AGAINST IT AND HUGGINS CONFIDENT

New York, Oct. 14—(By the A. P.)—The loss of today's game to the Yankees placed John McGraw, Giant manager, in a predicament he has never experienced in his many battles for world baseball honors.

Every one of the Giant pitchers, with the exception of Arthur Nehf, the left hander, either has been knocked out by the Yankees or worked over time against them in an effort to curb their wild burst of hitting.

McGraw must win both games to take the series. If he uses Nehf tomorrow and wins, he will have to send a tired man or one who has been hit hard into the seventh game. Virgil Barnes has been the most effective right hander against the Yankees.

McGraw is expected to do the obvious thing tomorrow, however, and send Nehf to the box. Then if victory comes he may use on Tuesday, Jack Watson, who started the first game, or Virgil Barnes, despite the fact that Barnes pitched three and two thirds innings today.

"I never saw such hitting in a series as that of the Yankees in the last two games," McGraw said tonight. "My players are hitters, too, and they have done just as well, but Joe Bush pitched a remarkable game today and th ecredit is all to him.

"I certainly expect to take the next two games. Nehf, I'm sure, will win again and I still have Watson and Barnes left. The Giants aren't defeated yet by a long shot."

Huggins, needing only one game to take the series, has nothing to worry about in the pitching end. "Sad Sam" Jones, whose great pitching effort in the third game, of the series was ruined by Casey Stengel and his home run bat, probably will be sent out for tomorrow's game and the world title. But besides Jones there is young Waite Hoyt, in whom Huggins has great confidence. Herb Pennock, the slender Yankee left hander, who won the second game, is not likely to be used tomorrow, but held ready for the seventh contest, in the event the Giants win tomorrow and tie the score. The Yankee manager was in high good humor after today's victory, for he sees his first world's series title coming to him.

"When the Yankees start hitting, I do not know of anything that can stop them," he said. "They're going good now. They have confidence. They will hit any pitcher that McGraw sends to the box. McGraw is in a difficult fix now for pitchers but I will have three aces, Hoyt, Jones and Pennock. The Yankees need but one game to take the series. Our prospects look bright."

MANCHESTER UNITY LODGES ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE

The members of H. H. Osgood lodge, No. 6926, I. O. O. F., M. U., attended in a body the Sunday morning service at St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Greeneville. Besides the members of Osgood lodge there was a good sized delegation from the Baltic lodge and a number of the women of the lodge auxiliary. They met at the guild room at the church about 10.15 o'clock and marched from there into the church where seats had been reserved for them. Rev. Leonel E. W. Mitchell, rector of the church, took his text from Ephesians 5:22, Submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God.

Of all the Christian virtues, said the pastor, perhaps humility is at the present time the least in evidence. Under the thin veil of so-called initiative lurks pride, the chief of the deadly sins. Under a system of economics such as is the world today little more can be expected.

The obedience of love simply means that we love others to such an extent that we are willing and glad to sacrifice our own desires for their sakes. We cannot all have our own for no two of us think alike. Therefore in a democracy such as ours the few decide that it is best to curb their own desires and follow the will of the majority.

And now my dear fellow Christians, members of this fraternity, you have bonded yourselves together, having some such ideal in mind. You have laws and you have officers and you have of your own free will placed yourselves under them. You have volunteered to serve and to obey and consequently yours is a service of love. Perhaps some of your laws are not to your own private tastes, perhaps you do not care for some of your officers, yet because you love the society you submit yourselves willingly one to another, giving and taking in the spirit of brothers.

I know very little about your society, but I do know that like others of its kind, it aims to show forth to the world the Christian virtue of brotherliness as opposed to the devil's doctrine of selfishness. How true you are to that ideal you yourselves know best, but let me here exhort you to never dim the torch of idealism which burns before you. Make your mission world wide, to include all men whether they be Odd Fellows or no. Do not I beg you, exist for yourselves for if you do you will be a fine example of selfishness on a large scale. You are bound to do the right thing for a brother in the bond. Let then that spirit be inclusive. Feel that you are also morally bound to do the right thing by every child of God. This will not mean that your love your brothers in the fraternity less but that you will love them more. A man who loves his country does not love his family less. Give wings, therefore to the spirit of love and show the world that you have learned the lesson of brotherly love.

And let me also caution you not to neglect your religious duties using the name of your order as an excuse No organization of man, however splendid, can take the place of God's church. Attendance at ritual and prayers in the lodge room, beautiful as these services may be, is no substitute for the church which our Lord founded, and although I do not know,

SATURDAY'S MARKET.

New York, Oct. 13.—Prices in today's stock market lost ground for the eighth consecutive day. The average of 20 active industrial stocks is now within one-fourth of a point of the year's low record.

Trading was extremely quiet because of the absence of a large number of traders, many of whom took advantage of yesterday's holiday to make extended week-end trips.

The market presented a spotty appearance from the start. Gains and losses were about evenly divided in the first few minutes of trading, but the market began to sag before the end of the first half hour in response to rather extended offerings of the motors and the steels. Prices subsequently stiffened but weakened again just before the close.

No new reason was known for the sag of the motors, Studebaker yielding a point on the day and Chandler being hammered down 2 points to 43, a new 1923 low, despite the fact that the full dividend was officially reported as earned in the first six months of this year. Rubber yielded only slightly to the reports of another cut in tire prices.

U. S. Steel, Baldwin and American Can showed slight fractional recessions. New lows for the year were established by Central Leather preferred at 99 1-4, Auto Knitter at 11 3-4, Replogle Steel at 9, American Ice at 25 3-4, Columbia Graphophone preferred at 1 7-8, Lee Rubber at 14 and Mathieson Alkali at 35 1-4.

There were a few strong spots in the industrial list, notably Pacific Oil which moved up 1 1-8 to 33 1-8 on buying understood to be associated with plans of another large oil company. Gains of 1 to 3 points also were registered by Allied Chemical, Beechnut, Cluett Peabody preferred, International Harvester, Jewell Tea preferred, Tidewater Oil and Union Tank Car preferred, the turn-over being small in most cases. Fisher Body jumped 3 1-3 points to 156.

Rails also yielded slightly on the day, Delaware & Hudson climbed 1 1-2 points but forfeited its gain before the close while Atchison and "Nickel Plate" each dropped about a point, the former recovering part of its loss before the close.

Demand sterling dropped 1 1-2 cents below Thursday's close to $4.53 1-4 in reflection of the heavy selling of sterling to purchase French francs in the London market on Friday. The continental rates showed nominal gains.

The weekly clearing house statement showed decrease of $34,269,000 in loans, discounts and investments; $3,477,000 in the reserve of member banks in the Federal Reserve bank, $6,810,000 in net demand deposits and $5,154,000 in time deposits. Aggregate reserve totaled $506,134,000, leaving excess reserve of $14,624,310, a decrease of $1,836,000 below that of a week ago.

SUGGESTS OLDER PUPILS TO DO TRAFFIC DUTY

It has been proposed to the motor vehicle department by the superintendent of schools in one of the towns of the state that pupils of the upper grades who are known to be of good judgment be assigned to traffic duty on highways and streets near school buildings during the periods of the day when children are going to and from school. As there are not enough police authorities in the town to provide regular traffic officers for such duty, the proposal was made in the belief that by the use of older school boys for that work the danger of accidents to children would be greatly reduced.

Statistics of the department show that the worst time of the day for accidents is after the closing of schools in the afternoon, when pupils at play on their way home frequently dart out into the street in front of approaching motor vehicles. Many Connecticut children have been killed while playing in the roadway or chasing a ball that has bounced into the street, and the number of fatalities due to boys chasing each other across the highway is also high. Many municipalities are doing what they can to overcome this danger by fixing certain places where children returning from or proceeding to school are obliged to cross the highways when in the vicinity of the schools.

POETRY

TO UNKNOWN BEAR.

Beyond the bar the waves roll fierce and dark,
While safe within the bay, lit by the sun
And wrapped in languorous calm, lies a frail barque
At rest, and dreams the port of home is won.

Not yet! A shadow sweeps across the bay
Like pointing finger, and a wailing breeze
Beats the furled sails, and sets the mast away.
And, hurrying, beckons on to unknown seas.

The call has come. Though wild the billows toss
Beyond the bar, out, out to brave the odds
Of fateful leagues! Whether for gain or loss
'Tis well. Up with the sails! The wind is God's.

—Amy T. Marston, in Boston Transcript.

SELLING THE HOUSE.

I did not mind the thought so much,
To sell the house was fine!
All houses were the same to me,
They painted up a sign
And hung it up so that passersby
Could hardly fail to see
That here there was a house for sale
And please apply to me.
Some folks came in to criticise,
And some came in to praise;
And some came in to chat a while,
And some came in to gaze.
They lingered in the cozy rooms,
And I could almost cry
When they dropped in to speak of terms
So scared was I they'd buy!
I did not mind the thought so much,
It would be fun to sell!
To move into another place
Would please me mighty well;
But when they tried to close the sale
Somehow I never could.
I couldn't bring myself to leave
The dear old neighborhood.
I couldn't move the little print
Of hands along the stair,
I couldn't move the dreams that hang
In every corner there.
I couldn't move the love and joy
Behind each time-worn wall,
And so I just took down the sign
And did not sell at all!
—Anne Campbell, in Philadelphia Bulletin.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

He—What happened to your hair? No waves today.
Teacher—It's too bad. Jimmie has been absent three days.
Mother—I know, teacher; you must scream at him like a mother.—Life.

"The Dubbleighs had a mind reader at their house the other evening."
"My, what a stupid time he must have had."—Boston Evening Transcript.

She—Do you remember when you were first struck by my beauty?
He—I think so. Wasn't it at the masked ball?—Exchange.

"Do you know the nature of an oath, madam?"
"Well, I ought to sir. We have just moved, and my husband put down the carpet." Everybody's Magazine.

"No," declared the boss. "I can't see anybody today. Who is it, anyhow?"
"A very pretty girl."
"Well, I might take a look at her."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Daughter—By the way, dad, I'm arranging our wedding next week.
Father—But, my dear, I never even knew you were engaged.
Daughter—Good gracious, father! Don't you ever read the newspapers?—Boston Transcript.

Old Man—And to think that you are now a lieutenant in the flying corps. How did you ever accomplish it?
Lieutenant—That's very simple; you see I started at the bottom and worked myself up.—Detroit News.

One afternoon little Tommy happened to look up and see the moon, and as he had never before seen it in the daytime he ran into the house and exclaimed, "Oh, mamma, I've got a joke on God!"
"Why, what do you mean, dear?" asked the astonished mother.
"He forgot to take the moon in this morning," explained Tommy.—Chicago News.

He is now fingering the raised print in the many volumes of the Scriptures on his sixteenth reading.

Fifteen years ago, Norwich was one of the flourishing small towns of northwestern Pennsylvania. The last vestige of the town will disappear with the sale of St. Mary's Catholic church and its removal this fall. Norwich was formerly a thriving lumber town with stores, schools, theatres, churches and many fine homes. More than 1,200 people lived there. When the standing timber had been cut, the town's principal industry went and the residents began to move away. Gradually all the buildings except the Catholic church, were torn down and the building materials removed to neighboring towns.

No Aid to the Passenger.

By means of a newly invented steel rod, which will run entirely around an automobile, the car is said to be protected against the results of collisions. So far nothing has been done which will assure the safety of the passenger when cars smash into one another. He will still have to look out for himself without the aid and comfort of science.—New York Herald.

TAFTVILLE

The flower girl at the Oldham-Hargreaves wedding at the Versailles M. E. church, was Miss Elsie Laycock, and she wore net over pink silk.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hindle and son, Edmund of North Third avenue have returned from Providence, R. I., where they spent the week end.

Postmaster D. C. Murphy has announced that on and after November 1st. money order service which has been interrupted since the beginning of the war, will be resumed with Germany.

Troop 3, Boy Scouts held their weekly meeting in the recreation room of the Taftville Congregational church with Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis in charge.

At the local churches Sunday, attention was called to the Backus hospital drive for funds for a new Nurses' home. A committee has been organized in the village to take charge of the drive, and meetings will be held this week to plan the campaign.

Frederick Handy was the leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Taftville Congregational church Sunday evening.

Ponemah council, No. 54, Knights of Columbus met Sunday afternoon in their rooms on Providence street.

Repairs are being made on the saw tooth roof of the No. 4 Weaving shed of the Foneham Company.

New London Woman 93.

Mrs. Martha Washington Strickland, widow of Henry Rogers Strickland, of 101 Blinman street, New London, was 93 years old Sunday, having been born on the corner of what is now Reed and Blinman streets in 1830.

NORWICH MOTORCYCLE RIDERS HURT IN CRASH WITH AUTOMOBILE

Two colored young men of this city, Jesse B. Vincent of 10 John street and Vincillian Roga or Rose, of 16 Clay avenue, were seriously hurt and Thomas Joyce of Providence, R. I., was badly injured when a motorcycle driven by Vincent collided with a Ford coupe driven by Frederick A. Huggins of 100 Lancaster street, Providence, R. I., at a sharp turn at Lindholm corners on the Hartford-Willimantic highway about 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

Joseph Williams of 16 Clay avenue, Norwich, who was also riding on the motorcycle, escaped injury.

Vincent was cut from the abdomen to the knee and the muscles were severed. He also sustained deep cuts about the neck and face. Roga suffered a broken leg and bad lacerations. Joyce, who was riding in the automobile with Huggins, was severely cut about the head and body and is in serious condition. Huggins escaped with a gash across the nose.

Huggins, who is said to be a player on the Providence College football squad, was on his way to that city with Joyce and it is claimed that Jesse Vincent was driving the motorcycle with Williams on the rear seat and Roga in the sidecar. He was being followed by Louis Vincent, his brother, and James Verra of Norwich, on another motorcycle. It was learned that the two Vincent brothers were on their way to New Britain and in a few days were to leave for Europe to return to their native country. Huggins claimed that he noticed the first motorcycle rounding the curve at high rate of speed and that the motorcycle sidecar tipped to one side causing the machine to shoot over to the left side of the road. Huggins came to an apruot stop on his right to avoid the collision but the motorcycle crashed head-on, throwing the occupants into the road and pushing the hood of the Ford coupe through the windshield. Joyce was cut by the flying glass.

The front wheel of the motorcycle was demolished and the two machines remained locked together. The injured men were taken into the home of August Lindholm and Dr. M. D. Riordan of Willimantic was summoned. He gave the three injured men first aid treatment and they were later rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic in Kilbourey's ambulance.

Deputy Sheriff A. L. Frink of Andover was notified and he, with W. C. Hillard of Andover, conducted a preliminary investigation while awaiting the arrival of the state police from the Stafford Springs barracks. Measurements were taken of the road and it is thought that Huggins will be absolved from all blame. Automobile drivers, who arrived at the accident shortly after it occurred, said that the Norwich motorcycles had passed them at a terrific rate of speed. The Ford machine bore the Rhode Island registration number 16,867. The motorcycle bore the number 2358. It was stated at the hospital later in the day that men would probably recover.

BACKUS HOSPITAL APPEAL FROM ST. PATRICK'S PULPIT

Sunday, at the three masses in St. Patrick's church, the congregation was reminded of the Backus hospital drive for a nurses' home and increased fund, to begin Friday, Oct. 19, lasting ten days. The priests commented on the great work of mercy performed by the Norwich hospital during its thirty or more years of service, also the fact that up to now the institution has carried on entirely from its own endowment, with practically no appeal for public aid.

While making the announcement of the drive at the 10.45 high mass, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, senior assistant, expressed the conviction that the great-hearted people of St. Patrick's parish would prove as generous in giving now as they had always been.

It was the twenty-first Sunday after Pentecost, the epistle being Ephesians 6, 10-17, and the gospel, Matthew 18, 23-35. Father Galvin preached on the Third Commandment, "Remember that thou keep holy the Sabbath day," under the new dispensation the first day of the week, to be observed, to give worship to God, that man may think upon serious things, and to give rest to our bodies. In modern times the tendency is to stress the third and last condition—to spend the day wholly in recreation. While the Catholic church approves all legitimate recreation, worship of God comes first; and Father Galvin's hearers were encouraged to continue in their prompt attendance at holy mass the first thing of all every Sunday, thus benefitting themselves spiritually, while perhaps leading others to inquire what it is that brings Catholics so devotedly to their church, resulting possibly in other earnest and well-intentioned souls being brought eventually to the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE AGAINST BALTIC MAN

After an automobile collision early Sunday evening at the corner of the Canterbury turnpike and the Taftville road, Leo Legros of High street, Baltic, was charged with reckless driving by State Policeman T. J. Henry and was ordered to appear in court to answer the charge.

The automobile driven by Legros northerly on the Taftville road and a machine driven by Mrs. Henry Marcaurelle of 366 Central avenue, which was coming from the turnpike to turn southerly on the road, met at the corner and the Marcaurelle car struck the other on the rear fender. It is claimed that Legros failed to give the right of way to Mrs. Marcaurella to which she was entitled but speeded his car up and shot across in front of her.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MISS ROSE CORMIER

A birthday surprise party was given in honor of Miss Rose Cormier at her home, 746 Boswell avenue, on Friday evening.

The house was prettily decorated with Hallowe'en festoons and pumpkins. Miss Carmier was presented a handsome string of La Tosca pearls from her mother. She also received a lovely birthday cake with the candles lighted.

Miss Camille Cormier of Framingham rendered delightful solos with Edwrd Myers at the piano. Everyone enjoyed the exhibition dancing by Miss Cormier and Henry St. Germains. Games and dancing were enjoyed by all. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Those who attended were the Misses Vera Cormier, Nellie Owen, Veronica Winzle, Mary Winzle, Delia Paquette, Bella Le Blanc, Ruth Cote, Anna Hansen, Agnes Kamfaski, Winifred Pouench, Grace McSheffery, Irene Robertson, Celia Liberty and Irene Welch, John Murphy, Edward McSheffrey, Henry St. Germains, Phil O'Brien, Arthur McGraw from New London, Edward Myers, James Delaney, Chester Dudkowske, Robert Brown, Edward Zerna, Tom Greenwood, Phil King, William Garvey, Raymond Fitzgerald, William Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duhaime, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cormier of Franklin street and Mr. and Mrs. Theophile Cormier of St. Regis avenue.

PRIMARY ELECTION HELD FOR DIRECTOR CANDIDATES

The annual nominating primary election of six new directors for the Norwich Chamber of Commerce closed Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. A total of 128 members voted and each vote nominated six candidates. The task was completed and checked for accuracy in about one hour and a half. The result of the primary placed the following 112 members as candidates for six directors:

Rev. A. H. Abbott, A. Agranovitch, Nelson J. Ayling, C. E. Carpenter, H. E. Cary, George A. Finn, George L. Ingalls, Roy D. Judd, John M. Lee, Jacob Muns, Arthur E. Story and Charles F. Wells.

The retiring directors at this time are James L. Case, W. H. Crickshanks, Grosvenor Ely, J. C. Macpherson, Chandler D. Noyes and F. B. Ricketson. The ballots for the final election will be mailed Monday and the votes must be deposited not later than 5 p. m. next Saturday.

The committee in charge of the election, including the primary and final voting, is J. S. Adams, T. P. Cummings, W. J. Fitzgerald, D. E. Foley, J. A. French, H. M. Opitz, C. W. Taggart, F. H. Wyant.

CONNECTICUT FALLS BEHIND IN HOME OWNERSHIP

Connecticut was one of the thirty-one States to have shown a decrease in the percentage of families owning their own homes, according to "How to Own Your Home," an official handbook just issued for prospective home owners by the Department of Commerce. In 1900, the manual shows, the number of families owning their homes was 38.9 per cent, but in 1920 this had dropped to 37.6, a difference of 1.3 per cent.

Connecticut's home ownership record was also below the percentage for New England, the latter being 39.8 in 1920, the tables show, and her average was lower than that for the entire country, with 37.6 in 1920, as against 45.6 for the United States.

PAYS FINE ON CHARGE OF RECKLESS DRIVING

In the city court Saturday morning M. Falcone of this city was fined and paid $113.75 on a charge of reckless driving. His Essex coach was wrecked when it collided with a telephone pole in front of the old Norwich Town church Friday evening. Three men were fined on intoxication charges.

Gave Hallowe'en Supper.

Mrs. Francis A. Williams of 50 Peck street entertained a number of friends, Wednesday evening. A Hallowe'en supper was served. The table was set for twenty and beautifully arranged in Hallowe'en colors. The living and dining rooms were prettily decorated with autumn leaves. Mrs. Mary Scott, who has a pleasing soprano voice, sang several selections from well known classics, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Edward Whalen. Games, contests, music and dancing were enjoyed by all during the evening. Mrs. Williams proved a most delightful hostess and was ably assisted in serving by Mrs. Burt McCabe, Mrs. Ernest Mills and Mrs. Henry Tubbs.

NORWICH TOWN

The Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church, held its first meeting for this season at the home of Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington Friday afternoon, the former president, Miss Mary B. Wattles, occupying the chair. The program consisted of prayer, Scripture reading, the reading of September and October Bulletins from the Home Missionary headquarters, and a letter of thanks for clothing sent to Labrador last spring, also an account of the meeting recently held in New London. It is planned to send before Christmas a package for Miss Ruth Beebe's use in her work in Athens, Alabama; also to hold a sale of useful articles. The sunshine bags, distributed in the spring, were opened at this meeting and found to contain about $60. Tea, cakes and fancy wafers were served by the hostesses to about 35 women of the society and friends. The next meeting will be held Friday afternoon, October 26th, at the home of Mrs. Dwight L. Underwood of Peck corner, when all members are to bring something to work on.

The Lathrop Memorial Foreign Missionary society is to meet at the usual hour Wednesday afternoon in the Congregational chapel. This also is the thank offering meeting.

Every Ready circle of the King's Daughters is to hold a meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Jennie L. Congdon.

A special committee meeting of the Norwich Rural association was held Friday evening in the Congregational chapel, the president, Grosvenor Ely presiding. The secretary and treasurer, Philip A. Johnson, read a very interesting account of the meeting held in June, which was approved. Several items of interest were brought before the meeting for discussion.

Reports were given as to what has been accomplished during the summer by the several committees. In submitting his report of the permanent sidewalk committee, the chairman, Mr. Ely, itemized the number of feet of cement walk that has been laid thus far by property owners, etc., also made mention of what has been pledged, bringing the total up to many hundred feet.

One of the trees recently set out by this association having died, will be replaced by a new one. This will be in the hands of the tree committee, Miss Elizabeth Huntington, chairman, which also has assumed the responsibility of expending a certain amount of money in planting shrubbery on the Green.

The resignation of Miss Margaret Fuller from the community picnic committee, was sent in by the chairman, Miss Anna L. Ely. No one has been appointed to fill the vacancy. In the absence of Allen L. Latham, the chairman of the board walk committee, Robert Boisson reported that no definite decision had been reached regarding the laying of the board walks, which this year are subject to some changes.

Reference was made to keeping the green in better order, which resulted in many helpful suggestions. Through the efforts of Scoutmaster Frederic H. Wyant and Troop No. 20, Boy Scouts, the green has received attention during the past summer, the scouts picking up papers and other refuse, as reported by Mr. Wyant. It is a difficult problem to have the green in perfect order at all times as it is used in so many different ways, and by so many different persons; however, it is a beautiful spot in the center of the town and furnishes an ideal playground for the Town street school, as there is no other place for such, and it deserves proper care.

At the suggestion of Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, chairman, it was decided that the garbage committee be dismissed. In so doing President Ely extended his appreciation for the efforts manifested by members of this committee.

This was followed by the report of the publicity committee, by Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, chairman.

One or two other committees were not heard from because of the absence of members.

K. OF C. FOURTH DEGREE FOR 250, AT NEW LONDON ARMORY SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 14.—The Ideal rooming house, 43 Bank street, Robert M. Rasmussen, proprietor, long suspected as being one of the places where the liquor law was being violated, was raided last night and a quantity of liquor was seized as evidence that alcoholic drinks were being served there. The proprietor of the place and a domestic, Leonora Young, were arrested, both being held in bonds of $1,000 for a hearing in the police court Monday morning. Louis Elfenbein became surety on Rasmussen's bond, while Mrs. Rasmussen qualified on the bond of the domestic.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Frank Philopena, with Patrolmen William Graham, Thomas Lyden and Howard Sloan, also Motorcycle Officer John Cavanaugh, went to the rooming house, Hick having a search warrant. Rasmussen was informed that every room in the building was to be given a thorough search. Rasmussen refused to open some of the rooms, declaring that they had been hired by patrons of the place and that he did not have the right to open the occupied rooms to the scrutiny of the officers. Sergeant Hick displayed a passkey and at once started to go through all of the 30 or more rooms. The search was of no avail as regards the discovery of liquor until the room of Miss Young was searched, and there two full quarts of cut whiskey, a quart bottle nearly full of the same liquor and a half pint of home-made gin was found. This the officers seized, together with two small bottles of the size that individual drinks are dispensed in and a number of whiskey and wine glasses.

A search was made for Miss Young, but she could not be found, the woman being absent from the place at the time, but as she was about to enter the place the woman was given the tip that the police were raiding it, and she made herself scarce. It is stated by frequenters of the place that the woman had a bottle of liquor in her possession at the time, but that she went to a nearby store and secreted it, after which she left the vicinity of the place where she is employed. After a wait of over an hour, Sergeant Hick placed Rasmussen under arrest and escorted the rooming house proprietor to the police station. Rasmussen was detained until the arrival of his bondsman, when he was liberated and returned to his place of business.

The police searched for Miss Young, going to all the dance halls, but they did not find her until about 2 o'clock this morning, when she was located at the home of Rasmussen on Montauk avenue. She was taken into custody and was given her liberty a short time later, having procured a surety in Mrs. Rasmussen.

The bench warrant was issued by S. Victor Prince, judge of the police court, and was dated the 6th instant. It was stated that the raiders had instructions that if access to each and every room was not provided, the doors were to be removed and to accomplish this, if necessary, the officers were equipped with screw drivers and a hammer.

The police consider Miss Young the agent of Rasmussen and state that the woman dispensed the liquor from a supply that she had secreted in her room.

The Ideal is one of the places in the business section of the city where a police officer was stationed on duty at the entrance or inside the place, the entire day and night, for three weeks, when Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin issued an order for a roundup of all proprietors of places reputed to be dispensers of liquor contrary to law, the officers only recently having been withdrawn from duty there.

Rasmussen was arrested over a year ago, charged with violation of the liquor law, and was fined in the police court, but in the court of common pleas he was acquitted.

The automobile owned and operated by Edmund L. Gay of Groton, in passing through Crystal avenue this forenoon, knocked down an unidentified resident of Front street. The man apparently was unhurt except for minor bruises.

Louis Glater of Denison avenue lodged complaint with the police Saturday because of the mischievous conduct of boys in his neighborhood. Glater declared that the youths had destroyed the fence in front of his home with an axe and on another occasion they had caused a fire to be started alongside the verands, causing that part of the house to be charred.

Charles Steward, in passing through Montauk avenue early Saturday morning observed two men acting suspiciously at the corner of Bellevue place. After watching them go to the rear of the residence of Robert L. Smith, 301 Montauk avenue, Steward went to a telephone and notified the police of what he had witnessed. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Augustus Ray were despatched to the point where the two men were last seen, but a search by the officers did not result in the pair being apprehended.

An automobile owned by the Humphrey-Cornell company of Spar-yard street and operated by Robert Keefe and a machine operated by Mary Cable of Waterford were in collision Saturday morning on Howard street, near Hamilton street. The former automobile was considerably damaged.

John Monteau of New York was arrested Saturday afternoon when he passed over the Thames river highway bridge without stopping his machine to pay the toll. The toll collector informed the police and Monteau was arrested on State street by Patrolman Henry Hick. He was not prosecuted, however, being allowed to continue to his destination upon the payment of the toll charges, 35 cents. Monteau declared he did not realize that toll was collected upon the bridge as there was no collector in sight when he passed the toll house.

Mrs. Nancy Brown Morgan, George T. Brown and the Union Bank and Trust company, trustees of the will of Edward T. Brown, have disposed of the dwelling 32 School street to Catherine V. Nimitz. The purchaser immediately sold the property to Carl S. Reed.

Fred B. Austin, Jr., was arrested by Traffic Officer Carlos Selesnitsky Saturday morning, charged with violation of the automobile laws in not reducing the speed of his car in passing intersecting streets on Bank street. Austin was not prosecuted, however, being discharged with a reprimand.

Mrs. Ida M. Quinn, wife of Martin J. Quinn, died Saturday morning at her home, 309 Broad street, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Quinn is survived by a son, George Quinn, of this city.

Mrs. Edna Weaver Manwaring, proprietress of the Oswegatchie house, Waterford, arrested several weeks ago, charged with violation of the liquor law, whose case in the superior court was continued until the next session because Mrs. Manwaring was compelled to submit to hospital treatment for an abscess in her throat, and a subsequent operation, was able to leave Lawrence hospital and return to her home Saturday afternoon. Other patients discharged at the institution were Mrs. Florence Madison, Springfield, Mass., Miss Elizabeth Young, Ocean avenue, Mrs. John J. Watson and infant son, Quaker Hill, and Mrs. James Folice of Westerly.

Dominic Maiole, 637 Bank street, a laborer in the employ of the New Haven railroad, is a patient at Lawrence hospital as a result of injuries sustained Friday evening when struck by a hand-car. Maiole, with other laborers, was riding on a swiftly moving car at Niantic. Maiole was standing at the front of the car when he lost his balance and fell to the rails, being struck by the car with great force. He was given emergency treatment and then taken to the hospital, where an examination revealed that he had sustained numerous severe abrasions of the shoulders and body. Maiole was recently a participant in a shooting affray in a Woodbridge street store.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barber, 80 Montauk avenue, are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary by an automobile trip through the Berkshires. They were married Oct. 15, 1873, by Rev. F. S. Bachelor of Stafford Springs.

The automobile owned and operated by Roy Harris of the submarine base and a machine owned and driven by William F. Kennedy of 1524 Quinnipiac avenue, New Haven, were in collision this afternoon at the corner of Huntington and Federal streets. Both cars were damaged.

Thomas Frusher of East Lyme was arrested this afternoon at his home by State Policeman J. K. Palmer on a warrant issued by the authorities of Boston, charging Frusher with the theft of $1,600 from the Norbert Bleaching company, Boston. With the arrest of Frusher a legal entanglement occurred that resulted in habeas corpus proceedings being brought by Frusher's counsel, with the result that Frusher was released from custody by Judge Charles B. Waller of the court of common pleas.

Following the arrest of Frusher, State Policeman Palmer delivered his prisoner at the police station, to hold him. Frusher secured counsel in Attorney Thomas H. Troland and bail was at once demanded. The New London police did not have power to accept bail, so habeas corpus proceedings were instituted, Judge Waller signing the writ, which was served on State Policeman Palmer by Sheriff J. K. Tubbs, the writ commanding the release of the prisoner from the police station and the delivery of Frusher by Palmer before Judge Waller. This was done and Frusher's release followed. Frusher will, however, be arrested tomorrow morning on a new warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice and will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Marion R. Davis at East Lyme, Frusher's counsel having already agreed to have his client at the office of the justice at 9 o'clock for the purpose of submitting to arrest and obtaining bail.

The Norbert company alleges that they purchased and paid for $1,600 worth of dyestuffs from Frusher which they never received, while Frusher alleges violation of contract by the purchasing company.

There was a greater number of automobiles in use Sunday than in a long time. The weather was mild and there was the attraction of a parade of Knights of Columbus from almost every town in the state this evening at 5.30. As the procession of nearly 500 men came up Bank street just after rounding in from Tilley, the firm alarm sounded. The apparatus of the Allen Hook and Ladder company and the Niagara automobile engine were moving in a minute. The procession was then in front of the Allen house. The apparatus, requiring some 60 to 75 feet to swing from the floor of the house to head north, swept in to the street and the lines of Knights were broken. Marchers hustled to the sidewalk and autos ran into the side streets and alleyways to get out of harm's way. Cars were moving along on either side of the street in almost endless procession, and a trolley car was coming down the street at that instant. The street was congested as never before. No mishap occurred, however.

The state motor vehicle department will not occupy the Turello building on Bank street until about the first of the month as alterations cannot be made before that time.

Morris Kestofsky will be in the police court Monday morning. He was found Saturday morning early with a quantity of liquor upon his person and was arrested and presented in court for having the liquor for sale. Then a search warrant was secured and his premises on High street, off Hempstead and within a stone's throw of the county jail, was visited and thoroughly examined. Morris was found to have articles supposed to be on sale only in drug stores and then on prescription. There were 12s boxes of what were supposed to be cigarettes with ten separate receptacles in each box so that he had some 1300 of the forbidden articles. There appears to be serious consequences ahead for Morris and perhaps for the New York parties who sold the goods to him, for they were sent to this city collect on delivery.

A pitiable case was brought to the attention of the authorities Saturday night by Probation Officer Mansfield. A girl 14 or 15 years went to him with the story that she had been driven from home by her father because she had made a mistake and had confessed her fault to her mother. The child has been at work in one of the mills and there made the acquaintance of boys who did not respect her. She had no one but the probation officer to whom she could go for protection and for advice. She had told that she would eventually become a mother. This story was told to the father and then came the expulsion from home. The girl is being taken care of and the youths she had connected with her trouble were sought for Saturday night but could not be found and there were legal complications that necessitated a delay in proceeding against them.

A meeting of citizens and members of the city council was held Saturday evening to consider the matter of continuing the operation of the Groton-New London ferry boat as the ferry is now a losing venture. The bridge will b made free the first of January whereas it is now necessary for vehicles and the occupants of them to pay toll. All agreed that though the city is losing money by operating the boat the service should be continued as a matter of necessary means of bringing trade to the city and providing accommodation neither Groton nor New London would have without the boat in operation So it will be recommended to the council Monday evening that the boat be continued on the ferry line for another year and that the deficit be made up by the city of New London and the town of Groton the sum to be paid by each to be satisfactorily adjusted. Henry R. Bond, treasurer of the Ship and Engine company, was one of the most forceful speakers for the continuance of the ferry in operation with a boat adequate to the demands of the line. There was a disposition manifest to sell the steamer now in use at a price that has been offered for the boat, $17,000, but that opinion was changed before the meeting made its decision.

The fire department was called out shortly before 4 o'clock this evening for a trivial blaze at the store of Joseph Silva, 77 Winthrop street, when the awning of the store became ablaze. With the awning breaking into flames an excited person rung in an alarm from Box 15, corner of Main street and Crystal avenue. The Thames Hose company was the first to arrive and a tank of chemicals was sufficient to extinguish the blaze. The awning, it is supposed was ignited from a cigarette being thrown from the window of the living apartment over the store.

A class of about 250 received the fourth degree of the Knights of Columbus through Rev. George Desbon assembly at the state armory this afternoon, the candidates comprising members of the order from practically every city in the eastern part of the state, fifty of the candidates being resident of New London. After the conferring of the degree, a parade took place, which was headed by a platoon of police and the 182nd Co., C. A. C. band, the march ending at the Hotel Mohican, where a banquet was served. Tn Boy Scouts band of Willimantic was also among the marchers. The toastmaster at the banquet was Judge John P. McDonough of Naugatuck and the speakers Rev. William A. Keefe of Norwich, Rev. T. Lawrence Riggs of Yale and Attorney Augustine Lonergan of Hartford.

A report was in circulation this afternoon that the government steamer Victory had picked up a rum-runner in the sound and had towed the liquor laden craft into port. Inquiry at the custom house and at the United States Coast Guard Academy failed to confirm the report.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Whistle and a Wish

Now let me see where we left off in the last story. Oh, yes, I remember now. Little Jack Rabbit was at the castle of Giant Merry Laugh.

Well, sir and well, ma'am. When the bunny boy hopped into the dining room he saw the most wonderful turkey that every graced a table.

Why, it weighed umpty 'leven pounds and was stuffed with a bushel of chestnuts.

"Now tuck your napkin under your whiskers and eat slowly," said Mr. Merry Laugh, "for we don't have grow older every day just the samee. And sticking in a fork which was as big as a pitchfork, he began to carve with a knife that was six feet long.

Pretty soon the mince pie was brought in. It was so large that it would have taken Little Jack Rabbit thirteen minutes to walk around it if the giant had placed it on the floor. But, of course, he didn't. No siree—ee.

After giving the bunny boy a little piece, he cut a great big, tremendous piece for himself, and would you believe it, he ate two pieces while the little bunny was eating one.

After dinner was over, the giant put the wishbon on the steam heater and when it was nice and dry he handed the little rabbit a magic knife and told him to carve it into a whistle and in less than five hundred short seconds, Little Jack Rabbit had made the prettiest little whistle you ever saw.

"Now, little bunny," said Mr. Merry Laugh, "blow in it and make a wish, but don't make the same wish you did before."

"Oh, dear me!" said the little rabbit boy bunny, "I only wish one thing and that is to see my mother."

"Get your pony back and I'll help you," said Mr. Merry Laugh, kindly.

Blowing on his whistle, the little rabbit made a wish, and all of a sudden, quicker than a wink, they heard a nieghin the courtyard and when they looked out of the window, there stood Dapple Gray.

"Here, take this little ring," said the giant, "and if ever you are in trouble, turn it around your finger three times and a half."

"Just a little golden ring,
Such a tiny, pretty thing,
But be careful lest you lose it,
For you may have need to use it.
It possesses such a charm
It will keep you from all harm."

"Good luck," said Mr. Merry Laugh, leaning out of the window as the bunny boy jumped on Dapple Gray's back. "Goodbye and good luck. Drop in the next time you're in town and don't forget Castle Merry Laugh, Forest City."

"Thank you," answered Little Jack Rabbit and away he went as fast as Dapple Gray could gallop, to find his dear mother and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

GIANTS SURRENDER WORLD BASEBALL TITLE TO YANKS

Artie Nehf Cracks Under the Strain in Eighth Inning After Holding Yanks to Two Hits—Ryan Also Fails to Stem the Tide of Defeat As Yanks Win 6 to 4—Bob Meusel is the Outstanding Hero of the Final Battle, His Hit Bringing the Winning Run.

New York, Oct. 15.—(By the A. P.) Beaten, crushed after one of the most spectacular world's series fights in history, the New York Giants today surrendered to the Yankees the world's championship banner they have flown for the past two years. And tonight, with this record-shattering million-dollar title battle at an end, the emblem of supremacy flutters atop the Yankee stadium, greatest and costliest monument of the diamond.

The Yankees won the sixth and final game this afternoon at the Polo grounds, lair of the Giants by coming from behind and scoring five runs in a dramatic pulse-gripping eighth inning rally just when it seemed that the McGrawmen, fighting desperately with their backs to the wall, would tie the series and force a seventh contest to decide the struggle. The final score was 6 to 4

Thus the American- league champions swept to their third successive triumph, completed the rout of the once proud and mighty Giant machine, and, by the decisive margin of four games to two, gained their first world's title in more than two decades of embattled history.

Thus, too, was written into the annals of the national game a struggle for the highest stakes, it has ever known, a gigantic spectacle eclipsing all previous record, that was witnessed by more than 200,000 fans who paid more than $1,063,000 in gate receipts.

The story of that eighth inning today, coming when it appeared that the deadly southpaw arm of Arthur Nehf and the inspired play of Frank Frisch had checked the headlong rush of the Yankees will go down as one of the most startlingly decisive championship turns of all

Giant Machine is Broken.

That brief thrilling, yet, tragic span witnessed with amazing suddenness the ascendancy of the Yankees to the pinnacle of their career, and simultaneously the utter collapse of the Giants, the nursed hopes of John McGraw for three successive world's title—a debacle so stunning that tonight it seems to have marked the passing for all time from championship heights of the Giant machine as it emerged, broken, from the test.

It witnessed, too, the failure of the games idol of idols to answer a call to fame that would have raised him to heights greater than any he has ever touched. For Babe, star of stars, the mightiest hitter of all time, while he had started the Yankees off in the first inning with his third home run of the series, fell down miserably in the eighth inning pinch, striking out with

MAINE DEFEATS 48 HOUR LAW FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Portland, Me., Oct. 15.—Incomplete returns received up to 10:30 o'clock tonight indicated that Maine had rejected a referendum for a 48 hour law for women and children in industry. The total vote of 149 cities, towns and plantations out of 530 in the state was 55,348 in favor of the proposed law and 31,125 against it.

Returns available at that hour represented practically all the industrial centers of the state, where proponents of the 48 hour law had their greatest strength.

The proposed amendment to reduce the working week of women and children to 48 hours from the present basis of 54 hours, established in 1915, was introduced at the last session of the state legislature by initiative petition. When the legislature failed to act, sufficient signatures to a petition were obtained to enable Governor Baxter to call a special election, in order to present the matter to the voters. The petition of more than 12,000 names was signed largely by members of labor unions and the state branch of the American Federation of Labor supported the measure strongly.

The amendment met with organized opposition from the associated industries of Maine and the executive committee of the state Grange. Mill owners urged that if the 48 hour law were adopted the industries of the state would be handicapped in competition with those of states where hours of labor were not restricted by statute. The floor supporters of the amendment pointed to Massachusetts and California as examples of states where 48 hour legislation had failed to hamper industry.

BEHRENS REP. NOMINEE FOR MAYOR OF BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Oct. 15.—Frederick William Behrens, president of the board of charities commissioners, was nominated for mayor by the republican city convention tonight. He won out against Alderman Wilbert J. Sanford, by a record of 27 to 9, following the withdrawal of former Senator Frederic A. Bartlett, who just before the convention assembled, declared he would decline to stand.

The Sanford followers were pledged to a thorough re-organization of the republican party, and the defeat of this faction in the convention was regarded as a victory for John T. King. Following the nomination of Behrens for mayor, the other places on the ticket were filled without opposition.

Behrens was born in Germany 48 years ago. He is engaged in the retail meat business.

PINCHOT CONFERRED WITH FOUR COAL OPERATORS

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 15.—Governor Pinchot today held a conference with three of the four anthracite coal operators who carried on the negotiations with the miners' union officials here last month by which the wage contract now in effect was reached and discussed with them available methods of reducing the price of coal to the consumers to the level of last year."

S. D. Warriner, chairman of the operators' policy committee; W. J. Richards and A. B. Dunsup were the operators who met the governor. A. W. Inglis, the fourth member of the negotiating committee, was not present.

The operators came here at the invitation of the governor. They declined to comment on the conference and Governor Pinchot confined himself to a brief announcement.

INTERNATIONAL CUSTOMS CONFERENCE IN GENEVA

Geneva, Oct. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Customs formalities—how to simplify them and make them a help rather than a hindrance to international trade, is clearly a question of supreme interest to the United States, if one is to judge by the numerical size of the American delegation which participated today at the opening session of the international customs conference. The United States government originally declined official participation, but it is represented by a strong mission headed by Lewis W. Haskell, the consul at Geneva, and including four experts who are "in attendance at the conference," according to the official communique, as specially representing the tariff commission and the departments of commerce and the treasury.

These Americans will follow the proceedings and keep Washington closely advised.

TWO MEN SHOT IN RAID ON BURGLARS IN BOSTON.

Boston, Oct. 5.—Two men were shot and five captured when police officers opened fire with a riot gun during a midnight raid on what was alleged to be a burglars' nest in Chauncey street here.

PLAYWRIGHT GEORGE KEIM LOST LIFE ON EVE OF SUCCESS

New York, Oct. 15.—With success in his grasp and fame perhaps in the offing, George Keim, playwright, whose long struggle for recognition on Broadway will be realized tomorrow night with the production of his musical comedy, "Ginger," suddenly met death early today with five others when fire swept through the old three-story frame building in Brooklyn in which he lived.

The final dress rehearsal of the musical piece of which Keim was producer and co-author, took place tonight. Among those who were to have been present were three members of the family he lived with, three of whom counted in the toll of dead, from the fire. The play, a rollicking comedy, goes on tomorrow night.

The dead in addition to Keim are: Mrs. Lillian Andrews, her nephew, Charles, and niece, Marjorie. Francis Poncho Fowler and Miss Roberta Wigert. Mrs. Anna Andrews, who jumped from an attic window, suffered internal injuries

The victims were trapped by the flames on the attic floor, where they were sleeping.

District Attorney Dodd, who investigated the fire, blamed lack of fire escapes for the loss of life.

FIFTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—Legionnaires from every state in the union gathered here today for the opening of the fifth annual convention of the American Legion.

A sea of flags and a riot of color and music greeted the delegates and visitors to the 1923 convention.

The American Legion auxiliary convention began its annual convention today after the close of the legion session.

Committees on resolutions, rehabilitation, legislation, constitutional amendments, internal organization, Americanism, finance, military affairs, naval affairs, aeronautics, and time and place for the 1924 convention struggled throughout the afternoon prepared data for the consideration of the open convention during the next four days.

AN ALLEGED BURGLAR ARRESTED IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Oct. 15.—Julius Schnaider, 25, who also gave the name of Julius Klein, and says he recently was in South Dakota, was arrested at a local hotel today and later charged with burglary. Two suit cases in his room were full of clothing, jewelry and trinkets taken from a Woonsocket, R. I. store Thursday night.

Schnaider is said by the police to have entered the home of Mrs. Harry G. Day, in Whitney avenue, Saturday night and taken jewelry, and last night he is said to have been in the home of Henry H. Townsend, in Hillhouse avenue. Both families are away and the police could not say if any of a miscellaneous collection of articles they recovered belonged to them.

NURSE'S FOOT AMPUTATED WHILE PINNED BENEATH CAR

New York, Oct. 15.—Pinned beneath a Broadway surface car that had run her down, opposite Columbia university, Miss Alice O'Connor, a nurse, tonight underwent the amputation of her right foot. Two ambulance surgeons from Knickerbocker hospital performed the operation, working for half an hour beneath the car in the rays of a pocket flashlight while several hundred persons, including many students, looked on. She was semi-conscious during the operation.

Miss O'Connor was held under the car for 45 minutes before a wrecking crew freed her. She also suffered a fractured skull, which may prove fatal.

Bavaria's oldest tree, a beech which foresters say was three thousand years old, has been felled in the Frankenwald, near Kulmbach.

17 Cars Figure in Automobile Accident

Were Ditched or Piled Up Following a Collision Between a Light Car and a Truck.

Waterloo, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Seventeen cars were ditched or piled up four miles west of Waterloo this morning when a light car owned and driven by Victor Ekland, Waterloo, collided with a truck driven by John Habberfield, Geneva, during a heavy fog and slippery road. The accident happened at the foot of a hill. Before volunteer traffic guides were posted a funeral party plowed into the wreckage. Cars skidded into each other or into the ditch as they were swung up.

Only three persons were hurt.

CONTRADICTORY EVIDENCE IN STOKES' DIVORCE TRIAL.

New York, Oct. 15.—Two negro witnesses for W. E. D. Stokes contradicted themselves today during searching cross-examination at retrial of the wealthy hotel owner's divorce suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes. Cross-examination of a third negro witness had just been begun by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes, when court adjourned until tomorrow.

The trial was resumed after a three-day recess when Mrs. Stokes returned from Missouri with depositions refuting testimony of two witnesses for Mr. Stokes that she had been in Runceton, Mo., in 1904 with Edgar T. Wallace, chief co-respondent. One of the documents alleged Mr. Stokes offered the deponent, Hayden Moore, a grocer, $1,000 to testify against the defendant.

After Mrs. Stokes had returned she charged that a dictograph had been found yesterday in her hotel suite by W. C. Dannenberg, a Chicago investigator. It was attached to an extra wire in the wall, but was not connected at the other end. Charles E. Epstein, Chicago attorney for Mrs. Stokes, declared.

All three of today's witnesses repeated testimony they had given on the previous trial. Joseph A. Thornton, negro janitor at the East 75th street apartment house in which Wallace lived, had stated he had seen Mrs. Stokes there three or four times in the summer of 1914. Mr. Untermyer asked his what he would say if told Mrs. Stokes was in Kentucky throughout that summer and gave birth to one of her children in December in the fall. The witness said he would say Mrs. Stokes looked very much like the woman he had seen at the house. He answered repetitions of the question with the same words until Supreme Court Justice Mahoney interrupted to ask if that was "as strong as he wanted to go." The witness answered "Yes."

"Will you swear to the jury that Mrs. Stokes was the woman" insisted Mr. Untermyer.

"No," answered Thornton. There was a flurry in the court room.

Max D. Steuer, chief counsel for Mr. Stokes, asked:

"Is there any doubt in your mind that Mrs. Stokes was the woman?"

"No, sir."

"Was your answer to Mr. Steuer true?" shot back Mr. Untermyer.

"No," Thornton said.

The court room mingled and Thornton gave the stand to Miss Agricola Dyers, negress, who worked in a tea room in the Wallace apartment house. She testified she had seen Mrs. Stokes "quite a number of times" in the Wallace apartment when she carried food to the apartment or went for trays and used dishes. She stated she had seen Mrs. Stokes in bed once. She could not remember how Mrs. Stokes was dressed on the other occasions she saw her there, and when confronted with her testimony at the previous trial to the effect that Mrs. Stokes had her hair down and was clad only in an undergarment, the Dyers woman asserted the court stenographer must have made a mistake. She could not approximate the date of any of the times she saw Mrs. Stokes there.

Anna McIntosh, negress, substitute maid in the Wallace apartment two weeks in 1914 and six weeks in 1917, was on the stand when the court adjourned. She said she had seen a photograph of Mrs. Stokes on Wallace's dresser and had seen her there once.

COUNTY JUDGE INDICTED FOR ALLEGED BRIBERY

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 15—County Judge John J. McMullen of Schenectady was indicted by the grand jury sitting at September term of supreme court here today on charges alleging bribery.

It was charged that Judge McMullen supplied Assemblyman William J. Campbell, republican candidate for mayor of Schenectady, with $2,000 personal and $10,000 election expenses, with the understanding that Judge McMullen would induce Clarence W. Whitmyre, independent candidate for re-election for mayor, to withdraw from the contest and that Assemblyman Campbell if elected, would appoint Mr. Whitmyre commissioner of public safety.

MATRIMONIAL ADVENTURES MAY PUZZLE GENEALOGISTS

Cologne, Oct. 15.—The little village of Hohenberg, near here, is now more interested in domestic complications than it is in international ones. The town is absorbed in working out the complexities of two matrimonial adventures beside which the table of affinity appears ridiculously simple.

The puzzle started two years ago when a 62-year-old widower wooed and married the village belle, a maid of twenty-two, who thus became the stepmother of her husband's forty year-old son. Emboldened by his father's example the son married the mother of his stepmother, by which his own father became his son-in-law.

Then the twenty-two-year old wife presented her husband with a daughter and the elder bride did the same thing, and so the first baby's grandmother is also her sister-in-law.

A SPANISH AIRPLANE SHOT DOWN BY TRIBESMEN

Madrid, Oct. 15.—An official statement issued today regarding the military operations by Spanish forces against the tribesmen in Morocco says that the tribesmen have shot down a Spanish airplane near Taforalt. It also says Spanish batteries have hurled 100 bombs against the village of Buraal.

CRUSHED BY ELEVATOR IN WASHINGTON MONUMENT

Washington, Oct. 15.— Thomas Isaacs, 53 year old elevator man in the Washington monument, was taken into custody by the police today after the body of a woman, badly mutilated, had been found on the circular stairway of the monument, 370 feet above the ground.

The cries of a three year old child, accompanying the woman, had attracted attention to her body.

Police officials said she apparently had been crushed in some manner by the elevator. No charge was made against Isaacs, but it was said he would be held during investigation.

Prohibitionists Place Faith in Coolidge

Express Confidence That the President Will Maintain the Majesty of the Law.

Washington, Oct. 15.— The nation looks to President Coolidge to assert and maintain the majesty of the law, the citizenship conference declares in "a message to the American people," approved at the closing sessions here today of its three days' meeting for the 18th amendment and the prohibition act.

"We look with confidence to the president," the message says, "we assure him of our support in using every power at his command to compel respect for constituted authority."

The conference had a busy final day, with sessions morning, afternoon and night and a visit of the delegates to the White House at the noon hour. President Coolidge received them in his office and shook hands with each.

To officials of the conference, Mr. Coolidge expressed his interest in the proceedings and said that what had been done at this conference, would be of use in the conference of governors which he has called for next Saturday for a consideration of co-operation between federal and state authorities in the enforcement of the prohibition, immigration, narcotic and other laws. Tonight he had as his dinner guest, Fred B. Smith, of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the conference.

Aside from the adoption of recommendations for future plans and other reports, the outstanding events at today's meetings included a charge by the Rev. Charles R. Zabriskie, of Pittsburgh, that "mysterious influences," work at Washington to hinder prosecution of offenders against the prohibition law and addresses by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, and Louis Marshall, a New York attorney on the necessity of upholding the constitution.

Senator Borah told the conference that wealthy Americans who violate the 18th amendment and "reds" who denounce the constitutional provisions designed to protect property, "are both traveling the road of lawlessness, sowing the seeds of destruction and undermining the whole fabric of law and order."

Mr. Marshall declared the people have spoken on the 18th amendment and their will must be obeyed.

"Any person even though he be a college president—mark you I do not say, ex-college president—who advocates any doctrine to the contrary is guilty of treason," said Mr. Marshall.

"High spots" in the "message" of the conference to the country include these declarations:

The Volstead act must never be amended by its enemies.

Members of congress and of state legislatures who violate the laws should be retired to private life.

The American people are impatient at "the disgrace" which attends the successful operation of rum runners and ask President Coolidge to place every available craft and agency to police the shores.

The states should face the responsibility of doing their share in the enforcement of prohibition.

On the people rests the ultimate responsibility for law enforcement.

A grave responsibility rests in the courts to compel obedience by those who by open violation of laws are bringing the administration of justice into disrepute.

A request to the press not to permit its news columns, editorial pages or its cartoon or illustrations to be used to promote disrespect for law or to hold up for ridicule and contempt the constitution and the law.

"Our final appeal is to the people of this country," the "message" concluded. "Complacency must give place to a militant spirit which shall awaken the conscience of the country."

Through a report of its policy committee, the conference went on record as declaring that if 3,500 men and $15,000,000 a year are not sufficient to enforce the prohibition act there must be provided by the government whatever force of men and whatever amount of money may be necessary.

Another declaration of policy approved was that if the cooperation of other nations in breaking up rum running off the coast could not be had the American government should "take positive aggressive action to disperse the hovering rum runners, even at the risk of protest from other nations."

Other recommendations approved included.

A nation-wide call that Sunday, January 6, be observed as prohibition and law enforcement day.

DISAGREE WITH PINCHOT ON PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Washington, Oct. 15.—Taking direct issue with Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, on his suggestion that the president personally supervise prohibition enforcement, Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas, in an address here tonight declared he believed it the duty of the state of Pennsylvania, "to exhaust all of its resources for the enforcement of the Volstead act before bringing the problem to the doorstep of the White House."

Mr. Allen spoke at a mass meeting of Methodist delegates to the citizenship conference, before which Governor Pinchot yesterday but prohibition enforcement up to the president, Mr. Allen made his address after he had had a long conference with President Coolidge.

"If I were the governor of Pennsylvania, and 1,300 bootleggers of Philadelphia had sent me word that they did not intend to obey the law of Pennsylvania," said Mr. Allen, "the next morning Philadelphia would be awakened by the reveille of a soldier's bugle, and that night she'd go to bed as soldiers' taps and every saloon would wear a padlock. Gifford Pinchot could do this the same as he could place under control 1,300 men who had announced their attention to rob the banks of Philadelphia, and it is my prediction that he will do it before he is through."

Secretary Mellon also expressed his disagreement today with Governor Pinchot's suggestion that the prohibition unit be made an independent establishment responsible only to the president, declaring such a plan to be impracticable and unworkable. Secretary Mellon believes the prohibition unit should be transferred from the treasury department to the department of justice on the ground that enforcement of the dry laws eventually devolves on the latter department through prosecution of violators.

FLOOD IN WESTERN, CENTRAL AND SOUTHERN OKLAHOMA

Rain Has Been Falling Without Intermission Since Friday Morning—Bridges, Houses and Other Property Carried Away by Swollen Rivers and Streams—Railroad Traffic Generally Interrupted or Uncertain—Families Flee, Leaving Household Goods Behind.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Western, central and southern Oklahoma tonight was in the grip of the most disastrous flood ever recorded in the state. Rivers and streams, swollen by rains that have fallen virtually without intermission since Friday morning, were sweeping southeastward, carrying away bridges, houses and other property.

The north and south Canadian rivers, the Cimarron, the Washita, the north fork of the Red River—all are spreading destruction that is estimated already in the millions of dollars.

No authentic reports of loss of life have been received here tonight. Scores of families, however, have been forced to flee, leaving their household goods behind them, and at Canton, on the North Canadian, three men were rescued today from treetops in the midst of a swirling stream nearly two miles wide.

Reports from Canton indicated that the river, burdened with its unprecedented volume of water, had straightened its course, sweeping through farm lands heretofor considered immune.

Oklahoma City tonight awaited with marked apprehension the onslaught of a wall of water in the North Canadian, which, according to an official warning of J. P. Slaughter, chief of the weather ureau here, will be between four and six feet higher than any high water.

For the first time more than casual concern was felt for the safety of the business area. Should the water change the course of the river here the business district would be imperiled. Workmen have been strengthening the 80-foot dam and by-pass as the city reservoir, ten miles west of here on the North Canadian and heightened a protecting embankment at a filteration plant is the edge of the city.

A statement by Warren E. Moore, city commissioner of public safety, declared that there was no danger of the dam going out.

Railroad traffic is generally interrupted or uncertain. Telephone and telegraph communication also are interrupted.

Five thousand persons living in the lowlands south of midtown Bitapow lowlands here south of the St Louis San Francisco railroad tracks, an area comprising approximately 417 city locks, fled as city officials, warned of the approach of the flood waters, ordered them to evacuate the district.

Municipal Dam Gives Way.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 15.—The west bank of the municipal dam, 10 miles west of here housing the city's reserve water supply gave way, under the pressure of the swollen North Canadian river late tonight, releasing a seven foot torrent to augment the already swollen stream.

The overflow is expected to reach the city within a few hours.

Breaking through the crumbment after rising five feet in 35 minutes, the flood waters swept over the valley of fertile farming lands and struck an entirely new course in its rush southward. Aout a mile farther down stream, the torrent is believed to have turned back into the river.

Government gauges show the rapidly rising water at 23 feet, nine feet over the flood stage and seven feet above the disastrous rise of last June.

DEMONSTRATION AGAINST HIGH PRICES IN BERLIN.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—(By the A. P.)—The raiding of food shops, particularly bakeries, has been reported today from various parts of Berlin. Demonstrations against the high prices during the day in two parts of the city occupied by workers smashed the windows of bakeries, and policemen who endeavored to protect property were disarmed before reinforcements could be brought up. There were several clashes between police and demonstrators in these sections, and the police had to fire their revolvers in the air to clear the streets of trouble-makers.

In the Schoneberg district, 10,000 demonstrators, mostly unemployed men, reinforced by women, with market baskets, repeate dthe performance of Saturday, marching to the Rathaus and making demands upon the authorities for increased doles. The police reserves were called and, with fixed bayonets, drove the demonstrators away. The leaders of the mob announced that they would repeat the demonstration tomorrow.

TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION SUPPRESSED

Duesseldorf, Oct. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Telephone and telegraph communication between Benrath and unoccupied Germany has been suppressed by order of the interallied Rhineland high commission, according to private information reaching here from Coblenz.

Benrath is the first town in the British zone between Duesseldorf and Cologne, and has hitherto been the relay point for Duesseldorf newspaper dispatches from Berlin and the outside world generally as well as for all stock exchange quotations.

Since Duesseldorf's wire communication was suppressed, some time ago, all news dispatches to the city have been delivered at Benrath and relayed here by tramway; consequently the local newspapers will hereafter be compelled to appear without regular political dispatches and Bourse quotations, unless a surreptitious way of receiving them is found.

FIVE MEN BURNED TO DEATH IN FOREST FIRE IN MICHIGAN

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 15—Five men were burned to death today in a forest fire near Birch, Mich., twenty miles from Marquette. The dead were employes of the Lake Independence Lumber Company of Birch and were working on railroad construction.

Telephone lines between Marquette and the Cooper country have been severed due to the fire and little information was obtainable. Crews of men to go to the fire, were being organized here tonight.

GUILTY OF USING THE U. S. MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Fort Worth, Oct. 15.— Pleas of guilty to using the United States mails to defraud in furtherance of other oil schemes were entered before Judge John M. Killits, of Toledo, O., in federal court by seven of those indicted with Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, who went on trial today.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ann Augusta Merritt Howard.

Greenwich, Oct. 15.— Mrs. Ann Augusta Merritt Howard, widow of William McFarland Howard, and the oldest woman in Greenwich, died here today in her ninety-first year. She was a native of New York City. Mrs. Howard had been a member of the First Methodist church here more than 75 years. She leaves three daughters, ten grandchildren, ten great grandchildren, one brother and one sister.

Rev. John C. Tennian.

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 15.—Rev. John C. Tennian, the oldest Catholic clergyman in Rhode Island, and nationally known as an authority on ecclesiastical history, and canon law, died here tonight. He was 88 years old, and had been pastor of St. Mary's church, Pawtucket, for 34 years. He was born in Waterbury, Conn., and was ordained to the priesthood in Montreal in 1879.

FINANCIAL PLIGHT OF THE COLUMBIA GRAPHOPHONE

New York, Oct. 15.—The Columbia Graphophone Manufacturing Company, one of the pioneers in the talking machine trade, was placed in the hands of receivers today when an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in federal court on behalf of several creditors. The action was a friendly one and plans for the corporation's reorganization under a new name will be made public tomorrow.

H. L. Willson, president and general manager of the company, and James R. Sheffield were appointed receivers by Federal Judge Learned Hand, and furnished a joint bond of $100,000. The application for receivership listed assets at $29,000,000 and liabilities at $21,000,000.

Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of a committee which had been working on a readjustment of the company's finances since 1922, when an effort to throw the company into a receivership failed through dismissal of court application, announced late today that the company would continue business as usual and that details of a plan of reorganization, which was worked out before today's receivership, would be made public tomorrow.

The company has been in existence under similar names for more than 35 years and has been engaged in liquidating old machinery, processes of manufacturing and finished goods for several months. New machinery, it is stated has been contracted for and the company will continue under a new name, which, however, will retain the word "Columbia," it was stated.

The company has its main plant at Bridgeport, Conn., with branches throughout the country. It has 3,500 employes.

Mr. Buckner said here probably would be no interruption of business through today's receivership proceedings.

MAY RESTRICT WEIGHT OF TRUCKS ON HIGHWAYS

Hartford, Oct. 15.— Restriction of the weight of trucks carrying loads over a number of Connecticut highways is likely to follow a survey now being made of freight and traffic conditions, the state highway department announced today.

In answer to an inquiry from the Rhode Island board of public roads, Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald has replied that at present, at least, there will probably be no restriction of loads under the state's 25,000 pound limit on roads leading into Rhode Island. The maximum weight limit is fixed by statute. The highway department, however, has authority to make further restrictions if the safety of the public highways is endangered by over-loading of trucks.

Rhode Island recently enacted a statute fixing 20,000 pounds as the maximum of loads over roads there. On many roads the maximum of necessity will be 10,000 pounds. On some Connecticut roads running to the Rhode Island line there are restrictions below the statutory figure.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOMING HOUSE IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, Oct. 15.—Charles Bradley, 62, of New Haven, a stone mason employed temporarily at the Westover School, Middlebury, was found dead in his bed at a rooming house, 259 Bank street, this city today. He was found when an employe at the rooming house entered the room to do some chamber work. Efforts are being made to locate the man's New Haven relatives. Medical Examiner Dr. A. A. Crane, after viewing the body, decided an autopsy was unnecessary.

PRISONERS FELLED JAILER WITH BRICK AND ESCAPED

Haverhill, N. H., Oct. 15.—Jailer Frank Green was struck on the head with a brick and seriously injured today by four prisoners who pierced their cell locks and then made their escape with keys taken from the jailer's body. Green was taken to a hospital at Plymouth where it was said he might die. Two of the jail breakers were captured late today at Benton Flats.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office

Leon Ohmen contended that he was not under the influence of liquor and had only had two drinks given him by a man, when he drove his Ford roadster into a telephone pole on Main street here, early Sunday morning. Ohmen was arrested by Officer Lariviere and charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. The case was tried before Judge Frank H. Foss in the local police court Monday morning. In spite of his contention he was found guilty and the minimum fine of $100 and costs, amounting to $107.15 was imposed. Ohmen is employed in New Jersey and is visiting his mother in South Coventry. Mrs. Ohmen paid her son's fine and remarked that his vacation expenses were quite high.

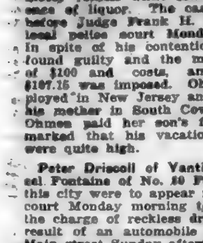
CUTICURA



For Children's Baths

Cuticura Soap is ideal for children because it is so pure and cleansing, and so soothing when the skin is hot, irritated or rashy. Cuticura Talcum also is excellent for children.

GIRL WITH BROKEN NECK GOES BACK TO NEW YORK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Oct. 15.—Miss Ernestine Dallen, 19, who has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital since Monday, August 6, suffering with a fracture of the third and fourth vertebrae, was taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dallen in New York city, Monday. She was brought to the station in the hospital ambulance and placed on the express. She was accompanied by Miss Blanche Piche of this city, the nurse who has been caring for her. Miss Piche will remain in New York for an indefinite period.

Miss Dallen has spent several vacations at Pleasant Valley and just ten weeks ago was bathing in Willimantic river at Perkins Corners. She was diving and following one dive came to the surface in a limp condition and sank. She was taken from the water and found to have a scalp wound. It was discovered at the hospital that she had a broken neck. Miss Dallen's lower limbs were paralyzed for a long time but she now shows signs of improvement and is able to sit up for short periods.

MRS. PAUL MARGULOS KILLED WHEN EXPRESS STRIKES AUTO

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Paul Margulos was instantly killed and four other occupants of a Wilbur Knight sedan were injured, when the machine was struck by the Boston express, at 12.17 p. m. Monday afternoon, on the Columbia avenue crossing of the New Haven railroad, one mile west of the local station. The rear of the machine was torn off and the wreck was thrown against the fence about 100 feet above the crossing.

Mrs. Ida Freedmann Margulos, of 44 Burton street, Waterbury, who was killed, was riding in the rear seat with her husband, Paul Margulos, and Jacob Silver, of 21 Buckingham street, Waterbury. Samuel Margulos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Margulos, was driving and Max Silverman occupied the front seat with him. Paul Margulos and Jacob Silver sustained severe bruises on the body. Samuel Margulos, the driver, escaped with only slight bruises and Silverman was shocked and dazed.

The injured were rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in this city. Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason was summoned and after viewing the body pronounced the death of Mrs. Margulos due to a fracture at the base of the skull and other injuries.

At the request of relatives the body was given in charge of a local undertaker.

The Waterbury party was on the way to Providence, R. I., and witnesses of the accident were under the impression that the driver of the car tried to beat the train at the crossing. An employe at a sand bank a few feet from the crossing said he heard the train whistle blown at some distance from the crossing and heard it ahead just before the sound of crashing metal rent the air. He rushed out of his cabin in time to see the machine settling against the fence about 100 feet from the track and the occupants thrown on the ground several feet apart.

Samuel Margulos rose from the ground and became frantic, running wildly from his dead mother to his injured father. J. H. Mulligan, an overseer at the sand bank rushed to his office and notified Chief of Police Allan MacArthur and the hospital authorities. Scores of spectators immediately gathered.

Max Silverman, who rode in the front seat stated that Samuel Margulos, the driver, looked down the tracks in the direction of the city and he, Silverman, heard a shout from the side of the road and looking in that direction saw the train looming up within a few feet of the automobile. The machine shot in front of the locomotive and was struck in the rear, one of the rear wheels being torn off. The train was 19 minutes late Monday and was in charge of Engineer A. C. Delwiler and Conductor J. A. Reisell.
